"We'll call it a tie We'll split the money." Harpies both of them Rocky straightened up. He'd fought his way out of tighter corners than this.

"I have the proof," crowed Miss Abby. "I was talking to Corporal Renault. He stopped for lunch. I told him, and he's waiting and when Mr Sumter comes in he'll arrest him. I'm going to get the reward."

That was why Rocky pulled the gun on Corporal Renault when they met at the corner of the house and so easy, copper." Rocky snarled, and stared at the two lunchboxes and letters behind the Mountie's broad back "Those old dames can fight some more over the $5,000 reward. Not caught yet. Damn you—"

That Mountie was a funny cop. He didn't look boyish any more, though he was still smiling. And he didn't back up. He kept right on coming. The gun roared but it was knocked up and a fist caught Rocky in the middle. He was still on the turn when he came to and there was a familiar feel about his wrists. Bracelets. It all came flooding back. The harpies fighting about the reward—the big ape of a Mountie—the way he'd walked into that gun—

They were all above him, the two old ladies with their arms around each other's waists, the Mountie looking through some papers

"Well, it's a pinch, I guess", said Rocky "I'm all washed up, but I guess will have to split the dough with you, copper, I'm glad of that. The way they fought about the money—"

"Miss Abby and Miss Rachel," said the Mountie, "had a little pool They bet a dollar in it for every car with a different state license-plate They were up to 47 when you came to Nova Scotia. Arizona was fourth. That's how Miss Abby came to be claiming the money—45 dollars. It seems there's a bit more coming"

"Bingo!" muttered Rocky. "Bingo!"

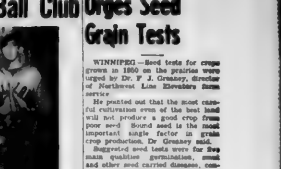
Gull Lake Put On Map By Junior Ball Club



GULL LAKE JUNIOR BASEBALL CLUB

By G. R. BLOE 6, W.N.U.

THE town of Gull Lake, Sask., has the right to be proud these days. It produced a junior baseball club of district boys between the ages of 15 and 20 with a spirit to win that capped the Saskatchewan Provincial Championship. Their boys have played together with such a courageous spirit of winning and won over such odds that was not even considered possible for a small town squad to do.

The Gull Lake Junior baseball club made September 11th a "red letter" day in the history of the town". For it was that day that the gallant small town team whipped the smooth playing Saskatoon Saints, northern champions, for the provincial title

By defeating both Saskatchewan's largest city teams, Regina Dodgers in the southern final, and which Saskatoon Saints, champions of the north, and then downing the Saskatchewan's northern finalists in very tough series here to-day the final, one can readily understand the proud feelings the Gull Lake citizens have for their local boys. It was said: "When they make a new map, Gull Lake should be printed in block letters." The majority of the boys were born and raised in the Gull Lake district and whose parents are farmers.

The following above the results of the various play-off series, and one can see how some of the opposing teams forced their series to the final game

Swift Current Series
Best 5 out of 3
1st game, Swift Current 4-2
2nd game, Gull Lake 10-8
3rd game Gull Lake 19-7.

Manitoba Series
Best 2 out of 3
1st game, Gull Lake 5-4
2nd game, Gull Lake 10-7.
3rd game, Gull Lake 5-3.

Provincial Championship
Best 3 out of 5
1st game, Gull Lake 5-3.
2nd game, Dodgers 2-3.
3rd game Gull Lake 4-3.

Provincial Championship
Best 3 out of 5
1st game, Gull Lake 12-6.
2nd game, Saints 11-7.
3rd game, Saints 7-1
4th game, Gull Lake 3-0.
5th game, Gull Lake 4-3

The names of the players, giving their age, home town, and the position they played on the team are as follows:

Bert. Currie; age 17 Born in Yorkton of Gull Lake and attended High school in Gull Lake. Outfielder

Gerry Stevenson; age 19 Raised on farm south of Gull Lake and attended school in Gull Lake Outfielder

The Gull Lake and District Board of Trade on behalf of the citizens of the town and district have made arrangements to meet the players, their management and coach, with engraved wrist watches, as an appreciation for the honors they have brought to the town and district. Many thanks have been expressed by Manager Wes Robertson, and Coach Lorne McLeod for their capable leadership. The baseball club is sponsored by the Gull Lake Athletic Association, which has had a very successful year

Urges Seed Grain Tests

WINNIPEG.—Seed tests for crops grown in 1950 on the prairies were urged by Dr. F. J. Greaney, director of Northwest Line Elevators Association.

He pointed out that the most careful cultivation would be lost if bad seed will not produce a good crop from poor seed Sound seed is the most important single factor in grain crop production, Dr. Greaney said.

Suggested seed tests were for five main qualities germination, smut and other seed carried diseases, content of weed seeds mechanical seed injury and purity of variety

Conditions this year—drouth, second growth, hail and frost—will affect the supply of high quality seed grain, Dr Greaney said, which means loss to the farmer through lower yields and grades or because he has to buy new seed

Official government tests of seed samples can be obtained from the plant products division of the agriculture departments in Winnipeg, Saskatoon or Calgary These results, the farm service director warned, are the only ones which can be legally used in advertising seed grain for sale

RAT EVIDENCE

EDMONTON —Oil worker Angus MacDonald added further evidence to reports that Alberta is losing headed by rats. His jeep ran over a rat which had a foot long and weighing about six pounds.

Delicious CRUMB COFFEE CAKE
Recipe
Measure into bowl 1/4 cup lukewarm water, 1 tsp. sugar, 1 granulated yeast. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Scald 1/2 cup milk and stir in 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 cup lukewarm fat, 1 tsp salt, then shortening, and 1 egg beaten. Add 1 cup flour and yeast mixture and 1 beaten egg; beat 2 minutes. Stir in 2 1/2 cups sifted bread flour. Second half cup flour. Let rise until double in bulk. Punch down dough and divide into 2 parts. Roll out each part to 1/2 inch thick. Put in greased pans. Brush with melted butter. Cover with crumb topping. Let rise 30 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 minutes. Serve hot, with butter.
Crumb Topping: Combine 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 cup flour, 1 tsp cinnamon, 1/4 cup soft fat and brush with 2 tablespoons melted butter or shortening. Combine to make crumbs. Sprinkle on cake before baking.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

A Hobo Picnic for the Lougheed W I Girls Club was held at the Pop-farm on Monday October 3rd. A lovely games were played, followed by a weiner roast. Carol Inks won a prize for the best costume. The picnic was sponsored by the two supervisors, Mrs. Stenberg and Mrs. Pope.

Mrs. Dugmore, accompanied by Mrs. Sarowski and Mrs. Marlow attended the Teachers Convention in Camrose on Oct. 12 and 14. The two-day program included lectures, demonstrations and discussions. The guest speaker was Dr George Seibe, noted educationist of Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Hanlon spent the holiday visiting relatives at Pigeon Lake. They report a good time but ever says the lake was so rough even the fish were life preservers. That's a new excuse.

Mrs. Bob Palmer was a holiday visitor in Edmonton.

Here is something for nimrods to shoot at. The other morning Art Hoetzel and Cliff Cookson were hunting frog, hoof, two shots at ducks. I asked the boys to account for it and their explanation was that it was a bitter cold morning and they shivered so that the gun barrel shook, thus scattering the shot over a wider area.

Art Lawley shot a banded duck last week The band besides a number, read "Fish and Wild Life Washington D C. 44." After noting the bird Art says he is not sure if the 44 was the year it was banded or its age.

Mr and Mrs. John Strobl (nee Lavalle Wright) are having a short visit with the Reuben Wrights.

Mr and Mrs. McCowien and daughter and Mrs. Alex McDonald and daughter all of Edmonton spent the holiday at the Geo. Marlow home.

Rev. Wallace Wright of Plum Coulee Man after attending a Church convention in Saskatoon, paid a visit with his parents W. Wrights.

Our old townsman Elmer Simkie, after a week's absence in his new home at Camrose, paid the old town a visit. As he graced visitorily at his old home in the telephone office, he remarked Camrose may be the rose town but Lougheed is the forget-me-not town.

Mrs. F. Kirkman left Monday of last week for Edmonton. From there she will proceed to Calgary where Frank will join her to be present at their son Gordon's wedding.

The home comers and the out-of-towners for the holiday have all about gotten readjusted and back in their usual niche, and all report a pleasant Thanksgiving Well all but one who says she started off on the wrong foot and broke her glasses. It used to be you got your glasses broken from flashing up on the wrong knee. Times surely do change.

To our friends in Virginia and in other distant points who keep in touch with the town (through the window at Lougheed) Here's hoping you never pull the blind.

We see an advert in the local paper says "Cough Foods Egg Cures". Would this come under the headin, of course grains?

Chas Gibbs was an Edmonton visitor last week. Charlie is quitting the farm but hasn't decided where he will locate yet. He will be missed in the district where he took active part in fraternal and political organizations.

This must be a record year for wild fowl! I saw Frank Ras banking the bankers off his field with the Hudson, and then they only rose and landed on the next field. They are very choosey this year and the grade is on par if they get anything above a 5 6 is impossible to drive them away.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winger spent the week end of last week with their son Conrad in Edmonton.

Mrs. W. H. Lowe who has spent the past few months with her daughter Mrs. Wm. Bontledge has returned to her home in B.C.

It's nice to have friends come to visit you over those holiday week ends, but sometimes it is overdone. One party says they had so many guests his mother spent the day in the kitchen alone, singing "Home On The Range", while his Dad joined in with "Shot The Deer They Are Coming In The Window". Oh well, what are friends and relatives for anyway.

The Dean is getting a little fresh for such sight. Around 10 degrees average and except for considerable wind the weather is holding good for harvesting. We are keeping our fingers crossed for one more week.

The two Cubs are still busy decorating up walls, ceilings and booths and both are looking very much improved, trim and fresh looking. Sav Kee painting the lattice work in the window. Reminded me of one of those lighthouse pictures — two busy and a rest.

"There Will Be Some Changes Made" seems to be the theme song for Lougheed if all the rumored business changes reported go through. But as we don't report more rumors, we'll do like Anguth, wait and see.

I have just been reading my favorite daily of the horrors of Hollywood's socialized cud industry, showing that to get a profit of twenty-6 and a half million pounds (which the government gets) the price to the consumer had to be raised about 23 a ton. Compare this to the bloodless of our Canadian way, where to show a profit (which the Government does not get) we are paying from 55 to 75 a ton more. Where is the catch? I don't get it.

We are pleased to know that Mrs. Anth is home again after considerable stay in Killam hospital, and is progressing favorably.

Now that Ian has definitely decided to swap the beaver for the eagle and make her permanent home in U. S. A., I guess we might as well take the beauty parlor sign down.

Mrs. Lawrence was called to the sources last week when her daughter Marjorie underwent an operation at Misericordia. Last reports were of favorable progress.

We see the Rev. Grainger busy reconstructing a new gate and walk to the Numerous House. It will be no improvement to hooking the snowdrifts that always seem to pile up at the church gate.

Mrs. Dave Walmsley and daughter Yvonne spent last Friday in Edmonton. Dave, who was attending the teachers convention at Camrose joined them there to city with them.

A few days ago a friend gave me a clipping to read, showing a bonus of the big money boys, of around 30 years ago and what their fate was. All big money-millions boys, some finished on suicides, some in jail and others in asylums. I remarked that I wouldn't want money if it would make me crazy. No, she says very sweetly, You are better just as you are Fred, crazy without money". The way I stick my neck out I sometimes think grandad must have been scared by a ghouls.

The Harvest Festival at the United Church on Sunday the 9th was well attended. The church was suitably decorated with products of the field and garden. The sermon by the Rev. MacLean was appropriate for the occasion. A choir of 12 girls under the direction of Mrs. E. R. Brett, sang two anthems and added much to the occasion, as did the solo by Mavis Marlow, "Thank God For A Garden".

Mrs. Mark Pope who has been spending the summer months with friends in B.C., returned last Friday and is visiting with son Howard's family before leaving permanently to the Lumber Co. home. Lately visited by the Chgt Lawrence family

Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Scotty) Jack and son of Sylvan Lake are spending the final week of his vacation with his parents. Scotty is enjoying a bit of gunning on the side. He says the crops here are better than in his district. The same report coming from so many other districts makes one think that poor as they are there will be something to be most thankful for.

Mrs. Tom Scott spent a few days in Edmonton last week.

Miss H. Dunlop spend the week end of last week as the guest of Mr and Mrs. Harry Pedersen.

I see Art Armstrong sporting a new truck. He hadn't the ben completed yet but from the size of the numbers he must figure on making one trip do. There seems to be limit to size for trucks even for the country roads. Power, capacity and speed combined with improved roads seems to be the chief aim in this surrounding.

How four of the fair sex returning from the first day in Edmonton last Thursday. They had a man with them. Looked like a good buy.

Hubert Purser of Chaffee was a last week visitor to his grandparents the Hans Pedersens.

I was admiring the cute little works of art the Gov. put out advertising the sale of Canada Savings Bonds, when a nonpress humbin remarked that the last bond he bought was a grp. I took on it. Says I "You're a real bond." Says he "I'm a matrimonial bond." Says I, "Say you don't know the half of it; wait until the dividends start coming and you will know you bought something. About the only way you can afford to buy Canada bonds and be ready.

Why pay good money to travel for change of climate. Last Saturday we had rain, snow, hail and sunshine right here. All in about one hour. Anyone who could not get their climate out of that variety could be hard to please.

Miss June Marlow who is now employed in Killam, spent Sunday the 9th with her parents.

Our two new Canadians, Veronica Macnia and her friend Anna have been entertaining their first year of residence in Canada, and from the smiles on their faces I don't think it will be hard to persuade them to celebrate many more. When I look at them I find myself humming the old tune, "Are There Any More At Home Like You?"

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Winger left last Saturday for a visit with their son Conrad at Red Deer. This is something like old advice is corresponds to, dog bites man not news, but man bites dog that is news. Wingers going away is not news, but Wingers staying home; hay that will be news.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. J. Stodola and the new baby boy, born at the Killam hospital.

Correction W. I. meeting is on Nov. 4th and not 11th as I previously reported. It will be at home of Mrs' Syd Deehan. Mrs. A. Mahlstrom of Hirsome, District Convenor will be present at the meeting.

Congrats to J M. Holman, not only for having a birthday on the 16th, but for ringing in an unbirthday parties; one a surprise at home; the other as guest of Don Vast. We do not know how old he is but the way he handled those crums puffs he dont act it.

I guess it is official. The Hotel (Hoboson) has changed hands. The new owners are moving their things and Hoboson are preparing to depart. We will miss the Hobosons as they have been a part of Lougheed for many years and ran a good hotel. But we are a town headed back here and as we wave a fond farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Hobson with one hand and with them the best of everything wherever they locate we extend the other to the new arrivals and owners and say "Welcome to Lougheed."

We can soon sing "When the Harvest Days Are Over". The threshing and combining is just about completed. As always there is the mopping up to do but the bulk is finished.

YOU CAN still find people who "don't believe in banks" . . . who keep their cash in old coffee pots, or hide it in the woodpile, or carry it around.

But most folk nowadays keep their money in bank accounts. They can get it whenever they want it; and they can pay their bills by cheque. Canadians have more than seven million such deposit accounts. In terms of Canada's adult population, that makes it practically unanimous.

The banks, in turn, know they must earn this confidence by giving you the best service they know how.

Young Farmers Improving Farm Homes By Loans

OTTAWA — A big change in the trend of Canadian farming was reported by the Finance Department in reviewing loans made by chartered banks under the Farm Improvement Loans Act.

A total of 27 per cent. of $6,000,000 advanced in August, the heaviest month for lending in the year, has gone to young men between 20 and 30 years of age for repairs and alterations to farm homes and buildings, while there has been a noticeable movement toward installation of water and plumbing in farm homes along with installation of electrical household appliances such as stoves, heating and lighting systems.

"This shows a trend not existing in war years," one official said. "The older generation was content to carry on but the young farmer has taken over, is going in for improvement and is enjoying his loan."

Chartered banks report that loans show a steady increase including a heavy volume for the purchase of combines particularly in Western Canada. Advances for repairs to existing farm houses are three times as great as for new houses.

The big increase in loans in Eastern Canada is attributed to the extension of hydro service to rural communities. Ontario Hydro estimates that electricity will be brought to more than 42,000 farmers in Ontario this year.

Loans to Eastern Canadian farmers are proportionately greater than to farmers in the West. Loans are made for the purchase of farm implements, electrical household appliances, livestock, alteration and repairs and construction of farm homes and buildings, fencing, drainage including tile draining, clearing and breaking new land and soil conservation.

Finance Department officials estimate that $40,000,000 will be advanced to farmers this year under the Farm Improvement Loans Act. Money can be borrowed up to 10 years at an interest rate of five per cent. The maximum loan is for $5,000.

Claimed the Spotlight

Here's How Housing Plan Works For The Home Builder

OTTAWA — Financing arrangements under the Government's new housing plan would work out this way for the individual.

1. He could get a house for as little as $800 cash, or as much as $1,000.

2. For his $800 down payment, he would get a house selling at $6,000. For his $1,000 cash down payment, he would get a $12,000 house.

Central Mortgage and Housing would make up the difference in down payments, matching the home buyer's stakes.

3. The prospective home buyer could work out his own down payment on the basis.

The Government legislation was contemplating a payment of one-seventh of the value of the home by the homeowner.

Thus, on a $7,000 home, the down payment would be $1,000.

All the financing arrangements were based on Central Mortgage's appraisal of a "fair and reasonable price".

When, in the estimation of Central Mortgage experts, the price was not "fair and reasonable", the additional loan would not be paid to the buyer. The builder would still get his basic loan. There was no attempt being made to "police" builders.

The case of a person building his own home on a lot he had purchased would be worked out in the same way as though he were buying from a contractor.

The lot value would be added to the value of his house, making a total on which to base the lending value of the proposition.

With a $700 lot and a $5,300 house, the property would be worth $10,000. The homeowner's loan would be made on the same basis as if he were buying from a builder.

Maximum total loan from Central Mortgage and Housing under the scheme was $9,916.

This includes the builder's loan and the homeowner's loan and would be advanced on a $12,000 home.

A homeowner could by a more expensive house, but he would have to put up the balance himself.

Indication Shows Grasshoppers To Be Bad For 1950

SASKATOON — A survey of adult grasshoppers during July and August indicated that Saskatchewan farmers would face almost as severe a grasshopper menace in 1950 as they did this year, H. W. Moore, co-ordinator for grasshopper research in western Canada, said. The general situation in the province would not change much this year, he said.

A count of adult grasshoppers conducted by men from the federal entomological laboratory and an estimate based on eggs normally laid, indicated that the grasshopper situation could be expected to be slightly less in the west-central area and increased in the southeast.

The other area infested this year, including Saskatoon, could expect the 1949 situation to be duplicated again next year. However, there was a possibility that the infestation might not spread as far north as it did this year, he said.

Impatient Hunters "Trapped" By Licence

MAJOR, Sask. — Two local businessmen who were impatient to go hunting have given their friends something to chuckle about.

John Callan and Cliff Beatty decided late at night to go shooting the next morning but they didn't have licences.

At 8 a.m. the next day they woke up Hardware merchant Allan Fisher, who also issues game licences. Fisher took the line of least resistance and gave them the key to his store, instructing them to make out their own licence.

Callan and Beatty returned later with their bag. Fisher took of them to produce the licences.

The two hunted out their self-inscribed licences. They were trapping licences.

In their hurry to go hunting, they had unwittingly given themselves permission to go trapping.

Westerners Win Lifesaving Medals

TORONTO.—Two western Canada residents are to receive Royal Canadian Humane association bronze medals for lifesaving.

Dale E. Spearing of Asbourton, Sask., won the award by rescuing two companions from a truck which went through river ice near Flin Flon, Man., last Jan 9

The other award winner, Mrs. Beatrice M. Molyard of Lulu Island, Vancouver, plunged into the Fraser river last November to save two-year-old Clifford Gaitner.

TREY RECKLED WORRY

Canadians have developed a nylon fur said to be superior to the "real stuff. Oh, well, the seals can always get jobs in vaudeville.

Record Weight For Wild Mallard Duck

SUDBURY.—What is believed to be a new world's record weight for a wild mallard duck is being claimed by Dour Thompson of nearby Trout Lake, who shot a mallard drake near Sturgeon Falls weighing six pounds, five ounces. Records at the Ontario Museum in Toronto indicate that record Mallard is three pounds.

SELECTED RECIPES

DUTCH APPLE CAKE

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
½ cup melted shortening
1 egg beaten
1 cup milk
3 large tart cooking apples
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon butter

Sift flour, measure and resift 3 times with salt, baking powder and ½ cup of the sugar. Add melted shortening to egg and milk; beaten together and immediately add all at once to the dry ingredients. Stir quickly until flour mixture is just dampened, then 3 or 4 more times, but not until smooth. Turn into buttered pan and spread out in even layer. Pare apples, quarter, core and slice evenly, arrange in rows on top pressing sharp edges lightly into dough. Sprinkle with remaining sugar mixed with cinnamon. Dot with butter and bake in moderate oven (325 deg F.) for 25 minutes. Serve warm. Serve a lemon or orange sauce, or just cream and sugar.

PERSONAL STUFF

—By A. W. B.—

Its another edition of this paper bits the stress, both young and old will have celebrated the occasion of Halloween. We all know that Halloween is celebrated on the evening of October 31st and we all know just how it is celebrated, but how many of us know why it is celebrated? Late October 31st is the evening preceding All-Saints' or All Saints' Day, so many countries, including our own, the occasion is celebrated with merrymaking. According to the dictionary the event also calls for playful ceremonies and charms to discover future wives and husbands. Just how this latter is accomplished the dictionary does not state. Below (in the dictionary) is the word 'Hallowmas' which is the feast of All Saints or Halloween. Associating the two words would lead one to believe that (originally at least) the celebration was intended to be modest and somewhat sacred in scope.

Using this then as a basis for argument we must admit that modern civilization has changed the historical event to suit its various whims and passions. Perhaps more so than on any other occasion during the year this particular evening has been turned over almost entirely to the children and youth of the world and just how they have fashioned the event is their own doing. The havoc witnessed over the years by older and now more prudent citizens. In my day the evening was spent leaving barrels of fun at a party, after which the game during and following of us were chased by a general nuisance of corn-ness and creating as much property damage as was deemed necessary to 'square' security with those for whom we held a grudge real or imaginary. Sometimes these escapades had painful and lasting results which combined with the anger of the older elders finally had the desired effect of forcing us to turn our activities over to the rising generation.

That put us out of the picture and gradually brought about another and new phase of the traditional eastern of Halloween.

The present generation has turned its activities from property damage to a grand, and occasionally costly, on the modern version of entering from us a share of our good things to eat or of causing us to suffer the indignity of having our carefully laid building plans assailed in places. We at least have a chance now. You may call these young folks gangsters if you will and besides

WEDDING

VANDYKE — BOWEN

A quiet and pretty wedding at the Strathcona Baptist Church under the direction of Rev. Edgar Bailey, took place, youngest daughter of Mrs. Clara Bowen and the late Arthur Bowen of Sedgewick, united in marriage to Harry VanDyke of Wetaskiwin, in a double ring ceremony. The wedding was on October 15th.

The lovely looking bride in grey tones over taffeta with white accessories relieved by a pearl choker, a gift of the groom, was given away by her brother-in-law Mr. J. Christensen of Killam. Mrs. Walter Bowman of Sedgewick, sister of the bride and dressed in green taffeta with grey accessories, was the matron of honor. The bouquets carried were of gardenias and rose buds.

The groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Eddie VanDyke. Ushers were Walter Bowman and Ray VanDyke. The wedding march was rendered by Mrs. Allison and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You" was beautifully sung by Mr. Higginson.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Bowen chose an afternoon dress of grey silk crepe with touches of sequins and corsage of roses to tone. Mrs VanDyke, mother of the groom was in a navy dress with corsage of pink roses.

After the ceremony, a reception and banquet where the bride's table was centered with a triple tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candlesticks and bouquets of fall flowers was given the guests at the Hotel MacDonald. Following the honeymoon which will be spent in a motor trip to the south, the happy couple will reside in Wetaskiwin.

BANK OF MONTREAL GIVES FINAL SUMMARY OF CROPS

The wheat crop of the Province of Provinces will be below last year's production, but in excess of the long time average. The second official estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics places the Province's wheat crop at 242 million bushels, compared with an actual figure of 262 million last year and a 1928-47 average of 221 million. Average per acre yield by provinces is estimated at: Alberta 13.7; Sask., 11.9; Manitoba 16.4; average for the long-term average of 16, 15 and 16 respectively. Average acreage in wheat decreased to 26,496,000 as against 23645000 in the preceding year. At the same time coarse grain acreage decreased by over a million and flaxseed was down sharply. Estimated total production in the Province of coarse grains and flax and yields per acre as follows: Oats 196 million bushels, yield 57; barley 114 million bushels, yield 39.2; rye 4 million-and yield 7.6; flaxseed 1 million, yield 6.9. Sugar beet acreage at 47300 is up 9100 acres from last year and production is expected to increase to 482000 tons as compared with 361 000 tons last year. The honey crop will be below the 1948 yield. The sunflower seed crop in Manitoba will yield 980 to 990 pounds an acre.

At the commencement of harvest there was a deficiency of moisture reserves. April however was mild and the soil was gradually built up in a slower runoff and good absorption by the soil. Weed growth became lush in June and many fields were reseven as a result. Practically all crops had headed and were ripe by July 31st. August heat ripened fields to ripen less quickly 36-44 inches continued through Sept. and as this date harvesting is completed except in North ern Sask and Alberta. Apart from drought over all damage done to crops during the growing season was not extensive and included hail in the central Alberta, grasshoppers in south ern Western Sask. and green spikes in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Rust has caused only slight losses

KILLAM YOUNG PEOPLE

The regular meeting of the Killam Young People's group was held at the home of Margaret Brodie on the 13th with an attendance of 23. It was decided that the executive meet the following Tuesday at the Mc-Neil Hall to draw up a constitution. The Culture group led by Ray Seemann was in charge of the program for the evening. The discussion — Communism vs Christianity — was follow ed by a few games. The Citizenship group led by Kathleen Nichol had the program for the next meeting at Paul MacLachlan on Nov. 1st. Timmy Bench was served which was followed by singing Taps.

HUGH WALKER WEDS MISS RUTH WHITE

Potted ferns and plants formed a bridal setting at the Presbyterian Church in Killam recently when Ruth Irene, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar White of Killam became the bride of Hugh Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Walker of Bothwell, Ireland. Rev. McNeil Millar of Edmonton, assisted by Rev. Alfred Olsen of Killam performed the wedding ceremony in which the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She wore a traditional gown of white bridal satin, styled with a sweetheart neckline, lily point sleeves and a fitted bodice. Her floor length veil was held in place with a pearl coronet and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only jewelry was a gold locket which belonged to her mother.

Mrs. Maurice Hart was matron of honor, wearing gold taffeta and matching headdress. She carried a bouquet of yellow mums. Miss Jean Hamilton bridesmaid, wearing a pastel green taffeta and matching headdress. She also carried a bouquet of yellow mums. Little Shirley Heartberry of Sedgewick made a very pretty flower girl, dressed in yellow sheer and carrying a basket of mixed flowers. Mr. Charles Townsley of Carnduff, Sask. was the best man and Richard White, brother of the bride, and Kenneth Grant, cousin of the bride ushered the guests. Mrs Ansell of Killam played the wedding music and was gradual ribbon used in a shower ruandf and good absorption by the soil. Weed growth became lush in June and many fields were reseven as a result. Practically all crops had headed and were ripe by July 31st. TESTING SOIL WITH SPECIAL CROP—The fertile marsh and areas south of Montreal are now being tested with a special crop. A large firm dealing in perfumes and essential oils has planted out 35 acres of mint near Ste Clothilde de Chateauguay to determine the suitability of the soil for producing the peppermint-bearing plant. The Ste Clothilde and surrounding district is known to contain thousands of acres of some of the best muck soils on the continent. The crop will remain in the ground three years before re-planting will be necessary. Summer cultivation consists of rigid control of weeds as most plants other than mint bear unbalanced which cannot be tolerated in pure mint oil. In the first year the crop was allowed to grow until fall before cutting however in the two succeeding years it is expected that the plants will have developed sufficiently to provide more than one cutting. The above photos show, left, the boiler shed and condenser which are part of the equipment that will extract mint oil and cedar oil, and right, young mint plants planted in rows four feet apart; last May which have just about filled in all the space between the rows. ## New Inventions Make Housekeeping Easier

A DOZEN of exciting and interesting gadgets and conveniences for the home awaited the Homemaker as she made her way round the Canadian National Exhibition, recently completed in Toronto, with another record attendance of over 2½ million persons. Some of the objects seen are really at present, but give the visitor hope that she might get them in the future, when mass production will perhaps bring down the price. In this category was the garbage-disposing sink, (she forgot the actual trade name) which disposes of all rubbish (except tins thrown into its cut-sized drain hole) boils it, ground up and passed out in the outflow.

She noted also at a dish-washing machine that uses only a gallon of hot water sending it swirling round among the scientifically parked dishes in a way that would put every trace of food. As in the modern kitchens she raced or hoisted who accompanied her could only stand and stare with shining eyes at the gleaming beautifully - constructed cupboards flanking the stove, sink and fridge in wonderfully convenient array. House work would be fun, not toil, with such equipment thought Mrs Homemaker

There came the central heating building, where modern and ultra-modern heating apparatus made their own old-fashioned furnace seem positively primitive A clever model showed the advantage of the new over the old Side by side were replicas of the usual cellar with the miniature furnace. Gay ash cans, shovel, chunks of coal, sticks of wood, ashes, and the usual clutter all small compared with a spotless recreation room with compact heating equipment as neat as a new pin. The space taken up by the coal-bin was saved, and the absence of dirt and dust made the Homemaker long for that extra $300 or so which would have made all the difference. Still, no she said to Mr. Homemaker, "No doubt someday all-furnaces will be a natural accessory of all homes. Till then back to shovelling coal and ashes for you."

They came to a quiet "street" consisting of trim, new cottages with lawn complete (real grass, too) and had their first look at the latest prefab. In they went, from room to room (following the crowd) and marvelled that such a substantial house could be erected in very short order and for a down payment of only a little over a thousand dollars.

The Homemaker and her husband were spell-bound by a woman demonstrating a gadget that looked very much like a syringe, but which did amazing things with pastry and icing sugar. As they watched the woman, talking rapidly, fashioned in a trice a pink rose ("just the thing for that birthday cake") and then made a number of elegant cookies of all shapes and sizes. A man nearby, almost, but not quite out-talking the woman, did wonderful things with a small, metal object that sliced vegetables like lightning "Hobby offered to buy one, but Mrs Homemaker said she could never use the things when she got [illegible] home she lacked the demonstrator's technique—or something!

In the electrical building a man kindly put a sparkling white stove through its paces—opened oven doors, showed the grilling unit, and pointed out the clock whereby a dinner could be popped into the oven, the hour of which would come on and go off at the set time, allowing mother to go to meeting with the comforting knowledge that the dinner would be done to a "T" and the host turned off when she got home. "Cooking is becoming easier all the time" mursured Mr Homemaker

Electric polishers, vacuum cleaners, ironers (at which father became quite interested at mother's enthusiasm, especially when the demonstrator said they were "only $119") were all eagerly shown the absorbed couple They were even interested by a man manipulating a huge camera on a stand, and saw their faces, and the rest of the crowd, in a screen at eye-level.

The children were not forgotten and, in another building, one devoted to plastics, was a bevy of brilliantly-colored toys of all descriptions, made in the new, wonderfully adaptable material.

But night-seeing is a tiring business, and Mrs. Homemaker was glad when hubby steered her across to the Pure Food building and, finding her a quiet seat, brought her a hot mince pie and a cup of piping hot coffee. At that, they had only seen a tiny part of the wonders of the great annual fair.

U.K. Depends On Canadian Wheat

LONDON — Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said that Britain must continue to depend on Canada for her daily bread.

In a four-minute talk which he recorded for broadcast in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, Wilson replied obliquely to reports that Britain is turning to other sources for her wheat

"We are dead keen on your produce" he said "Seventy-five per cent of our wheat comes from your prairie provinces and we should have great difficulty in getting it anywhere else."

Wilson's speech, to be used in connection with "Buy British" weeks in the Canadian West, invited Canadians to buy British goods whenever they can. Britain was trying to produce for the Canadian market, and sales in Canada were important.

"We cannot buy from you unless you buy from us . . . If you do buy, then you'll be helping us to help you."

Man Earning Little Cash No Attraction For Modern Miss

LONDON. — Women in search of husbands are turning up their noses at coal miners, bus drivers and every kind of worker bringing home less than £10 ($40) a week, says Mary Blair, head of a London marriage bureau.

"I have on my books 300 men under 35, who are in manual jobs. They are looking for wives who would be satisfied with a modest income. Unhappily such wives are hard to find just now."

Most of the women who come here looking for husbands want men from the professions white-collar types.

Miss Blair said the majority of male applicants seeking help from marriage bureaux are "the shy type who find it difficult to strike up an acquaintance with girls"

"Some of them tell me they go to public dances but are too nervous to ask anyone to dance with them. Such men usually go to a marriage bureau in search of a wife."

In the hope of finding "homey" girls as wives for their sons, members of the Mary Blair Marriage Bureau is slashing its registration fees for this type of applicant from £3 3s ($12.60) to £1 17s 6d ($5) to two guineas.

NEW ZEALAND CLAIMS TO HAVE OLDEST SHEEP

INVERCARGILL, N.Z.—New Zealand claims to have the world's oldest sheep in a farm in South-land which has reached the age of 20 years. The age of the ewe is well authenticated as it was a pet lamb and has always received special care and attention. Officials of the agriculture department have no records of a sheep having reached such an age before. 3849

Tight Stockings Cause Foot Trouble

WINNIPEG. — Girls, here's some advice from an expert: don't use your garters as stocking hangers.

Dr. H. L. Collins of Columbus, O., said that insurrection and other ailments can be caused by hitching stockings to the girdle because the stockings are pulled too tight.

In an address to the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Association of Chiropodists, Dr. Collins maintained that nylon stockings are not adaptable to human tissues and cause skin ailments of the feet and legs. He said nylons should only be worn with cotton soles or cotton pads in the shoes.

Dr. Collins estimated there are 10,000,000 persons with foot troubles in the United States. He said the feet and shoes should be cleaned daily and both should be given plenty of fresh air.

Man Defeats Women With His Needlework

WHICKAM Durham, England. — First prize for needlework at the local fair went to R. Payne. The engineer was a keen [illegible] with three-quarter life-size birds worked in natural colors.

It was a splendid piece of work and all the ladies wanted to meet R Payne

Then they got the shock of their lives A man came up to claim the silver cup — 36-year-old industrial chemist, R. Payne. But the ladies took it in good part.

"It was the first time I had entered a competition," said Payne, "but I have been doing needlework for 20 years.

"I'm a handy man about the house with a needle, but not at darning socks!"

Payne now is on his biggest job yet — two fully embroidered curtains measuring eight feet by four feet.

Paris Is Normal Except For Hats

VANCOUVER. — Paris is back to normal, says a visiting French author—except for women's hats, which are never normal.

Mme Louise Weiss, French journalist, is gathering impressions on a Pacific tour which will be recorded and broadcast to the 40,000,000 listeners on the French national broadcasting hookup

Paris, she says, is "as gay as ever".

The bootleg taxis are back again, sidewalk cafes are doing business, night spots, parades of fashions and the stream of tourists are back in the pre-war spirit.

As for fashions she believes the new look will shortly become the old look. "Paris trends are toward shorter dresses with fewer frills and simpler lines"

Newfoundland Has Something New In Furs

OTTAWA —Canada's newest province has entered the exclusive field of women's fashions with something new in furs At a private showing recently for Secretary of State F. Gordon Bradley, former premier of Newfoundland, and Mrs. Bradley, Bryan Crotham Ltd., displayed Newfoundland Labrador Hair Seal coats which have been treated by a new process to make them almost feather light and highly adaptable to styling.

Newfoundland Labrador Hair Seal formerly used up in many a wardrobe in slippers and when specially picked in coats. The stiff heavy fur, famous for its durability, has now been treated by a special process to lose almost half its weight and still maintain its original shape look and qualities

Although the process is being carried on in Nova Scotia it is believed that the skins will soon be treated here in Canada and firmly establish a new industry for Newfoundland

The fur as was demonstrated at the showing is highly adaptable to dyes, and coats were shown in not only the natural grey and gold shade but in mink ermine, java and stone marten tones.

One coat modelled was enough to turn the head of any woman from the famous rock tradition. It was a beautiful rippled black natural spotted seal, styled from full skins in the new seven eighths length. The feel, it had the weight and [illegible] of a light [illegible] coat but was [illegible] The statistics are more amazing. Normally a skin will weigh up to 10 or 12 pounds but in the new process have been reduced to five pounds

Everything in the way of styles were displayed, from short sports models to full-backed dressier coats.

Canada's Emblem Leaf Of The Sugar Maple

OTTAWA —Most countries know the maple leaf is Canada's national emblem, but does anybody know which maple leaf?

Specimens of the maple leaf are found in Canada and these can be traced to 36 different seasons from rocky mountain to swamp from amour to big leaf, tatarian to dwarf, broadleaf to curled and others such as silver, scarlet and soft

This is the sort of information found in "Native Trees of Canada", a sparkling, color-illustrated fourth edition just off the press of the Department and gaining in popularity as the years go by.

None of these species can be found in all parts of Canada. The "new" specimen lam," or mountain maple, appears popularly as the white or dwarf maple, grows most extensively

It is found in Newfoundland and the Maritimes, the southern portion of Quebec, almost all of Ontario, and extends through Manitoba into eastern Saskatchewan. Locations of the other nine species are spotty.

Altogether there are 113 species of maple found in the northern hemisphere. The maple sirup is abundant in eastern Asia, particularly in the Himalayan mountains and China

The name of the leaf which is Canada's national emblem?—the sugar or hard maple.

Farm Incomes Increase

PRICES AND INCOMES HAVE RISEN steadily in Canada during the past few years and the cost of living index has reached record heights. To a large extent these mounting figures have been the result of shortages created during the war when scarcity of labor and materials prevented the production of normal quantities of civilian requirements. Since the war, many of these shortages have disappeared, but there has been a sustained demand for the output of our farms and factories. While high prices are not necessarily with favor by consumers, it is agreed that the period since the war has been the most prosperous one in Canada's history.

* * * * *

Farm prices have risen in company with those of other products and farm incomes have increased greatly in the last few years. Recent figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that during the first half of 1949 the cash income of Canadian farmers totalled $1,000,000,000. In 1940, the cash income from the sale of farm products in Canada was $768,000,000, or the entire twelve months. In the first six months of 1949, increases in farm income were noted in all provinces but New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island where there were slight decreases due to a decrease in the value of potatoes. No figures were given for Newfoundland. Higher prices for calves and cattle swelled the general level of farm incomes, make from livestock amounting to $347,000,000.

* * * * *

Large Sum Paid By Wheat Board

The largest single item in farm income for the first half of this year was the payments made by the Canadian Wheat Board. The board paid Western farmers $203,000,000 for one wheat which it had marketed for them. Much of this was made up of equalization payments for wheat delivered to the board since 1943. In addition, prairie farmers received $9 000 000 under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act which provides cash payments up to $1000 to farmers in districts where the yield of wheat is eight bushels to the acre or less. Rises in farm incomes were recorded in all the prairie provinces. In Saskatchewan there was an increase from $105,167,000 to $230,892,000. Manitoba farmers made $63,- 000,000, as compared with $72,844,000 in the first half of 1948, while in Alberta there was an increase from $163,719,000 to $307,249,000 There have been times in the past when cash income on the farms has been at very low levels and when returns for this very important sector were far too small. It has been shown that farmers, as a class, make wise use of their increased earnings in paying off debts and improving their holdings, and it is to be hoped that the pros of farm products will continue to remain at levels in keeping with the general trend of business as a whole.

Drop Noted In Two Provinces

Says Modern Farming Most Hazardous Job On Continent

(By DOUGLAS GREEN, C.P.)

REGINA—Ever feel like trading that city job for a little farm home in the peaceful prairie west? If so, consider this: Modern farming is one of the most hazardous occupations on the continent. It's always been more or less dangerous. A farmer is liable to be kicked by a startled horse, or to be gored by his bull, or injured in a fall from a stairway, through a trapdoor or from a haystack.

But the widespread use of machinery — a development particularly marked in the prairie west—has added mechanical to animal and natural dangers.

Saskatchewan, Canada's greatest wheat-growing province, offers an example. It has 136,000 farmers. They own approximately 50,000 tractors and 40,000 combines.

This means that two of every three farms has a tractor, and one farm in every three either owns or has access to a combine. In the United States, tractor accidents make up 28 per cent. of the farm accidents. In this province, where owners is sprain or break their wrists or arms while cranking tractors.

In the U.S., combines and threshing machines account for about one third as many accidents as tractors, and it's a fair assumption that these accidents are no less frequent in Canada.

Up-to-date figures are difficult to obtain. But during the harvesting season, Dominion, provincial, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are received accident duty.

The dominion bureau of statistics, at the request of the federal department of agriculture, prepared a summary which showed that in the same period June 1946-47, there and accidents cost farmers more than $1,- 000 000 man-days.

In the period under review, about 27,500 persons suffered accidents, more than one third of them severe enough to cause lay-offs of from two to three weeks and 45 per cent. necessitating absences of from three to 10 days.

The bureau found that accidents had personnally incapacitated 600 farm operators and partially disabled 2 100 persons for life.

Still want to farm? Then says the statistics bureau, go to Quebec. It's relatively the safest province.

The province, with about one-third of Canada's farming population, account for about 60 per cent. of the accidents, due to the greater mechanization of agriculture in the west and the consequent added risk involved in working with tractors and complex farm machinery.

B.C. Prospecting Well Maintained

VICTORIA — Prospecting in British Columbia this year has been well maintained, department of mines of Hon. Ronald stated there being 1,659 claims staked in the province for the first seven months, the total for the previous year for the comparative period was 1,626.

Class Eastern Apples As "Appetizers"

OTTAWA — Members of the Commons entered the chamber recently to find Red McIntosh apples on their desks.

George Pulford (L-Leeds) said the apples had been given him before he left Brockville, Ont. He hoped they would prove that Eastern Ontario apples can stand up with apples from anywhere.

George Cruickshank (L-Fraser Valley), who never loses an opportunity to boost British Columbia fruit, rose with two apples in his hand, a large one and a small one. He said he was thankful for the Ontario apple which could be eaten in the irrespiction of the larger apples from British Columbia.

More Attention In Young People's Work At Fairs Is Urged

LETHBRIDGE, Alta.—R. C. Hockbert of Vermilion, Alta., president of the Western Canada Fairs association, told a recent conference of 33 fairs fair managers that the group should take a more active interest in young people's work.

"Young people's work is an integral part of fairs," Mr. Heckbert said. "To keep young people interested in farm work, we should take more interest in them and give them greater opportunities to display their handiwork."

ELECTRIC FENCE

Delicious... made with MAGIC

Mix and sift into bowl, 2 c. ogen-sifted pastry flour (or 1½ c. sugar-sifted whole flour), 4 tsp. Magic Baking Powder, ½ tsp. salt. Cut in finely ½ cup shortening. Add 1 well-beaten egg and ¾ c. milk and mix lightly. Roll out on floured board to ¼" thick rectangle, 8½" wide. Mix 1 tbsp. soft bacon fat with 1 tsp. salt, ½ tsp. pepper, 1 finely-chopped onion. Spread mixture evenly over bacon dough to within ½" of edges beginning at one end, roll up like jelly roll. Place on greased loaf pan (4½" x 8½"). Bake in moderately hot oven, 375° about 1 hour. Serve with boiled chili sauce or brown gravy. Yield—6 or 8 servings.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE GELDING : His Comrade's Quest The Gelding's Journey.

By CHAZ LEWIS

"YOU take a mule, now," Simon McCardle explained as he snapped open the long blade of his jack-knife, cut himself a sturdy willow switch from the brushy creek bank, and approached the gelding, "—a mule would'nt be too smart to pull a trick like that. He'd know it was plenty useless tryin' to run away while a harness was hooked to his traces!

"McCardle climbed the air a few times to test the whip of the willow switch. It sang wickedly, and the big man, gelding shied around in his harness, the mower wedged between the front row and the grateful bush.

"Yup-p-p," grunted McCardle, his lean weather-beaten face grim, his pale blue eyes bearing "any ol' mule would o' knowed better. But you bein' a ol' horse, you gotta be learned. If I was to let you git by this once, there wouldn't be a piece of machinery left on the place in 30 days —"

The willow switch sang, and the gelding jumped. But the whip was a living thing in the thong-like arm of McCardle, and it bent a quick row of corrugated welts across the gelding's quivering rump. The harness crunked and jangled, but there was no escape from the heavy collar and its anchored traces. Froth foamed from the bay's grinding jaws.

"Still ain't got no sense," crackled McCardle. "A mule would stand an' take his whippin'. A mule knows who's boss. But a bean—an' most of all, a gelded bean—they's like a stalk of wheat without a tassel. An' what's a stalk of wheat without a tassel? Worthless as a man spittin' cotton in hell, that's what! . . ."

The willow switch stopped singing, and McCardle paused to wipe his forehead. The sun was hot. The alfalfa field stretched a calm immensity before him, with only the small ovoids cut around its bulging belly. By eleven he should have made a big dent in the field. The next cut should already be wilted

"Sure got no use for a bean," he grunted again. "Specially a dumb cuss-headed gelder."

While he rolled and lit a cigarette, McCardle surveyed the wreckage that was his mower. It was a simple sturdy piece of machinery, built to take the rugged abuse given it by the rolling acres of the back country. Somehow, but the gelding had jammed it into the stout with the force of an express train. The lower arm of the cutting blade was snapped, the big swing lever wrenched askew, and the spokes of the big wheel bent.

Lose the rest of the day gittin' that blade welded an' this whole shebang straightened out," McCardle groaned. But he didn't strike the gelding again. Now that the first rush of his temper was past, his anger was replaced with despair, plus a little shame. He threw the willow switch into the brush along the creek and unhooked the gelding's traces, anubbing him to the fence first.

He went back to the mower and after a good deal of tugging and wrenching freed it from the willow stand, pulled it into the open. With his pocket wrench in hand he got down on his knees over the broken cutting blade.

"Well, I'll be damged!" he cried out.

Wedged firmly in the teeth of the mower was the shredded remnant of a five-foot rattler. He rattles still reaching like dead leaves pressed by the faint breath of wind. The gelding who caught up directly ahead of where McCardle had been cutting, walking when the gelding bolted. He wiped the sweat from his brow for the second time within minutes and shook his head.

"Guess I owe that danged geldin' an apology," he grunted. "A dumb ol' mule would've let me make the right smack on top that rattler."

Manitoba's Big Game Hunting Starts Nov. 28

WINNIPEG — Sunrise Monday Nov. 28, will mark the opening of the hunting season for big game in Manitoba and it will close at sunset Dec. 4, Hon. J. S. McDiarmid, minister of mines and natural resources, announced.

Deer hunting will be open in all parts of the province with the exception of the big game sanctuaries. The season on moose will open only in that part of the province north of the Allen parallel.

Where open, antelope is closed for sport in all parts of the province, but bona fide residents in remote northern areas may apply for special licences to hunt and kill one moose of either sex and one deer of one year from Dec. 1 to Dec. 31, inclusive.

There will be no open season on elk, the introduced caribou in any part of the province.

It is illegal to shoot any big game animal during the night or to use or say female big game animal except a full barren ground caribou. A male animal under the age of one year is defined as an animal having horns less than three inches long. Mr. McDiarmid said.

Big game kills for big game hunting are:

Deer: one male Virginia white-tailed or mule jumper.

Moose: one male animal

The holder of a moose licence is restricted to take one deer if he fails to take a moose

Is Your Back Aching Today?

When you feel short, sharp stabs each every sudden movement—you may even don't feel like working. Ask any housewife how painful it is to stoop, reach, or wash dishes—when her back aches in the dull, nagging, all-day way. Many women have found that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring back relief from backache because this compound Dr. Chase formerly acts on both the kidneys and liver.

For over 50 years, Canadians have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to relieve backache and painful pains, lumbago and liver disorders and a sluggish system. Try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills tonight. At all drug counters. 17

APPLE LOAF

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 cup mineral apple (fruit put through food chopper without peeling)
½ cup chopped nuts

Sift flour and measure. Sift again with baking powder, soda and salt. Cream shortening with sugar, add eggs and mineral apple.

Fold in sifted dry ingredients, stirring only enough to moisten. Lastly add chopped nuts.

Bake in well greased loaf pan (8 x 4 inches) in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 55 minutes

This loaf is better if allowed to stand for 24 hours before slicing and is excellent served with cream cheese

School Music Popular In Saskatchewan

REGINA —The new music exploration programme is popular in Saskatchewan schools, B. Hale, supervisor of music for the provincial department of education, said recently.

The programme is being used by 65 per cent of the town, village and rural classrooms in the province.

Mr. Hagles said a recent survey shows that musical activity has increased in 89 per cent. of the classrooms since 1944 and has remained unchanged in 9.5 per cent, and decreased in 1.5 per cent.

There is a programme in singing in nearly all the schools. Small instrument activity now includes 42 per cent. of the classrooms. The use of the record player and records is five times as great as in 1946.

Looking For A Better Moose Trap

TERRACE — Ross Mcintosh, recently-arrived Dutch settler to this northern B.C. area, 70 miles east of Prince Rupert, is looking for a better moose trap

He spotted a large bull moose on the road in front of his car and promptly rammed it

Passing only long enough to give the animal a second bump when it attempted to rise, Andy Cooper helped to the assault with an ax

But one look at the expression in the moose's eyes caused him to back pedal hurriedly Fortunately the moose didn't chase the Bering car.

Mr McIntosh came back later—with a friend — to find the moose gone

Man. Tourist Increase Tops All Provinces

WINNIPEG—Manitoba led all other provinces of the Dominion in its increase of tourist traffic over last year for the first eight months of 1949.

Motor and resources minister J. S. McDiarmid announced that visitor figures are 38.6 per cent. above those of last year. Up to Aug. 31 last, 22,726 cars entered Manitoba, with the estimated 68 000 visitors, compared with 17,441 for the same period in 1948. This figure is for cars entering at customs posts on entry along the Manitoba border to stay more than 24 hours.

Persons entering for periods of less than 48 hours by train, air, bus or from other provinces have not been listed, although their number is estimated at about 210 000.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

That was a nice little sample of snow we had last week with a dash of winter thrown in, but don't let it scare you I see ducks flying North and unless they have lost their sense of phaphory we are due for some nice weather yet.

Mrs. Lendell of Crowsen B.C. is paying a short visit with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Chas E. Carson who are leaving the farm to take up residence in Calgary

A good driver always keeps his eye on the road, so when Tom Kenny set his sights on the school bus we saw what looked like a rusty tin on the highway he merely bypassed it but when it was still there on next morning's trip he decided to remove it the did. It was a parse containing a holding money Don't all speak at once now.

Mr. Stan Thorsen and children are spending a week at Hoydminster with her husband's sister

Edwin Mesnerry received word of the death of his brother Albert in his home on the Isle of Jersey on Monday of last week Mr. Mesnerry who was in his 82nd year and whose wife predeceased him last January will be remembered by Lougheed old timers, he having made his home here with his brother Edwin from 1910-24 when he returned to the old land Albert has been in quite poor health for a number of years, never having fully recovered from effects of the hardships endured during the German occupation of the Channel Islands. We, with the many other friends extend our sympathy to his bereaved relatives

Mrs. Art Lawley was a Calmar visitor last week.

Congratulations to Mrs. Ken Page who passed another milestone on quietly I don't believe the members even went up. She doesn't look a day older anyway

Rudolph Johnson who has been home with the family for the past week, has returned to his job with the elevator construction crew, at present working at Bayle.

The newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kirkman, are spending a short holiday with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirkman

Norman Sax, Cardus Weir left last Thursday for Calgary to look for work they say Don't worry boys, if you don't find it, it will find you. I've spent all my life trying to dodge it, but it's no use.

'Lest We Forget' Wear a Poppy I know you will They will soon be on sale through usual channels.

We are glad to report J Barthel is improving and able to be at his Garage for a couple hours a day.

Mrs. Ray McCracken and Mrs Gordon Brown left on a tour of the U S Ray saw them safely over the border from Edmonton, then stopped long enough to take in the General Motors refresher course then back to the usual banquet before returning Grandma Sax has returned to her cabin in Lougheed after some weeks spent amongst the grand children in Edmonton but it is hardly worth her while to unpack the ever night but for in a couple of weeks she and her daughter Mrs. Cornelia Bried will be staging California Here I Come' as they head for a winter in the south ern clime. But wise traveler that she is she had the community Press sent on to her so while visiting in Calif ornia she will be sure of a weekly visit with her friends and relatives in the old home town.

Nurse Marjorie Lawrence who underwent an operation in Edmonton is convalescing at the home of her parents Mr and Mrs. Clagt Lawrence where she will remain until after the Christmas season

Saw Dan McDonald with his snow a week clothes on looking more like a city slicker than a cattle farmer, so he headed for the bright lights of Edmonton for a few days holiday This is something everyone should do a couple of times a year, for after pounding the pavements for a few days and wondering what you are doing it for, you get an appreciation of the small towns and country spaces which otherwise you are inclined to lose sight of

The J. Stanley family has deserted the farm for the bright lights and have moved into the old Dr Valentine house. Welcome to Lougheed

A milk house is a wonderful place to keep milk but as one lady says, she can think of a lot of better places to keep the family She says if you know as the family has been living there while the house was being wired. She says if she keeps it warm the milk is sour and if it is cold the whole family is sour. We hope that by now the house is completed and everything is sweet again, for these October nights do get cold.

Mrs. M. Shannon and Barry were in Edmonton Thursday of last week visiting her niece Mrs. Brenner and Capt. Brenner of the CSAAF who leave shortly for their home in the States on closing of the city base.

Mr A. Fulster and wife are spending his furlough from Wainwright Camp, with his parents Mr. and Mrs J. Barthel. Mr. Fulster is handy man at the Garage at present.

Thornton Carson has returned to his work with the CPR at Red Deer after a visit with his parents here.

Archie and Aaron Metz from the State of Washington are visiting friends and relatives here

Howard Page has a crew busy tearing down the old shed at back of his Lougheed home and putting an addition to the garage which is moved in from the farm. It will be a big improvement, but it is almost like parting with an old friend to see that shed dates back to the Fred Hamel and Art Walmsley days and housed some of the first tin Lizzies in the district back in the days when a car ride was an adventure. I well remember some of the rides we had in those days and we didn't run altogether on gasoline.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS
SHE LOVED LIFE
By JANE GALE
(A tribute to a friend who has passed on.)
She loved life; every minute of each day
Grasped it with sweet eagerness and with purest joy
Filled it to the overflowing with her deepest love
Which held no insincerity nor alloy
She loved life, from her calm clear eyes
She saw all its beauty and drank her fill of happiness
There was a song in her heart arising in her soul
And her faith grew hallowed blessed assurance
She loved life; so much that her failing strength
Was renewed time after time through many days.
Even now as she lies in deepest sleep her spirit
Walks beside her loved ones — and will always.
She loved life; and in passing beyond the door
Would send those near and dear to love it too;
To face each tomorrow with faith and courage
Until their journey o'er life's road is through

MIXING YOUR OWN FEED

With modern feeding practices on the farm a feed mixer has become very useful. The design for this machine has been worked out by the agricultural engineers of the Michigan State College of Agriculture.

The mixer consists of a box, 2 ft. x 2 ft. x 8 ft. made of white pine matched boarding. The construction of the box is simple, the ends being cleated at the corners, and a heavy cleat is placed across the centre of each end to take the pipe flanges into which the stub shafts at ends of the box are threaded. The cover of the box is hinged to the top edge to avoid dirt by damps and staples. The baffles are an important part of the mixing device, and should be placed as indicated in the sketches They are fastened and braced by means of ordinary corner brackets. A partition in built across the centre of the box, permitting one side to be used separately, where a small quantity of feed is to be mixed, or where two kinds of mixtures are to be handled at the same time. In use, the box must never be filled more than one-third full, the two halves, at this rate, providing a capacity of about 25 lbs. per batch

In operating the mixer, the most important thing is not to drive it too fast—too high a speed will cause the feed to stay in the corners of the box, mixing actions being negligible at speeds above 30 r.p.m. A recommended speed is 16 revolutions per minute. Tests have shown that when not filled too full, good mixing is obtained by as few as three revolutions of the box. Fourteen revolutions, or one minute's operation should answer all mixing requirements. The mixer can be turned by hand though power operation is possible When electric motors are used, it is necessary to reduce the speed

Crop Yields In Most Sections Across Canada Below 1948

(By the Canadian Press)

Long dry spells in most sections of Canada this summer cut crop yields in most provinces will be below those of 1948

Nova Scotia, the outstanding exception, went to the other extreme with farmers harvesting their best grain crops in history And the province's apple crop ranked to be of the highest quality ever

Manitoba, too, had a better-than-average wheat crop with the harvest in central and northern sections of the province expected to be 50,000,000 bushels, or an average of 18.6 per acre of No. 2 Northern wheat.

The total yield in Saskatchewan is expected to be slightly lower than year than last. Of 15,700,000 acres sown to wheat this year 4,000,000 will yield less than five bushels an acre. In 1948, only 600,000 acres were sown to wheat.

Of about 6,500,000 acres sown to oats in Alberta, farmers are expecting 12 bushels an acre as compared with an average of 17½ in 1948.

Amnesty Beauty Campaign Dates

The dates of the 1950 Beautification Campaign will be from May 13th to 27th with the general theme being carried throughout the month of May, according to an announcement received from Mr C C Hoffman, National Chairman of this annual effort, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada

The country continues growing at a high level, although of course, down from the wartime peaks. The crops have been gathered in and, while many are somewhat under the last prop year in wheat, oats, barley and flax, they are nevertheless considered by generally manufacturers for the

Disability Pensions Remain Unchanged

WINNIPEG Canadian veterans who served in Allied forces in the last two world wars and who are getting disability pensions from these Allied governments, will get from the dominion government supplementary grant to offset decreases in foreign currency

Brig J. L. Melville of Ottawa, chairman of the Canadian pension commission announced this decision at the War Amputations of Canada convention in the Royal Alexandra hotel

This class of veteran, he said, will be compensated to the extent that the same amount as would be paid to a Canadian in corresponding rank and same disability provided by dominion of Canada

It remains to be added, the Canadian government is assuming the increased costs of supplementation caused by devaluation of currency

The move is to be done for pensions of the widows of these men

Artificial Fuel

The making of artificial fuel from wax-paper and sawdust, as demonstrated in the above photo by John E. Mason, is a simple process that can be adopted by most householders While possibly not possessing the lasting qualities of maple or oak, this burnable supplementary fuel can be used in kitchen stoves and fireplaces. It gives off a maximum of smoke, throws no sparks and burns to a fine white ash. Instructions To make this fuel two items are required A fair-sized galvanized wash tub for pulping it and a few pails of water. Half fill the tub with sawdust and add enough water to make a soft pulp. Next tear waxed paper into small pieces and crumple up pages of magazines and soak with a rubbing material into the water. Stir the mixture with a broom handle or anything handy and pulp to a consistency of cheese. It can be moulded into some kind of block and pulp to a consistency of cheese. ANDREW SCHLEIN
Andrew Schlein, a native of Russia, died in the Camrose hospital on Monday October 24th at the age of 72 years. He had been in poor health for some time. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Schlein, and one son, Peter, who resides on the family farm in the Hardisty district. Funeral services were held from the Hardisty United Church on Wednesday October 26th with the Rev. Hamill officiating. Interment was made in the Hardisty cemetery. The pallbearers were: Joe Allardice; Jim Mays; Morton Goodrich; Joe Kent, Stewart Goodrich and Chas Nodwell. F.B. Kirkman, Funeral Director.
A large number of floral tributes were received from a wide circle of friends and admirers.

HE'S TAKE HIERE
Although not entirely unexpected, the passing of Mrs. Jane Kiefer of Hardisty came with a shock to the large number of friends with whom she was acquainted. Mrs. Kiefer had been ill for some time and had only recently been brought home to the hospital in Hardisty where it was hoped she was making slow progress. Death came on Thursday, October 27th. Mrs. Kiefer was born in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, U.S.A. She came to Canada in 1912. Early in the century she and her husband resided at Viking later moving to Daysland; in 1930 the family took up residence in Hardisty. Besides her loving husband, she leaves to mourn her loss, one son Richard of Hardisty; one sister (Mrs. E. Sneyd) of Vancouver; two brothers (Noah and Richard) and one sister Mary) of England.
Funeral services were held from the St. Mark's Anglican Church in Hardisty on Sunday October 30th, and interment was made in the Hardisty cemetery. Pall Bearers were: F.C. Mattison; Frank Matthews; Charlie Olson; J.H. Perkins; W.R. Aide and Jim Johnstone.
Rev. W. Brooks officiated and F. H Kirkman was Funeral Director.

Mr. McCoy will open the business at once and as well will handle a complete line of groceries.

SEDGEWICK LIBRARY NOTES
It has been brought to the notice of local Library authorities that if an individual rental per book charged the Library cannot receive a government grant. The alternative is to charge a yearly membership fee. Local library officials thereby see no necessity with fees to charge $1 per year per family levy. This is a small sum so that the grant may continue to be received. Will you please send in your fee?
Library hours will in future be Saturdays — 2:00 to 5:00 P. M
Wednesdays — 4:00 to 5:00 P M
The Library now has over 1700 good books. Stop in and see them
M. S. Hooper (Librarian)

DEATH
MRS J. L. SIFFERER
We are indeed sorry to record the death of Mrs. J.L. Sifferer of Lougheed who passed away in Killam hospital on October 29th. At the writing details are unobtainable but will carry a report next week.

FLASH! FLASH!
Not quite a year ago a 1949 FORD was awarded the Fashion Academy Gold Medal as the 'Fashion Car of Year.' AND NOW, not as a surprise to us, an award (rightfully earned) as thousands of satisfied 'FORD' would say, 'MERCURY TRUCKS' have received an Award for stand out performance, dependability and low cost of operation.
MERCURY WINS AT TRUCK RODEO
Driving a Mercury M-235—138 In. W. B. Model in the Stake class at the Alberta Truck Rodeo in Edmonton, W. (Bill) Pankow of Calgary, owner of the Tiger Transfer (a 100) P.C. Mercury Fleet) was an easy winner over all classes. His feat is no Secret—it was teamwork — a champion in a champion truck, which beat all competition. Pankow insisted on driving a Mercury or nothing and since no entries were in for this stake class, a special arrangement was given. He knew what he needed to win. He got it. He won.

A Drive For Trade

MANY PEOPLE HAVE DREAMED of a state which would be economically self-sufficient and would not be dependent upon foreign trade for its welfare and prosperity. Actually, however, foreign trade is important to most countries today and around it revolve some of the most common problems of our times. Canada is one of those countries whose prosperity depends upon buying and selling abroad. With less than one per cent. of the world's population Canada has such natural resources and great capacity for agricultural production that a relatively small domestic market makes it necessary for us to sell much of the output of our farms, factories, forests, mines and fisheries outside of the country.

* * * * *

Attention To Foreign Trade

The foreign demand for farm products has long been a matter of concern to the people of Western Canada. During the war, and in the period of rehabilitation in Europe the demand there for our grain and other farm products was great, but with production returning to normal in many parts Canada is giving increased attention to the building of foreign markets. It has recently been announced that the Department of Trade and Commerce is giving thought to this matter and that plans have been made to expand the present service for holding and expanding markets for farm products. The new policy calls for the appointment of a branch of the Trade Commission to deal exclusively with the selling of Canadian products. Mr. W. J. Van Vliet of Quinton, Sask., on behalf of Liberal MPs, will be trained as agricultural specialists and will go to appointed markets abroad.

Will Look For New Markets

It must be the duty of these officials to send back information regarding the possibilities of securing new markets in countries which are interested, and able to buy Canadian farm products. Other officers, it is said, will be stationed at Canadian embassies in countries where trade is not developed to the point where it is worth while to have a full time agricultural specialist. This work is of the greatest importance to the future of Canada. Every effort to find markets for our products is necessary if the farmer may put into the hands of the people in this country the products of his labor at prices which are reasonable. These sales are made for the most part, in competition with other countries and unless there is good demand for them there prices will be low. The progress of the trade treaty made by the Trade Commissioner at this time will be watched with interest by all who are concerned with the marketing of our farm products.

FAMOUS HORSEMAN TO JUDGE AT ROYAL WINTER FAIR — One of Britain's top-ranking horse judges is coming to Toronto to judge at this year's Royal Winter Fair. A well-known figure in the hunting field, Lord Allerton, who, with Lady Allerton, has been invited to officiate at the fair, will be visiting Canada for the first time. Lord Allerton was judge this year at the Bromley and district agriculture committee's show in Lincolnshire, Eng. and won many prizes for his own entries before the war. Until recently he held the office of field master of the famed Pytchley hunt. — N.N.S. photo.

WANDERED BY POLICE — A demonstration against French women marching on the war ministry in Paris, France, to demand that Minister Paul Ramadier recall French soldiers battling the native forces seeking to establish an independent regime in Indo-China. Here two women roughly handled by the gendarmes as they attempted to disperse struggling, screaming women, are seen as they arrived to the sideline to nurse their injuries and be comforted by a companion. — N.N.S. photo.

GUARD MOBBED BY CROWD WHEN HE APPEARED IN COURT — Gauntlet of kicks, blows and curses from angry mob, (at left), lined up outside court building in Quebec, was run by J. Albert Guay as he arrived in Palais de Justice to appear for a preliminary hearing on murder charge. Guay, Quebec jeweler has been charged with murder of his wife who was killed in time bomb explosion of a passenger plane on Sept. 9. — N.N.S. photo.

MAN TAKES AMERICA'S SOUTHBOUT RETURN — Short marooned power boat record was shattered by Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont. seen with wife Lorne. Wilson roared Miss Canada across bay at Picton, Ont., at a speed of 138.6 miles per hour, bettering 136.7 m.p.h. mark set two months ago on Gull Lake, Mich., by Bark Crust I of Detroit. — N.N.S. photo.

KEPT MARRIAGE SECRET FOR FIFTEEN MONTHS — It has been reported that Lady Bridget Pudsel, London social queen, has been married secretly for 15 months to Colombian diplomat, Louis Robles. "We have tried to keep the marriage secret for family reasons," Lady Bridget was quoted. She told the newspaper she had been married since June 22, 1945. — N.N.S. photo.

FIRST PEANUT'S HONOR THEY LAST — The first peanuts she had ever eaten almost brought death to five-year-old Jean Marie Newsham of Prince Albert, Sask. The little girl, who had been brought to Oshawa, Ont., by her mother on a shopping trip, was eating some peanuts when one became lodged in her throat. Doctor who removed the obstacle from girl's throat, after she had been rushed to Oshawa hospital said youngster might have suffocated to death had not the peanut been found. — N.N.S. photo.

LOVERS HOPE SOME DAY TO BE RE-UNITED — Separated by red tape and each confined to a different country by immigration laws, Czech sweethearts, Kitty Kinsey, 21, and Dennis Chmielesky, 25, held a rendezvous for three days aboard Maid of the Mist boat at Niagara Falls. Kitty entered the U.S. on scholarship, while Dennis is a farm worker, who has to remain a year's service before he can become a Canadian citizen. Right now young lovers are separated by a lot of red tape, but some day they hope to be re-united. — N.N.S. photo.

Wilson and mechanic, Charlie Vollmer, are seen in craft just after setting the new record. Mechanical difficulties here plagued them in previous runs and tires for various speed records. Miss Canada's speed was just within half a second of bettering the late Sir Malcolm Campbell's world record of 141.74. — N.N.S. photo

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

George Dawson, 75, who has rung bells at 389 churches, has completed 60 years as a ringer at St. John's church in Leytonstone, England.

The government is increasing the number of judges in the supreme court of Canada from seven to nine and give them all a boost in salary.

National research headquarters at Ottawa announced that N.R.C. laboratories now are equipped to carry out full-scale testing of jet engines.

Ten Japanese teachers were killed and three seriously injured when a newly-constructed suspension bridge collapsed into the Jintsu river near Tokyo.

Michael Edwin Sloane, 14-year-old grandson of Thomas A. Edison, fell to his death in the Austrian Alps Saturday as he found the body at the foot of a glacier.

There now are 422,000,000 Roman Catholics in the world, Vatican radio said. The announcement said the number increased by 119,000,000 between 1920 and 1945.

England and Wales have 2,380,000 "surplus" women, official estimate of the population show. At the end of 1947 there were 19,980,000 males and 22,360,000 females.

Radios are becoming household necessities in Norway. Recently the number of licenses sets passed the 700,000 mark—an increase of 16 per cent, in less than a year.

CAT COMES HOME—Home again and safe with Barbara Hickman of Waterloo, Ont., is Mickey, the little girl's pet cat. The Hickman family were visiting relatives in Stratford when Mickey became lost. Barbara returned home and 16 days later Mickey walked into the house.

Oil Tenders Closed On Indian Reservation

OTTAWA — Tenders closed for permits to allow companies to search for oil on Indian reservations in Alberta.

Tenders were for permits on the Okotoks reserve, on a line between Calgary and Edmonton and half-way between those two cities.

Interest there has been shown by oil companies since a dry well was sunk recently. Oil companies have prospected reserve lands for some years but have yet to discover a commercial well, officials here said. Companies are charged $10 rental an acre for a one-year exploratory permit.

$12,200,000 Granted Britain To Buy Canadian Pork

WASHINGTON — Britain has been granted $12,200,000 (U.S. dollars) in Marshall plan funds to buy Canadian pork.

With Canada's dollar recently devalued in relation to the U.S. dollar, this was the equivalent of $13,420,000 in Canadian money.

The authorization announced by the Economic Co-operation Administration was the largest such spending approval at more than three months. The new grant is in addition to $54,500,000 previously granted Britain for Canadian meat purchases during the last year.

The pork purchase approval brought to $67,200,000 total E.C.A. grants during the last month for Britain to buy Canadian agricultural commodities. The recovery agency earlier had approved the purchase of $50,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat.

E.C.A. officials were unable to say when actual shipment of the pork purchases will begin. However, the meat is expected to be delivered by the end of December.

Calgary-Banff Route Chosen For Highway

EDMONTON — The Alberta government has chosen the Calgary-Banff-Big Bend route for the Trans-Canada highway through the province, Hon. James A. MacKinnon, federal minister without portfolio, said in an interview here.

"Before leaving Ottawa I was informed that the Alberta government had notified the Dominion government that its choice was the Calgary-Banff route," Hon. MacKinnon said.

SCHOOL FOR DOGS

WATERLOO, Que. — The school hall rings near here every day for 30 dogs from kennels in various parts of the United States. The dogs—hunters, pointers and setters — are being trained on a vacant farm.

Feeder Cattle Sell Fast At Auction

In just about five hours auctioneer Duncan A. Brown sold 2,686 head of cattle for $368,372 at the sixth Annual Sale of feeder and stock cattle at Little Current, Manitoulin, Ont. The overall average price was $14.80 and the top price $21.50. The low price was $12.10 for a load of canner cows.

Five loads went to Harrisburg, Penn., one load to Buffalo, and the remainder were shipped to western Ontario, Madoc and Carleton areas.

Manitoulin Island cattle have an enviable reputation for quality, freedom from disease, and ability to make profitable gains in feed lots. At the fourth general T.B. test there were only three reactors—two herds infected out of 23,000 head tested.

Grading and weighing into uniform bands was under the supervision of W. R. MacMillan, Livestock Fieldman, Dominion Department of Agriculture and R. H. Graham, Assistant Livestock Commissioner, Ontario Department of Agriculture. The Manager of the sale was J. H. Wilkin of Gore Bay, Manitoulin.

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

Aly Khan, who tells fables when he is not preoccupied with Rita Hayworth, passed this one on to Irving Hoffman: A mouse lived in constant terror of a cat. A magician took pity on it and turned it into a cat. Immediately it became afraid of the dog. So the magician turned it into a dog. Now it began to fear the tiger.

So the magician obliged again and turned it into a tiger. Immediately it began to fear the hunter. Then the magician said wearily, "I might as well turn you back into a mouse, my friend. You have only the heart of a mouse, and alas, I cannot help you."

The widow of Will Rogers notes in her memoirs that Will, Junior, never could learn to tuck in his shirttails when he was a youngster of 10. "Pleading and punishment got me nowhere," she recalls, "but I finally hit upon a scheme that cured him overnight. I sewed an edging of lace around the bottom of his shirts."

Western Canada Sound With Savings Deposits

During a month-long tour of Western provinces Mr. B. C. Gardiner of Montreal, president of the Bank of Montreal reported during a stop at Regina that business conditions in western Canada were sound, with savings deposits on the prairies showing a steady upswing since 1939. He foresaw American investments in Canada rising because of the country's natural position and resources.

B. C. GARDINER

But he insisted conditions in Canada were dependent on those of other countries. The future of Canadian trade depends on availability of foreign export markets, Mr. Gardiner said.

Being vitally interested in Canada's export trade, the Bank president sounded notes of both optimism and doubt for the future of agricultural exports under recent devaluation of the British pound and Canadian dollar.

It was welcome news to hear from Washington that Britain will now be allowed to spend $173,000,000 of Marshall plan money to buy Canadian wheat, he said.

But he added: "The overall outlook for western agriculture is not entirely a happy one under devaluation. It's much too early to say but manufactured goods rather than farm products would seem to have the better chance for export markets."

Mr. Gardiner said he had always opposed government control of currency. "I think control of our foreign exchange should be removed from the government and currencies should be allowed to find their own natural relationships."

NEW TOXIC POISON DEADLY TO COYOTES

REGINA. — A new and deadly weapon will be employed by the provincial game branch this year in its war on the coyote, Game Commissioner F. L. Blackley has stated. It is sodium fluoroacetate, a toxic poison commonly known as 1080. It is by far the most effective and economical" agents control device known, said Mr. Paynter.

Experimental control areas will be set up in the province under the game branches predator control program, said Mr. Paynter was confident it would result in a big saving for cattle and sheep ranchers and other livestock owners. He pointed out a similar control program in several American states over the past five years had saved the sheep industry alone $2,000,000 a year.

The two control areas will be set up in the southeast and the southwest covering from right to 12 township squarities each. If the measures prove satisfactory, they will be employed in other infested areas.

Extreme care would be necessary in the use of 1080, Mr. Paynter said. The small amount in solution necessary to kill a coyote, however, would not be deadly to man game birds and most fur-bearing animals. Stations for bait distribution will be well posted with warning signs.

LEFT PARKING TICKET ON HIS OWN CAR

Then called on him to pay all in police court, he explained.

"It was a new car and I didn't recognize my home," he explained.

Diagram of portable incinerator built of pre-cast concrete slabs.

We are showing herewith a drawing of a small domestic incinerator built of pre-cast concrete slabs bolted together when the incinerator is to be set up. It will be noticed that three of the concrete slabs run into the ground and the remaining side reaches only to within 10 inches of the ground. This is space for the entrance of air to feed the fire. The mixture to be used for this concrete job is one part of cement to two parts of sand and three parts of crushed stone or screened pebbles. After the slabs have been cast, they should be covered with moist straw or sacks as soon as the cement has hardened sufficiently to prevent damage, and left in this condition for two or three weeks, before they are assembled or subjected to heat.

The grate for this burner is supported by three of the bolts holding the slabs together, and may consist of a piece of ordinary expanded metal or metal lath. Reinforcing for the slabs is essential and may consist of quarter-inch round rods four inches apart in both directions. It would be possible to build an incinerator of this type out of brick, but it would require a concrete foundation sunk into the ground at least a foot, which would make it a more or less permanent structure and more expensive than the portable incinerator shown here.

Radar Locates Gallstones In Body

WASHINGTON — The navy has discovered a way to use radar to hunt gallstones.

Dr. George D. Ludwig of the Naval Medical Research Institute, Bethesda, Md., reported that high frequency sound waves can be transmitted into body tissue with the echo pattern differ from the waves striking foreign particles can be recorded.

The radar, or sonar, method can also be used to find small shell fragments or any other foreign substances.

Study Of Ruins In Far North Is Interesting

OTTAWA —Hundreds of years ago Eskimos lived on barren, treeless Cornwallis Island, far inside the Arctic Circle, and some 1,200 miles north of Churchill, Man.

They probably came there from Alaska, 1 000 miles to the southwest, and dropped relomes along their migration.

Those are some of the tentative conclusions reached by an archaeological expedition, just back from studying Eskimo ruins, first discovered there in 1934 by Knud Rasmussen, Danish explorer.

It may take years before archaeologists sort out some of the puzzling bits of evidence gathered by the party, headed by Dr. Henry Collins, Jr., of the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, and Jean Michea of Canada's National Museum.

Today, for example, no Eskimos live on the island.

Pieces of wood were found in the ruins—but there are no trees on the island and no driftwood collects on its shores.

The remnants of this former civilization were first found in 1851 by a Capt. Penny, an Englishman who was searching for traces of the ill-fated expedition of Sir John Franklin There were no Eskimos on the Island then.

The expedition just returned is the first to investigate the ruins Penny found.

The archeologists estimate the island was inhabited from 500 to 800 years ago by "Thule" Eskimos, a type of Eskimo living on the coasts and distinguished from other types of Eskimo natives such as the Caribou, Copper, Greenland and Labrador Eskimos.

Archeologists say evidence indicates the Eskimos of the Arctic islands might have been a vastly different people than the Thule stock lived there. The presence of wood, for example, may indicate that Arctic currents flowed in different directions and brought driftwood to this island.

Alberta Beaver Fly To Czechoslovakia

EDMONTON. — Flying squirrels have nothing on the Alberta beavers who took to the air here recently and headed east at a speed ranging up to 300 miles per hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaver, with assists from Trans-Canada Airlines and British European Airways, hoped to reach their destination — Prague, Czechoslovakia—before many moons pass.

Captured in Jasper national park, the woodcutters are a gift of the national parks board to the Prague zoological gardens.

The eight beavers were well supplied for their sojourn past the iron curtain. A generous load of tender, juicy poplar saplings and vitamin-packed grass cuttings, plus garden vegetables were packed in their lunch kit.

Included in the beavers' travelling kit were three copies of instructions on how to feed the rodents.

A few weeks ago a pair of baby cougars, now with the University of Alberta zoological department, took to the airways. Tropical goldfish, monkeys, a kangaroo and a wedding cake also have known speeds of 250 to 300 miles per hour.

Favors Porridge Treatment For Misbehaving Child

VANCOUVER. — Dr. Rudolf Dreikurs, leading American psychiatrist believes parents should always use the porridge treatment on their children.

If junior prefers throwing his porridge around rather than eating it, then papa is justified in emptying the bowl over his head, said Dr. Dreikurs.

Professor of psychiatry at Chicago University, Dr. Dreikurs is in charge of four child guidance centres in the Midwestern city.

"Modern parents lack of knowledge makes them a detriment to their children's growth. They don't know what to do when their children misbehave," he said here.

He blames the shrinking family for today's problem children.

"When there is a large family the children grow up automatically, each one finding a place in the group and adjusting to it," he said.

Dr. Dreikurs gave four reasons for apparent child misbehaviour.

1. They are trying to attract attention. They want a place in society.

2. There is a contest for power between child and parent, which the parent usually wins, resulting in the third reason.

3. They desire revenge. They assume nobody loves them and believe as that it is impossible for anyone to love them.

4. Because they are discouraged, they refuse to do anything.

"Treatment programs for children have proved that it isn't the children who need the treatment, but the parents," summed up Dr. Dreikurs.

His address was sponsored by the Greater Vancouver Health League

Ancient Church In England Has Many Treasures

BROOKLAND, England — Forty scores of life in Saxon England, are depicted on an ancient lead font in the 13th-century church of St. Augustine.

Believed to be a unique piece of ecclesiastical work, the font was found in the church tower before the Magna Carta was signed.

Among the scenes are a man with a seton hore, a man pruning a tree, a swineherd, a butcher, haymaking and other farming activities.

St Augustine's has other treasures—horse-head pews, a tithe barn in a corner of the church and a new chest in which are drawn 70 rarie with engraved heads, believed to have come from a captured ship of the Spanish Armada.

Now Electronic Brain Faster And Smarter

CAMBRIDGE, Mass — Harvard University introduced a new electronic brain, its "fastest and smartest".

The new "wizard" is known as Mark III, and is 20 times faster than the Mark II, which it replaces. Any mathematical problems in a fraction of a second wherever a human being would require days, years or perhaps centuries to work out the same problem.

Harvard scientists showed the new brain to a gathering of scientists who opened a four-day symposium here on electronic and mechanical computing machines.

The Mark III combines both electronics and memories in its operation. It has a new type memory system that is capable of storing 50 odd digits and letting and computing part of the machine through a parallel system. Other machines, of which there are many Trend, Jacobin, Pelican, Duck and Loon lakes in both this and adjoining provinces.

The names of war heroes or of men who have made an outstanding contribution to the community are now being used to designate some of the larger lakes that are becoming landmarks as the country is opening up This will avert much confusion, and at the same time a tribute will be paid to men who deserve to be so honored.

This is an excellent time to start planning for many acres of land now being made in the north and the permanent names selected can be used on the new maps to be issued

Professor Believes Wood Can Both Clothe And Feed People

VANCOUVER — Some day we may edge may rastly lead to production back up the same tree for a new suit and a square meal—if it doesn't first both feed and clothing can come from wood.

Scientific research in wood utilization is uncovering new and varied uses for wood and wood products every day, and some of that research will go on right here at UBC.

Dr. E. V. White, recognized authority on the subject, arrived at University of Idaho for 10 years.

Canada's resource research workers, rarely in the public eye, pave the way for the vast development of commercial products They stalk the the molecules, experiment and make the reports that lead to new developments he said.

Today the housewife uses different types of sugars, pectin, synthetic vanilla and so on—all developed from laboratory research on plant material. As experiments go on, knowledge of many types of food.

Know what makes ice cream "stiff"? A substance called "algin" that comes from seaweed does the trick.

Experiments with the cellulose molecule have given us clothes and artificial silks. Plastics with wide uses have been developed, and products are used in photographic emulsions. There are hundreds of others.

"Our interest is in developing rather than applying the knowledge," said the Ontario-born professor. "Research workers do the frontier work."

Dr. White graduated from University of Toronto and took post-graduate research at McGill. It was there the pulp and paper industry stimulated his interest in wood utilization. He worked for an eastern chemical plant before going to Idaho in 1938.

He hopes to continue research in sugar and wood chemistry here.

Potatoes Can Be Fed To Livestock

While potatoes normally are not grown as livestock feed, each year there is a considerable tonnage of small and off-grade tuber unsuitable surplus potatoes that can be disposed of profitably through livestock.

However, if good results are to be obtained care must be exercised in feeding them. Potatoes stored under favorable conditions can be fed raw to cattle and sheep but should be steamed or parboiled before feeding to avoid any damage or choking. For pigs the potatoes should be cooked. If the potatoes have sprouted, the sprouts should be knocked off before feeding as they are often poisonous to livestock. Diseased, frozen, or decayed tubers should not be fed to any livestock.

Potatoes or about 20 per cent dry matter, low in protein and essential minerals. Frank Whiting of the Dominion Experimental Station, Lethbridge, Alta., reports that they should be fed in connection with high quality feeds like legume hay and grain or protein mineral supplements added to the ration. Fattening cattle or milking cows should not be fed more than 30 pounds per head daily while lambs and breeding ewes should not be fed more than two to three pounds per head daily. Pigs may be fed up to six pounds per head daily depending upon the size of the pig. If more than these quantities are fed, severe scouring may result.

Experiments were carried out at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lethbridge, during the past winter to determine the comparative feeding value of potatoes when fed to milking cows and to fattening lambs. Groups of lambs and milking cows that were fed potatoes in comparison with alfalfa hay and grain were compared to similar groups of lambs and milking cows that received only alfalfa hay and grain. The cows were fed 30 pounds of potatoes per head daily while the lambs received one to two pounds per head daily. The results of these experiments showed that however, four to five pounds of potatoes were equivalent to one pound of alfalfa hay. Similar differences were noticed in the milk from the cows fed potatoes even though the potatoes were fed after milking. Apart from this the potatoes proved to be satisfactory feed.

Distinctive Names For Manitoba Lakes

WINNIPEG — It is noted that a little system and imagination is now being used in naming some of the thousands of lakes that dot Manitoba's northern terrain. Herridore, says the Winnipeg Tribune, when a prospector examined virgin territory he gave a "new" body of water the first name that struck his fancy and that name usually stuck. As a result there are many Trout, Jackfish, Pelican, Duck and Loon lakes in both this and adjoining provinces.

"Treatment programs for children have proved that it isn't the children who need the treatment, but the parents," summed up Dr. Dreikurs.

His address was sponsored by the Greater Vancouver Health League

KEEP IT SWEET

VANCOUVER. — Contented cows have a good deal to say concerned in the longer a sand these parts. Fraser Valley milk producers have introduced a huge new tanker truck, 17 feet long, which can carry 26,000 pounds of milk on a hurry to the dairies before it spoils —Seaman in Justice, ILGWU.

New Trend In Men's Clothing

The "successful look" is the trend for fall in men's clothing

It's a male look in which simple trim lines produce a dressed-up effect without flamboyance, according to style experts in the men's apparel industry.

Top fabrics for this fall's suits are flannels, tweeds and clear-cut worsteds, all in a new lighter weight and many with colorful overplaids. Other fabrics being stressed are cashmeres, cassinos and shetlands

New color interest is sprinkled through the clothing racks in men's stores. There's a plaid in conservative grey for example, which is popped up by a gay rust overplaid that adds color without being gaudy

In tapestry, favored fabrics are the traditional gabardine, covert and tweed—once again in much lighter weight materials than ever before. These follow the usual "natural" shade-brunette, fly-front pattern are the more formal double-breasted cut.

Sprinkled among them, however, are sportier numbers such as a naturally cut topcoat with a miniature houndstooth check. Style experts pick it for wear with solid color grey, brown or tan suits.

Professor Tests Ideas On Feeding Children

LONDON — A Colonial Office Bureau in Nigeria reported receiving the following plaintive plea from a West African who unexpectedly found himself "deep-rooted".

Dear Sir—On opening this epistle you will behold the work of a delighted person and a very bewildered and much child-minded gentleman, who was violently dejected in a forsaking by your good self.

"For heaven's sake, sir, consider this catastrophe as falling on your own head, and remind yourself on the walking home at the moment's end to fee savage wives and 16 voracious children with your pocket filled with non-existent pounds, shillings and pence and a solitary six-penny, pity my horrible state.

"As to the reason given by yourself, enquire, for my deplorment the

Appetizing Ways Of Serving Roast Chicken

(By Kay Rex Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA — Chicken—a rich man's dish? Nowadays the housewife is finding it a more economical buy than the most ordinary cut of beef or pork.

Once the family has had its fill of roast chicken appetizing ways can be found instead of preparing the leftover meat to do at least another meal

Chicken Loaf With Mushrooms

Ingredients: two cups cooked chicken; one cup peas; one-half cup milk; one egg yolk; teaspoon salt; two teaspoons onion juice; two tablespoons chopped parsley (optional).

Put cold cooked chicken and vegetables through food chopper. Mix with crumbs, milk, beaten egg, salt, onion juice and parsley and pack into greased loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit for about 40 minutes. Canned, sliced and serve with mushroom sauce which can be made from condensed mushroom soup if fresh mushrooms are not available. (Serves six)

Chicken Surprise

Ingredients—one-half pound spaghetti (uncooked); one tablespoon fat; one tablespoon flour, three-quarter cup milk; one egg yolk; salt and pepper to taste, two cups finely chopped chicken, one cup mixed vegetables, one tablespoon chopped parsley.

Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water being careful not to break strands. Drain and rinse in cold water

Line a deep, greased mould with spaghetti. Make a sauce of the fat, flour, milk, egg yolk and salt and pepper. Add chicken, vegetables and parsley. Fill centre of mould with this mixture and cover with spaghetti. Steam on top of the stove for 45 to 50 minutes if mould is on top range, and for 30 to 35 minutes if made in individual moulds. Unmould and serve with tomato or any desired sauce

How To Carve Chickens

The consumers section, Dominion department of agriculture, tells how to carve the chicken:

1. Place bird on platter with neck to carver's left side and carve nearest side of bird first.

2. Remove leg by making cut through skin between body and thigh and around the hip joint. Disjoint leg at hip joint with a sharp knife Transfer to small platter and separate thigh and drumstick. Cut up for serving.

3. Remove wing by cutting through joint. Transfer to dinner plate by the wing-tip. Divide wing into two sections.

4. Slice white meat, cutting toward the front and downward on the side of the breast the length of breast.

5. Make a horizontal cut across the breastbone section to remove dressing

6. Carve other side in similar way. The bird may be reversed on platter so uncut side is directly in front of carver.

Broad-Breasted Chicken Needed

VANCOUVER — A broad-breasted Canadian chicken would help the domestic economy to the shortage of United States dollars, says E. Perry, Ottawa poultry breeder. He told the Canadian Federation of Hatchery Associations convention here that the full-honored fowl would be worth $750,000 a year to Canada's hatcheries.

Mr. Perry recalled that in 1943 there were almost 600-700 cases of hatching eggs a week going to California from the U.S. But with the call for all utensils and purposes, these farmers went—a broad-breasted type of fowl ship the eggs down to the ranches.

Situation Looks Very Bad For West African Who Lost His Job

LONDON — A Colonial Office Bureau in Nigeria reported receiving the following plaintive plea from a West African who unexpectedly found himself "deep-rooted".

Dear Sir—On opening this epistle you will behold the work of a delighted person and a very bewildered and much child-minded gentleman, who was violently dejected in a forsaking by your good self.

"For heaven's sake, sir, consider this catastrophe as falling on your own head, and remind yourself on the walking home at the moment's end to fee savage wives and 16 voracious children with your pocket filled with non-existent pounds, shillings and pence and a solitary six-penny, pity my horrible state.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

HIS CHILDREN ::

By WANDA MOORE

WITH his weight on both hands, Mr. Derrick leaned across the desk. "What did you say, Jeremiah?" he bellowed.

"This is a stinky school," Jeremiah showed his anger to Mr Derrick and then to the class.

"So it's a stinky school, is it Master Jeremiah?" said Mr. Derrick, almost choking. "And what would you suggest we do about it, Master Jeremiah?" His bushy eyebrows pantomimed his accusing fingers.

"Take it home for firewood," said Jeremiah. "Country hicks don't need schooling anyway."

And so!" asked Mr. Derrick after the classroom murmur.

"Oh, don't worry about me. My father would send me to a good school."

He would, would he?" Mr Derrick muttered. What was he going to do with this boy? He had been accusing for the three days he had been here. He was going to spoil everything that he Mr. Derrick, had built up between him and the children. Because of Natalie. And from up in her seat, Clarence who kept awake all day and studied his arithmetic right along with the rest of them. Good children. All of them with the same hurt look.

Anger began to burn, anger that smoked to reach out and grab Jeremiah and shake him until his eyes fell out and then toss him across the room and into the field beyond. His hands clutched the desk until the knuckles looked like they would push through the skin. He had grown very fond of these children he was teaching for the second year in this one-room school. He was not long on discipline for nothing. He would banish this boy. Now!

As he opened his mouth to speak, he saw Natalie wave her hand. "Yes, Natalie?" he said, trying to keep his voice steady

She rose. "Mr. Derrick, sir. Perhaps if Jeremiah could tell us about the cattle he calls a herd, we would know what he does not like about ours."

Nonsense, Mr. Derrick almost snorted. He looked at Natalie again. Something in her face, bordering on compassion, stopped him. Even the angry murmur had stopped. He sank back into his chair. Matters could not be worse, so he turned to Jeremiah. "All right," he said, "tell us about a good school."

Jeremiah looked from Mr. Derrick to Natalie and back to Mr. Derrick. Bewildered.

"Speak up, boy, speak up," Mr. Derrick snapped.

"Yes, speak up, Jeremiah," Clarence said, pulling the name out like a rubber band.

Jeremiah straightened. "A good school is a big brick school in the city with clean sidewalks all around. It is a great big school. A great big school."

"You already said that," said Mr. Derrick.

"It has a lot of children in it. Lots of children. Crowds of children. And you don't have to know everybody. You can walk right past them. And they don't say . . ."

Jeremiah stopped abruptly, shame in his face.

Mr. Derrick leaned forward. His anger had left him. He was looking into the face of a frightened child, and he did not know why because nobody had said anything to frighten him. No one had made any movement toward him. Everyone was listening as if he really had something to say instead of all the foolishness. "Jeremiah, come here," he said softly.

Jeremiah's eyes widened. "Me," he cried. "I'm going." He sprinted for the door.

Mr. Derrick heard Natalie say, "Poor boy," and a murmur of voices as he shut the door gently behind him.

He started around the unpainted board school house, to the woodshed. He found Jeremiah in a corner crying bitterly. He put one hand on the boy's shoulder. "Son," he said, "there is nothing to be afraid of here. Natalie knew that you didn't mean it. We all know it now. Come back with me. We will show you what friendship is."

Jeremiah looked up through swollen eyes. "Friendship," he said. "Do you mean they would be friends with me with my awful name and what I said? No one wants to be friends with me."

Mr Derrick nodded. "Come and see," he said.

When they walked in the room, Mr Derrick said, "Jess really wants to be friends with us. I told him that all of you wanted to be friends with him, too."

"Uh, ya," breathed Natalie. "Sure, Jess," said the class.

Mr. Derrick repeated proudly to himself, as he returned to his desk.

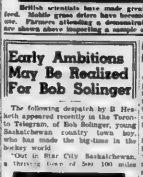
Early Ambitions May Be Realized For Bob Solinger



Bob Solinger

The following despatch by B Hesketh appeared recently in the Toronto Telegram, of Bob Solinger, young Saskatchewan country lawyer boy, who has made the big-time in the hockey world

"Out in Star City Saskatchewan, a thriving town of 500 100 miles from Prince Albert, they used to start 'em shooting pucks and another 6ft. a very tender age. That's how Bob Solinger, 10 at the time, happened to be understudying in the local emporium is strictly social organizations on the Saturday night about 13 years ago when Conn Smythe was recruiting by radio the exploits of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

"Solinger, who displayed the same glassy-eyed admiration when names such as Sweeney Schriner, and Hap Day were mentioned as the young fry of today do for Ted Kennedy and Theo Brook, paused in the process of chalking a cue and lidded the assembly that some day he'd be up in the big time.

"This statement raised a cloud of cherries from those present and drew marked disfavor from a gent two tables away who was jolted out of musing as way back in the tobacconist under. Bent in 2 a man-sized bread hoe; toss out in 4 tbs. melted shortening. Work in 3 c. more unsifted bread flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl and brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough in bowl; grease top and let rise again until nearly doubled. Punch down dough and roll out, half at a time, into a rectangle about ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter or shortening; cut into strips 1½" wide. Pile 7 strips together; cut into 1½" pieces. Place on side in greased muffin pans. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in hot oven, 400°, 15-20 min.

VICTORIA. — Establishment of a children's zoo for educational purposes as well as entertainment is favored for Victoria by W M Warren parks administrator He has returned from a convention in Detroit of the American Institute of Park Executives

"The time is not right for the building of a zoo at Beacon Hill Park," the parks superintendent said "But I think it would be wise to give the subject some thought for implementation later."

Alberta Gets New Coal Mine

MONTREAL.—Alberta has a new open pit coal mining operation, with a potential output of 2,000 tons of domestic lump coal daily.

Forestburg Collieries, which recently acquired 1,200 acres in the Forestburg area, about 100 miles southeast of Edmonton, has begun operations at the mine, a company official here states.

Company is investing $1.4 millions in the venture, a large part of it for new equipment. All the equipment, including an all-steel tipple with an electric dragline, is expected to be at work on the property by the end of October

The new mine is on acreage formerly operated as an underground operation. Drilling tests carried on during the past year have revealed good quality coal in thick seams, some parts of them only a few inches from the surface.

PERSONAL STUFF

—By A. W. B—

"Why can't we have better streets and roads in our town? Why can't we have better street lighting? I am not the only one who has heard such expressions voiced, and right now I am not going to make any attempt to answer them. I am, here over going to express an opinion or two which may have a bearing on streets and lights indirectly.

We all know that the money for paying for civic improvements and civic services is derived through the age-old custom of tax collections. The more taxes a Village is able to collect the more civic services and improvements will or should be the just return to the taxpayer Perhaps this does not always hold true, I nevertheless it is a logical conclusion. Everyone who owns property in a village pays a property tax. The more and the better he owns the more he pays. The man who owns not only pays a property tax but is using utilities on which he pays a property tax (which in itself is no insignificant amount). Therefore you will see that it is the business man who pays the largest proportion an amount of taxes. Therefore it is to be to his benefit to have certain civic services. It is proper that he should too.

If he pays the most in taxes he is also entitled to consideration.

We are now quickly approaching the time when business men in and our villages will be doing the largest per day volume of business of the entire year; the Christmas season. Your Merchant is preparing right now to so arrange his merchandising to enable him to give you the best service and variety at the lowest possible prices. His is anxious to please you and will literally "bend over backwards" to do that you have his whole entirely attention. It necessary he will even carry your account until it can be conveniently settled. If you have a stake in local village just remember that your Merchant has a stake in you. He helps you — you help him. Do your shopping at home. If you buy your new tire at Hamlet your tires or there too. I can say that and get away with it. Your Merchant won't say it. He can't afford to offend you. Two reasons for your business, so he can pay taxes and improvements. Just the same I would be hurt to often thinks it — and I don't blame him. He's only human.

LOUGHEED HOME AND SCHOOL HOLDS ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Lougheed Home and School Assn. was held at the school on Nov. 1st with a very large attendance. Two interesting films were shown, Tongs of Danube and Changing Face of India". The business concerned further self-government in the village and the election of the school, and purchase of cups etc. Mr Tom Cousins, recent speaker, gave a talk on Scho.' Administration. This was followed by an open discussion on topics pertaining to school matters.

Officers elected were: President, Rev. Grainger; Vice, G. O. Probst; Sec., Miss Estvedt; Treas., Mrs G. O Probst; Program Com., Mesdames Marler, Burden and Pedlar; Lunch Com., Mesdames Bourgeois, J. Barton and H. Peterson.

A cordial invitation is extended to attend the December 5th meeting.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE AT KILLAM ON NOV. 11TH

The regular annual Memorial Day Service sponsored by the Killam Branch of the Canadian Legion will be held at the Community Hall and the Empire Theatre at Killam on Friday, Nov. 11th, at 10:45 a. m.

KILLAM BOARD OF TRADE MEET

RE-ELECTS ALL OFFICERS

Approximately 125 persons sat in at the banquet which preceded the regular annual meeting of the Killam and District Board of Trade, Tues. November 1st in the Coop Hall.

Following chairman Bill Jamer's opening remarks, only two speakers were called upon, namely Mayor Harris and A. Bitzer of M.L.A., then clearing the decks quickly for the rather lengthy meeting to follow.

After the reading of the minutes of the 1948 annual meeting and the approval of same, the meeting moved on to the annual report of the President, Mr. Sid James, who gave a general resume of the Board's work. He pointed out that the Board of Trade had handled a sum of $27000 during the past twelve months and that some fifty meetings had been held. Efforts were still being made to obtain natural gas along the line for the local Fair Grounds had been enlarged and improved. He stated that improvements were to be made to the grounds fronting the arena. Mr James thanked his officers for their co-operation, giving special mention to past Secretary Rene Smith and present Secretary Bernard F. Pew.

Perhaps the most interesting part of the chairmans remarks were those pertaining to the new Memorial Hall which is now almost complete. This fine new structure has small paid for by donations and commercials. With the exception of a $6000 loan payable over two years.

The financial statement was read and approved.

As the Board of Trade is broken up into various committees, the chairman of each committee was called upon for a report as follows:

Senior Baseball — Jack Dunn
Senior Baseball — Dick Risner
Senior Softball — Cecelia Hilker
Senior Hockey — Nip Sorenson
Junior Hockey — Ed Dunn
Agriculture Com — S. G. Miller

(Main topic here was the Killam Cub Club which had won all major awards at the 1949 Calf Club)

Stampede Com. — R Risner
Arena Building Com — Oscar White

The above reports were interesting being taken in sports and that with one or two exceptions the approval of same will self explanatory.

The building committee of which Oscar White is chairman, came in for some debate over the need for a suitable and economical way in which the arena was erected.

Before the election of officers, a motion was presented by Mr J Gair that all local Elevators be petitioned to install grain cleaning machines This motion was carried

On motion of A Edward Pew and J. G. Gair, all officers were returned for another year, with the exception of Mr. Cox (who has moved away) This vacancy was filled by the election of Mr. Les Larson

A vigorous membership campaign was undertaken at the conclusion of the meeting, and this will be carried on until everyone is signed up.

LOCAL ADVENTIST CHURCH GIVES $7B FOR RELIEF

This year was the fifth special offering held annually in all 7th-Day Adventist churches in North America, the total for the present year's being nearly 2½ million dollars. In addition to the amount raised in these special offerings, 7 and a half million dollars has been used overseas for rehabilitation and reconstruction. Members of the individual Adventist Churches have also used 1400 tons of clothing and an equal amount of food overseas.

By way of doing their bit locally, eleven ladies from the Sedgewick and Mrs. Andrew Anderson have formed a Dorcas Benevolent Service with the purpose of making, remodelling and mending clothing for the poor and unfortunate, both at home and abroad. Anyone wishing to have a part in this good work may leave bundles of old clothing or material at the Delivery or at the Sedgewick Cash Store.

SEDGEWICK W. I. NOTES

Twenty-five members responded to the roll call at the monthly meeting of the W. I. held at the home of Mrs. A Carmichael on Wednesday of last week. Five visitors were welcomed by the meeting.

We were pleased to learn that Mrs Ferguson is home from hospital where she underwent an operation. Mrs Hooper reported a number of new books had been added to the library, and that a fee of one dollar per family per year was to be charged from now on.

Three hundred dollars was turned over to the Community Hall Fund

Mrs. Art Stenhouse and Mrs. Conscientiousness Convener, was present and had on display several handicraft articles which will make pretty but inexpensive Christmas gifts.

Fruit and cards had been sent to the sick and shut-ins.

Mrs Harold Christensen was in charge of the contest which was won by Mrs. J. Adamson and Mrs Percy Haynes. We need your help. Join the Sedgewick W. I.

KILLAM Y. P. S.

Twenty-five members of the YPS met at the home of Phil MacLachlan on Nov 1st. It was decided that a Christmas social for all would be collected from each member. The Centre Group is to gather material to the presentation of a play this coming year. Tenny Nichol's group was in charge of the entertainment. The Rev. Mr. Gammon was Leader and the Church. The Fellowship Group will conduct the next meeting. Attendance was over a number of games were played, followed by very delicious lunch. The singing of Taps closed the evening.

WEDDING

The Presbyterian Church, Killam, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on October 27th, when marriage vows were exchanged between Vivian Erickson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lars Erickson, and D'Arcy Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos Green all of Killam. The ceremony was performed by Rev. McBeth Millar of Edmonton. Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a floor length dress of white brocaded satin, fashioned on princess lines and featuring a net yoke and chapel veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Her sister, Mrs. Harold Grant, as Matron of Honor, wore an aqua taffeta gown with matching hat and carried a bouquet of mauve mums and pink carnations. Miss Wanda Erickson made a very attractive bridesmaid in a pale rose taffeta dress and matching hat. Her bouquet was pink and white carnations. The groom was supported by his brothers Harold and Ernest Green.

The guests were received by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lars Erickson. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Ward, aunt of the groom and during the signing of the register, Kenneth Grant sang "O Perfect Love".

Following the ceremony a reception for some 75 guests was held at the bride's home. Tall pink candles and pink carnations adorned the table, which was centered by a three tiered wedding cake.

Out of town guests included Mrs Miller, Edmonton; Mr. and Mrs. F. Hunt, Calder; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Erickson, Redwater; Mr. and Mrs. Mel McCune, Jarrow; Mr. and Mrs. Mel Hedgewick; Mr. and Mrs. Glen Roggenstedt, Lougheed and Mr. and Mrs. Nels Erickson, Camrose.

For travelling the bride chose a black dress, wine topcoat and black accessories. After a honeymoon trip to the United States the happy couple will make their home on the A. P Nelson farm, Killam

KIRKMAN — PATERSON

An October wedding of interest to Lougheed and Calgary, was solemnized in the sand room at 11:30 A. M. on October 15th, when Ann, daughter of Mr and Mrs A. G. Paterson was married to Cecelia Leslie Kirkman, son of Mr and Mrs. F. B. Kirkman of Lougheed. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. A. E. Stewart. The bride entered the ward room on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white satin was floor-length and featured a lace yoke with bitch round neckline. Her bridal bouquet was of red from a cornnet of seed pearls, and she carried American Beauty roses. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Miss Doris McGlashan was maid-of-honor. Brides maids were Miss Elizabeth Greenwood and Miss Enid Campbell The groom in the uniform of the R C N was attended by his brother Miss Gwen and Tom Paterson, brothers of the bride, were ushers. Wedding music was played by Mrs. A. H. Burt and soloist was Miss Kathy Johnson Following the service a wedding dinner was served in the officers mess. The young couple will live at Calgary Mrs. Kirkman Sr., mother of the groom, of Lougheed, attended —Calgary Albertan.

FLASH! FLASH!

Not quite a year ago a 1949 FORD was awarded the Fashion Academy Gold Medal as the "Fashion Car of Year.' AND NOW, not as a surprise to us, an award (rightfully earned) as thousands of satisfied USERS would say, 'MERCURY TRUCKS' have received an Award for stand out performance, dependability and low cost of operation.

MERCURY WINS AT TRUCK RODEO

Driving a Mercury M-135—158 In. W. B. Model in the Stake class at the Alberta Truck Rodeo in Edmonton, W. (Bill) Pankow of Calgary, owner of the Tiger Transfer (a 100 P. C. Mercury Fleet) was an easy winner over all classes. His feat is no Secret—it was teamwork — a champion in a champion truck, which beat all competition. Pankow insisted on driving a Mercury or nothing and since no entries were in for this stake class, a special arrangement was given. He knew what he needed to win. He got it. He won.

Juvenile Delinquency

THE SUBJECT OF JUVENILE DELINQUENCY has received considerable publicity during the past few years and has come to be regarded as one of the most serious social problems of the day. However statistics on juvenile delinquency in the Dominion of Canada do not indicate that the actual increase in juvenile crime is overstated. It was recognized that the war was responsible for many cases and figures show that in 1942 an extreme high was reached in juvenile crime here, when there were 11,734 arrests and number convictions. At that time the absence from many of our fathers and mothers serving in the armed forces, and of mothers who worked in munition plants or in industries contributed extensively to the high rate of juvenile crime.

* * * * *

Decrease In Crime Rates

Since the war the housing shortage has caused many families to live under abnormal conditions and this has been a cause of many of the cases which have arisen of girls, children and youths who have broken the law. However, a number of factors have been working to bring about a decrease in juvenile delinquency throughout the country. The end of the war, combined the resumption of normal living in many families and their reunion are cause of delinquencies. In addition, communities throughout the country have provided facilities for recreation, parent education classes, psychiatric services and other projects planned to better conditions for children and young people. In several of the provinces the governments have recently established laws for the protection of youth.

* * * * *

Help Given By Police

Another factor which is known to have contributed a great deal to the lessening of juvenile crime is the sympathetic attitude given to this problem by the police. In many districts constables are appointed to deal especially with this work and much credit is given to the "police and juvenile programme introduced by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and taken up by municipal and city police in many communities. This programme includes lectures on the work of the police, and on citizenship, given in schools and before groups of children and young people. The police also participate in games, form athletic clubs for juveniles and visit Boys' and Girls' Homes in the course of this work. Undoubtedly the home is the most important influence on a child's life and it is there that they should learn respect for the law and the principles of good citizenship. For children who have been brought up with the proper attitude to these matters, the advice and help given by the police at schools and elsewhere further emphasizes the things which they have been taught, while for children who have not had the advantages of good homes, the work done by the police in their behalf takes on the enlightened approach to most problems in through personal and not great credit is due to the R.C.M.P. and the members of other forces throughout the country who are effectively helping to prevent juvenile delinquency at this time.

Esteven Man Could Be Referred To As "Lucky Joe"

ESTEVAN Bank Joseph Phillips of Estevan really could have been referred to as Lucky Joe recently for he found a basket full of existing bills to $15 on the Toronto-Chicago game at Toronto. Later in the evening he was awarded a 1949 Plymouth car at the annual Rotary carnival.

See Increase In 'Hopper Infestation

WETAUKIN Sask — Grasshopper infestation might be more severe in 1950 than it was this year, provincial field crops commissioner W. H. Rowe said here.

Mr. Hosier said the cultural control method was the best way to fight hoppers, adding that shallow cultivation in fall or spring could destroy 70 per cent of the grasshopper eggs.

Farmers should not seed stubble fields that were heavily infested with grasshopper eggs this year, he said. A "hopper weather could double the output of the food pests.

Vancouver Man Invents New Licence Plate

VANCOUVER.—Permanent licence plates which do double duty as enlarged tail-lights have been invented by a Vancouver man and will be offered to the B.C. government, soon.

Inventor is 68-year-old L. J. Walshe.

Models constructed by Mr. Walshe consist simply of perforated glass or plastic, with numbers on the outside and a light on the inside

By day, the device resembles a somewhat hollow edition of an ordinary licence plate. By night, it is illuminated with the red light at the rear, and a white light at the front.

"Several plates showing your license, are separate and removable, and could be of any distinctive design or color

Mr Walshe has patented the device in both Canada and the U.S.

Uranium In Northwest Territories

KELOWNA, B.C.—Heavy mining machinery will soon be moving into a new uranium field, discovered near Great Slave Lake in the Northwest Territories and which might be potentially the richest in all Canada.

E. Hartley, managing director of Yellowknife Yukoniak Gold Mines, Kelowna, B.C., said his firm would build a road before Christmas from the head of Yellowknife Lake through to Great Slave Lake for transportation of equipment and supplies.

Preliminary reports of a total of 21 different assays, made both in Toronto and Ottawa, revealed a 1.52 average uranium oxide in ore taken from a depth down to four feet, Hartley said.

The fabulous Eldorado mine had an ore content of one per cent.

The area has great potentialities," Hartley said. "It looks like a very substantial strike we've made. Our assays are higher than we anticipated. We're only in the early stages now, however.

"It must be that as a really rich mine develops with its ore body [illegible] and [illegible] the ore will go down to Eldorado-Port Hope smelting on a few years, and a comparison is surely well impossible at this stage. But we certainly do have a mighty potential property. It potentially might be better than Eldorado."

Hartley however, said cost of mining the ore would be fairly high at about $2.000 a ton.

The find was originally m ..de Sept 22 by Ted Hartley, son of the managing director.

The ore was believed concentrated in a compact area ranging from two to 10 feet wide and 200 feet long.

Honey Crop Down This Year

OTTAWA—Canada's honey crop is 21 per cent. lower than last year. And, according to bee experts, you can't blame it on the bees. As usual, the guilty party is the weather man.

Bureau of statistics reports places the 1949 crop at 31 286,000 pounds, away below the near-record production of 45,143,000 last year and the lowest since the honey-short year of 1946, when only 23,185,000 pounds were produced.

Production by Western provinces and Ontario with 1948 outputs in brackets was: Ontario 10,888,000 (15,754,000), Manitoba 4,800,000 (6,525,000), Saskatchewan 5,200,000 (6,492,000), Alberta 6,050,000 (10,254,000); British Columbia 960,000 (918,000).

PRICES OF FARM PRODUCTS DROP

OTTAWA. — Prices of farm products rolled further down the slope in August, the statistics bureau reported.

Continuing the trend shown since the first of the year, agricultural prices dropped half a point from July.

Compared with last year, prices were lower for grains, dairy products and potatoes. Poultry and eggs were slightly higher, and livestock was unchanged.

Barrel House For The Dog

BEFORE starting work on the dog-house, deodorize the barrel with stalled creosote. If a well-constructed barrel is selected, the barrel dog-house will be rain and snow-proof, warm in winter and cool in summer. Almost any long-coated dog can be easily kept in such a home even in the coldest weather. Bedding is not necessary but if desired shredded newspapers serve well.

The two-by-six supports will not only keep the barrel from rolling, but prevent early decay, dampness and draughts so harmful to dogs. The house should face east or south and should be kept out of the direct wind. It should be so placed that the sun can reach it a good part of the day during every season. Occasional sunning of the interior of the house through the hinged door will prevent odors and vermin.

AN OLD BARN

By JANE DALE

They are leaving down an old barn today
Which has stood for many years across the way.
Its roof is caving in and its doors are all ajar.
The horses it once held have long since gone afar.
The bell, with weary rafters is bleak and bare.
Yet once, upon the hay, children played there
The mangers broken down and empty now.
Once held choice fodder for hungry horse or cow.
The oat bins are nearly rigs for mice and rats.
The stanchions, high perches for wary cats.
The window s which once revealed the lantern light
Are but blank holes peering out into the night.
Yet that old barn standing forlorn and gray
Was beautiful when clothed in sunset ray;
Or picturesque when winter's sweeping snow
Festooned each rotting board, now so rosy,
They now bearing down the old barn, I see,
Which has been for years a landmark to me.
But something new will soon be standing there
Which by and by will seem to be as fair.

New Factory Will Provide Market For Durum Wheat

LETHBRIDGE. Cafelli Food Products recently opened its new $250,000 plant at Lethbridge with Hon James A. MacKinnon of Ottawa and Edmonton officiating at the ceremonies. The new macaroni products factory will provide a market for durum wheat grown in Southern Alberta and supply Cafelli's customers on the prairies and Pacific coast. The firm has closed its Vancouver plant.

Butter Stocks Steadily Increase

OTTAWA Canada's storage warehouses are filled with 30 times more butter than margarine

Bureau of statistics figures show that creamery butter stocks at Oct 1 amounted to 72,222,000 pounds. Margarine holdings totalled 2,358,000.

Most of the butter is being held by the government as a price-support measure. It probably will be sold during the winter months when no butter is produced in Canada. Margarine can be produced all year round.

The butter stocks of 72,222,000 pounds compared with 66,957,000 on Sept 1 and 53,713,000 on Oct 1, 1948.

Compared with the nine-month production of 236,319,000 pounds of butter, margarine production for that period amounted to 51,763,000.

Seven out of 10 people visiting Bermuda in 1948 travelled by plane.

Farm Conference Ottawa, Dec. 12-14

The annual Dominion-Provincial Agricultural Conference, usually held during the first week of December, will convene this year in Ottawa, December 13-14. This change is considered desirable as a number of key officials who will attend the Conference are also delegates to the 5th Annual Session of the Food and Agriculture Organization in Washington whose sessions extend into the first week in December.

As in other years, representatives of Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, and representatives of organized agriculture will get together for a three days discussion of what next year is likely to hold for agriculture.

It is hoped that delegates can be provided with commodity reports both on 1949 production and for 1950 prospects in advance of the Conference. This method was followed last year, and in addition to speeding-up proceedings gave greater opportunity for thorough discussion.

Estimates Given For Alberta Crops

CALGARY—Alberta's 1949 wheat crop was estimated at 96 000 000 bushels, or an average yield of 12.7 bushels per acre.

The Alberta Wheat Pool said 73 per cent of the output would grade number one, two or three northern and 27 per cent would be Garnet and other grades

Oats production was estimated at 54,000 000 bushels barley production at 36,700 000 bushels rye at 2 650,000 bushels and flax, 313,000 bushels.

A Pennsylvania flying school has offered free flying instruction to anyone over 60 years of age

Combination Of Soil And Health A Definite Hope

Soil and health are linked today, with understanding. But when they were joined, as they were, 40 years ago to a mate for in advance of his contemporary scientists, one who went deep to eternal fundamental truths which would serve the future if obeyed, there was not as much reason for understanding Truby King, acknowledged today by discerning men the world over as a benefactor for all time, put soil and health as the second stone in the foundation of his Society for the Health of Women and Children of New Zealand, now known as Mothercraft around the world. Incidentally, the first fundamental was the mother and child as a unit, not two separate entities; the third was harmony between the physical and spiritual.

Savage of the soil of all countries of the globe, but particularly of the newer lands, with consequent mysterious maladies which are put down as deficiency diseases, have caused people everywhere to a new understanding. Undernourishment in a portion of the existing world, and definite fear of starvation for a portion of the rare in the future, offer shocking comment on the hope of a peaceful world. Yet within that combination of soil and health is definite hope.

The Canadian Mothercraft Society has aroused sufficient interest in the importance of soil and health, and in the Albert Howard method of composting and other organic processes to have effected the organization of a Canadian Soil and Health Association, with a medical man, Dr. F. H. McHugh head of Homewood Sanitarium, Guelph, as its head. Application for a charter made some months ago has as yet been ungranted. In the meantime expressions of interest, requests for information and offers of voluntary assistance have continued to arrive.

The primary concern of the Canadian Mothercraft Society is the mothers and babies of Canada and the world but for this purpose the must have organized nurses to take the postgraduate course of four months at the Mothercraft Hospital Clarendon Avenue, Toronto. The Society offers tuition, board and lodging, and a living allowance to any Reg N who is interested and will become a staff or district nurse. Closely allied to this need however is a better understanding of the alliance between positive health and the earth's topsoil

Information on this subject will gladly be sent by the Mothercraft Society, 341 Bloor West, Toronto.

DEATHS

MRS JANE KIEFER

Although not entirely unexpected the passing of Mrs. Jane Kiefer of Hardisty came with a shock to the large number of friends with whom she was acquainted. Mrs Kiefer had been ill for some time and had only recently been brought home to the hospital in Hardisty where it was hoped she would be missing safely progress. Death came on Thursday, October 27th. Mrs. Kiefer was born in Stockport, Lancashire England. She came to Canada with her sister in 1913, and was married in Ontario, later moving to Alberta on a farm 3 miles North-East of Viking to her sister Mrs. Martin Stewart. In 1921 the family moved to Dayland and from 1936 to the time of her death she resided at Hardisty. She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her loving husband, one son Richard of Hardisty; two sisters (Mrs. Martha Burnett of Vancouver, Mrs E. Berry of England), also two brothers, Hugh and Richard Halliwell of England.

The late Mrs. Kiefer was in the University hospital for five weeks and was able to return to Hardisty hospital on October 19th, where she passed away on Oct. 27th.

Funeral services were held from St Mark's Anglican Church in Hardisty on Sunday October 30th, and interment was made in the Hardisty cemetery. Pall Bearers were: F. C. Mattson, Frank Matthews; Charlie Olson, J. H. Parkins; W. B. Aide and Jim Johnstone.

Rev. W. Frost officiated and F. E. Kirkman was Funeral Director.

Floral tributes were received from the following:

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. W. H Harris on the arrival of a new son daughter on Oct 29th at Hardisty.

We are sorry to hear that Andrew Seethon Sr is a patient in Killam hospital and hope for a complete and speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCracken were week enders in Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Probst and Tommy and Gussie motored to Calgary last week.

Henry Ripp and wife were busin ess visitors to Camrose last week.

Ray McCracken and Robert Whitehead were Edmonton visitors last week. Bert stayed over to take a 3 day course in body repairs at the G. M School Dick Wright, the old standby was left in charge of the Garage. Bert has a new theme song now "If a body meet a body, there will be a wreck" — If you want them straightened out Bert can do the trick

Combines and corpses may be all right in their place, but it takes the Dodge to get the chicks home.

The Alvin Olsen family spent last week end with relatives at Morris

I always claim to like to have the weather changeable, but I don't like my rub it in. The other day Mrs. Mollie (Frost) Hooper breezed in parked an armful of groceries on the desk and during the chit-chat, says, "This just reminds me of when I was a little school girl. I used to come in with an armful of groceries and you would give me the mail." Now I guess it is Mollie has grown up, married and raised a family. After she left I got down the family record to Mrs where I was first mentioned in the bashful, matched and matched column, and while statistics show she was probably correct, please be a little more discreet next time. I still like to think that I am just in my prime.

Fred Marlow from Wash and Mrs. Marlow of Edmonton are here visiting their mother Mrs. A B Marlow, who we are sorry to hear, is not recovering as rapidly as hoped for in Hardisty hospital

Well, Halloween has come and gone again and on the whole was mainly moderate. A few pranks were played and the usual other pranks. Main street looked like a sample market with the usual display of machinery and other movables, including three new gas stations at the Hardware corner. Children and youngsters hit the hay the oldest at took over the trick or treat game, making a round of different calls in costume. One lady was here-footed I felt like giving her a smack. She said she was just starting up an and offered to be her supporter I guess I'm just busy but somehow I missed the scene of hammer of a bean I s she will work half the night to move my hand heavy enough to make they have to have a tractor to move back in the daytime.

"Accidents will happen," to getting to be too much of a truism. You can't come to the radio or pick up a paper without getting reports of them. I can look out my window any time and see several of them just looking for a place to happen. Our child is riding a bike down the road; in front of Ray's she nose dives, a la coming fairly fast but there is a smooth distance separates them before it to stop. I see half a dozen cars race across the corner and dart on from between parked cars (frustrating on Centre St.) and I have always be that lucky" in front of Ken's I saw a little parked with six or eight pieces of lumber about 16 feet long on the top with a couple pieces of light rope holding them to front and rear bumper. Realizing the tension on these bindings when it by a rough spot which is mostly the case when pulling out on the road with a rare. What chance would a passing car have if either binding's or lumber swung in the driver's or even drove through a windshield? Again in front of the hotel I saw a car with light trunk. It has its ordinary box then above that a stock rack and it is loaded with round logs about 2 inches above that, with two flimsy looking boards stuck up to support them. Imagine one of these boards breaking and unloading the top couple of tiers in front of the approaching car. We have all kinds of safety devices, occasionally a safety week (should be safety every week) there is no substitute for brains. I see the school buses pull up students big and little pile out from all sides, many of them dash across the road some around front some the back of the bus, hardly ever two in the same direction and paying little heed to traffic. We have fire drills in school and then happen, but accidents are the exception. Why not drill the children to go to the nearest sidewalk and get their bearings before they cross the street, and then do so in an orderly manner instead of a mad scramble. Why not bar the above mentioned dangerous loads on back of trucks and buses if course there accidents will never happen to us, in fact no accident ever happened until it happened.

Jack Standley is the local milk man in this week while Mrs. Standley is the dispenser of the hot-tail fluid, is on a trip to Cowtown.

I see a couple of boys in white floating around Kerr's Cafe. Don't know whether it is a paint job or just something left over from Hallowe'en.

Well, the home base season is here about over, and the farmers will be able to turn the cows out on the road, not worrying that some amateur will mistake them for deer.

Mrs. Chas Lewis and baby Palmer son visitors this week. Their son Lance accompanied them as far as Camrose where he remained with Dooley to visit his grandparents

Mr. H. G. Peterson was an Edmonton visitor last week.

Miss Marjorie Hostel of Camrose has spent last week end with her parents the Jos. Hostels.

Geo Jackson and wife were guest of the Harry Barletts last week

Miss June Marlow late of Killam, has returned to her parental home

Miss Florence Barton is taking a few days post harvest vacation with friends in Hardisty and Lima.

Alvin Fisher of Hardisty, but a Lougheed old timer of the way, was back, dropped in to see us the other day. We don't realize how these old timers have scattered since the occasional one drops in and the conversation revives memories of a string of others.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mrs. Wm. Wright who celebrated her 82nd birthday last Saturday.

Any comment on the weather is useless, but it is hard to refr in wh we see Can and Ken — we mine us with hail and sleet on the main drag as if it were the 5th of May instead of Nov. To add to the illusion, two different indies brought me a full line of tea cakes in the form so my old friend Ray to put with his collection as he already had a dandy one.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lien and the children motored to Hardisty to spend last week end with her folks

Heading the his parade this week is that old favorite by the Heron Co chestra, "Blue Congo Now I Am No Longer Lonely."

The ladies curling club will meet at the home of Mrs. Lute Reed Nov 10th at 8 p.m. I had a few comments to make but a lady with a cold hand in her eye said, "No comments but we hope to be able to report this one

On Nov 16th Mr. and Mrs. John Hestiman of Delano Cal., but form Loughedettes celebrat- their 7 to coming fairly fast but there is a wedding anniversary. Being m ried in 1899 May I join with th Community Press and their best w for the future. Wishing you ma more happy and peaceful years of wedded life together

Speaking of California reminds me that we have more sun here than winter coats on streets today

One thing about our Utility Man he is efficient and leaves nothing to coming fairly fast but there is by the alley today, one lady ru out and grabbed her children up as took them in the house

Grandma Bax and daughter M Cornelia Reed left by motor last week for a visit to Edmonton. They will be out there in time for Mr. and Mrs. Hestiman's golden wedding

Bellshill

A most enjoyable and successful evening was spent at the Plainsid School on Nov 4th when the Cl ssic Grandstand Club opened for the season's work, raffle and whist drive T were ten tables of cards and the prize went to the following L di s 1st, Mrs. Malcolm, McPherson; 2nd, Mrs. Chas. Connell; consolation, Mrs. A. Rands; Gents 1st, A Rand; 2nd Cl Brandinger; Booby W. Dennis The same enjoyable was ruffled w ay by Perry Simpson.

Congratulations to Mr. C Klinger who will celebrate his 50th birthday on Thursday Nov 10th

There was a wood sawing bee at John Brumbers last Thursday and a good time we are told Mr. Klinger being favoured by the truck full of wood to their new home which they w moved into soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. P. O'Reilly and family and Mr. and Mrs Otto Kliner and boys were Sunday visitors at Alberta.

We see the Tom Marlows driving around in a 1941 Ford 2 Door Sed. a three days. It was formerly owned by George Armstrong who we understand has a new Ford. Some class

Mr. and Mrs. T J Clark moved in to the town of Alliance on Nov 1 to spend the winter. The Jim Woodcocks and P O'Reillys were the nearest neighbors. Farewell folks. Don't forget us

We regret to report that Grandma Hardisty who has been a patient in Hardisty hospital since Oct 3rd is not doing so we" and the family has been called to recently

During the lovely Indian summer weather we are having many of the farmers are working the hard.

Alta. Glaciers As Thermometers Indicate West Climate Milder

CALGARY — One of the world's slowest-action "thermometers" has indicated that our climate, in Western Canada at least, has been milder than normal. The thermometer is a number of glaciers in the Canadian Rockies. The "readings" have been taken by survey parties, armed with transits, of the federal government's water and power bureau.

W. T. McFarlane, Calgary civil engineer who recently led a party into Alberta's Jasper Park for the government, reports the glaciers are shrinking.

Mr. McFarlane said the glaciers are receding because the amount of snow which accumulates on them each winter is not replaced by new snowfall. The glaciers' snow shows the rate of precipitation is greater than the rate of melting snow. They originate in basin-shaped areas in snow-clad mountains and are formed when the lower layers of snow are pressed into ice.

The pressure of the accumulated snow then drives the ice forward and it descends in a slow-river movement.

The glacier or ice-river gradually melts or evaporates. The distance it descends depends on its size and the temperature of the district it enters.

Apparently the slightly warmer average temperatures Western Canada has been experiencing the last few years has had a less-cold action on these glaciers—melted more snow than had prevented glaciers from maintaining their usual extent, and hence melted more of the "toes" of the glacier.

"About 80 per cent of our water supply on this continent can be traced directly to glaciers," Mr. McFarlane said. "Any change in the rate of glacier movement will have a definite effect on the flow of streams. Glaciers never show the rate of recession or advance during the year, but only comparisons between the beginning and end of the season."

Mr. McFarlane said the rate of recession on the Alberta glaciers since 1945 has averaged 100 feet a year.

Hell's Gate Ladder Help To Salmon Industry

VANCOUVER—The rich sockeye salmon run in the Fraser River this year is already 300,000 fish higher than the cycle year 1945, bringing new wealth to British Columbia and new joy to the Pacific International Salmon Fisheries Commission.

The salmon returns to the rivers every four years to reproduce and die. In 1945, the total answering the homing instinct was 1,062,000. This year's big increase is credited largely to the commission's fish ladder at Hell's Gate in the Fraser Canyon. Built in 1945 to help the fish surmount changes brought by a 1913 slide from railway blasting, the fishway covered its major test this year. Did enough extra fish get up the river in 1945 to yield a bigger run in 1949?

Lacking any other answer this year's run does says that is what happened.

John Buchanan, president, B.C. Fishermen, and his annual report that some 400,000 sockeye "escaped" in 1945 to southern Stuart Lake spawning grounds, all but barred since the 1913 slide. His official count is available yet, but the Stuart Lake run was expected. It was all over before the commission allowed any fishing by either American or Canadian boats. The big catch was from the Chilco Lake run and here again the experiment was heavy.

Enthusiasts are now predicting that after a few years the commission "fish-farming" activities will produce a surplus of sockeye.

Catch of Fraser sockeye is already more than two million and the commission expects another 120,000 will be landed before the season ends this fall.

PRICE TAGS CHANGE—One of the first concrete reactions to the devaluation of the British pound from $4.03 to $2.80 is revealed by the rumors being posted in this London restaurant. Prices drop in prices from $2.15d to $1.60 a cut of lamb. All British cars in stock in Canada will likely be given a similar price cut. Too many are similar cuts in the price of British tweeds and even whisky.—B.N.S. photo.

AT HOME BY THE FIRE

A HOME with a fireplace always seems more cheerful than one without. They are popular with many people even though they may not be the most efficient means of heating a house. Here are drawings of a good fireplace design.

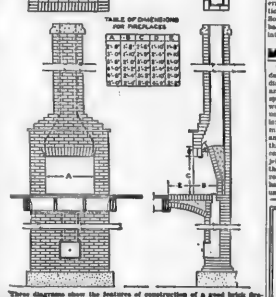
Requirements of materials depend very largely on the size of the fireplace. Therefore a bill of material would have to be worked out for each size. The first main feature necessary for a successful fireplace is to have the flue area of the chimney in the correct ratio to the area of the opening in the front of the fireplace. The cross sectional area of the flue must not be less than 1/10 of the frontal opening of the fireplace.

Secondly, the smoke shelf at the bottom of the flue in addition to accompanying plan) is absolutely essential to prevent back drafting in the chimney. Third, the arch or throat overhanging the throat in the front of the fireplace should not be less than 8 inches in depth. Fourth, the throat of the fireplace should extend across the whole width of the fireplace opening.

The table of dimensions given in the plan clearly indicates the correct proportions of the various parts of a fireplace and gives these proportions for the six important dimensions. If the width of the opening in the front of the fireplace ("A" in the diagram) is required to be four feet, for instance, it is only necessary to glance at the table to obtain the correct measurements for the other five dimensions. From the table we find that the depth in the back of the fireplace ("B" in the diagram) must then be 2 ft. 2 ins., the height of the opening in the front ("C") should be 2 ft. 8 ins., the width of the back ("D") should be 3 ft. 4 ins. and the width of the flue ("E") should be 2 ft.

It should also be mentioned that the chimney flue from a fireplace should not be used for any other heating units such as stoves and furnaces. Separate flues must be available for these.

The steel jackets used for circulating fireplaces are a big improvement over the old style fireplaces. Much more heat is supplied to a room with this new type of jacketed fireplace, but it is necessary to obtain cool air from the outside to prevent too much heat from being taken from the room.



Three diagrams show the features of construction of a good brick fireplace. Dimensions are given in the table. Note the importance of the smoke shelf and correct proportioning which should be built into the basement. The table of dimensions must be followed to insure a fireplace that will function satisfactorily.

Canadian Potato Crop Lighter

OTTAWA.—Homeowner had better set aside more money for food—potatoes are going up.

The first estimate of the Canadian Horticultural Council said recently that production may be 10,000,000 bushels lighter than last year's crop of 42,000,000 bushels. The crop is clean and should go into storage in excellent condition.

Because of short supply and good condition of this year's potatoes, the Council said prices for two-bag will rise "considerably" as the season advances.

Examination in the Maritime Provinces showed the acreage to be harvested is less than last year. Prince Edward Island has a slightly larger crop, but it is offset by a drop in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia's crop is unchanged.

Quebec potatoes are 8,000,000 bushels fewer than last year, and Ontario production is down an estimated 4,000,000 bushels.

The crop on the prairies, particularly in Alberta, is better than normal. British Columbia is unchanged.

Last year Canada produced about 92,000,000 bushels of potatoes. There was considerable difficulty in disposing of the surplus over and above domestic demand—85,000,000 bushels.

Some of the surplus was shipped to the United States before that country stopped imports on the grounds that U.S. producers were having difficulty disposing of their crops.

Consequently, the Canadian Government introduced price-support legislation to help the east-coast producer. Some of the unshipped surplus came back into seed. Another part went into feeding cattle.

Making Jelly

The jelly making season is a very dangerous one, as most men have discovered. To arrive home at noon and find the head of the house perspiring over a mess of jelly that won't jell is a very embarrassing situation. Invariably the dear old dad will say: "This stuff won't jell, although I made it just like Mrs. Brown's did, and hers always jells. What do you think I should do about it?" A second glance at the contents of the jelly bowl will reveal that our first thoughts were correct and we boldly remark that it be thrown out. This has the same effect as lighting a fire under a mule.—Robin, Man., Review.

West May Become Canada's Cotton Bowl As Tests Continue

MEDICINE HAT, Alta.—This southeastern Alberta city—western end of the prairie drouth region — will be the heart of Canada's only cotton bowl if a retired blacksmith's dream comes true. The start of a long-term experiment in hardy cotton growing was made in the district this year cities Aldermen Simon F. Scott returned from a trip to Texas with 100 pounds of seed.

The seed was planted in about 100 district plots—on farm lands, in A.M. Scott's garden, in city greenhouses and in an irrigated field and under glass at the city power station.

Although an early September frost killed most of the unprotected plants before the cotton was come out, enough seed was rescued from several plants to ensure continuation of the experiment in 1950.

"We aren't crabbing it quite with this year's results," says the former blacksmith. "We'll keep growing cotton until we develop a hardy seed adapted to this climate."

He believes that the area within a 50-mile radius of Medicine Hat is the only district in Canada suited to cotton growing, which requires a 160-day season of hot weather with warm nights. The area's growing season is 10 to 15 days longer than most.

The cotton plants did remarkably well in their first year in what was admittedly a poor growing season by Medicine Hat standards. The new crop, planted in May because of a late spring, survived drouth, a mid-June frost, pillaging caterpillars and dust storms before running into the early frost. Bertram Frost is uncommon in Medicine Hat.

One district farmer reported that his small cotton plot, although it received only one good rain all season, "was just beautiful."

The cotton stalks, similar in appearance to the familiar plants, showed some peculiarities during growth. Although they grew to five-foot height expected, the plants appeared to have a "woody" stigma of rapid growth and others of no apparent value.

Devaluation To Start U.S. Buying

VANCOUVER, B.C.— British Columbians are preparing for a post summer tourist boom from the Pacific Northwest, following the Canadian dollar devaluation.

Last year Canada produced about 92,000,000 bushels of potatoes. There was considerable difficulty in disposing of the surplus over and above domestic demand—85,000,000 bushels.

Some of the surplus was shipped to the United States before that country stopped imports on the grounds that U.S. producers were having difficulty disposing of their crops.

Consequently, the Canadian Government introduced price-support legislation to help the east-coast producer. Some of the unshipped surplus came back into seed. Another part went into feeding cattle.

In the Pacific Northwest, desires in British-made automobiles announced $300 price cuts on most models and English shoe prices fell 15 per cent.

Slump in Demand For Harnesses

OSHAWA.—The dwindling use of horses has caused reduction of a 44-hour week to 27 hours at a harness and hardware plant here. Seasonal C. Tree, president of the plant (Whyte Manufacturing Company, Ltd.) said a drastic slump in demand for harnesses and other products was the reason for the reduction.

Hallowe'en Night

By JANE DALE

The children were sleeping, as tired children should.
They had played all the pranks and the tricks that they could;
They had called out for apples; dug soup at the door.
They had danced and they had played the whole evening long.
Now as they were sleeping, they were dreaming of fun.
Boys' vigil and watched that Hallowe'en night.
The witches were busy, the broom-sticks and cloaks
Do proved down to earth to see what was the matter.
A witch and a no witch — Jack-o-lantern and all
Patrols an old wall were having a spat.
The summer had hit hands and quite freely did say:
"Listen, let us not quarrel, we have had such a day.
Let us have a party like the earth people do.
I'll send my best moonbeams to shine the night through."
The owl rolled its eyes; the cat arched his back;
The witch with her broom gave the lantern a smack.
"Let's all have our friends," he's do it up right.
We will have a party, this Hallowe'en night."
The scarecrow, the watch-dog, the hoots and the hut,
The field mice, the weasel, the skunk and the rat;
All the creatures that travelled where the night is bad
Were asked to the party as the bright moon had said.
The lantern's glimmer widely from his perch on the wall,
As the witch gave a dance and the cat gave a squall.
The owl also played the chorus as the music played,
And the bats did some stunts by the light of the moon.
The games that they played kept them laughing with glee.
Bobby wore, "I Spy" and "Hide and Seek" around the Big Tree.
All the while from on high the moon watched the night,
The funniest party on a Hallowe'en night.
They ate small cakes, and candy and even a bone.
The witch found an apple and a cake sweet and thin.
The cat was quite hungry and very with the mice so he ate
A few nibbles of meat that they found on a plate.
There were seeds for the rat, a treat for the bat,
While the scarecrow pretended to eat this and that.
Jack-o-lantern just smiled, a jolly fellow was he,
And was quite content to watch the party.
The watch-dog gnawed bones and didn't once bark;
He thought the whole thing was the very best lark.
And so on until morning the party held sway
'Til the moon gave them warning to hasten away.
The witch and the owl, the Jack-o-lantern and cat
Said goodbye to their friends from the dog to the bat.
Then with a smile the moon hurried from sight;
It had been a grand party, that Hallowe'en night!

Window Cleaning From Ladders

With the advent of cold weather, window cleaning in preparation for the fitting of storm windows is a task to be looked forward. Here are some timely tips for the job.

Wash windows only from ladders you know are SAFE. Never depend on a makeshift.

Tie the base if necessary or have it held.

Use only ladders with the right safety bases.

Never lean a ladder against the eaves. Use a rear extension ladder raised across the top of the ladder.

Use a hand line and hook to hold your pail.

Do not over-reach.

Barricade sidewalks or other passageways to protect your ladder.

A dustless mop every part of an orange can be put to use. The seed, for instance, furnishing consolation for non-shooters!

Smallpox Protection Still A Necessity

A major item in any child health conservation plan should be immunization against smallpox, the protection against preventable diseases such as diphtheria and whooping cough—and against smallpox, too.

It may be true that smallpox is not about extinct on this side of the world, but as there is no natural immunity from the disease, we cannot rest down our guard for a moment. Anyone who has not been vaccinated has contract the disease—vaccination is the only protection.

This sure d'eal scourge can again become a menace if vaccination is neglected. Medical men are in accord in supporting programs of vaccination and re-vaccination. It is suggested that it would be wise to re-vaccinate every five or seven years.

It might be well to remember that diphtheria tended can do to diphtheria just what vaccination has done to smallpox—wipe out and eliminate it from the realm of public health menace. Similarly, whooping cough vaccine can substantially cut down the whooping cough incidence.

Fascinating To Do

Helpful Hints

Never pour on water when fat in pan gets on fire. Water makes the fat spatter and may spread the blaze. Smother it with wet towels.

* * * *

Rolling an orange or lemon makes the fruit more juicy because the pressure breaks down the connective tissues.

* * * *

If you want the tiles in your bathroom and kitchen to be especially clear and shining, wash them down with a light paste made up of plaster of Paris, allowing it to dry and then wiping off what adheres to the smooth surface. This treatment will eliminate all dirty spots and lines.

* * * *

Choose a shady hour for washing windows. Do not try to clean window glass when the sun is shining brightly, as the difficulty of keeping the glare shows up the work need be hard on the eyes. The sunshine may also cause streaky windows, due to uneven evaporation. Two pieces of chamois make the best window cleaning cloths. Use one for washing and one for wiping. Damp chamois quickly absorbs moisture, leaving the surface of the glass unstreaked.

Smile of the Week...

Little Boy (to bride at wedding reception): "You don't look nearly as tired as I thought you would."

Bride: "Don't I? Why did you think I should look tired?"

"Well, I heard someone say you had been running after Mr. Stock for months and months."

Drought-Area Farm Families Get New Land

OTTAWA.—More than 2,000 farm families from prairie province drought areas are expected to move into Medicine Hat area of southeastern Alberta as a result of the impending irrigation project by the Dominion in that district according to dispatch received by the Vancouver Daily Province from its Ottawa bureau.

Work will be started as soon as possible on the development and settlers from crop-failure zones will likely begin to go to their new watered land next year, with most making the switch in 1951.

PFRA authorities already have several thousand applications on hand. There are 2,600 from Alberta alone.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A GREAT SUCCESS

Something That Seemed By Dale's List

By ANNA E. WILSON

WE WANT something to put in the newspaper, Mr. Swinburne, that sort of sums up her life. You know her better than most. The reporter dropped a pencil and pad on the table. "I'm going over to get a write-up on the fashion show at Mabie's. Perhaps you'll have something for me when I get back."

Remembering that comment on Ellie's life, Mr. Swinburne took out his handkerchief and mopped his face. Ellie was not a distinct person separated from her family, in years, not other ways. She had been married, and Ellie'd married young. Hadn't been much of a life before that, either. Must have been sight in Ellie's family. When he first saw her, she wasn't even pretty. Rose says that Ellie'd write better when she was a good figure to she'd had any sort of clothes to show it off. Not having much of a life at home, it wasn't surprising that Ellie married young. Ed was one of the lively crowd at the plant where she worked. She made the best of what she had. He was good to her in his way, but life on his pay left no room for clothes and did her any good—what with the nature and coal and food.

He remembered when Ellie'd lost her first baby, how quiet she'd seemed. Frightened, not as Rose was, but she'd begun to realize that life might be too much for her in the end. Even with the new car paid. Ed had bought her a new dress, something he'd never do. Mabie's window, a cut-rate color of Ellie's eyes. Made you feel good to see how pleased Ellie was, how her face shone when she touched the pretty silk, how even, though she had no place to go to wear it. Ellie didn't go out much though Ed liked his cheerful at the restaurant with his friends in the evenings as a change for the man. Ellie'd harm in Ed Huber and a good worker, but he'd Ellie a bit alone.

Perhaps it was a good thing she'd had her family young. Five boys, and as a sort of afterthought, a baby that didn't grow up. Seemed as if Ellie couldn't contain her happiness when little Ellen was born. Here was somebody to dress up in the pretty clothes she'd been starved for.

Five boys take a lot of bringing up. Doesn't give a woman much time to look after herself. Hadn't been much to look at all these years with her hair pulled back in a wad and her minds dressed in faded house dress and the best. Folks said she wasn't much of a housekeeper either, no aptitude for it, and maybe they were right, but somehow Ellie kept on. It was just the house wasn't bare clean but many as she didn't mind the clutter kicked up by the boys. She taught them to tell the truth, speak clean and live straight because God was all the knew

Sundays when the dishes were done, Ellie used to pour over the fashions in the paper. Looked at the fancy figures of her models and talked about going on a diet though she never did. Once Rose persuaded to join the Ladies' Aid but Ed was not much; laid up with a sore knee. He could see how much she wanted to be with things always in a hurry and no time to cook and clean for a meeting at her house, she'd give up the notion and Ellie was a bit a hostess.

Didn't seem any time till the boys were grown up and it did look as if Ellie was in for an easy time of it, but the baby took pneumonia and died over Christmas and Ellie'd been different after that. Just mind-blank, not caring much. Would have been better if she'd had a grandchild or even a girl to help out, but, with the funeral expenses and a lay-off at the trucking company, she couldn't afford it. Didn't like it any way easier when Ed met with an accident and the judge wasn't content to let him off with a fine. Sent him to the other boarder.

Married young, the lad did, and left home, but even then though didn't get any easier on Ellie. Bill was getting on and when a new rube came in about ages, he was laid off to help Ellie with the laundry until he got on an school janitor. Looking back knew, it seemed as if Ellie'd lived all her life in that faded housedress and never had a new one to greet in the end. Got to thinking she might have done better than she did. "Tired", the doctor said, "and a bad heart". Worn out from work and strain.

She was young to die—not much over 50. Boys took it hard, though Mr. Swinburne thought of Ellie's pain. Five of them. Big strapping lads. Trick drivers, mechanics, farmers and railroad men. Mostly married. Knowing that the right things in life were food and health — work and raising a family. Ellie'd given what they had, living close to life, close to Ellie.

The hard cure of pain that had kept Ed Swinburne sitting in the chair, helpless, ever since Ellie died, broke. He took up the pencil and wrote of his wife, Ellen.

Her life was a great success.

WEDDING

SEDGEWICK — Bethesda Lutheran Church here was bright with bowls potted plants, streamers and bells, when Mildred Evelyn Knutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Knutson, of Sedgewick, became the bride of Mr. Elmer Werner Jacobs, son of Mr. and Mrs Martin Jacobs, Killam. Rev. I. Saugen performed the ceremony. The bride wore a long white satin gown styled with a flared skirt, fitted bodice, round neckline and short sleeves. Her finger tip veil was held by a tiara embroidered and caught in her head with a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She carried a bouquet of carnations and roses. The bride's jewelry was a triple strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. She carried an 8x10 bouquet of American Beauty roses. Miss Vivian Aitcheson was bridesmaid and the flower girl was little Joan Olsen The former chose a long gown of sky blue silk and a matching colonial cuff cornet in her head with a strand of pale blue flowers. She carried a bouquet of carnations and roses. The flower girl wore a pale yellow flower-length gown edged with lace. She had a matching cornet and carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers. Mr. Jack Stadler was best man and the ushers were Mr. Elder Danielson and Mr Arnold Verbeek. Mrs. O. E. Olson played the wedding music and Mr. Emil Jacobsen sang "Because" while the register was being signed.

Later at a reception at the home of the bride, Mrs. Knutson wore a navy afternoon dress with matching accessories Her corsage was of pink roses. Mrs. Jacobs received wearing a grey afternoon dress with matching accessories Her corsage was of yellow roses. A three-tiered wedding cake decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom centred the bride's table for the occasion White candles were placed at either side of the cake and bells and pink and white streamers decorated the room

ANNUAL MEETING RETURNS A. H. BOWLER AS PRESIDENT

A meeting of the Sedgewick Beekeepers was held in the Wheat Pool office on Nov. 5th After some discussion it was decided to keep the Assn. alive awhile longer. Mr. A.H. Bowler was returned as President and C. Hamilton as Sec.-Treas for the coming year

Those who may be interested in obtaining bees for spring delivery should watch their local new paper for a notice re ordering

After the regular business was taken care of, Mr. A.J Terry, an enthusiastic beekeeper from Hardisty gave an interesting account of his experiences as a beekeeper. He informed the meeting that bees were an interesting and profitable hobby

BABY BAND FORMED AT SEDGEWICK

SEDGEWICK — An interesting meeting was held in the United Church Hall last Wednesday afternoon Nov 9th when a group of mothers and their young children met under the supervision of Mrs Keatly for the purpose of the organization of a Baby Band Miss Hazel Hupf of Killam, who has long been associated with this work, was guest speaker, and she enlisted the help of Mrs. Gibb, also of Killam, to present a Playette entitled, "The Christian Home and Its Children" which was much appreciated and enjoyed by all present

Thirteen babies were enrolled, and each received a membership card suitable for framing, while the mothers received a Mother's Prayer. Mrs. W. H. Stephens presided over the lunch which was served by the new her sixth Sunday School class at the close of the meeting, and a friendly half-hour was enjoyed.

The Peace Prize

THE ANNOUNCEMENT THAT THE Nobel Peace Prize for 1948 had been awarded to Lord Boyd Orr was received with interest in this country. An outstanding agriculturalist and the director-general of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations from 1946 to 1948, Lord Boyd Orr is known to many people here. He has long advocated a world food board to combat hunger, and for a plan by which the distribution of food would be based on the needs of the people rather than upon economic considerations. It is believed that it was for this leadership in social thought he was awarded the Peace Prize, although the Nobel committee does not give the reasons for which the winners are selected.

* * * * *

Established By Alfred Nobel

The prize is given from a fund established in Norway in 1896 by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. Parliaments and governments of all countries may present candidates, as may the members of the Norwegian Nobel committee, and professors of philosophy, economics and current history at universities. Previous winners of the prize, and the Bureau of Interparliamentary Union may also present persons for the honor. No prize was awarded in 1946, and in 1947 it was won by the American Friends Service Committee and the Friends Service Council of London. It was announced this year as $21,880 in American money, and Lord Boyd Orr has announced that he will use it for the promotion of world peace.

Proposes To Carry On Work

Lord Boyd Orr, who was born in Angus County, Scotland, in 1880 and graduated from Glasgow University in medicine, science and arts, is a practical farmer as well as an outstanding nutritionist and agricultural scientist. His unceasing interest in raising standards of nutrition and in improving agricultural production throughout the world have made him an outstanding figure in these fields. He proposes to continue fighting hunger, and to continue also to call for "a world food plan which would get governments, instead of quarreling about political control, to co-operate in a concrete plan to double food production." It is with satisfaction that his friends in Canada, and others who have followed his work through the years, learned that he had won the Nobel Prize for Peace in 1949.

RECIPES

CINNAMON CHERRY PIE

2½ cups pitted sour cherries, canned
¾ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2½ tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
2 tablespoons butter
9-inch pie shell

Drain syrup from cherries. Combine sugar, salt, cinnamon and tapioca. Add syrup, bring quickly to boil over direct heat, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat and add butter. Cool, stirring occasionally. The mixture thickens as it cools. Add cherries; pour into pie shell.

Serve at once.

BAKED HONEY CUSTARD

1 quart milk
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup honey
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Scald milk. Combine eggs, honey and salt; add milk slowly until well blended. Turn into small custard cups, place in pan of hot water (about 180 deg. F.); the water should come close to top of custard. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 30 to 35 minutes or until firm. A knife point should come out clean when inserted part way into centre. Sprinkle with cinnamon. Cool. Yield: 6 portions.

Scholarships A Hobby Of B.C. Student

TRAIL, B.C.—Carl Arthur Gorsuky of nearby Castlegar, B.C., has an unbeatable hobby—he collects scholarships.

He added two more recently, one from Queen's University at Kingston Ont., and the other from Montreal's McGill.

Carl has accepted the McGill award which will bring him $300 a year until he graduates.

The Queen's award was for $1,944. Previously he won a $300 University of British Columbia Royal Institute scholarship.

The former Trail-Tadanac high school student will take a medical science course, prior to entering medical school.

Finds Evidence Of Cultured Arctic Race

WASHINGTON — Fiction writers who dream up lost civilizations got a boost from the eminently scientific Smithsonian Institution.

Dr. Henry B. Collins, Jr., of the institution, reported he had found evidence of a cultured race that lived in now uninhabited Canadian islands founded in 1000, to grow. Though its population is still only 2,000, Collins identified the race as the "Thule" people.

Collins said he found samples of exquisite art work in ivory carving, remains of well constructed stone houses, a pottery lamp and a seal-skin bag for whale oil.

Early Detection Necessary

Cattle that are allowed to become thoroughly infested with lice will develop a dry starvy coat, loss of hair resulting in exposed patches of skin and a general unthrifty appearance. Such a condition brings lowered milk production, retarded growth and costly maintenance. Early detection of lice and prompt treatment with sprays, dips or powders will prevent any ill effects to infested animals.

Small Town Fire Brigade Tops Province

HIDDEN, Alta.—Led by one of the youngest fire chiefs in the country, Edson's volunteer fire department is causing quite a stir among Alberta fire fighters.

One of the reasons is that 20-year-old Chief Don Raggan and his 12 men believe that vigilance is the price of fire safety even in the small-est town.

The department has competed against fire departments, some of them full-time paid brigades, in many smaller towns and larger centres such as Lethbridge, Red Deer, Calgary and Edmonton. In Calgary they defeated all comers in the provincial hose-lay race, netting recently laying 200 feet of hose in 22 4-5 seconds.

Their proficiency isn't just a matter of working at hose-laying in preparation for such competitions. Recently they held a safety drill at Edson's hospital, evacuating waiting patients and the seventy residents. The alarm and having bed-ridden patients ready to leave by a fire chute is the same thing.

Chief Raggan says continued vigilance and weekly practices are the secrets of the department's success.

Four Rookies Of National Hockey League Born In Western Canada

Less rookies are performing in the National Hockey League on the 1948-50 season quota underway than there has been for the last few years. Thirteen fresh faces will be seen dotted among the lineups of the six N.H.L. teams this season whereas only three seasons ago, 20 players were making their debut in hockey's big test.

Boston Bruins, besides having the only first-year coach in the N.H.L., also have the most first-year players. Coach Dack Rowther has four players cutting their National League teeth. They are Gaston Jack Gelinas, centre Phil Maloney and Wingers Dave Creighton and Eddie Toppazzini.

New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks are next with three rookies apiece. The trio of New York freshmen are Gus Kyle, a defenceman, "Bing" Juckes and Bill McDonagh, forwards. The Black Hawks' trio are Winger Gerry Couture, defenceman Jim Bedard and Centre Ray Powell. Detroit and Wings have two players striving for their rookie letter. The two are Winger Wing players are Forwards Steve Black and Fred Glover. Montreal Canadiens' rookie representative is Gilles Dube, a French-Canadian left winger.

The Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs, who only a few years ago had the greatest number of rookies on their team, do not have a single rookie this season.

Of the 13 rookies, four of those were born in Western Canada, with two of them playing for the Chicago Black Hawks, namely Jim Bedard and Bert Olmstead, while Gus Kyle and "Bing" Juckes are playing for the New York Rangers.

Chicago's new defenceman is 6' 2", 195-pounder by the name of Jim Bedard. He played for Kansas City last season and had six goals and nine assists. A big, rugged stiffer, he was born at Moose Jaw, Sask., on January 6, 1928.

Left winger Bert Olmstead played nine games for the Black Hawks last year and picked up a pair of assists. The good-looking puckster was an outstanding player for Kansas City and in 52 games racked up 22 goals and 44 assists for 77 points. Born at Steptoe, Sask., on September 4, 1926, Olmstead is a ranger six feet two and weighs 175 pounds.

Gus Kyle, a 6' 1", New York 210-pound defenceman is expected to put plenty of gimp into the Rangers defense this season. Kyle was one of the best defencemen in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League last year and has been watched closely by Rangers for some time now. Born at Dysart, Sask., on September 14, 1926, Gus had five goals and 10 assists for 15 points with Regina Caps last year, although he is noted for his body checking prowess rather than his scoring ability.

"Bing" Juckes is a left winger and was the third highest scorer in the Saskatchewan Senior League last season with 40 goals and 44 assists. He played with Prince Albert and Melville Millers

Alaska's Flowing Streams Hold More Wealth In Hydro Power Than They Ever Held In Gold

By H. D. CRAWFORD

WASHINGTON — Vast material wealth in the form of hydro-electric power that exists in the mountain streams of Alaska is mentioned by the wealth of high land could be hooked to vacuum tubs and then spirited [illegible] that five mills can operate indefinitely, providing employment for thousands of workers and vast amounts of paper for the world's printing presses. Merchantable lumber reserves are also estimated to exceed 180 billion board feet.

Alaska's mineral potentials are enormous. Coal estimates, for example, are 110 billion tons. Not only do these suggest huge industries in the future, but also rich sources of future wealth to the United States.

Alaska is one of the world's major undeveloped areas. Some observers are already concerned lest the United Nations demand that Alaska be opened up for European or communistic Asiatics for development before that continent wakes up and do this developing job themselves.

The territory is now fully recognized to be one of the most strategic regions in any scrap war. All the world's major powers are north of the equator, and the first skirmishes between several of them are across the Arctic. Alaska needs more people to bolster defense, as well as for economic development.

"No one knows the value of Alaska's hidden mineral wealth," says the report. However, Alaska's lumber board feet of timber that could be harvested, and the 35,000,000,000 kilowatts of power that could be produced by river control systems represent far less to America of more than $1,000,000,000 every year."

Statehood would help greatly, industrialists and others believe. "Alaska has suffered for many years under what is virtually a colonial system that has encouraged absentee exploitation of its natural resources without leaving enough social and economic benefit for the territory," according to J. A. Krug, U.S. secretary of the interior.

Alaska needs a tremendously increased population to develop its resources, but we cannot get several million people to go to Alaska if we are to deprive them of their rights to America of more than $1,000,000,000 every year."

Alaska can then stand in the way of Alaska's development could probably be removed by constructive legislation and sound industrial principles.

BEAUTY WINS—When Mrs. Irene Mamonko appeared in court on a charge of letting her dog run after a motorcycle policeman, police were scared at her beauty, but she was fined $2 and costs anyway. It had to be after the accused was so pretty or I would not have laid the charge," said P.C. George McKie after Mrs. Mamonko admitted her dog, Shorsha, a thoroughbred German police dog, ran after the officer. However, Mrs. Mamonko forgave the gallant officer for laying the charge after he drove home in his own car. B.N.S. photo.

REAL TIME SAVER—If you have a real time saver, you know that it is wise to wash your curtains when they are soiled, but not until house cleaning time to do it, since you will be busy with "a million and one" things at that time. This curtains are so easy to wash that it takes no time at all to do the job. Seven minutes from sink or tub will find them hanging on the line, or rolled in a Turkish towel, if you prefer that method. Always use warm water with ample soap and squeeze the suds from the fabric with your hands, instead of twisting it. One soaping and two rinsings is usually enough, although you may soak them a few minutes in the first rinse if you wish. It's a real time saver to wash each pair of curtains when you notice they are soiled, rather than wait until all the curtains in the house are dirty . . . for washing that many can be a tedious, unpleasant and tiring task.

Predicts Reductions in Prairie Oil Prices

DENVER, Colorado —As crude oil from Alberta moves out to more distant markets in the course of the next two years, reductions in prairie oil prices may be expected, W. Frank Prendergast of Toronto and here, declared.

Mr. Prendergast, assistant to the president of Imperial Oil, limited, addressing the mid-continent council of industrial development agencies, added:

"Price reductions made last year on the prairie consumers' monthly bill for gasoline, tractor distillate, and other fuels by some $9,000,000."

THE FOWL SUPPER HAS BECOME A TRADITION OF THE PRAIRIES

Somehow or other the fowl supper seems to have become a tradition and an institution exclusive to the Canadian prairies. But perhaps that is only natural. Only on the prairies do we have the right setting for such events.

The fowl suppers are usually held in the months of October and November. The harvest is over. The crop, good or bad has been taken off and amongst farm families there is a sense of release as they go more leisurely about the task of preparing for winter. This is the time to have gatherings such as fowl suppers, to relax and swap stories and experiences of the summer.

It does not really matter where the fowl supper is held. It can be in a church basement, in the community hall or in the curling rink. The idea is the same. The women of the community get together to make the thing a real success. They bake pies, and plork chickens, and prepare salads, and make chicken and a hundred and one things. And they love doing it!

Of course you don't want to expect to find the best in silverware at a fowl supper and "crockery" would more aptly apply than "chinaware" for most of the eating utensils. And again, all the rules and regulations drawn up by Emily Post won't receive more than passing observance- if indeed they receive that. The manners will get you nowhere at a fowl supper — but then who cares about fine manners at a time like this?

All a fowl supper it's the food that counts and what food! It has both quantity and quality to beat any restaurant you care to name. The lady caterers seem to remember it an honour to their culinary arts if every one doesn't go away feeling just a little uncomfortably full. Their chief worry seems to be that they may have to take some of those juicy pies back home again.

But it's not only the food that matters. Harvest time is the time of the friendly human spirit existing around those long improvised tables. You might go to a fowl supper as a complete stranger — but you won't remain that way long.

The fowl supper has become a great western institution. It expresses very aptly the homey, down-to-earth atmosphere of the average prairie community. It's a pretty fair example, too, of democracy and western hospitality in action.—Melville Advance.

"It's a bargain," he agreed.

Andy Clarke's Work On Radio In Book Form

The late Andy Clarke's "Neighbourly News" broadcasts over a period of eight years on the CBC network piled up into a million account words of sheer delight to a very wide audience. These million words have been raked and sifted down to 60,000 some odd words. Andy Clarke and his Neighbour's News" — minus the [illegible] published by Ryerson Press in time to be a Christmas gift to readers all the Dominion of Kanada that ever [illegible] Andy's more every Sunday morning for so many years.

When Andy Clarke died, his widow, Vi Lucknan-Clarke, herself a newspaper woman all her life, determined that Andy's work in recounting the humour and good-will of Canadian rural life, should be preserved in a book. With the help of her friend Mrs. May Holland Cox, no expert, herself, Mrs. Clarke spent a whole year extracting from those millions words of Andy's fired manuscripts the very cream of the stories her husband had given from the weekly newspapers of Ontario and Quebec. Last winter, she enlisted four members of Andy's friends in the newspaper and radio business a committee consisting of Gilla Purcell, general manager of Canadian Press, Dan McArthur of CBC, Frank Macilntyre of the Dundalk Herald and Greg Clark of the Montreal Standard; and after a meeting with Dr. Lorne Pierce of Ryerson Press, the task of assembling these into book form was begun. Thereon Macdonald was the artist chosen to illustrate the book with drawings for each chapter head.

The result is a book so essentially Andy Clarke's that you can almost hear the tone of his voice as you read the pages. All the greatest stories Andy told are included in the book. The form into which it has been assembled is by months. Each chapter a month of the year, from January to December, in which are grouped the choicest items that Andy broadcast in that month during the years of his "Neighbourly News" on the air. Greg Clark has written an introduction in the form of a biography, the interesting story of Andy Clarke's happy and friendly making life.

One of the features of the book is the index which enables the old Andy Clarke fan to look up the tale of the piano playing dog or the hen that treed the hunter without a moment's delay. It is a unique book, uniquely constructed and certain to be an earth atmosphere of the average prairie community. It's a pretty fair example, too, of democracy and western hospitality in action.—Melville Advance.

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

Saki, the English short-story writer, lived at his club a great deal because his home was plagued by recurrent "servant trouble". One day he jubilantly told his friends that those troubles were over: "Has wife had installed on to a perfect gem of a domestic". A week later, Saki was back at the club, explaining sadly: "The gem was a good cook so cooks go, and as good cooks go she went."

A reporter covered the opening of a nobby night club recently—one of the "crazy house" variety. In his report he noted that one patron had discovered a pearl in his oyster—enabling him to almost break even.

He also stated that the chanteuse of the evening was so near-sighted they should have changed her theme song to "I've Lost My Glasses. I Wonder Who's Kissing Me Now."

Intertype Machine Arriving At Melton Airport

This 415 Intertype composing machine represents the largest piece of machine equipment ever to be handled at La Guardia field in New York, and was recently on display at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. The exclusive distributors in Canada for Intertype equipment, the Toronto Type Foundry Company Ltd., won the honor of being the best booth in the General Exhibits building at the exhibition. This machine is now operating in the composing room of The Toronto Star.

Gold Nugget Found In Arctic Starts Biggest Rush Since '98

FAIRBANKS Alaska. The greatest gold rush since the days of '98 has gained momentum with prospectors racing by plane into the gold-stake area.

Gold nuggets the size of peas were discovered in the Yukon River a here nine miles south of the Arctic Circle. The claim was kept secret until recently when the news leaked out.

Within 24 hours a ten-city corn reported and after a meeting with Dr. Lorne Pierce of RYerson Press, the task of assembling these into book form was begun. Thereon Macdonald was the artist chosen to illustrate the book with drawings for each chapter head.

The result is a book so essentially Andy Clarke's that you can almost hear the tone of his voice as you read the pages. All the greatest stories Andy told are included in the book. The form into which it has been assembled is by months. Each chapter a month of the year, from January to December, in which are grouped the choicest items that Andy broadcast in that month during the years of his "Neighbourly News" on the air. ## Expenses Of Farmers Rise

OTTAWA. — Almost all the things farmers have to buy or pay for were higher during recent months, according [illegible] index is now [illegible].

The bureau of statistics reported that the composite price index of [illegible] and [illegible] during the [illegible] rose 0.6 to 202.4 in August, slightly above the previous peak of 202.7 recorded a year earlier.

The current and the increase since April is largely seasonal and was due to higher farm wage rates and increased farm living costs. Trends opposed little variance between eastern and western Canada.

Reflecting increases for food, clothing, household equipment and miscellaneous items right across Canada, the index of farm family living costs rose from 173.8 for April to 174.5 in August. The latest index figure was five points above what it was in August a year earlier. Fuel costs moved lower during the four months while costs of health maintenance remained unchanged.

Showing the usual seasonal trend, the index on farm wage rates rose from 279.6 to 300.1 between April and August. It remained below August, 1942, when it was at 306.4

Indexes for farm equipment and materials declined slightly from 180.6 to 180.2 compared with 176.7 a year before.

A breakdown shows prices higher in August for farm machinery, gasoline, oil and binder twine, prices unchanged for building materials, seed and harness, while they remained unchanged for fertilizer and binder twine.

Bride's Sister Now Her Mother

CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa. — The character in the song "I'm My Own Grampa" has nothing on Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Gardschi.

The bride married her sister's stepson and here's what happened.

The bride's sister became her step-mother-in-law. The bride's brother-in-law, who is the bridegroom's father, became her father-in-law. Her sister's two children, the brides nephews, became her brothers-in-law

As for the bridegroom, his step-mother also now is his sister-in-law, his father is his brother-in-law and his two half-brothers are also nephews.

The lowest summer water-flow on record — the greatest demand for power this Province has ever known — may combine to prevent Reddy Kilowatt doing all the jobs you want him to do.

Although we have tied in all available steam plants to our own resources it may still be necessary to curtail electricity for certain jobs during short periods.

This will only be temporary. Power consumption decreases after the turn of the year; and by next Fall the first of the Spray Lakes Units will be in operation.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Nancy, Don't You Fret

By ELLIS K. BALDWIN

I HAD just put little Caroline to bed, hoping she'd sleep through baby's morning when shuffling down the sidewalk came Gus Olsen. I saw him before my young daughter noticed him. Gus was the first half of a pair of medicine men destined before the great transformation. His face resembled a cathedral gargoyle. His stomach ailment was known all over town, still he swore he would never go to a doctor. "Not one of them would be able to help me," he boasted.

When Gus retired from the railroad he took up his post on his porch, hailing every passerby to discuss his symptoms.

Frankly, I realized if Charlie should prescribe something that didn't cure, Gus with his porch patterns would spoil the doctor's chance for building a practice. "Charlie" I said breathlessly, "I'll tell him you have an emergency. Go out and latch up Dinah." I'd stopped counting the times Charlie harnessed the horse to fall out of the yard like he was headed for a fire. "It's exciting for the neighborhood kids," Charlie would chuckle. It didn't mean a thing. The doctor was just getting on an act. Half an hour later you'd hear the crunch of the wheels on the driveway. Charlie always fed that thought Dinah would pull right through the barnyard and leave the doctor and the buggy behind.

Charlie was saying, "I'm fed up with whirlwind buggy rides. Besides the neighbors are starting to wonder where I go."

The doctor thinks sometimes I'm too emotional. He doesn't know that I know just before Caroline was born I burst out sobbing, "How will we manage to feed the baby, and when it's been such tough sledding for two?"

"Nancy, don't you fret," he told me in a voice to wreathing all my worries dissolved.

But even after that when Charlie started out on those trumped-up rides I'd stand at the window with Caroline in my arms. I'd pray fervently, "Let something happen above the way that will respect the services of a brilliant young doctor."

Gus was walking slowly, hunched over, hand on his stomach. I found myself thinking to Charlie's hand like a drowning woman.

Let go of me, darling," the doctor said almost absently. "I must greet our new patient."

I whispered desperately, "Darling, you just can't face this old gossip."

Suddenly the doctor was calling out, "Good evening, Mr. Olsen. Won't you come in?"

It took Gus a long time to tell his story. I heard the doctor clear his throat a number of times while he let Gus recite his history. Then Charlie began using those long technical terms he'd been trained on. Gus thought he had office hours and no one came. All of a sudden I heard Gus about angrily, "Listen here, Doc, you can't tell me that." Goose pimples popped out on my arms. Charlie couldn't afford to get Gus down on him.

When Charlie's voice came next it seemingly unperturbed by Gus's shouting. From where I sat I couldn't make out what he was saying. It seemed hours before the office door swung open.

"You're kind of young," Gus was telling the doctor. "Nothing seems to have helped me. Figured you couldn't put me through any more agony but want you've just and has got me flabbergasted."

Gus moved off into the night. The doctor didn't say anything. I stood it as long as I could. "Charlie, what did you give him?"

"It's a tough case," the doctor grunted, employing the drop from notice he was learning to use. "Dear." "Absolutely nothing. If you must know, I told him he was a hypochondriac. Told him there was absolutely nothing wrong with him but if he didn't stop gulping himself with all those patent medicines he shortly would turn into a medicine chest."

"Then that's what made him angry."

"Nancy will but she was one of those skinny creatures. Sometimes I "Most be," the doctor said quietly.

"But Charlie," I wanted to say and didn't, "Did you have to be so brutally frank?"

Years slung my cycoids as I stepped upstairs to look in at Caroline. Through the window I heard a neighbor on a nearby porch sing out, "There goes Gus Olsen walking fast- er than I've ever walked before, must be mad about something."

Before I could myself to sleep I wondered why Charlie hadn't at least tried to make friends with Gus. Even if he was a hypochondriac he didn't have to be so gruff. Drowsing off, I thought I could hear Gus lecturing to his friends, "There's one doctor to steer clear of, boys."

But all that was years ago. Now the impatient bathing of a motor didn't carry me telegraphing back down the years. Out at the curb Charlie Carpenter's grown woman now ready to drive her father down to office in the Medical Building. The office would be jammed because Gus Olsen, rocking standily on his porch during the years, regarded proudly again and again to his passing friends, "I'm a hypochondriac, yes sir, a hypochondriac."

Invariably he'd add, "If you get any bad symptoms and you want to know quickly what they are, there's a young doctor down the street . . .

Stock Prices Drop At Show

REGINA —Prices skidded from $25 to $50 from tops of last year when animals of the three beef breeds went through the auction ring at the third annual purebred female sale of the Saskatchewan Cattle Breeders' association

Shorthorns brought a high this year of $400 compared with $650 last year Herefords $450 against $500 last year and Angus $290 compared with $315 in 1948.

Breeders gave several reasons for the lowered prices, scarcity of feed in the province and the fact that a good many of the animals just didn't have enough class.

Drive To Encourage Animal Immunization

REGINA — A province-wide drive to encourage wider immunization of animals will be started by the department of agriculture, Agriculture Minister J. C. Nollet announced.

The minister called for greater emphasis on disease prevention in order to reduce the losses of livestock and poultry reported annually in Saskatchewan.

He warned that only 30,000 of 378,000 calves born in 1948 have been immunized against blackleg. Many outbreaks of winter blackleg occurred in the province last year.

SCHOOL DIVISION OFFERS BURSARIES

(By J. W. Chalmers)

SEDGEWICK At a recent meeting of the Board of Killam School Division, Inspector J. W. Chalmers reported that five applicants for teacher training bursaries had qualified for the awards on the Grade 12 examinations and are now registered in the Faculty of Education. These students are Melba Gomersall, Betty Lotz and Irene Dyke, all of Daysland; Wilfred Willing of Forestburg and Robert Church of Sedgewick Each of these potential teachers receives $300 from the school division, and has his fees at the University paid by the Department of Education. Upon completion of their one-year course of training they will join the staff of Killam Division, for whom they are obliged to teach for two years.

A delegation from the board of Forestburg Consolidated S. D. waited on the divisional board to negotiate an agreement for the education of divisional pupils in Mount Ehse, Nor mal and Woodrow districts. After some discussion, the divisional trustees offered Forestburg $1600 a year to cover both tuition and transportation of the children concerned. The Forestburg representatives undertook to lay the proposition before their own local board.

Divisional trustees authorized 9 30 opening of schools for the winter months, late opening to become effective November 14th. Christmas holidays were also discussed, with the result that the board approved the closing of school on December 23 and re-opening on January 4th.

FRESH HAL STUFF

— By A. W. B. —

A resolution submitted by two of our local School Trustees, which is reproduced in this issue, brings once again to my mind the entire question of education in Alberta.

I have watched the changes over the years, which has brought us from the small country school house with its small town high school, to the present system of consolidation. In the old days, local boards ran the affairs of the rural school on a very modest budget raised chiefly through taxation and supplemented by a too meagre government grant. The town school was in the same category We were fairly happy under this old system, but at the same time realized that it did not offer enough in the way of broad education.

Today we have the modern streamlined, mechanized system of compulsory schools with their atmosphere unhurried of ten or fifteen years ago. Here we have Divisions maintained by boards of rural trustees and supplemented by a too meagre government grant. We are fairly happy under this system, but as before, we realize its drawbacks.

Here we have Divisional Boards, (members of which are appointed in relation to area and effort expended), operating on better than quarter million dollar budgets, and raise all this raised through local taxation, the burden of which is resting heavily upon the rural areas. This is also steadily upward, I for one can see the day approaching when these high taxations will reach the unendurable. What then? We must pay them or lose our property.

There is only one answer to this new vital question.

Our Provincial Government must be made to realize, that the people, who have recently gone from rags to riches since 1935, are not so flush as to be able continue carrying the staggering taxation burden. It must be made to "see the light" and assume a greater financial responsibility for the upkeep of our educational system which if forcefully "shoved down the throats" of the people of Alberta. This is essential for different from business and subsidies, must be maintained, and in order to do so, the government must assume a greater share of the cost

The Government is the people. We elect the people. It is up to us to see that the policy is carried out. Just in case it isn't there is always the ballot. Governments are purely business concerns, and if the people by expressing another of my pet peeves. It is that education today is lacking in what were considered basic requirements in my day. By that I mean that children today are taught to recognize words at a glance when they see it, but a good percentage can't spell the words. This at course is an enigma to teachers but still remains that many a young high school graduate today knows practically from nothing about the basic principles of word spelling. In all fairness I must admit that the young student; today can converse intelligently and fictional topics in a way unheard of when I was a youth but in my opinion the old fundamental rules of the three R's has been replaced by a system of social intercourse, play and freedom of movement which bids fair to lower the educational standard in Alberta.

SHOWERS HELD AT KILLAM

A shower was held in the Co-op hall on Tuesday Nov. 15th, in honor of Bernice Bouchard, bride elect. Thereware 37 friends present. The program consisted of a contest and a duet sung by Mrs. W. Bennett and Doris Bond, accompanied by Mrs. G Vandervoort. Mrs. Sinith master of ceremonies and Doreen Nichol and Joan Bouchard assisted Bernice in opening the gifts. The bride-to-be thanked her many friends for their thoughtfulness. A delightful lunch was served.

A shower for Miss Wilhelmina Van Hees was held on Thursday evening in the Presbyterian Church basement. Some 35 friends attended. The entertainment took the form of games and musical selections by Mrs. Grace Noonan Mrs. H. Pye, Mrs. and Mrs. Jean Roberts. Miss Van Hees expects to leave Killam on Monday for Halifax, where she will be married to Mr. Donald John Bain, son of the late Lt. Cmdr. (R N V R) and Mrs. Bain, of Invergordon, Ross Shire, Scotland, on Dec. 9th. They intend to make their home in Halifax where Mr. Bain is occupied in the telegraph department of the C P R coming more totalitarian, but in our own land. We can make them more democratic weapons we prize so dearly but seldom use. We need not suffer from totalitarianism and economism, but right now we are suffering from a bit case of communism and that ain't good.

While I am on the subject of education I may as well continue on by expressing another of my pet peeves. It is that education today is lacking in what were considered basic requirements in my day. By that I mean that children today are taught to recognize words at a glance when they see it, but a good percentage can't spell the words. This at course is an enigma to teachers but still remains that many a young high school graduate today knows practically from nothing about the basic principles of word spelling. RESOLUTION SUBMITTED BY LOCAL SCHOOL TRUSTEES

The following resolution was presented by the official delegates, Carl and Claussen, and endorsed by the recent School Trustees' Convention:

"WHEREAS the Provincial Government failed to keep the promotion promise that the Judge Report would be implemented at the 1949 session of the Legislature, although it has received sufficient unexpected revenue since that report was issued, that it could have paid 100 P.C. of all the cost of education, in addition to increases other departmental expenditures, and;

"WHEREAS we now have plenty of the spirit of poverty, in that while the Government has money in abundance, the School Districts and Divisions are being forced into debt and interest payments in addition to regestimating for the most staggering school mistakes known in this province, and;

"WHEREAS the Government is responsible for the taxes for which it sets the standards, but has used its power to force an excessive increase in the value of farmers and property, which, if continued, when primary products are decreased in value, will force the sale of many homes through tax recovery proceedings;

"THEREFORE be it resolved, that the Provincial Government be requested to assume its responsibility in regard to education and pay an amount equal to at least 50 P.C. of the total cost in all School Districts and Divisions, including capital and administration expenses. The payments to be allocated according to need, and further, that the payments be paid promptly in full on or before the dates set for payment of requisitions by the municipalities.

That's what I used to say, and it was true.
Sometimes I'd dream of the day when I'd have time and leisure to do all the things I wanted to do, but I had to admit I wasn't doing anything about it except dreaming. I seemed to be able to put anything aside.
Now, I know those dreams will come true.
They're guaranteed.

Devoting Full Time To Farming

Dr L. Newman, former Dominion Cerealist, now retired, is devoting his full time to his farm on the Rideau river about 40 miles from Ottawa. Dr. Newman thinks that farmers should do a little more experimenting to enable them to find out things to their own benefit in their farm operations. On Dr. Newman's 100 acres 35 are in oats, 20 in hay, 12 in silage corn and the remaining fields in pasture. The agricultural scientist said the main idea of the "Rideau Hall Farm" is to find out how many registered Holsteins it can maintain in good condition by good management, at the same time keeping the fertility of the soil built up to a high level.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Mr. and Mrs. John Lenon and family of Sedgewick spent Sunday the 23th as guests of Mr. and Mrs. P A. Carmichael, the occasion being the Carmichael's 3rd wedding anniversary. An enjoyable time was had by all and we join in wishing the Carmichaels many more happy and prosperous anniversaries.

Right now might be a good time to remind you, Xmas Seals or Stickers must not be placed on face or address side of mail matter, and of course, you don't have to be reminded to mail early. If you have bundles of cards or letters, tie them in a bundle and place them in the mail box. Don't forget to mail early.

If you are planning to attend the Lougheed Elks Dance on Nov. 25th. Pencil go for tickets for the hidden Xmas tree. If you cannot go buy a ticket anyway. Where could you get more for your money?

The John Deere Show last Saturday in the Community Hall sponsored by the Dunham and Kenny agency drew a capacity crowd. Almost 250 attended the first show, and from the cars parked on the street, you would have thought it was May 24th. It all goes to show that if you build a better machine or serve a better trade, the world will beat a path to your door, and Lougheed always stands for the best, and will stand for anything less than the best. We are nice people to know in Lougheed.

Mrs. E. Sundberg (nee Madge Vanhess) and daughter of Dawson Creek renewed old acquaintances in the district over the past week end. It seemed like old times to see her, she having taught school in Lougheed for a number of years until joining up in the last war and was taken prisoner by a Canadian soldier by the name of Sundberg, and has been interned in B. C. ever since.

Mr and Mrs R W Watt of Rimbey visited with his cousins the Marlows in Lougheed and district last week, and also with Grandma Marlow in Hardisty hospital (whom we are glad to report is improving).

Allan Pelensky has been released from Killam hospital where he underwent an operation and is back with his wife's parents the J. Burbels. It was a rather tough way to spend a long awaited furlough, but all is well that ends well and we hope it proves to be for the best.

Mr and Mrs Everre Noss have returned from a motor trip, during which they visited their daughter, Mrs. Burgess in Edmonton and also friends in other districts.

Mrs. Ray Van Meer is home from Red Deer for a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Skoblets. It was a rather tough way to spend a long awaited furlough, but all is well that ends well and we hope it proves to be for the best.

Mr and Mrs Everre Noss have returned from a motor trip, during which they visited their daughter, Mrs. Burgess in Edmonton and also friends in other districts.

Mrs. Ray Van Meer is home from Red Deer for a few days visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Skoblets. It was a rather tough way to Ken Newman and wife spent a few days in the city. During their absence the Cafe was in the capable hands of Mrs. Tweedy. Ken came back with a frig in the truck. What a time he must have had. In my boyhood days I never needed more than an ice pack.

The O. A. Holboms of Oakland, the H Bertens and Dr. Zipperer were Sunday guests at the Hans Pedersen.

The visit of the Red Deer Normerus College Choir of 20 voices will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to attend. There was no exaggeration in the statement that it would be worth going miles to hear. Not being versed in music, I will not attempt to enumerate or name the various selections except to say the choral numbers, quartets, solos rendered all beautiful, and Prof Taylor is to be commended on the work he must have put into it to bring them to such a state of perfection. From the general comments heard after, Prof Taylor may have no fear of putting his suggested intention of giving us a repeat performance next year or any time he chooses. My only suggestion is that he use the hall, as the Church would not hold the people

Last Saturday morning saw the ground covered with snow, but by night it was gone. Old man winter may not be here to stay yet. We hope.

Guess I better wash the windows. Very little news filtered through this week.

Members of the committee working on the Community Cupboard Project sponsored by the W. I., met at the G. Marlow home Monday evening. Support has been pledged by 9 organizations, and the following sub-committees have been appointed: Mrs. A. Olsen and Mrs. F Kirkman are making arrangements to have the cupboards built; and Mrs. Fred Pelham, Mrs. G Hibbert and Mrs. C Marlow to purchase supplies. Thanks to all those who are making it possible to carry out this project.

ONLY FOUR YEARS AGO...

Our enemies were completely crushed and surrendered to the Allies to end the holocaust of war. We were left with the quiet of peace. A quiet that waited in ever-powering anticipation for The earnest sounds of re-building. Of countries. And of faith.

How worthily and how constructively we are filling this hard earned quiet of peace, we cannot yet say. We can only try to realize that the magnitude of the task already done — and the work still to be accomplished — is one requiring unswerving diligence and complete sincerity.

REPORT ON "FORGOTTEN" ALASKA

Could Support 10,000,000 Population If Properly Developed

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Canadian
Correspondent

WASHINGTON — As a hang appears to be taking place in the U.S. government attitude to Alaska. Instead of regarding Alaska's problems as the fit subject for political sniping, sponsors, sponsors have now pooled the considerable amount of ideas and energy spent on them and suggestions that indicate an important shared trend for Alaska in the future.

Alaska's strategic position is known among Central Powers of Europe. But here is also an real asset of its economic potential not generally known or realized by every Canadian and American.

Gen. H. H. Arnold wartime head of the U.S. Army Air Forces expressed the thoughts of many Canadians when he said:

In the world of tomorrow Alaska is assured a position of great importance. People outside the Center of North Agent, a long well rest." And it was Gen. Billy Mitchell early advocate of airpower as a power of the United States who termed Alaska "the most strategic place on earth."

Much has been written about Alaska's importance in the defense of North America. Its potentialities as an economic hotbeam on the northwestern corner of this continent, however, are less widely known. A two-inch-thick co-ordinated report from the government agencies, attempts to evaluate Alaska's economic potentials.

"Its forest, arable lands, fish and wildlife, oil and minerals, recreational paradises and hydro-electric power sites represent wealth beyond human comprehension," asserts the report.

"Already $2,000,000,000 has been taken out of the Territory by huskey development under the Alaska line handout system, dollars that have not been returned to lay the foundation for the Alaska of tomorrow.

"No man knows the value of Alaska's hidden mineral wealth; however, Alaska's billion board feet of timber that could be cut in perpetuity, the millions of acres of crops that could be harvested, and the 56,000,000 kilowatt-hours of energy that could be produced by river control systems represent a sum of more than $2,000,000,000 every year."

Alaska's geographic position suggests that its role in our long-term trade relations with Asiatic nations may be important. Home is 50 miles farther west than the Hawaiian Islands.

Ketchikan, Alaska's most southern city, is 600 miles closer to the Orient than is any west coast city with ports in the U.S. or Canada. Great circle air routes to the Orient naturally cross Alaska.

Mineral and manufactured products from Alaska may have a great demand in world markets, government planners believe, when whose mineral resources approach depletion.

Alaska's estimated 110 000 000 tons of coal suggest possibilities of great industrial expansion. Only half of the vast territory has been surveyed for its mineral wealth, but its riches have been found surprisingly great.

Forests in the southeast panhandle are near tidewater and promise a perpetual supply of lumber and pulp for valuable paper if cutting is controlled on a sustained-yield basis.

Alaska has millions of acres of potentially arable land where it is believed crops can supply a population that some day may reach from 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 people. Other millions of acres are suitable for livestock raising.

Fisheries, particularly salmon, are one of Alaska's resources. So great have been annual hauls on fish delicious food that better conservation and control practices are needed to restore the salmon runs and ensure future supplies. Better use of fish by-products suggests important economies.

Primed inland for coal pelts, long one of Alaska's valuable exports, promise to produce industrially under close supervision. Alaska's furs are of high quality. Climatic conditions favor fur farming as an important future industry.

Besides numerous precious metals, many non-metallic minerals have significant future possibilities in the Territory.

Foodhandling At Amusement Spots Comes Under Fire

Food and soft drinks served in public places such as fall fairs, carnivals, community camps, horse races and baseball parks, and by street vendors frequently are handled in a grossly unsanitary manner as is evidenced by the Health League of Canada which is seeking stricter supervision of licensing and inspection in this connection.

The Health League, a voluntary National Committee on Hygiene of foodhandling is emphatic in its urge that official steps should be taken to secure greater cleanliness on the part of those obviously unclean handling of food and drinks. At a recent meeting of the committee, the following resolution was adopted:

The members of this Committee are of the opinion that food and soft drinks served in public places such as fall fairs, carnivals, amusement centres and for street vendors frequently are handled in a grossly unsanitary manner and this Committee therefore requests stricter supervision in the licensing and inspection of premises, personnel and methods of dispensing food and soft drinks for public consumption."

Smile of the Week—

A young lady telephoning a music store was connected by mistake with a garage

Do you have Two Red Lips and Seven Shines?" she asked.

"No," answered the garage, "but we have two lion cats and seven lizzies."

Is that a record?" she asked.

"Well, lady," said the garageman, "we think it is."

Canadian Farmers Are Enjoying Greatest Prosperity In History

OTTAWA.—Canadian farmers are enjoying the greatest prosperity in history, an official of the Finance Department declared when he disclosed loans totalling $47,000,000 had been made under the Farm Improvement Loans Act, the greatest advances ever made. "Farmers are paying up well," he continued. We have had only 13 losses out of 110,000 loans we have guaranteed to the banks under terms of the act.

Canadian farmers, too, are making the East, the spokesman said, because a heavier type of machinery is needed on the Prairies than in the East and the Western farms are also bigger.

vast strides toward mechanization. Advances for machinery is up 50 per cent, this year while loans for trucks are 10 per cent. greater than 1945.

When the Farm Improvement Loan Act went into operation in 1945 a total of $3,000,000 in loans were made. Since 1945 advances made to farmers were doubled in volume by advances made by the Canadian Farm Loan Board in the last 14 years. The Farm Loan Board's loans were for a longer term but the farm improvement loans filled the requirement for short-term credit. The Finance Department official thought the short-term loans indicated the trend was to the tenant farming in Canada particularly with regard to mechanization.

The loans for home improvements are increasing but do not form a large part of the total $47,000,000 advanced this year. The emphasis is on equipment which was in short supply during war years.

The loans are made by chartered banks under guarantees by the loan act. Simple interest of five per cent. is charged and the loans are for three years on farm equipment and six to 10 years for general improvements such as drainage, clearing and building of farm and farm-home buildings.

The farm equipment is the security for money for such a purpose while on loans for $2,000 or more extending beyond five years the land may be taken as security. This is was pointed out, is a new departure for Canadian banking. Formerly the banks could not lend on security like farm equipment or farm property.

Sask. Fights Tuberculosis With Song, Music And Fun

REGINA, Sask.—The people of Saskatchewan have found a way to fight tuberculosis with songs, music and fun. Their efforts have been so successful that some medical men believe tuberculosis will be an insignificant disease among the white population in Saskatchewan within 10 years.

Already the province's TB mortality rate for white persons was the lowest of any province in the Dominion. Doctors believed large-scale preventive work financed entirely by voluntary contributions was chiefly responsible. Preventive work was mainly financed by the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League's Christmas Seal campaign and by the Associated Canadian Travellers TB preventive fund.

The Travellers' project is where the fun comes in. About five years ago the Travellers, a group of salesmen and former salesmen, got the idea that a radio program featuring local talent in rural areas would be a big money maker. Radio stations in five Saskatchewan cities supported the idea by donating free air time. Today these amateur shows are a regular feature on these stations.

Weekly Programs

The programs, which are aired weekly over a period of several months, originate in a different town each week. Hundreds of people pay their way into the hall to hear from 20 to 40 entertainers.

In the two hours before the show goes on the air each contestant gets a preliminary hearing to decide which performers will appear first on the radio show. In these contests, popularity is decided solely by ballots and credit given by spectators who "vote" for their choice by donating money in his name. In fact, all money goes to the preventive fund Sometimes the "take" at the hall, including "votes" and admission charges, totals about one thousand dollars.

During the three-hour air portion of the show, the skit-chosen gets onto the act. They telephone the hall with messages such as "I'll give $5 to hear Jon play 'Home on the Range' on his fiddle." Those operating the show find time to satisfy almost all such requests, which bring in hundreds of dollars during the evening.

Operators of the shows say they get a lot of money from people at parties. These listeners often know talent sufficiently well to want to pay to hear them on the air.

During one show a man at a party offered $50 to hear a selection But his bash refused to cash his cheque until after the program, to keep the writing. The listener made the money good next day. Although celebrating had made his writing shaky, he paid the donation had been firm.

Rivalry Aids

Rivalry among the various towns also helps swell the proceeds. Residents of a district will pay to see that their friends performing on the amateur hour win high in the popularity list.

The Travellers' idea, planted five years ago, has reaped a harvest of more than $400,000 for preventive work. This sum, turned over to the Saskatchewan Anti-Tuberculosis League, has financed three mobile X-ray units which are responsible for bringing to light almost all active TB cases discovered in Saskatchewan.

Results have been so encouraging that the Anti-Tuberculosis League, the Associated Canadian Travellers and the radio stations are looking forward to the day when tuberculosis will be wiped out in Saskatchewan. When that day comes the songs and music of the people of this province will raise a big assist.

Tree Shelter Belts Pay Big Dividends

The Canadian Forestry Association's tree planting car has just completed a four month itinerary in southern Saskatchewan, attracting 15,000 people to the meetings held.

This annual campaign conducted by the Association to encourage the planting of trees on the prairies was in its 29th consecutive year, taken the tree planting car over hundreds of miles in the three Prairie Provinces.

The railway coach used was donated by the Canadian Pacific Railway and is moved, free of charge, by the C.P.R. and the Canadian National Railways. Public spirited firms and individuals provide the funds to defray all other operating costs. This mobile theatre has a seating capacity of 100 adults, is equipped with 16 mm sound projection, and its own power plant.

A town a day is visited, with meetings held for both young and old. Films on the prairies, one hour of sound films, and an instructional demonstration. The trees to plant, how to plant them, the landscaping for the farm shelter belt and home beautification are shown and explained. A colored film shows the farmstead secured by tree planting on the prairies.

Association campaigns in co-operation with the Dominion Government's Forest Nursery Stations and commercial nurseries in supplying trees, are largely changing the open prairie farm into a place of protection and beauty. Shelter belts make it possible for the farm family to enjoy greater living comfort. They assure a successful garden, even during years of low rainfall, and make the growing of fruit possible. By extending the tree belts to provide field shelters the snow is retained, the heavy summer winds are held off, with the fields giving increased yields in good years, and some crop in bad years. Under similar conditions the unprotected field in drought years merits with complete failure.

With the assistance of the Dominion Forest Nursery Stations two large scale field belting projects, one at Cooperet, Saskatchewan, the other at Lipton, Manitoba, are beginning to pay big dividends to their owners. At Cooperet the farmers, who have banded together on this project, have planted over 600 miles of trees. The belts cut the farm land up into fields of from 40 to 80 acres. At present the trees, mostly caragana with willow in the low spots, are about 15 feet tall, with the number of miles of hedges being extended each year. This year the farmers within the shelter belt zone harvested a crop of wheat averaging 13 bushels to the acre. Their neighbors, outside the boundaries of the sheltered area, averaged only eight to nine bushels to the acre. From available information this difference was due to the ability of the trees to hold snow, conserve moisture, and to protect the growing crop from hot drying winds The same benefits are being secured by those farmers who farm the field protection group in southwestern Manitoba.

If the prairie farmer will make use of trees as an aid in overcoming climatic handicaps, taking advantage of the splendid work being done by such outstanding contributors to agricultural welfare as the P.F.R.A., his own Agricultural Representatives, and Experimental farms and Stations, he can build, with his farming neighbors, an agricultural life more secure and more pleasant than he has ever enjoyed in the past, stated tree planting authorities of the Canadian Forestry Association.

Horses were unknown on this continent until the coming of Europeans, who introduced them. 3656

Helpful Hints

If you are not using the back runners of your stove while preparing a meal, keep them covered with inverted coffee can covers. This will protect them from becoming greasy and clogged from food spillage.

Hardisty Happenings

Mr. Arnold Lawson of Moose Jaw arrived in Hardisty recently and is engaged as an Engineer for the C. P. R. His son is Hardisty Willie. Old timers will remember Arnold as one of the stalwarts of the Hardisty local hockey team back in the days of Ray and Sewart Martin, Foden, Stott and Jack Rattan etc.

Mr. Ralph B. Miller left last week for the University hospital to undergo an operation.

Mr. J. C. Murray, Commissioner for the Farm Loan Board of Ottawa, spent Remembrance Day with Dr. and Mrs. G. R. Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Red Mattaon spent a few days last week in Calgary and Edmonton.

Mmo O Reirdon, Robbie and Gay of Camrose are spending a couple of weeks with her mother Mrs. Boag.

The Busy Bees met last week at home of Olive Sauke. Prizes at cards went to Doris Dickson for first and Helen Morrison, after which luncheon was served by the hostess.

Don't forget the Whist Drive to the Oddfellow's hall on Thursday at the hour of 8 30 folks.

A number of Hardistyites attended the dance in Sedgewick last Friday, but they all came home with the loss what brung them! The lucky winner of the Hillman Minx was Norman Davies of Sughenden. Lucky boy.

Another reason the town was so quiet Friday night, quite a few of our High School students attended the Line Party at Killam. Everybody! Hillman or no, reported a good time.

Misses Anna Loosmitse and Veronica Marsh, who were make their homes at the Kohlstock farms, last week attended a reunion in Edmonton where they renewed acquaintances made on their way to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Olive Sauke and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burrows motored to Edmonton over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Robbins and Earlene spent a few days in the city last week.

Mrs. E. Dreger spent the week in Edmonton where she attended the double wedding of her son Paul and Lillian Bank and Jimmy Whitehead and Annie Bank. They are still away, we hope to have more on the wedding next week folks.

The very strong wind which swept the town last Monday blew out a 36 square foot plate glass window in George Sauke's shop. The gale was one of the worst on record.

Last Tuesday evening a shower was held at the home of Mrs Jimmy Brandon in honor of Mrs. Deb Wright (nee Anne Grieve) of Sedgewood. Agnes was the recipient of many beautiful gifts and her many friends join in wishing her many years of lasting happiness.

A very unfortunate accident occurred last Thursday night when Mrs J Trupp and Mrs. Pewtress were struck by a motor cars driven by Mrs. Trupp was badly shaken up he was allowed to remain at home abed. Mrs. Pewtress in hospital having had her hip dislocated and 14 stitches in a cut on her forehead. We are glad to report that both are progressing favorably.

Ivan Dacuke brought down a wild deer last week. How much did it finally weight when dressed? Seems hanging a deer is getting to be the usual thing around here.

New School Buildings

THERE ARE WHITE ELEPHANTS which go with the building of a school, especially those which are out of season, unsuitable, and useless. Modern buildings and times mean equipment also plays an important part in school life. Changes in the building of schools are as much other than architectural since the present century. Until a short time ago there were practically no steel buildings in Canada, and many of the old ones, which are obsolescent are far below present standards of school architecture. In some of the larger cities, to overcrowded conditions temporary buildings were intended for schools, have been brought into use, and some of these continued in use sometimes in spite of the fact that they are undesirable.

* * *

There are several reasons why the number of modern school buildings have not kept up with the need for them. During the depression of the 1930's money was not available for building new schools and the period was followed almost immediately by the Second World War, when labour and material were diverted to other purposes. The result of these factors has been a shortage of school buildings in the larger cities, and many of the old ones built in Canada for a period of nearly twenty years and all the time there was an accumulated need for a great many new school buildings. Since that time, however, there has been what is termed a boom in the construction of new schools, and according to "School Progress", a business magazine for Canadian schools, this boom has not yet reached its peak but is expected to continue for another ten years.

* * *

Did Not Build New Schools

In Saskatchewan a total of $7,500,000 has been spent since the end of the war, and the department of education also has proposed that another five million dollars be spent on school buildings within the next three or four years. In addition the larger cities of Saskatchewan have plans for expenditures of over one million dollars for new schools in the immediate future. Alberta cities are planning to devote over twelve million dollars to the building of schools, and Manitoba has a building programme which will involve several million dollars. Ontario has already spent $75,000,000 on school buildings since the war and plans to spend that much again to bring accommodation in the schools there up to the desired standards. Large expenditures for this purpose are also being made in Quebec, the Maritimes and British Columbia. It is encouraging to know that the provinces are taking the interest in improving elementary and secondary school facilities here. Many schools are now used for adult education classes and for community activities after regular school hours, so not only the pupils, but the community at large is benefiting from the present extensive programme for the construction of new and modern school buildings.

New Programme Benefits Many

In addition to the larger cities in Saskatchewan, many of the smaller towns have also undertaken extensive programmes of new school building. Some of these, however, have been unable to proceed with the building programme which will involve several million dollars. Ontario has already spent $75,000,000 on school buildings since the war and plans to spend that much again to bring accommodation in the schools there up to the desired standards. Large expenditures for this purpose are also being made in Quebec, the Maritimes and British Columbia. It is encouraging to know that the provinces are taking this interest in improving elementary and secondary school facilities here. Many schools are now used for adult education classes and for community activities after regular school hours, so not only the pupils, but the community at large is benefiting from the present extensive programme for the construction of new and modern school buildings.

Girls Have Rings, Seek Husbands

LONDON—Three pretty Montreal girls from Cape Town recently arrived here en route to Salt Lake City, Utah to find husbands.

They have brought rings set with blue and white diamonds.

Tepsi Anita Kohl 21, said: "I'm looking for a decent man."

Third-placed Joyce Krbl 19 Anita Keller, said, "I must have a man who does not drink."

The girls brought their own rings because "diamonds are so much cheaper here in London."

Many Sheep Killed By Coyotes

SASKATOON, Alta.—Word by the hundreds have been killed by packs of coyotes roaming the foothills region around Macleod, about 100 miles southeast of Calgary.

Losses running as high as 25 per cent have been reported in sheep and cattle in the area. Farmers say an alarming increase has been noted in animal losses since the Alberta government discontinued the $5 bounty on coyotes last year. One farmer reported that the raiders killed 50 lambs on his ranch, resulting in a loss of about $800.

Saskatchewan Problem

GRAVELBOURG, Sask.—Hon. L. C. Mollet, Saskatchewan agriculture minister went on record here as to eliminate coyotes, but farmers in the district said coyotes were getting smarter all the time.

Cost Of Living Halts Boom Town

OTTAWA—Yellowknife, a boom town a few years ago, is having financial difficulties.

This was disclosed in a report at a meeting of the Northwest Territories Council.

Main point which emerged from the report was that the town has not progressed and expanded as rapidly as had been expected.

The town was in grave financial position despite very large capital expenditures by the Federal Government.

However, the results of high living costs and fixed incomes from wages are making it difficult to raise revenue. Mounting and operate the municipal services.

Sale Of Oil Land Hits Peak

EDMONTON. — The Alberta provincial treasury's financial statistics and statisticians had a record for their books on a recent week. For the week the government of petroleum and natural gas sold on eight quarter sections of land in the Redwater and Leduc oil fields.

Big feature of the sale was the $910,662.67 paid by Tanner and Co. Ltd. of Calgary for a single quarter section. Parcel 64 in the northeast section of the Redwater field. The land is close to Imperial Egremont No. 1 a big producing well.

The sale was the highest ever paid for a quarter section of land in Alberta, topping the $902,800 paid by British American Oil Co Ltd. at the previous oil rights sale Aug. 25.

A syndicate composed of E. H. and C. B. Tanner of Calgary and associates strike made the record bid. Only Canadian capital is involved in the bidding. Tanner brothers, who operate a nationally-known investment business in Calgary, said they have with be drilled and managed by a major oil company with full ownership remaining with the syndicate

The Calgary firm also paid $677,-267.17 for Parcel 65, a quarter section in the northwest corner of the Redwater field and near producing wells.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

LIFE IS HARD ::

A Fable By H. C. Bates

THE bridge looked very desolate and deserted in the fitful light of the street lamps. Parker was standing passing the centre of the bridge, but was brought to a sudden stop as he observed a coat with a note pin and therein. A couple of words flashed across his mind, and before he had taken hold of the note he had already read them. "Drowned him-self. An unpleasant chill raced down his spine, as he read the note.

"Life is hard! Men are cruel. Why be unhappy and miserable? (signed) Casper

Parker sighed. Sensible creature! Life is certainly hard. Casper, for instance. Cubes! There's a man living on the fat of the land, as the saying is. I merely exist! I'm always hungry, cold, and, oh, how humiliated before my fellow men every day of my life. Life is indeed hard!

With a sympathetic sigh, Parker ripped off his coat, carefully inserted his name between the flaps of Casper, and, clambering on the wall, plunged over.

The ripples had scarcely smoothed when Stevens came strolling along. His eyes were attracted by the two coats and the note.

At first he stood gaping at the coats and the water. Then, as he read the note, a look of understanding through his body. He sighed and muttered "Drowned themselves!"

Then he began to ponder. "Three, they're right! Life is not even fit for a dog to live! You slave away your days in bonnyon, haggy i bags of food, or behind a counter selling merchandise, or peddling stuff that nobody wants to buy, or fasting up this and that for nobody in particular. The bosses grab all the profits, you get a pittance! Life is too hard to make it worth while living. You eat, drink and sleep—but you starve most of the time! They had the right idea. They're drowned themselves. I'm going to do the same!"

Stevens whipped off his coat and hat, placed his name to the note, and flung himself into the water.

Not long after, a student came strolling along. He spotted the clothing and the note.

"Drowned themselves! As Langhan pondered their dead, a strange feeling of misgiving crept along his veins, impelling him to smother himself. Then he laughed uproariously. "What do you know about that? If this isn't a dreadful case of what men call the capitalist system. Three lives ended! Snuffed out like a candle in the night, because life is hard. Who knows what good they might have done had they lived in the State of the future? Life is truly hard. I contend it is practically criminal to continue living when the proletariat's only prospect is the river! And I'm on my way to the movies! Such a thought-less fellow I am!"

He plucked out a pencil and added to the note: "Men are expected to see no such a that I often become subject to myself Give my books to the college grounds and quick-ly spread to adjoining buildings that

Small Town Suffers Disastrous Fire

The above picture shows the little town of Sturgis, Sask., these 200 miles northeast of Regina, that had the misfortune recently of a disastrous fire that destroyed four buildings of its business section The restricted portion of the picture shows the buildings that were destroyed. An estimate of over $75,000 damage was done, besides making five families homeless.

The fire started from an explosion of a heater in a room located above the office of the North-East Review, Sturgis weekly newspaper, and quickly spread to adjoining buildings that housed a snack bar and bakery shop, over a year ago established the most modern grocery store and a North-East Review and had gathered during that period some hard-to-get printing equipment, suffered a complete loss of the plant as well as all his home effects.

Secretary of the fund are a great blow to small towns and is especially to Sturgis, who suffered a similar fire 17 years ago; when much of the business section burned to the ground. It gives a feeling of being "whipped" and discouraged, but the citizens of Sturgis like other small towns who experience such disasters, are already planning to rebuild.

Coast Indians May Be First "White" Tribe

PRINCE RUPERT. — Metlakatla, picturesque and historic native village in miles west of here, may soon become the first "white" Indian village in Canada.

Culminating years of representations and negotiations, an enfranchisement board will convene at Metlakatla Nov 9 for a hearing on the application of the Metlakatla band for enfranchisement as a whole

Compliance with the application would have the effect of making Metlakatlans "white" people in legal and citizenship respects. They would completely cast off the status and all the implications involved in wards of the Federal Government under the Indian Act.

While an amendment to the Indian Act, passed in 1933, provided for such conversion in state, Metlakatla is the first known community in Canada to make such an application.

Science is playing an increasingly important role in Canada's new Army. In heavy anti aircraft, for example, complex radar equipment predicts to within a few feet exactly where the target is and will be. The gunners, their backs to the target, fire with amazing accuracy by instrument.

Training men in the use of modern scientific equipment is a major requirement in Canada's new Army. Thousands of young men are attending some of the finest schools in the country, specializing in electronics, radar, radio and telephone. In addition, there are openings for clerks, drivers, mechanics and many other trades.

New higher pay, good food and quarters, trades training and the opportunity for advancement make the Canadian Army Active Force one of the most attractive careers open to young men today. You are eligible if you are 17 or over and can meet Army requirements. Visit your nearest recruiting office soon for full details. Bring certificates of birth and education with you.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The soprano in the church choir at Leech, Wiltshire, England is 90-year-old Miss Alice Binney.

A spectator was fined £3 ($13.50) for stealing the ball at a soccer match in England. The ball had been kicked off the field.

Sir Stafford Cripps has promised Britons he will not force them to buy government savings bonds, nor invade the cash they already have.

The Japanese government has announced a six-point program to control the price of sugar. It includes the fixing of statutory maximum prices and taking over all stocks from factories.

The federal government plans to spend $1,200,000 between last April 1 and next March 31 on the South Saskatchewan irrigation project, the house of commons was told.

A factory in Brisbane, Australia, is offering a bonus of £2 10 ($9.50) to any employee obtaining another suitable workman who remains on the job for 90 days. If the new workman stays 12 months his sponsor gets an additional bonus of £2 10

FLIN FLON GROWING

FLIN FLON, Man.—Flin Flon is still growing. Enumeration lists for the Manitoba election showed an increase of more than 1,000 voters since the last provincial election in 1941. The total number of voters in the city now is 6,000, compared with 5,000 in 1941.

Weekly Paper Fills Vital Role

VANCOUVER — "Weekly newspapers will be as much a part of Canada's heritage as the sustained faith, courage, leadership and means of publishers are willing to make them."

William D Welsh public relations director for Crown-Zellerbach Corporation San Francisco, placed that declaration before B.C. Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at the association's annual banquet in Hotel Vancouver.

He emphasized the part weeklies play in Canada's economy, their more important place in recording public happenings and guiding public opinion.

Newspapers, Mr Welsh declared, are "super-salesmen selling the skills, experience and employment of a lot of people."

He declared a great sales responsibility rests upon publishers to train young men to the viewpoint that a newspaper is not for personal gain, but must be a "huge universe reflecting the full passing human parade."

Young newspaper men must be taught, he declared, "that if the dark day should ever come when freedom's columns are shackled and enslaved, then from that day forward men will no longer be able to talk freely in open forum or chat over the fence with their neighbor."

Wrekless must play their part, Mr Welsh asserted.

Princess Elizabeth Does Not Smoke

LONDON Princess Elizabeth may have an ash tray on her private desk but she definitely does not smoke, a Buckingham palace source said.

The question was raised when the Daily Express published a picture of her writing desk. On it were an ash tray, container of matches, and a cigarette box.

"He does the princess smoke?" the newspaper explained the picture.

The source said it was customary for many people to have smoking equipment on their desks, even if they don't use it. "These friends may like to smoke," the source said.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS

TWILIGHT HOUR

By JANE DALE

Slowly it comes the twilight hour, Silently creeping o'er the way Gently it soothes my restless heart And leads me for a moment stay.

Hushed there comes no shadows fall A calmness in my mind and heart; A surcease from the day's dull care; An hour for rest than not apart.

In the soft twilight and sweet peace As then without the world grows dim, I hear once more the words, "Be still".

And trust anew my cares to Him.

Women's Influence Still Felt in Commons

OTTAWA — The little woman may not have a representative in the Commons but her influence is still felt in the chamber Irvine Studer (Lib Maple Creek) said.

Women's influence is present in the House and I know it is here with me because I have not said anything since I have been a member of the House of Commons that my wife has not told me to say, be confirmed

A large number of members had registered regret that no women members were elected in the last general election.

But," he added, "I have not heard very many of the members say that they are willing to resign to make room for a woman, nor have I heard myself say so.

However the influence of women was felt despite lack of representation and largely it is responsible for the passage of family allowances

Big Paper Mill For Alberta

MONTREAL—R. O. Sweezy, Montreal investment broker, said he expects construction will start in the spring on a $12,000,000 paper mill near Edmonton to make use of wood from lands granted by the Alberta Government.

Mr. Sweezy said financial talks now are going on in Montreal.

New Canadian Altitude Mark Made By R.C.A.F.

MONTREAL — A new altitude mark in Canada was believed recorded recently in the skies over nearby St Hubert, Que., by FO Malcolm G. Graham, a pilot with the R.C.A.F.'s 410 Squadron fighter squadron, who took his British jet Vampire aircraft to 47 000 feet.

The 25-year-old native of Dutton, Ont said that Montreal looked like a small-sized ant-ray from that height." He said visibility was so good that he could see Lake Ontario, approximately 300 miles away.

The present world altitude record is listed as 49,695, recently chalked up in England by the latest version of the British jet fighter plane—the Gloster Vampire. FO Graham's plane was a Gabish Vampire Mark 3a, credited with a 2 700-pound static thrust as compared with the Gloster which has a 3,000-pound thrust.

Group Capt. Jean Archambault, senior air force officer in Montreal area, said the 47,000-foot mark was a new altitude record for aircraft in Canada.

WEDDING

The Church of the Nazarene, Hardisty was the scene of a beautiful wedding on November 15th, when Winnifred Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. MacMillan became the bride of Cameron John Lloyd Muir, youngest son of Mrs. W. G. May, all of Red Deer. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Geo. Beauford of Calgary, uncle of the bride, before an altar banked with ferns and white and mauve mums. The bride, who was given away by her father, was lovely in a Fleece wore ST Friends present. The embroidered bodice. Her full length gown of white satin with net yoke and veil fell from a pearl headpiece and she carried a bouquet of red roses Her only ornament was a gold locket a gift of the groom. Maid of honor was Miss Florence MacMillan who was gowned in pink sheer. Miss Winnifred Mumm acted as bride's maid, in a blue sheer frock with veil to match. The groom was supported by his brother George May, and Harold Lee, another brother, and Douglas May acted as usher. Following the ceremony a reception for 60 guests was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs A. S. Peterson. The happy couple left for a short honeymoon after which they will reside at Red Deer.

WEDDING

St. Stephen's College was the setting for a lovely wedding recently when Rev. M. MacLean of Sedgewick united in carriage Miss Margaret Agnes MacLaren of Sedgewick, and Mr. William Ray Simpson also from Sedgewick. Mauve and yellow mums brightened the chapel for the ceremony, in which the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Walter Hadlum. The bride wore a dress maker suit of midnight blue for her wedding. Her hat was a gray model, with pink feather trim, and her other accessories were also pink and gray. A imported pearl choker, a gift of the groom was her jewelry, and pink roses formed her corsage. Miss Marian McKay of Fairview was the only attendant of the bride, wearing a wine gabardine suit with gray accessories and yellow roses as corsage. Mr. Edward Dunleavy was best man, and Mr. William MacLaren and Mr. R. Simpson were ushers. Mrs. H. R. Wilson of Sedgewick played the wedding music. About 30 guests attended a reception held at the Bevan Rooms. Mrs. MacLaren, the bride's mother wore a plum colored crepe dress with a black hat and Tuberose corsage. Mrs. Fred Wahl, sister of the bridegroom was in rose with white corsage of Talisman roses. Pink and white baby mums formed a floral setting in the room. In taking Mr. A. I. Millar proposed the toast to the bride, and Mr. MacLean toast of the bride's grandmother. For a short honeymoon, the bride wore her wedding suit with a gray topcoat and The newlyweds will make their home at Sedgewick. — Ed. Journal.

FISH AND GAME MEETING HELD AT VIKING

Members of nearly all groups in the local district attended the first annual district meeting of the Fish and Game Assn. at Viking on Friday last, and were royally entertained by the Viking Branch with a buffet luncheon following the meeting.

A number of resolutions were passed by various groups, chief among which were ones re: Limiting duck shooting; raising bounty on magpies and crows; pro rooster shooting to clean of some fishery; stricter laws on shooting on posted lands.

Mr. Lacey of Viking was appointed as District Representative for the next two year (re-elected). Two very fine films on outdoor life were also shown to those attending.

Mr. Sparge of Calgary, the Prov. Secretary was present and gave the meeting much useful information.

Hayward was elected, W Schultz to the Vice President and D V York was re elected as Secretary and H. Hayward as Treas. Thanks was extended to H. Redfin and W Schultz for music provided for the re-union. A grant of $25 each is to be made to the Rink Fund and Hospital Aid.

As the odor of stewed oysters began to permeate the atmosphere the members decided to adjourn and sample the culinary art as provided by Starkie Vagt and Jack Cranberry, who is admitted to be a connoisseur of stewed oysters, pronounced the stew admirable and Dr. is a guy at the table of the King. Afterupper community singing was indulged in led by Bert and his guitar accordion. Some of the versatiles surprised even themselves the way they rendered high cees and low basses, with Secretar Ed Pre foremost amongst the versatiles. A little after midnight the meeting adjourned with a promise of a similar gathering at some future date. There were 12 old timers present whose combined ages must have beenclose to the 700 year mark.

Measures For Safety

THE EVER-INCREASING USE OF MACHINES in industry have raised efficiency and production rates to high levels. In spite of the speed and efficiency, however, and the excellent working conditions provided in most modern industrial plants, the chances of accidents are often great and constant precautions are taken to protect employees from receiving injuries while they are at work. Safety engineering has become a highly specialized profession and most industrial plants retain at least one man whose chief job it is to keep the number of accidents among workers as low as possible. In large industries there is often a central safety committee, composed of safety officers and officials of the plant, who work together to make working conditions as safe as possible.

* * * * *

Many Safety Measures Used

There are a number of approaches to the problem of reducing industrial accidents. Safety devices for machines and the removal of hazards in the way of plant doorways, elevators and other such structural defects are of course important. There is also the need to educate workers to the potential hazards of their machines or tools, and to ask the possible causes of accidents among the plant. Careful investigation of the cause of any accidents which do occur, and the rectification of the cause, if possible is also a safety measure used in most industries, as is the penalizing of an employee who causes accidents through carelessness. Fairing while it is an industry, cannot be compared with industrial plants in which rules can be enforced and constant supervision exercised. However, machines are used very extensively on farms today, especially in the West, and statistics show that farmers are frequently injured in the course of their work.

* * * * *

Should Try To Reduce Loss

From June, 1946, to June, 1947, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported that 37,300 farmers were injured at work, and more than 1,000,000 man days were lost to Canadian farmers due to illness and accidents. Because of the extensive use of machinery on the prairies, about sixty per cent of the farm accidents occur in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, although these provinces claim only about one-third of Canada's farming population. The same methods of preventing accidents in industrial plants cannot be used on the farm, but great efforts are made to acquaint the farmer with the correct ways of using complex machinery and with the dangers involved in that part of his work. Manufacturers of farm machinery also make special efforts to remove all possible weaknesses or defects which might lead to accidents due to faulty construction of the machines. The importance of anticipating and preventing accidents is everywhere true today, and agriculture is endeavoring to keep pace with other industries in cutting down the number of man days lost each year due to these causes.

Big Jap Orange Shipment Expected

VANCOUVER. — Importers said Canadians can expect $5,000,000 Japanese oranges for the Christmas season this year.

The $1,000,000 shipment, largest in post-war trade with Japan, will be aboard the SS Island Maru.

Despite the abundance however the oranges are expected to sell at $1.50 a box, 20 per cent more than last year's prices of $1 and $1.10. It's a decrease, though, from the 1947 peg of $1.80.

Estimate Life For Turner Valley Gas Given As 10 Years

CALGARY.—Estimated life of the Turner Valley natural gas reserves has been reduced to 10 years, Stanley J. Davies, gas engineer for Calgary, told the board of public commissioners here.

(In 1939 it was estimated that the reserves at Turner Valley would last for 20 years.)

Shortening of the "life" of Turner Valley reserves was due chiefly to the increasing use of gas by big industrial consumers, the board was told.

THE TILLERS

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

NOTHING TO COMPLAIN ABOUT

By MAX W. ALTH

MR. CLEVINS, the lawyer, looked slowly from pretty Mrs. Kennin to her husband, and then back again.

"Mr Kennin," he said, "you may contest this divorce but I warn you that it will only cost you time and money. I have written a great number of briefs in my time and have fought a great many divorce cases. Let me tell you, I will make no difficulty or proving your flagrant conduct the basis of decent human behaviour. I honestly advise you not to prevent your wife's effort to secure a divorce."

Mr Kennin glowered but said nothing. Mr. Clevins turned back to Mrs. Kennin.

"You poor Mrs Kennin," he purred. "How you must have suffered in this unendurable marriage! What mental cruelty you must have been subjected to!"

"Our marriage has been a failure, Mr. Clevins," Mrs. Kennin said. "It has been for the past 10 years, and it still is

I am sure of that," the lawyer agreed. "We shall write it all down in our brief. You claim mental cruelty Mrs. Kennin, as grounds for divorce"

"Yes"

"Just how does your husband torture you mentally?"

"In a great many ways, a great many ways," Mrs. Kennin repeated. The lawyer glared at Mr. Kennin who still said nothing.

"Will you be good enough to relate some of these incident" the lawyer said and his pen poised to make the most of every complaint.

"They were awful, simply awful." Mrs Kennin said.

Mr Clevins saw that she would need prompting if he was to prepare a case

"He shouts at you?"

"Oh, no. Harry is a very quiet man. He never lifts his voice."

"He drinks too much?"

"Oh, no. My husband never touches a drop."

The lawyer scratched his chin with the end of his pen. "He has threatened your life? He has given you cause to fear?"

"No, sir. He has always taken great care to see that nothing happened to me. He's the most of considerate."

"We shall find grounds, Mrs. Kennin, determined not to lose a client. "We can work from another angle," he suggested. "He is very close with his purse?"

"Harry is the most generous fellow. He never refused me anything, and so far as I have been able to learn, has never withheld a cent of his pay."

Mr. Clevins mused. "We shall have this divorce for you before you know it, Mrs. Kennin," he suddenly announced.

Mrs. Kennin looked at the lawyer in surprise As if she had never seen him before Then she broke into tears and threw her arms around her husband's neck.

"Make him stop saying those nasty things about you, dear," she said. "They are not true. You are good, and you are kind, and you don't shout at me at all. Take me home."

Mr. Clevins and Mr. Kennin looked at each other. The man put his arm around his wife and held her outside. The door opened again. Mr. Kennin put his head inside and winked.

Mr. Clevins winked back. Mr. Kennin's head disappeared. Mrs. Kennin put her head inside and winked. Mr. Clevins winked back. Mr. Kennin's head disappeared. Mrs. Kennin put her head inside and winked. Mr. Clevins winked back. Mr. Kennin put his head inside and winked. Mr. Clevins winked back. He sat down, a broad smile on his honest face.

Western Briefs

Farming Ability

DAWSON CREEK, Alta.—Sudeten settlers in Town Lake prove their farming ability at the recent Peace River district breed grain exhibition, showing grain for the first time, they captured seven of the 18 awards.

Light Wheat Crop

EDMONTON, Alta. — Incomplete estimates showed that Alberta had harvested the lightest wheat crop since 1937, the department of agriculture at Ottawa said. Reports predicted the coarse grains output would be the smallest in eight years. Lack of soil moisture and cool weather were attributed as factors contributing to decreased production

Death Price Of Duty

VANCOUVER. — Death was the price paid by Blackburn Boy, a big collie, who foiled a burglary at his master's home. Two youths clubbed him to death recently at the home of John Drummond. Members of the family saw the men as they fled the yard

College Ski Meet

EDMONTON — Eleven college ski teams from Canada and the United States are expected to compete in the inter-collegiate meet at Banff early in the new year, Hormie Rasid, coach of the University of Alberta team, said.

Community Day Planned

FOAM LAKE, Sask.—Plans for a community day in December are being drawn up by a committee appointed at the monthly meeting of the Foam Lake and district board of trade

ALBERTA FARMERS RECEIVED $450,000 IN HAIL INSURANCE

CALGARY. — About $450,000 has been paid Alberta farmers in hail claims this year, Alberta Hail Insurance Board reports.

The $450,000 is only a portion of the total hail loss suffered by farmers and represents 10 per cent. of Alberta farm losses as only about 9,000 farmers are insured by the board

Insured acreage in Alberta is estimated at 1.3 million, about 10 per cent. of total seeded acreage.

The board received 1,232 claims representing 13 per cent. of hail insurance policyholders.

Announce Dates For "B" Circuit Exhibitions

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. — Keith Stewart, secretary of the Western Canada Fairs association announced the following dates for 1948 exhibitions on the B circuit Lethbridge, June 26-28, still date, June 29, Weyburn, June 30-July 1; Estevan, July 3-4; Moose Jaw, July 5-8; Prince Albert, Aug 10-12.

Plan Second Traffic Bridge

THE PAS Man. — Wilfred Cuthours, president of The Pas Chamber of Commerce, has received word from the Hon. Ernest R. Wilms, that negotiations of the department of public works budget will include an appropriation for constructing a second traffic lane on the Hudson Bay Railway bridge over the Saskatchewan River.

The extension to the bridge is already in place but has never been used as the approach needs to be built from the present roadway

There is danger in poorly fitting stove and furnace pipes. Escaping coal gas is probable, a disastrous fire may even be in the making.

JELLY BUNS

Measure into small bowl, 1 c. warm water, 2 tsp. granulated sugar, stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 2 envelopes Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well. Cream ½ c. shortening with ½ c. sugar. Add 1 c. granulated sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Add 1 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. lemon extract, ½ c. milk which has been scalded and cooled to lukewarm, and yeast mixture. Stir in 2 c. sifted all-purpose flour and 4 unbeaten eggs. Work in 6 c. sifted all-purpose flour. Knead until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and let rise in warm place (85°) until double in bulk. Punch with meshed butter or margarine, roll out to ¼-inch thickness and arrange ½ apart on greased baking sheets. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Twist the ends of each bun to form a knot. Fold over on knot and fasten with jelly. Cover and let rise 15 minutes longer. Bake in hot oven, 400°, about 15 minutes.

New Fast-Acting Dry Yeast (Keeps NO Refrigeration)

Thousands of women every week are switching to the new Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. It's fast — it's active — keeps for months in the cupboard. Perfect results in rolls, buns, breads!

½ lb marshmallows quartered
½ c. pineapple juice
1 cup diced pineapple
½ cup heavy cream

Combine marshmallows, orange juice, and pineapple in top of double boiler. Heat before serving fold in whipped cream. Garnish with maraschino cherry or orange segment.

SEE GAVE ALL

GREENWICH Kent England — Just before she died an orphaned, destitute Negro 15-year-old girl asked that all the money she had should be given to the orphan church.

The bequest totalled 2s 6d (35 cents).

"It is one of the greatest and most humbling gifts we have ever received," said the vicar Rev R H Hodson-Shaw

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cookson were Sunday evening visitors at the Wm. Albrecht home.

Miss Rosemary Cookson, James Jack and Arthur Black were Sunday guests at the Dan Cookson home.

The Eric Clarke and Harvey Bingo sons were Friday evening callers at the Bill Albrechts.

The J. Armour family spent last Tuesday in Camrose.

Rev Bob Rombough of Sedgewick headed for the hills Hunting but the other day looking for a little deer meat. Everyone to his choice. I'd like to find a little chump meat once again.

The dance at Cambridge last week was well attended, as it should be, the proceeds going to supply treats for kiddies in the district. The wiener in the drawing were as follows: Grocery box to Carol Imbs, Box of Chocolates to John Kobla, Blanket to Judy Potter and Hamsters to Dean Tuinstra. While this was not the same as winning a Rithman, Douglas still has something to crow about.

Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Weir spent a couple days in Edmonton last week, visiting son Clem and wife.

Dave Johnston of Edmonton spent a couple days here last week visiting friends and looking over his farm interests here.

Miss Veronica Marias, who has been with the G. G. Probst family for the past year since coming from Poland, is now employed in the Hardisty district. Considering her short time in Canada, she made a wonderful success of adapting herself to our customs and mode of life. We will all miss Veronica's cheerful manner and ready smile and hope she will remember with pleasure her friends in Lougheed, her first Canadian home.

Mrs. P. Kirkman and Mr. and Mrs. Art Kiefer motored to Edmonton on Tuesday of last week to visit Mr. t Kiefer Sr. who was undergoing an operation in the city. We are glad to hear he is progressing favorably.

Mrs. B. Whitehead, local Editor of the Lougheed Journal, and Mrs. Birchill, former owner of the Horseshoe Cafe, were business visitors in the metropolis last week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Cookson and Rosemary were Camrose visitors last Sat The photographer must be doing a wonderful business there, the mat erial we send him to work on I like to stand at the window and watch those bein, pictures go by.

The annual meeting of the Ladies Aid will be held on Dec 1st at home of Mrs. Tom Kenny

Miss Edna McDonnell is the proud possessor of a new Chinese Pekie that answers to the name of Chang. It is a cute little thing with one of those screeching faces. In fact its face is so far back that when it barks it has to back up two paces to hear itself.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Foister have returned to their home in Calgary after some time spent visiting her parents the John Barbiers, during which time Allan had the tough luck of having an operation and spending his furlough in hospital. He still hopes that after a period of hardening at Wainwright Camp to be in shape to go north for winter manoeuvers with the Army.

Fred Wells returned last week, and of course brought the grandchild Linda Duncan back to spend the winter with us. Sometimes I think it is almost worth while sending them away, just to get them back, though this time I'll admit I was a little bit skeptical, as besides the usual muddle I got the house in, that windstorm didn't help any. There was an inch of dust over everything, and not wanting the trouble of sweeping and dusting, I just took my finger and wrote, 'Welcome Home Dear' in the dust on all the furniture. With one invisible evidence of my thoughtfulness and affection how could she say anything. After almost 40 years I've got to be kind of a diplomat, and it pays.

Mr and Mrs. Ray McCracken and Mrs. Harry Pedersen motored to Edmonton last week where Ray took in another G. M. C. convention. When you see Dick Wright in town before breakfast it's a safe bet that Ray is entertaining again.

The Elks Dance on the 25th for the kiddies Xmas Tree Fund was a success, as it should be, with a good crowd, good music and good time. Now he good little boys and girls, at least until after Santa gets here; but shucks there just ain't any other kind of boys and girls in Lougheed. We almost forgot to mention that while it was strictly an Elks night, there were a couple of little dears from Camrose in attendance.

Ivor Simkie and F.N. Pedler have both been on the sick list. When these old regulars miss their morning roll we know they are either sick or out of town. We hope by now they are both back on the job. We miss them.

Lougheed was well represented in Camrose last week, by Mrs. Andy Snetbon, Andy Jr., brother Lars, Mrs J. Sollie; Mrs. Ivor Simkie, A. Bakk en, Mr. and Mrs. Orvak Probst and Helen, Mrs. A. Lawley and Reid

It looks as though Lougheed was going to be well represented in the Navy, as three of our boys, Merle Reed, Rodney Sea and Norm Jack will know their luck this week when they go up to Edmonton for their exams. Good luck boys. It's a great life. The navy always has had a great name, and you know, 'there's something about a Sailor'. I remember when Bid Howes, Vic Dancy, Phil Daly and I went to join the Army in the 1st war, the command ing officer took one look at the four of us, dropped his head in his hands, and says, 'Thank God we've got a Navy!'

Well, the big football game is over and the cup stays in the East; but how could the Stamps hope to win; they say even the playing field was Ally Wette Isn't that corny? I must quit that to Hope

Miss June Marlow visited Killam friends over the week end.

Dick McDonald has rented up his Green Valley farm for the winter and will reside in Sedgewick district until time for next spring's operations.

Mr and Mrs. Stan Coleman from Phippen, Sask. were visitors at the Harry Pedersen farm last week end

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Grainger is in Edmonton receiving medical care, and we wish her a complete and speedy recovery

Miss F. Gendhus of Strome paid a short visit with her sister, Mrs Elvin Oliver last week.

Speedy co-operation and work by ten neighbors and neighbors last week, resulted in saving six head of Albert Shubert's cattle which had broken through the ice on a slough on his farm. It was necessary to rope and haul them to shore even after the ice had been broken to form a hole. This would have been a very serious loss at the price of cattle today. Fortunately they were noticed by the Andersons who gave the alarm.

Some of the young fry would do well to remember that when concocting degradations around the fire hall that the back room with the bars was not built just to keep the fire in.

To secure a factual appraisal of the actual losses caused by predators, the Western Stock Growers Association is asking Farmers and Stockmen to supply the following information:

1. What damage and number of livestock have you had to wolves or coyotes during 1949?

2. Have you sustained damage or losses in poultry or livestock by cougars, bears or other predators?

3. What losses have been caused by humans or rustlers?

The purpose in securing this information is to place the facts before the government in a co-ordinated effort to get effective action to control these predators

A TWO-BILLION-DOLLAR STORY!

Every one of the B of M's 1,700,000 depositors has shared in the writing of it.

Simple and straightforward, it tells how the two-billion-dollar resources of Canada's First Bank have been put to work . . . how these resources — born of the deposits of our customers — are helping Canadians in every walk of life to make a better future for themselves and for Canada.

You can see these dollars at work everywhere . . . B of M commercial loans are at the highest year-end figure in the history of the Bank.

THE FACTS BEHIND THE FIGURES

for 1949

WHAT THE B of M HAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS:

CASH: The B of M has cash in its vaults and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada amounting to . . . $ 239,794,569.15

MONEY in the form of notes of, cheques on, and deposits with other banks . . . . . 156,753,757.40

INVESTMENTS: The B of M has over a billion dollars invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities, which have a ready market. Listed on the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value, they amount to . . . . . 1,044,980,842.21

The B of M has other bonds, debentures and stocks, a substantial part of which represents assistance to industry for plant development in the post-war period. These investments are carried at . . . . . 133,097,348.16

CALL LOANS: The B of M has call loans which are fully protected by quickly saleable securities. These loans amount to . . . . . 48,174,052.91

QUICKLY AVAILABLE RESOURCES: The resources listed above, which can quickly be turned into cash, cover 70% of all that the Bank owes to the public. These "quick assets" amount to . $1,662,800,510.04

LOANS: During the year, many millions of dollars have been lent to business and industrial enterprises for production of every kind—to farmers, fishermen, lumbermen and ranchers—to citizens at all walks of life, and to Provincial and Municipal Governments and School Districts. These loans, now at the highest year-end figure in the Bank's history, stand at . . . . . 407,552,615.41

BANK BUILDINGS: In hamlets, villages, towns and large cities from coast to coast the B of M serves its customers at 541 offices. The value of the buildings owned by the Bank, together with furniture and equipment, as shown on its books at . . . . . 17,850,149.32

OTHER ASSETS: These chiefly represent liabilities of customers for commitments made by the Bank on their behalf, covering foreign and domestic trade transactions . . . . . 12,104,510.00

TOTAL RESOURCES WHICH THE B of M HAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS . . . . . $2,130,600,365.41

WHAT THE B of M OWES TO OTHERS:

DEPOSITS: While many business firms, manufacturers, merchants, farmers and people in every type of business have substantial deposits with the B of M, the largest part of the money on deposit with the Bank is the savings of well over a million private citizens. The total of all deposits is . . . . . $2,019,143,697.65

BANK NOTES: B of M bills in circulation which are payable on presentation, amount to . . . . . 5,621,916.00

120 Burnside Road, Victoria B. C.
November 15th, 1949

Dear Sir:—

It was with the deepest regret that I read an account of the late Henry Baker's demise in the columns of your excellent paper handed to me by a friend. There is very little that I can add except a recognition of the late Mr. Henry Baker's high qualifications as a pioneer and farmer, and an active supporter of the co-operative spirit that was instilled not only in his family life but in everything he undertook. He must have derived great pleasure and satisfaction in the knowledge that his youngest son is so ably following in his footsteps as Manager of the Sedgewick Co-op. Indeed it is men of the stamp of the late Henry Baker with the strong views that he held on co-operation that is a shining example to the ultimate creation of a world-wide co-operative movement that would secure a lasting world peace. The death of the late Henry Baker will be a great loss to his large circle of relations and friends, to whom my wife and I extend our sincerest sympathy

Yours sincerely,
Lionel H G Dennoth

Killam, Dec. 1st, 1949

Editor Community Press

Dear Sir:—

In response to the resolution of the Killam School Division which appeared in your recent issue, and which you so ably endorsed in an editorial, I may advise it was passed after it was known that instead of increasing the school grants as promised, they were decreased. The resolution may appear a little harsh but it is a plain statement of facts advising that the time for bluff was over, especially when the greater area of the Divis ion was getting Prairie Farm Assistance from the Dom. Govt., which means that this area, parts of which had to have that assistance for the last three successive years, has no longer ability to finance even the current production in these years.

As the first full meeting of the School Division will be held in Killam on Dec. 15th, I hope there is a good attendance when the question of education costs can be discussed, whether or not the Division is in favor of continuing to force the owners of real property to pay about 50 percent of the full cost in addition to their share of the 22 percent paid in grants from the general revenues of the province. I may advise that when elected to the school board, I made no promise to any person except promising myself to do what I could to stem the ever-increasing school taxation on assessable lands and buildings. Now we find that, due to centralization, we will have no secret at least two new four-room schools, and the Board is wondering where it will get the money, while the Provincial Govt. is wondering what to do with the tremendous amount of money unexpectedly piled at its disposal. Therefore if you took the Board to go and increase taxation and take the small handout which the Department of Education gives when they feel like it, that is alright with me, but if you wish to get the money where the money is and get regular grants amounting to at least 50 percent of the full cost of education, then I hope you will say so. — Yours truly, J. Gair.

SEDGEWICK W. M. S.

The Sedgewick WMS met at home of Mrs. J. Concepcion on Wed. afternoon Nov. 30th. Mrs. Gosnell led the Devotional and Mrs. H. Smith gave a review of the third chapter of the study book. ## Thro' The Window At Lougheed

The Norman Denham family are visiting with her mother in Vancouver to escape this glorious Alberta weather we are having. We hope Norm took his woolers with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stathakhes left for Regina last week on receipt of word of the illness of Mrs. Stathakhes's mother. We hope better news awaited them on arrival.

The J. Armour and Ned Butcher families spent a Sunday visiting relatives in Lacombe and district.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Smith and two children of Edmonton spent Sunday the 27th with his mother, Mrs. C. Rowland.

The Howard Pepas were Camrose visitors last week. Kind of a nasty trick to play on your neighbors the going away before you get in that nice pile of wood hauled pil after. Boy is it a pile; almost as high as the barn and right on the lane. You would never miss a couple scrubbs, or would you? I may try it.

Mrs. Noreen has left for Edmonton where she will spend Xmas with the Brodys, who motored down for her. John is running bachelor hall and seems to be doing well on it. The Heron orchestra theme song for the next month will probably be "Home on the Range."

Mrs. R. L. Freeman was a Killam visitor last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sax and son Fred left for Edmonton last Saturday, having received word that some of Dansie's old injuries received during his naval service, were giving him considerable trouble again. As this is his last year in University it is to be hoped they are not serious enough to interfere with his work. Our best wishes ol' you Dan.

Bob Kirkman and wife from home visited his parents for an evening last week. It's no use Bob, we didn't notice that stitch new Mercury you were sporting. If you want to be sporty these days you have to drive an old car.

Dan Vagt spent a few days in Edmonton last week, and of course Dad Vagt took over the shop in his absence. Nice team work. I suppose both like to change hemlines on and can cut up a bit.

Saw Herb and Reg pulling the Vill taga pump up t'o other day. Likely someone had been listening in the border line dozes on the radio and decided we needed more iron in our systems and dropped a few nails down the pipe. Rather an expensive pastime and the worst part is, the water will be as rusty it will be until of things happen, but you almost have to see them to believe it.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. (Rev.) Grainger, who underwent an operation in Edmonton, has been discharged, and we hope she will soon return fully recovered.

If you see a broad grin on yours truly's beak, you will know that his old assistant Phyl Johns k on the job for Xmas rush.

The United Nations

SETTLES THE FIRST AND SECOND WORLD WARS the League of Nations was organized and later disbanded. It was recognized as a great and commendable effort to join the nations of the world together for the purpose of preserving the peace and of fostering progress in many matters of international concern, and its failure was a blow to many people who sincerely believed that such an organization could accomplish the objectives set out for it. There were a number of reasons why it did not succeed. One of these was that the debates, while they were carried on by very able and learned orators, were on a plane too high to permit the open discussion of international misunderstandings and practical problems of the times. The fact that the United States did not join in the League of Nations was also an important factor in its failure to survive

Disputes Have Been Aired

In spite of the fact that the first effort of creating a world organization had not been notably successful, the need for such a body to settle international problems was clearly indicated as the end of the last war. Out of the need grew the United Nations, formed with many of the same objectives as the League of Nations, but along more practical lines and with some of the powerful nations declining membership. While the future of the United Nations Organization cannot be predicted, it has gained a substantial ground upon which to air international differences and to settle disputes by discussion rather than by force. Whether it can continue to exist all the years to which it may be put remains to be seen, but there is without doubt a very important step forward along the way to world government.

Sees Need For World Body

Speaking recently on this subject, Hon. Paul Martin, Minister of Health and second in command of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations assembly at Lake Success, New York, expressed the opinion that a world organization is now inevitable and that if the United Nations were broken up, some other such world body would be created to take its place. Comparing the UN to the League of Nations Mr. Martin said: "Today we are more realistic, we are more conscious of the difficulties. It is to be hoped that the United Nations may continue to function effectively and that it will grow, in time, to assume the powers of a world government. If it should fail to do this, it will at least stand as an effective step toward the goal of complete international co-operation and unity of aim."

Prairie Provinces Produce Half of N.H.L. Players

Close to half—43 to be exact—of the 108 players currently campaigning in the National Hockey League were born on the prairies. Of the 101 players were all born in one of the five Canadian provinces of Ontario, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec or Alberta.

Three of the seven players not born in Canada were born in the United States, two in Czechoslovakia, one in Scotland and one in Finland.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, fourth largest city in Canada, is once again the prolific producer hockey merchant of the world. Thirteen of the 108 players carrying assets in National Hockey League this season were born in Winnipeg. This is almost twice as many as the next most prolific city, which is Toronto. Toronto, home of the Stanley Cup champion Maple Leafs, was the birthplace of 7 National League players. Montreal, largest city in Canada is the birthplace of six National League stars. Fort William, Ontario, which is increasing every year as a hockey centre, was the birthplace of five players to the National Hockey League. Saskatoon, Sask., was the starting place of four of today's N.H.L. players. Three of these Saskatoon players are on the Toronto roster.

Ottawa, Ontario, once one of the most fertile hockey developing fields anywhere, has dropped off until today only two N.H.L. players call it their home-town. The lazy town Hi Dyatt, Sask., has sent two defencemen to the N.H.L., is the province of Perry Thomas of Boston and Gus Kyle of New York Rangers.

Three players in the N.H.L. today were born in Regina, Sask., while a fourth summer made their entrance into the world at Kitchener, Ontario.

Memories Made Him Wish He Were Out To Sea Again

By Roger S. Vrooland

Tish house still stands at 215 Inwood Lane, Claremont. The in- it. wood Lane is important. Remember that. The number doesn't make any difference, because then there wasn't another house within five hundred yards.

Honeysuckle at the end of the pazza entwined a lattice screen and you could really mark the honey- ache. Alta., was second and G. Avery Kelso, Sask., third.

Uncle Clem— Uncle Clem— grew funnel-shape way up past the pazza railing and developed fancy red grinder things with big sticky seeds inside that Uncle Clem said I used to pop at each other. The railing itself was a perfect ear trench except that you had to pick up the cars to get past the posts. Mother's her his family was gone and asked for she had a room to spare. He said he had a little money, enough to pay for his room and board, and with a strange gleaming in his eyes that I've never forgotten, he said he thought he could be helpful around the house.

Uncle Clem spent nearly all his time with me. Sometimes he would forget what he was playing and sit with a hand of drowsy, faraway look. I used going gardens on the odds been by the swing that my father had made in a tree somewhere. Uncle gave luscious creamy pink and white flowers. The sand box in the back, and I would watch the pictures of on his hands and knees — grunting now laughing at the same time— and help me plan the castles and highways the cherry tree that he used to treat me up with designs for a cherry pie. Imade was the brick fireplace that the three of us would sit in the winter. Uncle Clem taking care of the fire and telling us stories while Mother sewed, and I would watch the pictures in Nevo Horace over the mantel until I saw their eyes roll and knew it was time for other mortals. In the back bedroom was the mysterious alcove that twisted behind the chimney and was our bear's den. This was the room I was born in, Mother told me and it was and with full of ridiculous books from cellar to attic. I know Mother liked it for she often and she hoped someday to buy it.

Considering she was a widow, my mother did well in providing for the two of us until Mr. Hale came. That was Uncle Clem's real name. She didn't need the small amount he paid her. It was just from the kindness of her heart that she gave him a home. He was old, feeble, bent and he earned a cane most of the time.

I know those things now. But strangely I remembered him as spry, full of joy and fun. He was good and kind and always thinking of things to do. For a couple of years he was my only playmate and those years stand out

Mother never knew where he came from, until after he was gone. The first I ever saw of him was when he appeared at the door late one afternoon. I took him into the living-room and "entertained" him until Mother came in from the chicken coop. While he waited he played a funny little tune on the piano and whistled a cheery sort of accompaniment. Mother was cool to him at first, but she always mistrusted strangers. But I saw the hand of fellow he was right away. He told her he would stay back into what we were doing. He got to calling me "mother" after a while, but I never didn't mind. She would smile as if at some amusement, but she never let it would notice a sort of puzzled look on her eyes. I guess she was glad to have him around to help, and didn't have to keep her eyes on me as closely as she would have if I were left to run down for me to play with. Once I heard her tell her that his working days were over and he enjoyed trying to be a boy again. Then I guessed she was strange things I couldn't understand about him. When we played store I always got plenty of candy and uncanny seems of where to look. He knew about the flat stone under the abandoned well behind the chicken coop before I showed it to him, the loose board on the floor of my closet, the recesses over the eaves in the attic, and the hole in the screened food storage vault in the cellar. He even knocked on one of the inside walls where it sounded hollow and he said: "There was a widow there once—"

When Uncle Clem died I cried all night. Mother had to go into his personal things like will was a matter but to her, leaving her enough to buy the house. I'll never forget the look of surprise when she came across an old newspaper clipping in his desk drawer. It was about his retirement from business. I have it now.

"Clement B. Hale," it began, "was served a testimonial dinner last night by the insurance company with which has served for 60 years. This is a record for any company, stated John H. Quinn, the president, who presented Mr. Hale with a gold watch. Hale, who now retires on pension, was born March 19 1852, on Inwood Lane, Claremont . . ."

RICH, SPICY CINNAMON BUNS

Recipe

Measure into large bowl, 1 c. lukewarm water, 2 tsps. granulated sugar, 1 tsp. salt and sugar to dissolved. Sprinkle with 2 envelopes Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 min., THEN stir well. Scald 1 c. milk and add to 1/4 c. granulated sugar, 1/4 cups. salt, 6 tbs. shortening, and 2 tablespoons. Add to yeast mixture and stir in 2 well beaten eggs. Stir in 6 cups sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2 c. more sifted bread flour. If hand until smooth and elastic; place in greased bowl, brush top with melted butter or shortening. Cover and set in warm place, free from draughts. Let rise until doubled in bulk. When dough almost doubles (1½ c. hours sugar (lightly) spread down, 2 tsps. cinnamon, 2 c. washed and dried seedless raisins. Part dough down and roll out to ½ inch portions, form into rolls. Roll each piece out to ½ inch thick; spread with soft butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Beginning at a long edge, roll up each piece loosely, like a jelly roll. Cut into 1" slices. Place just touching each other, a cup-cake pan. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderate oven, 350°, 30-35 minutes. Serve hot, or reheated.

NEW FAST-ACTING DRY YEAST NEEDS NO REFRIGERATION!

B.C. Potato Crop Will Meet Needs

VICTORIA — Provincial Agricultural department officials predict that British Columbia this winter will need four if any potatoes from other provinces.

British Columbia often fails to produce enough potatoes to satisfy her own needs. In the past imports have been made from Alberta and Saskatchewan, and sometimes from as far east as Manitoba and from the United States.

Alberta this year is reported to be harvesting a crop only 50 per cent. of normal.

British Columbia can be expected to have heavy shipments of certified seed potatoes to the U.S., as in other years. It is expected that the latter because it is one of the few remaining areas on this continent in which seed virtually free of bacterial ring rot and various other virus diseases can be produced.

Hon. Douglas Abbott finance minister, explained the words "dominion of" had been left out since Oct. 1, 1947. They have been included in the letters patent constituting the office of governor-general on that date, he said.

TO EAT OR EXHIBIT WHALE IS QUESTION

THE PAS, Man.—The question of whether to eat or to exhibit a recent gift to the third annual Northern Manitoba Trappers' Festival is troubling the men planning the winter frolic.

The gift, presented by Adanac Fish Products, Ltd., is a baby whale which now stored in a freezer at Churchill, Man. It was donated as an exhibit for the festival, which will probably be held in February.

But whale steaks are very tasty, and the organizers of the festival are not sure whether to serve the mammal—in one piece or a steak at a time.

Agricultural Product Prices Move Down

OTTAWA — Farm prices of agricultural products moved downward in September and brought the index of statistics index of agricultural prices to the lowest since May, 1946.

The index was estimated at 240.3, the bureau reported. It compared with 253.2 in August and 261.8 in September, 1948.

The index, based on 1935-39 equals 100, was 247.5 in May, 1948.

Since September last year, prices fell for grains, livestock and dairy products and rose for potatoes, poultry and eggs.

Compared with August, September prices rose for grains, for grains, livestock and potatoes, and higher for dairy products, poultry and eggs.

In September indexes were lower than in August for all provinces and Manitoba where a slight rise was recorded.

ALL-OUT EFFORT

SPY RIVER, Man. — A community hoe was held recently in an all-out effort to finish the new Spy Hill Memorial rink

Out of an estimated $18,000 to cover the cost of the rink, $7,000 has already been raised by personal donations and community projects.

Over 24 per cent of the total taken from farms are made during September, October and November

Coyote Hunt May Become To Saskatchewan Farmers What Fox Hunt Means To The British

DISLEY, Sask.—The coyote hunt someday may mean to the Saskatchewan farmer what the fox hunt means to the British Saskatchewan's first organized coyote hunt was held here recently and all agreed—except the coyotes—that it was an artistic success.

A carnival spirit hit this small town 30 miles northwest of Regina, for the two-day hunt. More than 600 men, armed with shotguns, took part in the organized drive, and more than 1,000 persons turned up to behold.

The hunting bag of coyotes was 17 on the first day and was quite satisfactory to the local boys of Disley. Also, on the second day, as high as 11 were bagged for farmers who called in to see how the hunt was going, and that bad only many minutes after the hunt started.

Participants in the contest divided to the north and south of Disley, where the illegible animals were attacking poultry and livestock. A local airplane, piloted by Ellis and Farmer K. H. Bedder had aided them in the strategy. Knowing little about the rules of war against coyotes, Ellis and Bedder spotted the main hide of straggling mistakes.

For example on the first day of the hunt, Ellis and Bedder found that they could chew. More than 300 hunters were in the field attempting to surround an area 12 miles square and drive the coyotes into the centre.

"Lots of coyotes slipped through the line," Ellis said. "All are good seven animals got through."

But the hunters brought back about 12 animals.

On the second day more than the men took part. This time they employed a different strategy because they were hunting in a valley. Ellis and Bedder had a fixed three-mile line of men with moving flankers on each side to drive the coyotes into the line. The method killed about five animals, or about one for every 20 hunters taking part.

Ellis explained that for this man country he had 24 feet to the mile.

But we should have had at least 60," he said, "because lots of coyotes escaped between the lines."

Ellis said the men gathered at the hotel here and were taken to their starting points in a truck. They started hunting before noon and kept at it till dark. During that time they ate only a few sandwiches which they prepared before starting out.

Ellis did not believe there would be another coyote hunt here this fall, but he was already planning for next year.

"We're new at this business," he said, "and we have lots to learn We must have co-operation from all hunters and that will take a while."

He said hounds were used in the first hunt, and an autoplane took part in the first day's operations. A pilot handled the plane while a passenger kept an eye for coyotes Ellis thought perhaps the hounds and the air support could be used to better advantage. On the whole, though, he was satisfied with the performance here.

He believed the organized hunt could become a significant weapon against the coyote throughout Saskatchewan. He also thought it an great sport, and amateur report of that, for there's no bounty on the coyote in this province, and coyote skins at this time of year are worth about 50 cents

There was only one thing bothering Ellis and Bedder and that was how they were going to collect the $100 each it took them to organize the expedition?

Plans Diamond Drilling In Sask.

Assays of radioactive material sent by Northern Uranium Ltd. to dominion government radioactivity laboratory in June this year showed some encouragement, according to company officials with one group being reported encouraging for prospecting" and another of possible ore grade" running from 1 to 4.99 per cent uranium oxide.

R. H Havard managing director, outlined for Canadian Finance the program which Northern intends to carry out this winter Dr G McCartney has been retained as consulting geologist After ore becomes strong enough to carry the weight of equipment the company proposes carrying out a program of offshore diamond drilling and subsurface work on the main Gilch showing. A crew will also be put in to explore more fully the surface showings lying inland. Northern's claims are in the Black Lake district of northern Saskatchewan—Canadian Finance.

Boy Rescued From Attack Of Back Door

VICTORIA, B.C.— An unidentified boy, about seven years old, narrowly escaped death in an encounter with a 200-pound bear deer in Beacon Hill park here.

Screams of "save me, please save me" from the deer enclosure brought two park sightseers—Robert Chambers and Victor Buchko—to the boy's rescue.

They found the child lying on the ground, with the deer's antlers straddling his body. Shocking animal had pushed the screaming child along the ground against some bushes.

Chamber and Buchko grabbed the deer by the antlers, and released the boy. They used their belts to tie the animal's horns around a tree

The hysterical boy climbed back over the fence and disappeared.

Handy Oil Drum Tipper

Plans for oil drum tipper show the drum in the position for draining. When not in use the drum is in the upright position.

THE above are drawings for a stand made to support oil gallon drums for easy tipping. In fact we call this stand "oil drum tipper." The drawings show how the stand is constructed, which piping being used throughout. All joints are welded and the bottom runners of the stand are turned somewhat like a sled runner to allow the drum to be tipped on its end after a quantity of oil has been drawn from it. A fairly heavy strap of iron is welded to the end of the stand against which the bottom of the drum rests. Also, light flat iron straps are bent to the shape of the barrel across the top of the stand and welded at the ends

To use this stand the drum is set on end and tilted up to allow the stand to be slid under the end then the drum is simply tipped with the stand, placing it in a horizontal position so that oil can readily be drawn from the faucet in the end The drum

W. I. Dance, Sedgewick, Dec. 16th - Ruby Keehns

KILLAM KNOX UNITED GUILD

Mrs. J. Woolley was hostess to the December meeting of the Women's Guild. The Devotional, which was of a Christmas nature, was taken by Mrs. J. Shennan. The Treasurer, Mrs. W. Hall, gave a very gratifying report of the recent bazaar.
Plans were made for various gifts to be given at Christmas. The Xmas Tree Concert is to be held at the church on the evening of Tuesday, Dec. 20th, at which time Santa will be present. The choir is preparing to render the Christmas music at the Sunday morning service, Dec. 18th There will also be special music for the evening services on Christmas Day. The church will be decorated for both these services
Several items of Guild business were left for the January meeting owing to the small attendance. The meeting closed with the Benediction, which a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. W. McMahon and Mrs. C. Sherwood.

MRS. J. HOPKIN HEADS SEDGEWICK W. I. GROUP

SEDGEWICK Only 16 of the 29 members attended the annual meeting of the Women's Institute on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. T. Cuthery in Los absence of the President, Mrs. M Fleldhaw conducted the meeting. After the usual business was disposed of, including sending Christmas hampers, the Secretary read the annual report which was most encouraging, the proceeds from the entire community, for which we extend our sincere thanks
Mrs. L. Enstly was elected to take the chair for the election of officers, which resulted in the following being elected: President, Mrs. Hopkin; 1st Vice, Mrs. Clark James, 2nd Vice, Mrs H Jacobsuch, Secretary Mrs C. Beairsto Treas., Noel Blencoe; Directors, Mesdames Christenson, Monk and Enstly. The members all extend a hearty Thank You to Mrs. H. Beairsto who guided them through a happy and successful year. Our greatest asset
DOES NOT SHOW IN OUR BALANCE SHEET

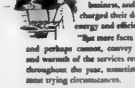
Big family — the B of M staff . . . close to ten thousand men and women serving well over a million and a half Canadians in every walk of life from coast to coast.
These are the people who make the B of M — they are our "greatest asset" which no balance sheet can show.

"I am very proud of our staff," said Gordon R. Ball in his report as General Manager to shareholders of the B of M. "The year has been a heavy one in all sections of our business, and our staff have discharged their duties with unstinting energy and efficiency . . .



"But mere facts and figures do not, and perhaps cannot, convey to you the spirit and warmth of the services rendered day by day by our staff, sometimes under most trying circumstances.
"I refer to the staff in many offices where alterations are under way, who carry on with a smile amidst the din of trip-hammers, and with carpenters, plasterers and others working at their trades.
"I refer to the men on the lonely outskirts of Labrador who have undertaked the banner of our institution in territories still undeveloped . . .
"I could go on recounting other tales of a spirit in our institution of the utmost value to us, measured in dollars and cents, but which is, nevertheless, our greatest asset . . .
I am very proud of our staff."

A Challenge To Canada

THE RECENT VISIT TO CANADA of Mr Jawaharlal Nehru, Prime Minister of India was an historic event and one that attracted widespread interest here. India has been rapid and important political changes since the war and has emerged the newest member of the Commonwealth of Nations. While Canadians have followed with interest events in the country, Mr. Nehru's visit marked the first occasion upon which Canada had the opportunity to officially welcome the head of the Indian government, and to discuss with him matters of concern to both countries.

* * * * *

Changes Taking Place in India — During his visit here Mr. Nehru told the Canadian people that they had naturally been interested in European affairs, but he endeavored to show that they should also give their attention to what is happening in Asia at the present time. "Unrestricted freedom and dire poverty have resulted in discontent and political unrest he said, and the interests of peace in the years to come these conditions must be remedied. In India Mr. Nehru said, human and material resources are being mobilized to create better living conditions for the people. East and West," the visiting Prime Minister believes, are interdependent and he reminded Canada that "we are all partners in the co-operative effort for freedom, peace and prosperity."

* * * * *

India To Buy Wheat Here — Tribute was paid by Mr. Nehru to the Commonwealth of Nations, of which Canada is a prime member, and he urged that this country play a greater part within the Commonwealth, as well in international affairs generally, to promote the cause of peace and freedom throughout the world. Although his visit was not for the purpose of discussing trade, Mr. Nehru said in an interview that India is interested in securing wheat, machinery and capital for investment in Canada and it was reported elsewhere that India would like to secure a total of 1 000 000 tons of wheat from this country. Prime Minister Nehru's visit to Canada was a memorable one, and doubtless did much to foster greater interest in this country, and to establish closer relations between two of the largest countries within the Commonwealth. The opportunity for continued interest and leadership on the part of Canada in that great association of nations stands as a challenge which it must not lose sight of or overlook. Although many changes have taken place in recent years, the Commonwealth remains a powerful voice in international affairs and one which may be used effectively in the future, as it has in the past in the interests of freedom and human welfare.

Alberta Is Short Of Forest Rangers

EDMONTON — There is a shortage of forest rangers in Alberta government officials said.

Due to high rate of post-war employment in Edmonton, several vacancies have cropped up in the provincial service. Some rangers and assistant rangers, men experienced in woods operations and familiar with the fish and game regulations, are needed for the Fort Pitagerald and Grande Prairie districts.

Saskatchewan, Alberta Boost Coal Production

OTTAWA — Canadian coal production in October totalled 1,900,200 tons, compared with 1,811,300 tons in October, 1948, the bureau of statistics reports.

For the January-October period, production was 15,024,800 tons, compared with 14,717,300 in the same period last year.

Coal production by western provinces, with production in October last year in brackets: Alberta 887,000 (808,800) tons, Saskatchewan 251 200 (239,500), British Columbia and Yukon Territories 163,000 (175,200).

MORE NUFFIELD CARS FOR CANADA

The Nuffield Organization, England, announced recently that Canadian distributors had, within a few days, placed orders for 8,140 Morris, Riley and MG cars to a value of almost £2 000 000 ($7,700,000).

The fat-tailed sheep are native to Afghanistan.

Farmers Buy $204,000,000 Worth Of Farm Equipment, 1948

EDMONTON—Canadian farmers dug down into their jeans and bought $204,000,000 worth of farm equipment last year. $57,411,000 more than they bought the year before. In addition, they spent about $35,000,000 on repair parts in one of the busiest years the farm equipment industry has experienced, the bureau of statistics reported.

The bureau estimated its retail figures with a wholesale value of $63 figures on the assumption there was 063,437. Harvesting machinery comprised 21 per cent. of the total and prises made up seven per cent.

Sales of farm wagons and sleighs were five per cent. lower than in 1947, dairy machinery and equipment were down 14 per cent. and poultry equipment was down 34 per cent.

Prairies Buy 61 Per Cent.

The prairie provinces bought 62.3 per cent. of the total sales, with 23 per cent. going to Ontario, nine per cent to Quebec and three per cent. each for the Maritime provinces and British Columbia.

Sales were higher in all provinces 30 per cent higher in Manitoba, 47 per cent. in Saskatchewan, between 27 and 39 per cent. in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, 21 per cent. in Quebec and up 27 per cent. in the Maritimes.

Most of the sales—27 per cent.—were made up of tractors and re-

Forecast Big Boost In Oil Well Earnings

EDMONTON, Alta.—Completion of the crude oil pipeline from Edmonton to Superior, Wisconsin, will boost well earnings of Alberta producers by more than $3,000,000 a month.

This is stated in Edmonton by Lorne F. Kahle, head of the International Pipeline company. He said in an address that the pipeline would make it possible for producers to immediately increase production from the present level of 40,000 barrels to 100,000 barrels per day.

He felt most of the $3,000,000 monthly add-d revenue for producers would find its way back into the economy of the oil region.

QUALITY WILL TELL

Some are afraid that temporary surpluses of grains may develop. Quality, however, will tell in competitive marketing. To maintain superior quality in Canadian grains will bring to Canadian farmers premiums over the world market price. The use of Registered seed is the best method of assuring high quality crops.

CREEK CHANGES COURSE OVERNIGHT — Overnight the 30-foot-wide creek at farm of Bail Nimigon, Beverly township, near Hamilton, changed its course. The farmer and his neighbors were surprised to find only a few pools of water left, and creek is now a quarter-mile away. This is old course.—B.N.S. photo.

TWO-PURPOSE CAB—All that tractor-cab needs is four bolts to become it on top of the tractor and then the owner, Gordon Schwalm of Hesston, doesn't care whether the weather is hot or cold in fall, winter or spring. The cab can slide off the tractor and be used for his children's playhouse when not in use. In the picture, Patricia Rachel is busy washing her dolls clothes and Barbara Louise is getting her doll's dinner. The cost of the two-purpose cab was only twelve dollars.

GOOD LUCK COMES TO BESIEGED FAMILY—It's a set of "dad." Sheltered Jack Hart, Toronto wherein his wife brought to his bedside the winning ticket she held on a $2,400 automobile draw conducted by the Canadian Legion at Collingwood. Hart has been unable to work since July when illness forced him to undergo two serious operations. Mrs. Hart, Legion official Maurice Robb and car are shown above.—B.N.S. photo.

CARE FOR CHILDREN OF CHURCHGOERS—United church Y.P.U. members at Jordan Station, near St. Catharines, Ont., Lorna Barnes and Norma Speck act as baby sitters, read stories to Larry Foster and Karen Foster. Purpose of this service is to allow parents with small children to attend church services.—B.N.S. photo 2037

MONTREAL B.P.'s ATTEND N.Y. EXPOSITION — Montreal Girl Guides former D.P.'s, Alfons Marchiste and sister, Mrs. A Tamoushiute, go over program at 30th Annual Women's International Exposition at New York.

A NEW WAY—Arthur Smith and son Harry demonstrate a new way of picking cranberries—with a vacuum picker which holds 30 pounds of berries.

PREW! IT'S GETTING COLDER—By the appearance of this young lady going to work this morning, it has all the evidence that Jack Frost is accompanying her.

LOTS OF NERVE NEEDED—Here's one way to build a bridge. Take three wire fences, join them together, place planks down the centre and string it over the river. All you need to cross is nerve—and lots of nerve. Pictured here is E. Fry crossing the South River at North Bay, Ont. The water is 20 feet deep.

DOUGH CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—According to this picture, dough can be beautiful too, no doubt about it". Many of you have dabbled in mix, sewing or fancy work of some sort, but have you thought of enjoying the pastime that can give so much pleasure to all young and old alike—the art of making flowers from dough? There is no need to do without dainty blossoms in your home because summer is gone. The dough coats practically nothing, and for sheer beauty, this type of work is unexcelled. A combination of real recreation and accomplishment that requires little or no instruction. About all that is required is a passion for flowers, some dough, a little paint and an artistic inclination.

Increasing Prairie Population Bound To Develop Resources

OTTAWA — Sparse population and lack of an accessible local market is hindering industrial development in the Prairie Provinces, according to Dr. H. M. Saunderson, director of information for the National Research Council.

However he told a meeting of the Ottawa Branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy that industries to supply the needs of the increasing population that will come to the Prairies are bound to develop.

In a highly technical survey of industrial development on the Prairies, he pointed out that although high freight rates hampered efforts of Prairie industries to expand into the export market, they did offer a measure of protection for the domestic Prairie market.

Both Dr. Saunderson and Dr. T. E. Warren, of the Fuels Division of the Bureau of Mines, spoke of the rich natural resources of the Prairie Provinces such as oil, natural gas and coal.

A factor currently favoring establishment of new Prairie industries was the "rapidly expanding economy" now being experienced in Alberta. He said "Alberta now is in the midst of a very real boom."

ICE TOO WEAK, FOUR MEN DROWN

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. — Four men from Yellowknife, bound on a fishing expedition were drowned when their snowmobile crashed through the ice on the north arm of Great Slave lake.

Dead are Mike Prochik, driver; Ricky Morris, Eric Hronsberg and Marcel Mouille.

The snowmobile was heading for shore when the ice broke.

Indians travelling by dog team brought word of the accident to RCMP Officers returned with them to the scene.

It was not known whether the bodies were recovered.

Weekly Editors Urge Student Printer Training

REGINA. — A plan for training high school students in the printing trades as part of their curriculum was submitted to Hon. W. S. Lloyd, minister of education, by a delegation from the Saskatchewan division, Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

The three-man delegation Walter Ashfield, editor of the Grenfell Sun, Gerald Humphrey, editor of the Moose Jawis Times and Norma Prairie News and Syd Stevens of the Shaunavon Standard, told the minister of education that Saskatchewan's apprenticeship scheme was not suitable for supplying printers to the weekly newspapers providing training for those interested in the work.

It was suggested by the delegation that construction of a school in Regina which would be able to teach printing as a part of the curriculum, as country newspaper shops for boys with grade 10 education. At the end of two years, the trainee would be fitted to take his place in a printing shop as an apprentice and would be able to commanded higher wages than those paid to a young person with no practical knowledge.

Heredity of Dwarf Cattle Puzzles Cattlemen

TORONTO. — Controversial groups of stockmen swarmed into the Sheep Building during the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, at Toronto, and they were not arguing about sheep.

Arguments centred around three Hereford bulls and two heifers of the same breed. All five together with a dozen other happy roamed around one sheep pen. They're the latest midget cattle said to have been brought out of the Lost Canyon by three pioneer cattlemen. Gene Hoffer of Jamestown, North Dakota.

If you believe Mr. Hoffer with the secret seems to be Marquis James who claimed he caught the midgets pets from a breed of dwarf cattle he looks as though he might be right. He tells how he found the "Lost Canyon" by both copter, and brought back two of the tiny creatures that made a sensational trip for the other three.

If asked where the famous "Lost Canyon" is, he just smiles and says, "I'll tell you a secret, and he's going back some day soon to bring out other midgets of a different breed. Don't ask him what breed — that's a deep, dark secret (con)

Mr Hoffer's herd is headed by "Ferdinand" Like his namesake he has a wonderful look. Instead of running from the girls he goes right over to them. Ferdinand is not the only one trying to take a midget cattle said he

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

NOTICE! Christmas Service ... at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Moran at Tofield.
Anglican Church on Sunday at 3:30 P.M. The Junior Choir will be in attendance.

First, let me apologize for this week's lack of news, as having been taken by the flu bug I was forced to spend the week in bed. The only window I looked through was the one in my bedroom. The one redeeming feature was that I was able to catch up on my soap operas, which I had sadly neglected for the past few years (without missing anything) so after a week in bed with Aunt Lucy and Ma Perkins, and a niece as willing to run as a discredited politician, you'd have a hard time convincing me that 'life can be beautiful'. So sorry of my friends should have the same affliction. I have a basket-load of pills and potions, everyone of them guaranteed a sure cure (except for me) which I will let them have at greatly reduced prices.

Mrs. Shannon and Barry spent a few days in the city last week on the streets of Dr. and Mrs. Russell.

Mrs G A McCoy was a St. Paul visitor last week and returned with her grandchild, baby Deshawnte. With grandma and two trained nurses (who are home on visit) and the other members of the family, the little tyke should be well cared for.

The Lougheed Coyote Hunt last week was a success. 300 hunters, 3 coyotes, 1 wolf with a spralned ankle. The coyotes will not bother the chickens anymore. The wolf? Well your guess is just as good as mine as he is still on the job.

Mr and Mrs A. Shabbery motored to Red Deer Sunday of last week to attend the birthday celebration of daughter Joyce (Mrs Ray Van Meer) and thence to Edmonton. Dr. Sipper accompanied the Shabberys. Get usual happy wishes and greetings to you Joyce.

Miss Connie Matheson of Camrose was a Sunday visitor to Lougheed arriving with the H. Shanks family. As the P O was closed that day there must be some other attraction, possibly the Art Lawley family.

Mr. and Mrs. Art McClure and baby Arde, Hayes Eldred and Miss Mary Ann McClure of Edmonton were guests of the Rogers home Sunday the 4th. A movie drive was held in the Merna district last Sunday, which caused quite a little excitement in the neighborhood. There were over 100 men gathered at the Merna Corners where they were taken by three trucks, driven by Hunter White, Dave Wallace and Alex McLeod and the school bus driven by Percy Smith and dispersed around an area three mile square; two miles East and 2 West and South of the P.O., this making the central point two miles South of the Store. Three coyotes were shot and two more died from lead poisoning (I have on very good authority). Personally I saw absolutely two more jumping lead at one little bunny rabbit and it was still going, last I saw of it. Ha ha.

It is with deep regret we report the death of an old friend and neighbor of this community, Mr. John Wilcox of Toronto. He passed away recently after a lengthy illness not a major operation last year. Further details are not known.

Little Sheila Armstrong returned home on Friday after five days spent in the Hardisty hospital.

Grandma Marlow is still a patient in the Hardisty hospital, but is progressing favorably. She expects to get home soon now, but will need someone to stay with her.

Mrs J. Armour left for the city on Friday the 9th.

A very enjoyable Xmas party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs A. Wiltshire on Dec. 8th, sponsored by the Gretna Club. The highlight of the evening of course was when Santa paid his annual visit with a gift for everyone. The evening closed on a social with a sumptuous lunch served by the ladies.

The annual meeting of the Gretna Goodwill Club is to be held at the W. O. Albrecht home on Jan. 12th. Mrs J. Armour and Mrs P. O'Reilly will be co-hostesses.

Bill Albrecht re-entered the Hardisty hospital on the 10th for a few days medical treatment.

Many took advantage of the new ice at Killam on Sunday. The ice was good. Music was supplied and the young people say it was 100 per. They appreciate the work of those who helped to provide it for them and wish to say sincerely, Thank You.

Plans are being made for the celebration of Christmas in the various rooms of the local school. It is understood that the Grades 1 and 2 will combine for a short program for their mothers on Wed. afternoon Dec. 21st in the Co-op hall under the direction of their teachers, Mrs. M. Donald and Miss Cade. Grade 3 will have a similar program for mothers in their room at school on the same afternoon at 2 o'clock. The plans of the other rooms have not been made known to our reporter, but we understand they will have their usual skating parties planned for all.

Paul Babitz and Harold Hollenbeck are spending the week end at their respective homes.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"INTERVIEW"

Why Didn't Miss Davida Call Him Instead Of Being A Teacher?

By W. JOHN STEVENS

MISS ALICE DAVIDS sat in her office, marking the exercises of her high-school English classes. There was a timid tap on her door. The knob was turned gently and a face peeped in.

"Yes Miss Hanson?"

Rothmary Hansen's pretty little-girl's face paled. "Miss Davids" She paused unhappily. Then, as if her courage had been gathered up, "May I see you a personal question?"

Alice Davids looked up. "Yes, Rothmary, but I can't promise to answer."

Rothmary sat nervously twisting her fingers. "It's a pretty child," Miss Davids thought, comparing Rothmary's hair with her own faded grey. "Yes, Rothmary?"

The words began bubbling out. "Miss Davids, I know you'll think I'm awfully fresh, honestly I'm not, I just have to know. Why didn't you get married instead of being a teacher?"

Alice Davids had had many experiences with students' questions. Now she felt she had undressed instead. Rothmary Her cheeks colored. She looked at the girl, who stared back miserably, looking like a goldish as she opened and closed her mouth, trying to say something that wouldn't come.

Quickly her mind ran over what she knew about Rothmary. Not too bright, just a good passing student. Rothmary and she were friendly, but then she honestly liked all her students, and they liked her. "Say friends" Yes, there was Jim Towsley, nice boy good brains, kind of Rothmary, and she seemingly liked him. Ambitions" Yes, that was it! Rothmary had ambitions, that motion-picture magazine that Rothmary read unnecessarily, to read one day in class. She smiled at Rothmary, suddenly remembering that she child was just graduating and was eighteen.

Rothmary, on the verge of tears, smiled back. "I'm sorry, Miss Davids I guess I shouldn't have . . ."

"Rothmary." Miss Davids interrupted, "you and I have always been pretty good friends, haven't we?"

"Yes'm," she gulped.

"If I tell you, will you promise to keep it a secret?"

"Oh, yes, Miss Davids, I won't tell a soul honest I won't. I just had to know for . . ."

"I don't have to be told, Rothmary. You must have a good reason. It's a rather odd question but I think I can answer it all. Not to a nice understanding girl like you. I like teaching very much, Rothmary."

"Oh, yes, Miss Davids, that's what I was telling Jim the other day, you seem so happy."

Miss Davids went on, "Yet, I know that if I had my choice, I wouldn't be here. My John and I had such plans together, such exciting plans." Miss Davids sighed. Rothmary was now on the edge of her seat.

"We were brought up together went to the same schools, had the same ideas about life. We both liked people, and we wanted our home and — but all that is over now, has been over for many years. Yes, dear, I like teaching, but most people aren't ready to live alone, and that is especially true of women. No matter how much you like your work, no matter how successful, you still feel the emptiness of knowing that you have no one really close to you."

Rothmary looked, through tears, at the handsome man who stood grinning at a much prettier Miss Davids, and then carefully put it down. She left the office without a word.

Alice Davids listened to her steps gathering speed down the hall, heard a squeal of joy, and went to the window where she saw Rothmary and Jim rush to the corner drugstore. She permitted herself a grin. She went back to her desk, and picked up the picture.

"Yes Isaac" she mused, "you're rather a good-looking fellow at that. Wait till you hear how you broke my heart."

Still grinning she put the picture down. She was about to start looking for stationery. Then she thought of Rothmary.

"I've got to grade them first, dear brother, the letter from your broken-hearted sister can wait." Still grinning at her lawyer-brother she removed grading papers.

Miss Alice Davids was perfectly happy.

Daughter's Success Inspired First Double Winner At Winter Fair

EDMONTON — John T Elnik of Hairy Hill, Alta., first double winner at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, might never have entered the show if he had not been inspired by the success of his 17-year-old daughter in Alberta Junior seed shows.

The starter-section, farmer, who won the world oats and barley titles, has been a consistent registered seed grower for more than 20 years. He has shown his varieties in provincial shows with some success, but never entered the big seed show until last year.

He decided he "just wanted to try" with some oats at the Chicago world fair in 1948 after his daughter Tilley won most of the prizes for three years in the junior barley, flax and oats classes at provincial shows.

"He took about 15 pounds of oats to the Hairy Hill Post Office and asked the postmaster to insure the shipment and airmail it to Chicago."

and Fred Magera, district agriculturist. "The postmaster, assuming it was just an ordinary shipment of oats, insured it for only $1

Mr Elnik, who came to Alberta from the Ukraine about 35 years ago, claims all his sheer seed at home is an ordinary hand-cleaning mill. He must have done a "tremendous amount of work" in preparing his prize-winning oats and barley exhibits for the Toronto show, J Magera, a neighbor, said. It takes about 30 10-hour days to prepare one good show sample.

Western Briefs

Convention For Calgary
EDMONTON — The 1950 convention of the Canadian Tourist Association will be held in Calgary and Banff September 15-14, provincial tourist officials said here.

Funds Raised
CARROT RIVER, Sask. — Funds for the new town hall got a boost of $111 cleared from the well-attended amateur hour sponsored by the Melody Kings orchestra.

New School Rooms
FLIN FLON, Man. — Flin Flon School Board officials estimated plans to enlarge junior high facilities in this northern town. Seven new classrooms are slated for construction under the plan, five of which are expected to be completed by the fall of 1950.

Coincidence
REGINA — E. Lambert, a desk clerk at Hotel Saskatchewan, did a double take when a guest registered as "E. Lambert". The desk clerk was even more amazed when the customer noted his address as Eleventy street, Winnipeg. Eugene is the clerk's first name.

Road Plant
REGINA.—Construction of a road-surfacing plant in Regina at a cost of over $50,000 was announced by H. C. Finn, Toronto, president of the Canadian Bitumuls Co. Ltd.

To Coach Team
WINNIPEG — Alex Shinkiw, onetime forward great with New York Rangers, said he has agreed to sign as coach of Flin Flon Bombers of the Northern Saskatchewan Junior Hockey league.

Smart Farmer
BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. — Dr. Henry E. Hansen, a veterinarian, got a call from a downtown druggists. A farmer there wanted him to look at a sick cow.

Dr. Hansen picked up the farmer and drove him through winding, country roads.

As the pair pulled up to the farmer's house, the farmer opened the car door and said.

"You can let me out here, doc. I haven't got a sick cow. You see, you charge only $3 for a visit while a taxi would have cost me $5.

Daf oe Farmer Has Champion Shorthorn

TORONTO. — William Harrison of Dafoe, Sask., is the champion shorthorn trophy donated by the Shorthorn Society of the United Kingdom for the best Shorthorn of the Royal Winter fair

Mr. Harrison's entry was Kilburn Norman VIII

Alberta Bred Bull
DAFOE, Sask.—William Harrison, whose took the trophy for the best shorthorn at the Royal Winter Fair, paid $3,800 for his champion, an Alberta bred bull from the Gallagher herd at Edmonton.

Mr Harrison, who farms six miles southwest of Dafoe, had the grand championship yearling bull at the Regina spring sale in 1948 and a Get of Get.

This same bull also placed first at the Royal Winter fair in Toronto in 1944 and only missed showing for the grand championship there because of developing shipping fever.

He started in purebred shorthorns in 1916 when he bought a heifer calf, Blys Baroness 2nd for $75 and has worked his herd up to 53 head of purebred animals

In 1936 he bought Princess Royal 107th at the G Green dispersal in Toronto for $2,500 and before that in 1948 purchased Lord Stanley Cowman 16th from Cicelo Gallinger for $2,000.

He is reading four bills for the Regina sale in 1950

B.C.-Alaska Line Would Cost Plenty

OTTAWA — Ethereal Affairs Minister Pearson said it would cost $200-000-000 to link British Columbia with Alaska by railway and estimated that any such line would have a $50-000-000-a-year deficit for years.

He told Howard Green (PC—Vancouver, Quadra) the government already has surveyed the possibilities but would be willing to discuss it with American authorities in the wake of the right front General Truman to talks about it in Canada.

COMMANDING VIEW
Chilliwack, Sask., was named on account of the commanding position which it occupied above the banks of the Saskatchewan river 2057

1949 Wheat Crop Down

OTTAWA — Canada's 1949 wheat crop was reported at 267,400,000 bushels in the final estimates of the country's grain production by the Bureau of Statistics. Last year's wheat crop totalled 393 345 000 bushels

The oats crop was estimated at 316,558,000 bushels, down from last year's production of 358 807,000

Barley production totalled 120,383,000 bushels this year, compared with 155,010,000 in 1948

A sharp drop was reported in rye output This year's crop was estimated at 10 011,000 bushels, compared with 25,340,000

GREETINGS!
To our readers, subscribers, advertisers, and to everyone everywhere, I extend greetings. May 1950 be the year in which your cup of contentment will overflow; may brotherly love prevail, and the God of Peace dwell with you. — A. W. Eastly.

PERSONAL STUFF
—By A. W. E.—

There has been throughout the country this fall, numerous so-called Coyote Hunts. This has been done, I presume, partly to give the people something to concentrate on besides business, farming and taxes. If so, the objective was accomplished to a certain degree. From my own observations I know that some few who went on the hunts, did forget every thing but shooting these predators. To those few goes any responsibility for the success of the drives. There were others who might just as well have stayed home and acted over income tax forms for all the good they were on the hunt.

There too, I imagine, the hunts were organized to rid the country of those bothersome pests (?) — but not in this respect it might be said that the expeditions were near failures.

In all the hunts somewhere over fifty percent of the animals managed to sneak through the circles simply because men (I sometimes think we are worse than women) wanted to be together to pass the time of day. Circles were not kept intact and the coyotes (smart creatures that they are) soon found the openings. Then of course, as in every case, there were the sinchers; the ones who wanted to on the kill but who were reluctant to earn the right by trampling the necessary three miles.

The night after one such hunt, as I waited home, I could hear coyotes howling from the area that had just been gone over. What they were trying to say I have no idea, but my guess would be, "Because, the smart part of all varmity creatures' Brother that's a laugh. Look how we fooled them." It was fun anyway.

We are getting a bit of a taste of winter weather now, but I do not [illegible] to be expected at this time of year. Wherever lies ahead of us in the way of weather, we will always be able to look back on November and the first week in December as being almost ideal fall weather, and that these five weeks helped a lot to break the back of winter. Those who feared for a white Christmas may now rest at ease it seems for the day has every indication of being white. Green or white which ever it may be, there is one thing almost sure, and that is that there will be no snow to speak of. A purplish hue before January 1st

Which brings me around to the subject of Christmas. Year by year we are getting further and further away from the true meaning of what Christmas represents. Fewer and fewer of us give thanks for the Yuletide season and what it has given to us in a spiritual way. More and more of us look upon Christmas as a time to go on a spending spree and load our bodies with spirits, forgetting for most entirely that Christmas is the time to be thankful, grateful, humble and spiritually and physically clean

KILLAM DIVISION ELECTORS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Electors of all five constituencies of the Killam School Division met recently at Killam to hear reports of the school officials and to nominate trustees. Chairman of the meeting was J. Gair, with H. T. Roberts as Secretary. Supt. Chalmers reported 1900 pupils in the division, in comparison with 1090 a year ago. The division operates 19 one-room schools and 9 graded schools, totalling 68 classrooms. During the year 7 rural schools were closed and 4 classrooms opened in centralized schools. The staff now comprises 66 teachers and 4 correspondence supervisors, and 5 bursaries are being provided for teachers now training.

Other discussion was devoted to divisional finances and grants, with it that the meeting passed a resolution requesting the government to pay 50 p.c. of the cost of operating schools, and in the event of their failure to do so, then the question be put to a plebiscite of voters. Dissatisfaction was also expressed with holding annual meetings before the end of the fiscal year, and then passed approved a resolution favoring the holding of annual and nomination meetings in June.

At the nomination day-time, the Secretary announced that Fred Rowland and J. J. Reilly had been nominated for the Holden sub-division as trustees, and that the elect on would be held on the second Saturday in January. For the Sedgewick and Lougheed sub-division the present trustees Thos Clemens of Lougheed was re-elected by acclamation.

An Appeal For Children

THE WAR LEFT LARGE NUMBERS of people in Europe and in Asia homeless and without means of earning a living. The great social problem arising from the plight of these people has been to some extent solved, with many thousands of displaced persons finding homes and becoming re-established in this country, and in other lands not ravaged by war. There are however, still many who have been less fortunate, and these include millions of children who, as a result of the war, live under conditions of privation and misery which it is difficult for people in a country such as ours to imagine.

* * * * *

U.N. Has Dealt With Problem

Through the International Children's Emergency Fund the United Nations has dealt with this problem, providing shelter and care for great numbers of homeless destitute children. This work requires a considerable amount of money, and from time to time funds have run low, threatening the success of this great humanitarian effort. Canada is among the countries which have been giving financial support to the undertaking and in proportion to the population those contributions have compared favorably with those of other countries. This year, the federal government is giving $1,875,000 to the fund, which represents a considerable increase over last year's contribution of $480,000.

* * * *

is Supported In Canada

In addition to the amount given by the government, appeals are made under the auspices of the United Nations Appeal for Children which is an organization incorporated under Canadian charter. This appeal for donations from individuals and from business and other organizations in Canada, including the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the National Council of Women and various service clubs, churches and other bodies, has been in progress since the Fund last year by UNICEF in Canada, but it has been pointed out that nearly $16,000,000 was spent here in the same year by the Emergency Fund, for supplies with which to carry on the work. That the children of tomorrow be a citizen which is frequently heard. The millions of children in Europe and in Asia whom the Children's Emergency Fund seeks to help will, in a few years, be adults whose attitudes and convictions are in a measure being determined now. On humanitarian grounds, and in the interests of the future relations between the people of these lands and our own, Canadians should not neglect the opportunity to support the Emergency Fund as long as that type of help is required.

New Industries All-Time High For Manitoba

WINNIPEG — Manufacturing production in Manitoba will be an all-time high this year Natural resources minister I S McDiarmid has estimated that by year's end it will reach a gross of $463,000,000. 7½ per cent. above the 1948 record of $430,000,000.

Industries employ 42,000 and estimated gross wage earnings at 1949 will be about $87,000,000.

Forty new industries started operations, most of them comparatively small but their output accounts for part of the $33,000,000 increase over last year in gross volume of production.

Since rural electrification in Manitoba got under way, many of these industries established in small towns where over-all cost of operation is generally lower.

Another phase of the expansion picture has been the unusual number of British firms getting into the western market. In the last 12 months, Mr. McDiarmid said nearly 100 have established agencies and more than 95 per cent. of them are located in Winnipeg.

Mr. McDiarmid said developments indicate British manufacturers realize they must have representation in Western Canada if they hoped to sell their goods between Lakehead and the Rocky Mountains.

Wheat Queen Only Needs To Win Title Once More To Obtain Permanent Possession Of Trophy

CHICAGO.—Canadian farmers, one of them a grey-haired, 56-year-old woman, won three of the major grain championships at the International Hay and Grain show here.

Mrs. Amy Kelsey of Estevan, B.C., won the title of wheat queen, premier award of the show. Sydney H. Pawlowski of Spedden, Alta., was named the king.

The barley king award was won by L. E. Peterson of Victor, Mont.

Mrs. Kelsey's victory brought Canada her first major victory in the hay and grain show, held in conjunction with the International Livestock exposition. Canada also has scattered entries in livestock classes but grain is traditionally her strong point.

Mrs. Kelsey, who grows her wheat on an experimental plot on her ranch in the Kootenays' is the only woman who has ever won the coveted wheat prize at the annual show in Chicago. She also took the award in 1946. She was not present to see her exhibit take top honors.

The British Columbia woman's sample of reward hard red spring wheat, weighing 66 pounds to the bushel, won her a second world title within two weeks. She was named world wheat champion Nov. 15 at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Mrs. Kelsey needs to win the crown only one more time to obtain permanent possession of the Union stockyard and Transit company trophy, which must be won three times in be retained by the exhibitor.

Pawlowski, exhibiting a Victory variety sample weighing 46.2 pounds a bushel, gave Canada the oats grand championship for the 10th straight time. United States growers have won the prize only eight times since 1919.

The title was won last year by John T. Reid of Hay Hill, Alta., double - barrelled oats and barley champion of the 1948 Royal Winter fair. Elijah placed fifth in his class here this year.

Since its hay and grain show started in 1919, only three exhibitors, all Canadians, have made a better showing than Mrs. Kelsey in the wheat division. Herman Trelle of Wembley, Alta., won the wheat crown five times. R. C. Mitchell of Dahinda, Sask., and F. Lloyd Rigby of Wembley each has won it three times.

Canadians have taken the world wheat crown every year since 1910. It has gone to United States farmers only four times.

But the barley division is a different story. The barley crown has been awarded to Canadians only eight times during the 26 years of judging. The last Canadian to win the title was George Dwyth of Keyston, Sask.

LITERARY COMPETITION

Most '49 Flax Crop Reach Top Grade

WINNIPEG — Approximately 80 per cent. of the 1949 flax crop had reached the top grade, number one Canada western, but the average content of the new crop is below last year, the research laboratory of the board of grain commissioners reported.

This year the western Canada flax crop was slightly above 2,000,000 bushels, the laboratory's report said, noting that it was the smallest crop since 1938.

It described the results of its sample survey as follows:

Analyses of average samples representing 717 carlots of flax inspected during the first three months of the season gave a mean oil content of 40.3 per cent. and a mean iodine value of 188 units. Corresponding figures for the complete 1948-49 crop year are 41.1 per cent. and 183 units.

A survey of the oil content, iodine value, and protein content of 251 samples of the first three grades of new-crop flax, representing 156 stations in Manitoba, 180 stations in Saskatchewan, and 21 stations in Alberta, gave the following mean values

| | Oil Content | Iodine Value | Protein |
|---|---|---|---|
| Manitoba | 40.1 | 187 | 21 |
| Saskatchewan | 39.6 | 181 | 21 |
| Alberta | 40.1 | 187 | 21 |
| Western Canada 1949-50 | 39.9 | 184 | 21 |
| Western Canada 1948-49 | 41.1 | 183 | 21 |

Miracle Drug Available Soon

NEW YORK — Canada's health minister announced that a small supply of cortisone will be available after Jan. 1 to Canadian researchers, Cortisone is the drug which promises almost miraculous relief to arthritis sufferers.

Paul Martin said in a statement that if further experience justifies wide use of the drug it is hoped it may become available for general distribution.

He said startling results have been already obtained from the small quantities of cortisone now available, adding however.

"These rosier hopes have been raised by stories about this magic drug must remember that it is still in the experimental stage and that hitherto cortisone will probably require continuous treatment.

The occupied farm area of Saskatchewan is 39.4 million acres which is about half of the occupied farm land in the prairie provinces and about one-third of all Canada.

Beaver Flourishing In Huge Nursery In Northern Manitoba

WINNIPEG—Vast areas of Northern Manitoba have been turned into a huge beaver nursery.

Compared with a closed season in 1942-43 when there was no profit from the declining beaver population, Manitoba last year netted $425,000.

A Northland variety of dogpeddler and regulated trapping keep the pelt yield steady and eliminate "nuisance" beavers.

For years the beaver was a problem for railwaymen, damming culverts and causing floods on the lines. Once a rail crew spent three successive days cleaning out a culvert only to find it plugged again by morning. They finally had to shoot the beaver. Six carloads of gravel were needed for repairs.

In 1945 a "nuisance patrol" was formed to travel the railway on gasoline hand-cars and trap the pests in their first year, the two-man team caught 152 beavers. This year the objective is 250—an impressive figure when it is realized three females produce about 20 descendants in five years.

Beavers caught by the patrol are not killed, but transplanted by airplane, train, truck or dogsled to areas where there are a few of the animals.

The Manitoba government, having given the provincial beaver trade full protection for a period, a "trimmed season" sign was needed, brought in the reg-

New Oil Refinery For Edmonton

Construction will get under way this spring in Edmonton on a 6,000-barrel-a-day oil refinery for British American Oil Co. Survey has commenced on the site which will be some four miles east of the city on the North Saskatchewan River. It is estimated that some 500 to 600 workers will be employed during the 12 to 14 months of construction work.

So far Imperial Oil Ltd. operates the only refinery at Edmonton although McColl-Frontenac has announced that construction with commence early next year on a $10 million refinery in the Edmonton area.

B.A. Oil already operates western refineries at Moose Jaw, Sask., and Calgary, Alta. No cost estimate is given on new plant.—The Financial Post.

The war-dance of the medieval knights was 16 feet long.

istered traplines system in 1940. The idea is to control the annual kill so that enough beavers are left to breed a new crop.

A Manitoba game and fisheries branch official said "transplanting" nuisance is an important part of the control set-up.

"There was a closed season on fur as beavers were converted in 1942-43, because of the scarcity of the animal, he said. In 1947-48, however, 10,762 beavers were trapped and their pelts sold.

"While Manitoba's figure is not nearly as impressive as that of Ontario or Quebec—the latter has a crop about four times as big—it is fair for the province's size in comparison with the other two."

The average Manitoba trapper now gets about half his earnings from beaver pelts

APPETIZING APPLE CAKE

Recipe

1/2 cup butter, 1/2 cup lukewarm water, 1 teaspoon granulated sugar, 1 cup sifted flour. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Royal Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. THEN stir well. Add 1 cup milk and stir in 1 cup sifted flour. Beat until smooth. Add 1 tablespoon shortening, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 cup sifted flour. Add yeast mixture and 1 beaten egg. Beat well with a fork. Cover and let rise in warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough and divide into 2 equal portions; form into smooth balls. Roll each piece into oblong shape. Spread with 1/2 cup softened butter, 1/2 cup granulated sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon, sprinkle on apples. Cover and let rise almost 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 1 hour. Serve hot, with butter.

New Fast-Acting Dry Yeast Needs NO Refrigeration!

Stays fresh and full-strength on your pantry shelf for weeks! Here's all you do:

1. In a small amount (usually specified) of lukewarm water, dissolve thoroughly 1 teaspoon sugar for each envelope of yeast.
2. Sprinkle with dry yeast. Let stand 10 minutes.
3. THEN stir well. The water used with the yeast counts as part of the total liquid called for in your recipe.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

The West German Parliament voted Bonn, Rhine city and birthplace of Beethoven, as the capital of West-ern Germany.

Reaching at speeds as high as 500 miles an hour, Britain's new Comet jet airliner made its longest test flight recently.

Food Minister John Strachey handed the British people an early Christ-mas present when rationing was cancelled on bacon and cooking fat.

Lord Horder, physician to the king and Britain's national health plan has secured medical standards and appears likely to crash on the health of economics."

Construction will start in the spring on a new $220,000 63-bed addition to the Veterans' hospital in Victoria, B.C., Veterans Minister Robert Mayhew announced.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced in the commons that there is no foundation for rumors of a pending visit to Canada and the United States by Princess Margaret.

Music, news and train information will be broadcast soon over the loudspeaker in Grand Central Railroad station, New York. A few commercials also will be included to help defray the cost.

Grade 7 pupils at Carrot River have got a practical lesson in banking recently. The manager of the Royal Bank conducted the class through the institution and explained the children with the importance of saving money.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS

A GOOD WASHDAY

By JANE SALE

When all the sweety and bustle is past
And the clothes are out on the line at last,
When the kitchen's clean and the heater aglow,
I feel that I've had a good washday.

And when the sun shines bright and the wind does blow
And the clothes dry quickly, run on row,
I sang a song as I fold them away
For I know that I've had a good washday.

For though the children dirt runs and feet
And tried to help 'til they were soaking wet,
I finally settled them at their play
And gave them a treat when the wash was away.

And when the sun sank low in the west,
The children were sleeping and I was at rest
I said a few words as I knelt to pray,
"I thank you dear Lord for a good washday."

VERY GOOD REASON

The eyes of a guinea-pig don't drop out if you pick up the animals by the tail; guinea-pigs haven't got tails.

Cleanliness is not only next to Godliness—it also is precept No. 1 in disease prevention and contagion control.

Solid Stone Gate Posts

PLAN VIEW OF TOP

The drawing indicates the dimensions for a stone gate post.

HERE is a drawing of a square masonry gate post with a good foundation. Unless ground is very wet drained a foundation of field stone in a hole would hardly be adequate for such a block of masonry. It is much better to make it of concrete, using a mixture of 1 part cement to 3 parts bank run gravel. To reduce the amount of concrete needed it is advisable to embed field stones in the concrete, making sure, however, that all stones are completely surrounded by concrete. In a big footing like this about half of the volume may consist of field stone mortar for the masonry can be made of 1 part cement and 1 part hydrated lime to 3 parts of clean, screened sand. The sloping sides on the foundation of these posts prevent frost from getting a grip on the concrete, thus preventing lifting of the block when the soil heaves. The concrete cap for this post should be made of a 1-2-3 mixture of cement, sand and small pebbles. It is preferred in a form then placed on the post.

N.H.L. Sport Notes

Boilermakers' Line Popular

One of the most popular lines per-haps in the National Hockey League is the Boilermaker line. Has the threesome is composed of Metro Prystal at center, Roy Gudolski on left wing and rookie Bert Olmstead on right wing. They've got lots of trouble and have been coming through with some very timely goals for the Hawks.

Likes October Sked

As far as Bill Durnan is concerned he would like every day to be October 23. For the last two seasons Big Bill has turned in shutouts on games played that day. Last year on October 23 against Detroit's Indy and Harry Lumley chalked up a goose-egg as they respective clubs played to a scoreless draw. Then on October 23 this year and which is an oddity, he and Jack McLeod of the Bruins registered shutouts as Canadiens and Boston played to a scoreless tie. It was Bill's second shutout of the season on both occasions. While Durnan likes the 23rd it is safe to assume that the Canadiens forwards hate it, as they just can't seem to score any goals on that date.

The Bills Have It

There are more players currently competing in the National Hockey League whose first names are Bill than any other Christian name. There are eight Bills in the loop to-day. They are Bill Quackenbush, Bill Juzda, Bill Gadsby, Bill Reay, Bill Barilko, Bill Durnan and Bill Mosienko. The Juzd ays second with four. There's Jim Thomson, Jim Conacher, Jim Peters and Jim McFadden. Until recently there was also Jim Bedard but he had since been loaned to Kansas City.

Almost Had Nic Team Goals

Canadiens had scored 30 goals on November 19 and Maurice Richard's scored close to half of these. The Rocket had notched 12 counters on November 19.

Eskimo Lad Does Well On Artificial Legs

EDMONTON. — David Kosmayuk hitched the legs of his trousers and revealed two artificial limbs. With a shy smile the 16-year-old Eskimo said wistfully:

"When I was home I had a pair of leg. Now I know I will never be able to run again."

Never again will the husky youth lead his former nomad life, moving from one igloo home to another and travelling miles over the frozen Arctic wastes behind his dogsled in search of caribou and seal.

But David believed to be the first Eskimo ever to be fitted with artificial legs, already is preparing himself for a new life in the Arctic to which he will return soon.

Doctors at Charles Camsell Indian Hospital in Edmonton, where David's legs were amputated 4½ inches below each knee to prevent gangrene from spreading, said he likely will be able to walk around some Arctic settlement as a clerk.

"With his intelligence quotient of 120 he has the ability to go far beyond a clerking job," said David's hospital school teacher.

"Although he has taken instruction for only a few months, he can read English beautifully, and his hand-writing skill is equivalent to a grade nine student's. Because of his photographic memory and surprising talent for imitation he can write my signature as well as I can."

The stocky lad, whose feet dropped off last Christmas eve in be-numbing cold, is very popular with the staff at Crown-it N.W.T. airport in an R.C.A.F. survey plane. He is from Cresswell Bay in on Somerset Island, 600 miles inside the Arctic circle and 1,000 air miles northeast of Edmonton.

David has been on his new legs for only three weeks but he can walk so well that he carried food trays around his hospital ward.

He has parents, a brother and a sister in a plague three years ago.

Hunter Attacked By Wounded Deer

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. — William Szczurek, 25, said that he was attacked by a wounded deer but managed to kill it three-and said he wounded the buck in two legs and thought he had killed it with it stumbled and fell. When I went over to study its throat, the deer rose on its forelegs and threw me with his antlers, he said. I landed on its back and did not go until I fin-ished the job I started."

Sees Merit In Selection Of No. 1 Canadian Farmer

SASKATOON—The recent recruiting of the "country farm movement" and selection of "No. 1 Canadian farmer" at the Ottawa Winter Fair are favored by two Saskatchewan agriculturists.

An Ottawa report said the directors of the Ottawa fair selected Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of the Dominion Experimental Farms as Canada's No. 1 farmer.

Professor J. G. Rayner, director of extension at the University of Saskatchewan, and some 2 judges in the Movement and Professor E. A. Hardy, agricultural engineering specialist said the Movement has considerable merit and should be revived.

To make the competition fair many masterpieces will have to be entered so all Canadian producers may have a top-ranking farmer can be selected, Professor Rayner said.

The movements were sponsored in the four Western provinces in the early '30's by a now defunct publication, the No-West Farmer. They were started to encourage and recognize good farming and good rural citizenship.

Heart Disease Is Canada's No. 1 Killer

OTTAWA.— Heart disease is Canada's number one man-killer.

It took more lives in the first three months of this year, said the Dominion bureau of statistics report, than all other persons' deaths and general accidents combined.

A total of 9,307 Canadians died of heart disease in the first quarter of 1948. Cancer deaths totalled 4,624, pneumonia 1,837, tuberculosis 980 and general accidents 1,470.

Interesting lessons of vascular origin was medical public enemy number three in both 2,702 lives.

Another major cause of death was hypertion, which claimed the lives of 1,600 Canadians.

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

In Shoo-Shoo-Baboo, The Old Testament appears the original version of the meeting between a love-sick girl and her boy friend Ghelfi and Barez.

Both hold in Paris. The Baron's father, among the many other disagreement, doesn't want to let him in on fleeing job," said David's hospital school teacher.

"Although he has taken instruction for only a few months, he can read English beautifully, and his hand-writing skill is equivalent to a grade nine student's. Because of his photographic memory and surprising talent for imitation he can write my signature as well as I can."

Oil Search Expands Rapidly In Saskatchewan And Manitoba

Nowhere in the world has the search for oil expanded so rapidly this year as in Saskatchewan, says The Financial Post in a recent issue specializing on Western Canada's current oil boom.

"Spurred by numerous oil discoveries in neighboring Alberta, the search for oil in Saskatchewan and Manitoba has rapidly changed from a desultory affair to a major "play." Prospects all appear favorable for oil in southern Saskatchewan have been backed by reservations.

Prior to 1939 major oil companies had practically ignored Saskatchewan as they went for oil deeper-rooted accumulations in the Provinces of Alberta. Then a new cabinet government was been as more-stored to work on fare terms with oil companies large and small.

"But with much easier reservation terms in Saskatchewan than in Alberta and with much larger areas available for investigation, this situation has undergone a tremendous change. The oil pot is now boiling in both Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The entire southern half of Saskatchewan, starting at a point about 100 miles north of Prince Albert, is under-ation with rocks favorable for oil and the favorable rocks in Manitoba extend perhaps as far as 275 miles north of the international boundary along the common frontary with Saskatchewan.

Interest in Ireland these areas for oil is thus an extremely logical following the discoveries of oil in Alberta.

A total of 9,307 Canadians died of heart disease in the first quarter of 1948. Cancer deaths totalled 4,624, pneumonia 1,837, tuberculosis 980 and general accidents 1,470.

Interesting lessons of vascular origin was medical public enemy number three in both 2,702 lives.

Another major cause of death was hypertion, which claimed the lives of 1,600 Canadians.

"Oil production to date in Saskatchewan has been derived almost entirely from structures overlying the Devonian. This has been no problem to date from the Devonian which has been found to be the big oil reservoir in Alberta. It is expected that the investigation of well over 60 million acres of Saskatchewan lands taken up under Crown and freehold rights will lead to discoveries to drill a whole series of Devonian tests with an excellent chance of crude pools similar to those in Alberta. Several Devonian tests have been drilled in the last two years in Saskatchewan. While none has secured commercial production they haven't been enough in themselves to discourage hopes that the Devonian will also prove productive in its southern structures.

A further Devonian test is now being drilled at Manitoba just east of Lake-to-note Basin proper.

To realize the scope of the geological program in Saskatchewan:

Two group shoot loaded in Tolerance (c) ... certified to spud a total of approximately 19.5 — flows on exploration in the next 12 years.

Further than summer this group undertook an aeromagnetic survey program covering upwards of 5,000 square miles at an estimated cost of about $100,000 monthly.

A second major oil group headed by Bahai Oil a Standard Oil subsidiary holds approximately eight million acres of Crown land under permit. Here too there exists favorable seismographic and gravity data which will already tie a drilling program well under way. Drilling by this company has so far been concentrated in the Langham and Bresaylor areas of Saskatchewan just east of no northwest of Saskatoon, in an attempt to gain detailed geological information.

Husky Refining Phillips Petroleum Shell Oil and Imperial Oil a Co and Royalite Oil are some of the larger oil companies interested in Saskatchewan's current oil play."

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Mr Frank Kirkman spent a few days in the city last week visiting friends and relatives

Funny old world, or rather funny people who make up the world We should have heard the annual chant knocking the weather, just because it was 25 below for one night They forgot all the spring like weather we had when other districts were having blizzards, floods and cold and snow Sometimes I think we spend an awful lot of our time thinking of our imaginary woes that we overlook our blessings

Arvid Petersen is hoping Santa will bring him an alarm clock for Xmas as the old one laid down on him last week. The result was that the kiddies missed school.

Mrs. B. Atwood of Rawley spent a few days last week with her son the Rev Grainger. She and the Grainger family motored to Camrose where she remained for home.

Harry Barton and Geo Hoets are busy painting the interior of the Barton Garage, taking as their motto that old hymn, 'Brighten the Corner Where You Are'. Well nothing will attract attention like a bit of paint Even the ladies discovered the secret long ago.

You are all invited to attend the Candle-light Service at the Church of the Nazarene on Dec. 25 at 8 p.m.

The new officers of the Community Hall Assn. for 1930 are Pres. T. Kemp, Sec.-S. Denham, Vice D. Walmsley, Theatre Manager, A. Olsen and E. Pedersen.

Elmer Stokes of Camrose (that insurance man) paid the old home town a visit last week

Olaf Rigard left last week for another winter in the bush Between operating a farm in the summer and lumbering in the winter Olaf never has a dull moment

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Quiet But Pretty Wedding

By M. J. COLLINS

"Oh! Isn't he the darling!" Peggy, my sister, exclaimed when she really saw our two-and-a-half-year-old son, Rick. He'd been under her nose so to speak, all the time, but there was an excuse for her. Peggy would be married in a few minutes. Young Rick was wearing a white satin suit and it was my supreme job to see that he kept it clean. Peggy has thought it would be cute for Rick to be the ring bearer and the wife agreed with her right away, so I kept my opinion to myself. Well, it would soon be all over.

The bridal party were in the vestibule of the church waiting for the wedding march to begin. Mary, my wife, was making a few last-minute adjustments to Peggy's wedding dress.

"Now you know what you're supposed to do, son?" I asked sitting down on my heels. He nodded his blonde head vigorously. "I'm to carry the ring on the cushion to the front of the church, and not to let my boy a word." He rattled the words off quickly.

"Oh, have him alone!" my wife said impatiently, "or you'll have him all rattled. He knows what to do. We had enough rehearsals to make everything perfect. And," she continued, finishing with Peggy's dress, "you'd better hurry to your seat, we're going to start the music." She stopped something unobtrusively in Rick's hand. I did as she suggested, the usher showing me to my seat on the left side of the church.

Old Jim, our organist, swung into the strains of the wedding march. Once upon a time he'd been a very sergeant and any music with the word march, well, it was played with that definitely in mind.

I could see the wedding party coming down the aisle out of the corner of my eye. Bill, the bridegroom, and his best man were peering nervously through the drapes at the vestry door waiting to converge on the party. I wondered if he felt weak in the knees? I did that day Mary and I were married. A few seconds later the nonsense voice of Reverend Medalist filled the church as he began the wedding ceremony. Jim could do up his part like an expert, in fact everything was going along perfectly. Dad had gone back to his seat at the right moment without prompting, although I could guess my wife, who was the matron of honor, getting ready to dig him in the ribs if he got muddled. Rick was standing to one side holding the silken cushion solemnly in front of him. The best man reached out for the ring and Rick suddenly started to cough and choke, dropping the cushion. My wife moved quickly to him and pounded him vigorously on the back. Finally he managed to gasp, "I swallowed it!" I think everyone in the church heard him. My wife gave a frightened little cry and grabbing him up in her arms began to pound frantically.

"Where's my wedding ring?" Peggy asked, not seeming to understand what had happened. The whole family crowded up on the wedding party

"Hold him up by the heels and shake him, it might come out," someone suggested.

"Thump him a little harder."

"I'm only trying to get married," Peggy wailed.

"He swallowed it," my wife said, "we'd better get him to a doctor immediately."

"Maybe he only choked on a bubble the best man said hopefully. "I'd almost did when I was a kid. Let's look on the floor for the ring."

Every available man dropped to his knees and began to scrutinize the floor minutely. "Here, use this!" My wife pulled off her wedding ring and pushed it into Bill's hand "Shove Dan, and let's get this young man to the doctor's." Taking the now quiet Rick out of her arms, we hurried out of the church "Rick's all right, Daddy," he insisted, but I wasn't too sure of that. Behind us the bridal party remembered to get Peggy and Bill married.

Our doctor's office is at the other end of town, but since it's only a small place we reached it in a few minutes. Just as we were getting out of the car Rick took something out of his pocket.

"Oh, my gosh!" my wife exclaimed loudly, "here's the ring!" He had it in his pocket all the time." She turned to him relieved, but angry. "You bad boy, telling this like that. Scaring everyone half to death!"

"Hey, don't," I stopped her. "Maybe he did swallow something. What did you do with the candy I gave you in church?"

"I swallowed it, Daddy."

"There it wasn't the ring at all," I said almost triumphantly.

"Why," my wife demanded, "did you give him a candy? Of all the heirlooms! Dingo ..."

"I gave it to him so he'd stay quiet," I explained lamely, "you know what a perfect imp he can be if he ever gets started."

"Poor Peggy will never forgive us but why, I'd like to know, did he put the ring in his pocket."

"Daddy said the best place for a ring was in a man's pocket." Rick nodded his head with emphasis.

"Well!" I said I don't like the tone of the wife's voice "Just how are you going to explain that, Dan Wright?"

"Don't you think it would be better if we returned to the wedding?" I mumbled.

Our local newspaper said something about the blond-wig-ed wedding being quiet and pretty. The reporter that wrote that would have to be blind and deaf, but what could I do? . . . my wife suggested very severely just how I was to write it.

West Is Fish And Game Paradise, Says Sask. Senator

OTTAWA — "I remember one time . . .", began Senator Walter Aseltine of Rosetown, Sask., as he set about regaling the Ottawa Fish and Game Association with a succession of lively and informative sporting anecdotes

His stories told at the Museum of Natural Sciences auditorium ranged from boyhood with a bamboo pole in Perth, to Big Trout Lake in Prince Albert National Park where the waters in his day contained no smaller lake trout than a 16-pounder

For the many persons who looked upon Saskatchewan as a dry prairie province, Senator Aseltine revealed the fish and game paradise in the north, claiming for Lac La Ronge that it was the greatest fishing lake on the North American continent

He compared the conservation projects now supported in Ontario with the work of "Ducks Unlimited", a society of American sportsmen who came to the rescue of the Saskatchewan town of Plenty. The lake dried up, but after a highly successful project — by Frank Wall, a company shareholder — was remodeled

In a brief address President Erroll Smith said the association's 17th year had been as successful as its predecessors and urged the continued protection of game fish and wild life. "now more than ever necessary."

The association had grown steadily from a membership of 200 in 1938, he revealed, to its present size, 1,100 strong

PERSONAL STUFF

—By A. W. R.—

Another year has passed, another milestone of civilization's progress has been met and dealt with. Before we hardly realize the fact, 1949 will have slipped into the dark recesses of the past, only to be brought back to mind by the efforts of historians, who will record for posterity just how man met and conquered the past year; some with exultation and others with frustration.

The year 1949 was not an outstanding one nor was it spectacular in any way when compared with others. However, we think that the year did, as all years should, teach us something in the way of a guide for future actions. Perhaps the one great thing that 1949 has taught us is to let tolerance be our rule and guide in dealing with our fellow men. I have no way of knowing, of course, but I do believe that if the so-called Western Powers had not shown a superfluity of tolerance towards our neighbor Russia, that we might to-day be enmeshed in a physical conflict which could have a permanent crippling effect upon the world.

I think too that 1949 did, to some small extent teach us the spiritual value of a prudent and temperate life. We are, as a people, becoming a little more considerate of our neighbors; a talent which was in danger of becoming a lost art. We are purchasing and consuming just as much intoxicating liquor, but there is less drunkedness. These are both good and healthy signs. Regard for your neighbor and temperance in all things are two mighty forces which can bind a nation into one unit against which the forces of evil and aggression may pound unceasingly to no avail.

So if I were to make public one of my hitherto secret wishes for 1950, it would be: "Let tolerance prevail throughout the world. May prudence be our guide to a temperate life.

• • • •

"Hark the Herald Angels Sing, Glory to the New Born King. Peace On Earth, Goodwill Towards Men." Nearly all of us have given voice to one or another of these Christmas Carols during the past week or so. Yes, I imagine that even the people of Dresden, Ont. gave vent to their Yuletide feelings by singing, "Goodwill Towards Men," notwithstanding their recent action in barring a certain section of their population from appearing in certain public places. What a mockery. I wonder if the good people of Dresden thought to bar these people from buying in the stores? No, I guess perhaps they didn't, such consistency then art indeed a jewel

• • •

Perhaps if I were to make a few resolutions for the new year along a lighter vein, they would be: That church goers must fill the pews from front to back. That women with high topped hats and feather boas be barred from theatres that the man who laughs loudest at his own jokes have a wet sack wrapped about his tonsils. Oh well, we will put on with these things. Life's like that.

WEDDING

ARBUCKLE — BILLOW

At a pre-Christmas ceremony in the Kimberly B.C. United Church on the 17th of Dec., Colleen Norma Billow and William Allan Arbuckle changed marriage vows, with the Rev. G. A. Affleck officiating.

The bride looked charming in a floor-length gown of sky blue taffeta with three-quarter veil held in place by a bibb. She carried a bouquet of traditional red roses. Entering the church on the arm of her father, her only attendant was her sister Miss Doreen who was becomingly gowned in a floor-length embroidered lace pale pink with a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Mr. Duane Billow attended the groom. The rounds were ushered in by Mr. Bob Stanton-dale and Mr. Gerta Cleven. Mrs. E. Evart, church organist, played. Miss Frances Mc'during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the future home of the bride and groom on Spokane St. The threetiered wedding cake centred the bride's table.

HEATH

WESLEY HALL

The joy of Christmas festivities came to a sudden halt for the entire Killam district on the afternoon of December 31th, as the news spread that Wesley Hall, the local draymen had been accidently killed when his light tractor overturned on the big-way a half mile north of town.

Charles Wesley Hall was born on his father's homestead near Killam, on June 21st, 1906 and was 43 years of age at the time of his sudden passing. He attended school at Heller till August 1919 when he moved back and spent all his life at Killam, with the exception of five years. He was married to Marjorie Ruth Brown of Stettler on October 12th, 1934, and have resided at Killam since that time. He was employed as agent for the Alberta Pacific Grain Co. from 1933 to 1943, and in 1944 purchased the Dray and Transfer which he operated until his death.

Besides his loving wife he is survived by two daughters, Dorothy and Betty; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall; three sisters, Mrs. Ross York, Killam; Mrs. Frank Seifert, Boise Idaho; Mrs. M. Kelly Edmonton and two brothers Leonard and Harold at home and one half sister, Mrs. Grant Murray of Killam.

Funeral services were held in the Empire Hall on Wed Dec. 28th with Rev. Mr. Whaley of Knox Presbyterian Church officiating. Special music was rendered by a community choir under direction of Mrs. F. Sherwood. The large concreation, as well as the large number of floral tributes were some indication of the very high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community. He will ever be remembered for his friendly ways and genial nature

Pall Bearers were: E. Busse, Hesse, Wm. Schultz, D. Gordon, G. M. Fee and A.W. Cyr. Fee and Son were in charge of arrangements

DEATH

ANDREAS ARNESON

Mr. Andreas Arneson passed away at St. Anne's hospital, Dartboy on Christmas Day 1949 at the age of 87 years. He was born at Eidsbugen, Norway on Dec. 19th 1862 and came to Canada in 1910, being followed by his family the next year. He homesteaded in the Sedgewick district in 1914 and lived in that district until 1936 when he moved to the Lougheed district and farmed until 1939. During the fall of 1936 he moved in the village of Lougheed and resided until August 1949 when he moved back to the farm. He was taken to hospital on December 20th. He leaves to mourn his loss, his loving wife Polly and five daughters and four sons Anna (Mrs. Berg), Sigrid (Mrs Wilhamsen) both of Norway, Elida (Mrs Jay) of Minneapolis; Antonie (Mrs. Bourjeau) of Port Moody B.C.; and Lily (Mrs MacMurray) of Pouce-Coupe. Ashjorn Pedro, Oscar Emmanuel, Theodore and Oscar Theodore, all of the Lougheed district. The funeral services were held from Trinity Lutheran Church on Dec. 29th, with the Rev Sangren officiating, and interment was in the local cemetery. Pall Bearers were: Hans Lien, Ole Xess, Ivar Stokke and O. M. Hedman. Many beautiful floral tributes were received from relatives and friends. F. B. Kirkman, Funeral Director

CARD OF THANKS

JOHN HINES

Mr John Hines of Irma passed on at Peace River on December 13th, at the age of 25 years. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, 2 sons and 2 brothers. Funeral services were held Dec. 20th from Irma United Church with Rev. Ignatz officiating and interment was made in the local cemetery. F. B. Kirkman, Funeral Director.

MRS JOSEPH WEBB

Mrs. Joseph Webb passed away at Row Haven Hospital, Camrose after a lengthy illness. Mary Alice Webb came to Canada in 1912 from Warrington Cheshire England. She was married to Joseph Webb in 1918 residing in the Meltrose district until the early 1940's when she moved to Hardisty. She leaves to mourn her loss, her loving husband, two sisters and one brother in England. F. B. Kirkman, Funeral Director

WEDDING

Mertus United Church was the scene for a pretty wedding on December 27th, when Jenny Lady daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lundstrom of Sedgewick became the bride of Mr Henry N. Stoner eldest son of Mr and Mrs. N. Stoner of Hardisty.

Bouquets of yellow mums and red roses decorated the altar where Rev. McGregor performed the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer, fashioned with fitted bodice, full skirt and long sleeves. Her three-quarter length veil was held in place by orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. Her only jewellry was a mount stone brooch set in sterling, with earrings to match gift of the groom. The bridesmaid was June Stoner who chose a dress of aqua nylon over taffeta, a chapel veil held in place by white flowers and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Mr. Wilmer Reid was best man, and ushering the guests were Mr. J. Brandingan and Mr. J. Braden. Mrs. Stewart play ed the wedding march and Miss Clara Mae and Sheila Braden sang "I Walk Beside You". For her daughters wedding Mrs. Brandingan chose an afternoon dress of gray crepe with gray accessories, and a corsage of red roses. Mrs Stoner wore an afternoon dress of dark green crepe with brown accessories and corsage of carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The table was laid with linen, and centering the table was a tiered cake flanked with lit and mums. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr Gordon Taylor. Following a short honeymoon, the couple will reside in Edmonton.

Cost Of Forest Fires

LOSSES CAUSED BY FOREST FIRES in Canada during the past year have caused considerable concern throughout the country. It was estimated by the Canadian Forestry Association that until the end of September, 1,540,000 acres of forest lands had been ravaged by fire and that the potential value of this land to Canada in terms of wood and labor was $50,000,000. It was believed that both these figures would be increased when final statistics were made available at the end of the year. Saskatchewan and Alberta suffered the heaviest losses, according to the early survey, with Alberta reporting fires covering 612,000 acres and destroying $30,000,000 worth of timber. In Saskatchewan, 480,796 acres were lost, and the fires were estimated to have cost that province $10,134,910.

* * * *

Annual Toll Is Growing

In Manitoba, 122,182 acres of forest lands were destroyed and the loss was valued at $5,000,000. All the provinces were affected, with losses running high in Quebec, Ontario, the Maritimes and British Columbia. In Alberta 96 per cent. of the fires were attributed to human causes, while in the other provinces 74 per cent were said to have started in that way. The dominion forest service reported that in 1948 forty per cent. of all forest fires were started by campers and smokers, and during that year more than 3,000,000 acres of forests were destroyed by fire. The average loss over the past ten years has been 3,000,000 acres each year, and the annual cost of fighting forest fires in the ten year period between 1938 and 1948 amounted to over $900,000.

* * * *

Constitute A Serious Loss

These extensive and costly fires are becoming a very serious problem to Canada. Our forests supply many materials for a number of important industries, including pulp and paper, saw mills, many branches of the building trades, the making of railway ties and other essential products. If the losses continue at their present rate there will soon not be enough timber left to meet these requirements. This is a problem which affects not only our own times, but the future which will depend on the timber for trees lost now cannot be replaced for many years even under the most carefully planned reforestration programs. It is apparent that every effort must be made to conserve the forests which are left, through cutting all possible measures to prevent fires, and through making improvements, wherever they are needed, in present methods of fighting forest fires. Such a conservation measure is one of Canada's richest natural resources, and full co-operation should be given to the efforts of governmental and other interested bodies in controlling and preventing the growing annual destruction of our forests.

Salmon Ottse Fail is Long Distance Swim

VANCOUVER. — Bonbyre salmon, Rike, the champion long distance sockeye that originated as a result of "fool" and fail to complete the lengthy up-river swim to spawning grounds.

Scientists of the International Pacific Sockeye Salmon association have reported this recently-discovered race is a discussion of new fish transplantation methods.

Salmon, it seems, store up by instinct only enough body food to get them to their natural spawning beds. 10 acres of filling rigs powered with the earth's sub-surface in search of oil, bird guns.

The search for petroleum products is spread throughout Alberta, from just north of the U.S. border to the far reaches of the Virgin Northwest. A total of 41 crews are actively engaged in this search in virtually wildcat territory, while another 41 are engaged in field development and extension test drilling on already proved or semi-proven oil land.

The greatest concentration of exploratory drilling is focussed on the Central Plains of the province. Where already numerous oil and gas finds of considerable importance have been made. In this central region there are 15 rigs drilling while classed as wild cats. In the southern section there are 15 exploratory tests now under way, while in the North and Northwest there are eight such tests. More rigs will start in each of these areas during the coming weeks.

Oil Search In Alberta Reaches New Peak

CALGARY. — Drilling activity has reached a high peak in Alberta during the past few months. There are 96 drilling rigs currently operating in the province, with almost another 10 scheduled to move to new exploratory and field development wells within a few days. This will give the province a new record all-time high of drilling rigs powered with the earth's sub-surface in search of oil, bird guns.

Canadian Gift To Coventry Cathedral

More than $20,000 has been raised as a gift to the Coventry Cathedral by church agencies in Canada, the convent of the Coventry Cathedral, the very Rev. R. T. Howard announced recently. He said that money will go towards construction of a new organ. The Reverend Mr. Howard, November 14, 1940, destroyed the Cathedral except for the glorious tower and spire and bare walls of the nave. Rubble has been cleared from the Cathedral ruins and the site is now laid out with lawns and rock gardens.

Canadians Do Well At Chicago's Stock, Grain Show

CHICAGO —Canadian farmers have won 56 first-prize and championship ribbons in the international livestock exposition and hay and grain show. With judging complete, Canadians have five more of the prized purple and blue ribbons than last year. Four Canadian provinces were represented in the grain and livestock classes of this annual farm show.

The score by provinces: Ontario, 24; Alberta, 7; British Columbia, 6; Saskatchewan, 5.

Ontario's crown was five less than last year and Alberta had two more championship ribbons. Saskatchewan failed last year to pitch up any first-prize or championship ribbons.

Disposition officials said the Canadian's share of ribbons was impressive, but outnumbered as they were by top-ranking farmers of 29 states. A total of 1,000 first prizes and championships were awarded.

Ontario ranked seventh on the prize list, Alberta 20th, British Columbia, 22nd, and Saskatchewan 31st.

Illinois was first with 146 first prizes and 53 championships.

Among the farmers doing far more than 20 years, the Canadians took the most important grain titles. Canada placed first in wheat, oats, rye, and a handful of lesser grains.

Richard Grand award of the show's hay and grain section, the wheat championship went to 56-year-old grey-haired Mrs. Amy Grace Kelsey, of Erickson, B.C. She was named "wheat queen" for the second time, having won the title here in 1946.

Sydney H. Purdom of Spedden, Alta., was named oats king and Albert Kessel of Rosetown, Sask., showed the best sample of rye.

Alfalfa seed champion was Mac Gibbons of Adamston, Ont. Best red clover was entered by G. A. Pack of Alberton Creek, B.C., and the field peas championship was won by another Canadian, J. Decker of Pemberton, B.C.

Canadians swept classes for their favorite breeds of sheep, taking major awards in Oxford, Cotswold and Southdown and Lincoln competition.

New Trophies Systems Organized In Manitoba

THE PAS, Man. — Harold Wells, Dominion supervisor of game and fisheries here has been named to organize these new registered trapping systems in southern Manitoba, it was learned.

The new systems will be created under a recent Dominion-provincial agreement which calls for expenditure of $100,000 a year for seven years. The system control the harvest of the pelt crop, and prevent the annual population from being "trapped out."

As inspector of registered trap-lines, Mr. Wells has organized registered districts in northern Manitoba in 1946. There now are 19 trapping areas with 2,126 trappers—about half of them treaty Indians.

Lighthouse For Cranbrook Airport

CRANBROOK, B.C.—A stationary lighthouse atop the most westerly of the three small foothills, in the northwest of the northern end of the city airport, will be constructed before the end of the year. It will be 500 feet above airport level, visible over a wide area, to facilitate night flying.

Bank of Montreal President Analyzes Dollar Problem

B. C. GARDNER STRESSES STABILITY OF CANADA'S ECONOMY—RETURN TO COMPETITIVE CONDITIONS

Gordon Bell, General Manager, Reports Resources At Over Two Billion — Savings Deposits Highest In History — Loans At Record Level

B. C. Gardner, president of the Bank of Montreal, told shareholders at the recent 152nd annual meeting that the broad Canadian trend seemed to be toward a closer balance in trade with "our nearest neighbour" and a contraction of exports to "important and traditional overseas markets."

In Canada, price influences had achieved "something approaching a balance of forces", Mr. Gardner observed. The balance, however, was precarious and could easily be tipped in either direction. The accumulated demand arising out of wartime shortages "has pretty well spent its force". Competitive efficiency, quality and salesmanship were regaining their normal place.

But the most noteworthy feature of the Canadian business trend was its relative stability, compared with developments in the United States, the president stated. Offsetting recessive influences in large part, "we have a vigorous program of industrial expansion". Continuing self-confidence and "know-how" as an industrial nation, "we are re-discovering our resources" in natural resources. Canada appeared to be undergoing a dynamic growth not unlike that of the United States after World War I.

Reverses Under Fortress

Turning to Canada's dollar dilemma, Mr. Gardner saw a broad trend toward closer balance in trade with our nearest neighbour", and, "almost inevitably", a contraction of exports to important and traditional overseas markets. Pointing out that, since the devalued rates of exchange had been established by governmental fiat, there could be no assurance that they would accurately reflect comparative costs and prices, he suggested "permitting a range of variation in exchange rates, cushioned perhaps by a stabilization fund designed to prevent violent short-term fluctuations".

Mr. Gardner affirmed the "general agreement" that the cause lies precisely in dollar-short countries but questioned whether an "addiction to nationalistic forms of industrialism" encourages the flow of domestic or foreign investment. He cautioned against "an exaggerated State paternalism, marrying the virtual protection of the home market with reverse preferences for the individual producer, a vast increase of credit, and the great task of the period was to create an environment in which these fundamental forces might free men to get to work.

General Manager's Address

Gordon R. Bell, B of M general manager, reported gross earnings for both resources and deposits at more than two billion dollars for the first time. Total assets stood at $2,140,000,000, and total deposits at $1,919,000,000, with savings deposits over the billion-dollar mark for the first time in the history of any Canadian bank. Current loans and discounts in Canada also amounted to an all-time high in year-end figures, $742,000,000.

Remarking on the tendency of concerns showing "stationary or declining profits" to show a substantially increased volume of business", Mr. Bell drew attention to the importance of making management re-examining their "break-even points." He also felt that reserve for depletion should be applied to "a higher level of profits than the $10,000". The maximum amount of earnings, he said, should be pumped back into small businesses.

Loans Double In Decade

"In 1939 we had about a million current and savings accounts on our books", Mr. Bell recalled. "We now have over 1,750,000 accounts". Loan accounts had more than doubled in a decade. All types of banking transactions showed "commensurate increase". Personal loans totalled $700,000,000, compared with $300,000,000 in 1939. The number of shareholders had also doubled, "and we are naturally glad to see this broad share-ownership in our institution".

The B of M was not primarily an impressive row of figures or an imposing building, he said. "We think rather of the bank as the local manager and staff, on whom our customers can always call for friendly counsel and service". Less than a million and a half customers know that what it was not money alone they dealt in at the B of M. A man's relationship with his bank manager was "a highly personal one". Behind this confidential relationship stand the resources and stability of a nation-wide, century-old institution, as that strength was linked with "understanding in the service of the individual".

Mr. Bell praised the staff for their "untiring energy". He detailed the arrangements for their welfare, referring to the consideration given to changes in the cost of living and to personal problems caused by transfers. He said the bank's contributions to the pension fund and to group insurance totalled $700,000, the general manager said, were the bank's "greatest asset".

Hygienist Reports People Living On Prairies Are More Healthy Mentally

WINNIPEG —People on the prairies are healthy mentally because they live in predominantly rural areas, Hon. Ivan Schultz, Manitoba's minister of health, said.

He was commenting on a statement made by Dr. C. M. Hincks, general director of the national committee on mental hygiene. Dr. Hincks reported prairie people were generally more healthy mentally than people in other parts of Canada.

"It is a well-known fact that the pace of modern life causes mental disease, and that pace is undoubtedly faster in the cities than in the country," Mr. Schultz said.

He said the percentages of mentally ill in Canada from urban areas is 84.2 per cent., compared with 48.7 per cent. from rural areas.

Of first admissions to mental institutions 54.3 per cent. are from rural areas and 68.1 per cent. from urban areas.

Interviewed at Edmonton, Dr. Hincks said the cost of caring for the mentally ill in Canada may reach $100,000,000 in the next 10 years.

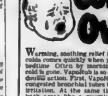
Colds Relieved Overnight



Warming, soothing relief from the misery of children's colds comes quickly when you rub on Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Gets by morning most of the distress of a cold is gone. VapoRub is so effective because of its special "double action"—it relieves stuffiness the way inhaled medicated bronchial vapors do—at the same time, through skin stimulation. At the same time, it penetrates chest and back areas like a warming, comforting poultice. Tonight, use Vicks VapoRub for your child's cold.

Surprise In The Arctic

By ESTHER L. O. TUTTY
(Central Press Canadian Correspondent)

ROVANIEMI Finland—One party of British and US reporters had a big surprise way up here in the northern wasteland of Finland.

We had heard of the 90 per cent complete wartime destruction job the retreating Germans had done on the northern Lapland area and we expected, and need to manage with more than crude hotel arrangements.

But we popped when our airport bus rolled up to a brand new modernistic hotel with some innovations unknown even on North America.

In our private dining room a fire was roaring in a fine fireplace of stones. In its bed between the stones grew ivy and scarlet geraniums, a festive flower in Finland!

The Finnish people love flowers. Sometimes a poor housewife will come here from the market with little else but a flower. The first view opened when the entrance doors backed after the war was a flower shop.

His Finnish special included such delicacies as smoked Swedish bread and thin slices of julienned beet which resemble our dried beef. Delicious! The cocktail was a pleasant blend of aquavite with a Yukhi berry about size duty. Again — reverse movies!

Houses are few and streets non passable, but food is plentiful. The best was served at luncheon given in our honor the next day by the city council.

Course after course came — with every platter decorated with flowers and set seached with dill.

Our host, the gaunt Deputy Mayor Vaino Koverola, likes to repeat a remark made by Gen. George Marshall: "Finland has kicked herself around like a football during the war years."

Lapland certainly was. First the Lapianders were friendly with the Germans before the war began and then fight Russia in the winter war of 1940. Then when Russia forced them to fight the Germans, they left their homes knowing the German soldiers would destroy everything as they retreated.

The destruction left behind in today

ensibled by the marvelous comeback made since the time when Lapland houses were burnt down, bridges blown up and their land covered all the way from Finland's border to Rovaniemi, the provincial capital of Lapland, and there stood, untouched, a white modern hotel! The Germans didn't blast that, too, is unknown. Later an entire town lived in the church.

To make the recovery-building of houses as handsome as possible one of Finland's noted architects, Alvar Aalto, designed many with great beauty of line. He laid out the city of Rovaniemi.

The interiors of the two hotels and the children's tuberculosis hospital are beautiful, artistic, colorful and both the arrangement of houses were planned by Aalto, the painter.

Did they do the rebuilding all by themselves? The Lapianders are grateful to UNRRA and the Quakers who early rushed to their aid, but are fiercely proud of their own ability to stake a comeback.

Check Winter Hazards

This is a good time to check on automobile hazards which the cold weather and winter presents:

1. Windows should be gathered up around the grounds and destroyed if of no value. Glass doors and platforms should be checked and repairs made where necessary. Where possible, protruding should be made to eliminate the possibility of any tripping on walks, platforms and stairs.
2. Ventilating systems, especially those in garages and automobile repair shops should be given very close inspection and any pipes damaged during the summer months repaired. Home or metal tubing for attaching to exhaust of cars should be checked over and repaired.
3. Oil burners should be checked and instructions describing the safe methods of lighting should be posted at all such equipment. Workmen should be warned never to stand directly in front of the furnace when lighting the burner, in case of flareback. Back flashes when lighting can be minimized by the installation of pilot lights or some other suitable safe starting device
4. Ice and snow slipping hazards — The best method is for workmen to by removing the snow or slush before it forms into ice. In areas where this is not practicable, make sure that gritty materials are on hand for spreading over icy areas. Use sand, gravel, fine cinders or salt. To prevent abrasives from being swept off by winds and traffic, dry sand can be mixed with sodium chloride (salt) or calcium chloride.
5. In the operation of trucks or automobiles, all drivers should understand that accidents can go up or the improperly-gear down. Icy roads and poor visibility make recommend speeds necessary
6. Falling on icy ground — When about to fall on icy ground, a person usually tries desperately not to fall. He contracts his body and limbs violently, throwing up his arms, and falls with one small part of his body contacting the ground. His brittle bones are often broken. Body and limbs should, on the contrary, be relaxed, the whole body ought to "unfold" flexibly in the direction of the fall. If the feet slip on icy pavement, the relaxed body can usually "slump" to the ground with the weight distributed on thighs, hips and hands. In falling forward, or to either side learn like the football player and the acrobat, to meet the ground with a slight roll, without injury. Learn to relax and take the bumps with a roll!

Sweeney Schriner Blames U.S. Fans For Today's Hockey

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S.—A former National Hockey League star blames the blood-and-thunder drama of United States fans for the "sloppy" hockey now being played in Canada. In an interview here, Dave Schriner, former coach of North Sydney Victorias of the Cape Breton Senior Hockey League, said there is far too much elbowing, high sticking and hogging in the three-team CBSHL.

The former high-scoring left winger with Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Americans said:

"It's the way most of the clubs are playing in the National Hockey League. And it's all because the fans in the United States demand bodily contact. In Canada, we used to be satisfied with fast, stylish hockey with the accent on passing. Now we want choppy hockey."

Tips For Fire Prevention Of Yule Decorations

Preparations for a merry Christmas holiday season should include fire prevention precautions to make sure colorful Yule decorations don't become dangerous hazards. Trees, wreaths, evergreen swags and even holiday dinners are potential fire hazards unless they are properly handled.

Here are tips from fire prevention experts on how to safeguard your home against a holiday fire:

Keep Christmas trees, wreaths and swags away from fireplaces or open flame heaters. If your "Christmas tree is near a radiator, turn off the heat to slow down the drying out of needles and branches. Don't let trees touch window curtains. Such drapes up over the curtain rods, if necessary, to keep them out of contact with flammable decorations.

Cords and plugs of tree lights should be inspected for signs of fraying or worn insulation. If the bulbs of the bulbs starts to turn needles brown, shut the light string to a different circuit. Don't use the lights burning when you're not in the room.

When Christmas presents are opened, gather up the wrappings. The papers and tinsel should be folded neatly and stored in a fire-proof container, unobtainable or tin can until they can be disposed of.

Fires broken out in the kitchen are an added hazard during the holidays when more elaborate dinners are cooked. The recommended way to douse flaming grease or oil is to cover the pan or utensil containing it with water. Experts suggest keeping a lightweight fire extinguisher near the stove ready for such emergencies. Grease ablaze in a deep smothering agent used in extinguishers which will blanket a fire almost instantly without leaving residue or harmful traces on food or equipment. New lightweight portable extinguishers filled with carbon chloride have a trigger trip for quick action against fire.

Mechanical Cow Produces Grade-A Pasteurized Milk

WASHINGTON — Now they're invented a mechanical cow.

It apparently does everything but moo. Instead, it clanks. But, aside from that defect, the mechanical cow does produce pasteurized, homogenized, grade-A milk which the manufacturer says, tastes just like the stuff you buy from the corner grocery.

The facts of this 20th-century creation were placed on the record of the record congressional session by Representative Reid F Murray, Republican from the dairyland state of Wisconsin with a plea that the true-and-blood bossy not be forgotten.

The mechanical cow, he reported, was constructed by Dr. Charles E. Worth, of New Paltz, N.Y., and now is in use for United States troops in the Far East. There it shakes the third via seven machines turning out 22,700 gallons of milk daily, the equivalent of a herd of 7,500 head of live cattle.

Other such "cows", he added, soon will be supplying milk in the Philippines, Venezuela, Trinidad, Curacao and Aruba.

The secret of the mechanical cow apparently is in the method of taking the water out of the milk back in again at its destination. Unlike the real people during the emergency, in such a way that they effect "can't tell the difference" between the two.

The procedure is to separate the milk and the butterfat on the continent in huge centrifuges, pack the butterfat in preserves and to preserve flavor and original composition and ship them to any place where milk is needed.

There, the two are put back together again with distilled water in a recombining machine—the mechanical cow and the result is a milk same 73,000 needy Britons have been assisted by the United Emergency Fund for British Relief.

United Emergency Fund For Britain

The United Emergency Fund for Britain started fund-raising just a year ago on a national basis and was designed to integrate and augment the efforts of all organizations and individuals in Canada, interested in aiding and providing assistance to the British people during the emergency, in such a way that they effect "can't tell the difference" between the two.

From last January to the present, some 250,000 lbs. of foods in parcels have been shipped overseas to The United Emergency Fund for Britain Derby warehouse. In addition, another 250,000 lbs. of food, mostly tinned, were forwarded in bulk. With the addition of the bulk food 500,000 bags of right lbs. grass at the Derby warehouse, it is estimated that

Prize Whopper

The Fergus News-Record is going to have to be careful with its stories, or first thing it knows some unworthy critic will be mouthing them. There's one, for example, about a man who had been away from Fergus for 35 years and arrived home in his motor car, handling a woman of less than 30. And now to quote: "I'll tell you how it is," said the mother. "You know Dr. Groves. Well, he has been experimenting with a medicine. He let us try it. We all went to have 'time' for other things. No man would go into a business conference without carefully thought beforehand—would take passes, and would not permit his position in a casual or abrupt manner to his listeners, as we have prayed many times. We should go into communion with God with the full realization that He cannot be fooled or over-passed upon. Our praying should be the means of regenerating our spiritual resources, making it a normal part of our every day existence as we seek to commune with God by faith. It should be easy, a natural thing, but not clinical. If we commune with God in our walk, at work and at all moments our prayers will be expressed in all our actions.

We have said that there is too much asking in our prayers, and this is because of the kind of things we ask. There is always a place for petition in prayer. Jesus Himself suggested that we should ask with assurance that we shall receive, but our petitions ought never be of the selfish and covetous thought. Jesus prayed for strength to do the thing that His Father wanted Him to do. There should be a complete dedication of ourselves in the most moving prayer that has ever been offered, when Jesus in Gethsemane prayed: "If it be possible, let this cup pass from me, nevertheless, not my will but Thine be done." Pray with understanding, that you may know God and His ways, and make them your own.

For a happy and progressive Christian life, prayer is a "must".

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Dear Mr Rogers We are just wishing you and yours the best of everything, and hang may your pen wiggle. We do enjoy your "Thro the Window" and get a good laugh at your sly fun, and all the old timers you write of we know them well While the golden was tough in those days, we sure had our humorous characters who made life well worth living. We used to deal at Lougheed and you had your "ribbing" with us and we thoroughly enjoyed it all. Again wishing you the best — From your old friends at Hardisty.

Happy and prosperous New Year to all. Of course by the time you read this, we will have the green light and be headed down the main line of life. Have you made your good New Year resolutions (the annual ones) will have been put away in moth balls and forgotten. One I give you, which I hope we will all keep as it causes a very wide scope: "Make 1950 a better year than 1949."

You will have to kind of sort out the dates to suit yourself in some of these items, as we have had a very busy week since last issue. Last week may refer to anytime from the week before last to next week, and as I am busy I guess we have fairly busy some of my notes look as if I had written with my feet. I can't decipher them at times.

The W. A. annual meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Thomas Jr. last Thursday was well attended considering the weather. A successful year and good best balance was received. The new officers are: Pres., Mrs. L. Barthel; 1st Mrs. Percy Barnes and Mrs. J. Barthel; Sec., Mrs. D. Thomas Jr; Treas., Mrs. H. Butcher; Dorcas Sec., Mrs. H. McCrimmon.

The Ladies curling club met and drew names for the year, and the ladies' open night will be held on Friday, Sat., Feb. 10th and 11th. There is a good membership, with 5 rinks and several rooms, and a good year is expected.

If it is possible to call an accident that does considerable damage, a fortunate one, then we have had it at our patch of road and the car nose-dived, badly wrecking the front end. All occupants escaped with a shaking and minor bruises. Tom Lee, on his way home from town, was driving very carefully when the front wheels dropped into a hole and broke the front axle, causing the car to nose-dive. Fortunately the car was not damaged to any extent, and Tom was able to drive it home. Some of the boys have suggested that Tom should have been driving faster, as then he would have cleared the hole and landed on the other side of the road.

The Xmas concert was the usual success and was enjoyed by all both young and old. It drew probably the largest crowd in Killam. Santa was there in person, and he and his assistants saw that none of the little ones were overlooked. Santa says his dear ears are getting a little old for the load he has to carry to Lougheed and is thinking of swapping them for some of the reindeer down from Lougheed. Miss swapping Santa if the Killam boys don't beat you out.

Dr. Eggspur has left to spend the Christmas holidays in Portland and will return to come back in the spring.

Ed McCracken is in the city getting windows put in the school box. I suppose the next guy who looks him over will order five sausages from each of the windows.

There is a place for everything they say, but lighted cigarettes at a crowded Xmas tree concert is surely out of place. It was surprising to see the number of parents who had little ones there, who unconcernedly added to the fire hazard. Something to thank the Lord went to a lot of needless trouble to put heads on some people. A coal hook would have done just as well. Just something to hang their hat on.

Come more I ask you, especially you Xmas wanderers — have you seen anything in your travels which could equal Lougheed's outside decorations? The main street should be voted number one through the district, as memorial it is a blaze of colored and flashing lights and illuminated outside trees.

There were about the usual 9 drunks in Lougheed on Xmas Eve and Xmas Day, and some of the happy crowd entered the Lougheed tables were: John Brother, Tom Brother, Jack Brother and family of Hardisty; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hall and family of Penticton; Mrs. Norm Wray (Joyce Rogers) of Vancouver; Mrs. Ed Hall and family of Edmonton; Harold Hart of Hardisty at Arnold Martens; Art Pedlar and "

Christmas Tree Business

Last year seven million evergreens left Canada to brighten up Christmas in foreign lands. It's a question whether this is made or good business. The 1940 revenue for Canadians was $7½ million dollars. This compares very favorably with the pre-war figure of 2,504,372 trees for $615,972 in 1935. Below are some pictures illustrating the Christmas tree business.

Toronto Man Breeds Chickens That Lay Colored Eggs

WEST HILL, Ont.—Poultry from the primitive tribes of Chile and the farmlands of Holland are the ancestors of a new strain of Canadian chickens—Barnacanas—with no combs and wattles and which produce colored eggs. The birds are owned by a Toronto man, O. P. Johnston, and he says they have been developed, through breeding, to a point where not only can he [illegible] and dictate the color of future eggs, but also change the leather color of the "hatchlings" at will. The chickens and the colored eggs were displayed at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair recently.

So far, Mr. Johnston's chickens have produced chocolate, green, blush, grey, olive and taupe-colored eggs.

Mr Johnston isn't a professional chicken breeder. He's an Ekel Toronto businessman, but he has had a lifelong interest in poultry. In 1936 he imported a rooster and a hen from Chile. [illegible] in South American [illegible] the birds were raised by an Indian tribe of the same name, high in the mountains. The birds were doughty fighters, and followed the Indian tribe when it moved from [illegible] caves to new locations.

They followed like dogs when their owners whistled," says Mr Johnston.

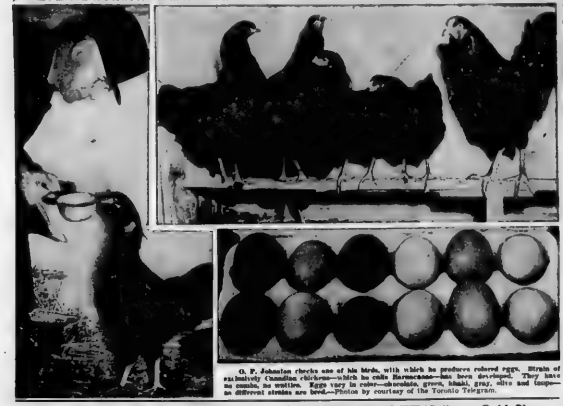
The hens, incidentally lay eggs with a blue-tinted shell.

At the same time Mr Johnston obtained a number of Dutch Barnevelds in the coldest weather without the danger of becoming frost-bitten.

"The breeding certainly doesn't hurt the chickens any. In a test I ran during May and June of this year, two hens produced 58 eggs each in 61 days which stands up very well with any other type of chicken," he says.

Mr. Johnston started the experiment which has taken 11 years to date.

Mr. Johnston says "We have only one definitely Canadian type chicken on the catalogues of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair and standard breeds' books. Surely Canada is large enough to have its own distinctive poultry and I think roosters without combs and wattles and laying colored eggs would definitely be a asset to Canada. There aren't any other chickens evil or drink from ordinary cups as we in the world like them anyway



O. P. Johnston checks one of his birds, with which he produces colored eggs. Strain of exclusively Canadian chickens—which he calls Barnacanas—has been developed. They have no combs, no wattles. Eggs vary in color—chocolate, green, blush, grey, olive and taupe—as different strains are bred.—Photos by courtesy of the Toronto Telegram.

Predicts Extinction Of Wildlife If Sales Of Hunting Licences Not Curbed

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. — Addressing a meeting of the Portage la Prairie Game and Fish association, Frank Ward, representative of Ducks Unlimited, condemned the slaughter of deer and ducks in the province of Manitoba. He predicted that within the next five years, unless immediate steps were taken to prevent the depletion, there would be nothing left to shoot at outside of a few ducks.

Mr. Ward charged that some of the oldest game and fish locals had been formed with the wrong idea in mind, and that many members who had no thought for the future wild life of the country.

He rapped the various game and fish organizations and government organizations for not working more harmoniously together at all times.

The speaker was opposed to commercialized shooting lodges, and cited Delta as an indication of what it could lead to. He did not favor the leasing of land for private shooting, a move that had now been forbidden in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Mr. Ward's proposed solution for the present state of affairs was the institution of proper game guardianship in Canada, and "the sooner we have it the better," he declared. He stated that in Carberry, alone, 600 licences were issued this year in an area where there were probably enough deer for 50 hunters.

Twenty-two of the names of American states are of Indian origin.

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

Depression stories bring to mind the one about the family of four brothers. There were spectacularly successful stock operators, the fourth was an amiable cuss who had just about enough sense to sit down when he was tired. The three shining lights took care of their less gifted brother. Every time one of them bought ten thousand shares of a stock, he'd add a couple of hundred in the name of the lame duck.

In July, 1930, the fourth brother fell ill and was told by the doctor that he was the victim of an incurable disease, and couldn't live another 10 months. He sold every share of stock he owned for about a million in cash, put his affairs in order, and prepared to have as much fun as possible in the little time he had left. Of course, the three geniuses were wiped out completely in October. And the lame duck's disease wasn't incurable after all. He's living on top of the world today, and the three brothers are working for him.

Believe Farmers Holding Vast Quantities Of Grain

REGINA Sask — Prairie farmers were believed to be holding enough grain in storage on their farms to fill Canadian foreign commitments, grain experts said here.

Estimates placed the amount of grain held on farms at 75,000,000 bushels, they said. They placed the amount of wheat in prairie elevators at some 85,000,000 bushels.

Difference of opinion existed as to why farmers were holding up grain despite appeals from federal government officials, including Rt. Hon. C. D. Howe, trade and commerce minister for increased deliveries to elevators.

Some authorities believed the farmers wanted to hold the grain until next year for income tax purposes, while others thought lack of storage space in elevators was the reason for the laxity.

IRONING

By JANE DALE

Of the many household tasks I do
Tis the ironing which I hurry through.
It is hard work and it wearies me,
Yet fresh smooth clothes I like to see.

I start right in when the clothes are dry,
And believe me, I make that old iron fly.
The shirts are a plague and the shirts a pain,
I don't want to ever see them again.

My hands are all thumbs in the ruffled bits,
The pleats never seem to stay in their places.
Yes ironing is one of my weekly chores
And there seems no bottom to that basket of clothes.

Then into my mind comes a snatch of gay song,
And I hum a few bars as I hurry along.
I sing all the ditties I learned long ago,
Such as "Waltzing Matilda" and "Old Black Joe"

As I am singing the iron fairly flies
Till all unawares to my great surprise—
The clothes which had been a plague and a pain
Are all neatly folded for wearing again.

Canadians are thinking of tomorrow

DEPOSITS AT THE B of M HAVE Doubled in 10 years
— NOW TOTAL MORE THAN TWO BILLION DOLLARS

This huge sum is a tribute to Canadians' foresight and thrift.

Ten years ago, B of M customers kept a total of $940,000,000 in their savings and current accounts. During the war years, these people took the opportunity to invest their Victory Bonds. Today, their deposits stand at more than two billion dollars — an all-time B of M record and the largest Canadian deposits of any bank. Of this money, well over a billion dollars is in savings.

The fact that the B of M's resources also have topped the two-billion mark during the past year proves one thing clearly — that the use of a financial institution such as the Bank of Montreal simply reflects the measure of confidence a million and a half Canadian men and women show in it.

And by shedding of nonessentials, these people are helping to build the Canada of today and tomorrow. For these savings determine the support the Bank can bring — through investments and loans — to the enterprise of men and women in every corner of the nation. Indeed, this year, loans made by the B of M are the highest they've ever been.

Working with the people of Canada for the past 132 years, the Bank has kept continually before it these two guiding purposes: to assist actively the nation's economic development and to justify always the confidence of its depositors.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Accommodation For Two

Looking Forward To A Long Life Of Tender Sentiments And Coins.

By MARY L. AKSIM

IT WAS an attic room but Sarah said it didn't matter. The landlady said that they would have to be very quiet in the evenings because the gentleman below went to bed early. Sarah said they wouldn't be having much company. The landlady looked at their thin suitcases. The rent would be twenty dollars a month in advance, she said.

When they were alone, Sarah and Lottie drew the hairpins from their braided buns and set their hats down on the bed, but neither of them spoke. Sarah smoothed her gloves with her fingertips and Lottie rolled hers into a nervous ball. Suppose they didn't get the job at the enamel factory, she thought. Perhaps they didn't really need seamstresses in the advertisement in the paper had said. Perhaps the positions had been filled already. The cold look of Sarah's to have a piece of their own, a home together before they were too old to enjoy it, instead of being in service in different houses . . . She looked around her, and her heart sank. But Sarah was smoothing the room with optimistic eye.

"This will be the breakfast nook," she cried. She tugged the table and two chairs in front of the window and sat down resolutely. The chair creaked in protest and Lottie began to laugh, bright young laughter that had not failed his Lottie herself. She shoved the nearest armchair under the battered reading light.

"And this will be the drawing-room, sarah." The with-ring years had melted away. She and Sarah were back again under the apple trees at happy Hollybrook cottage.

They had the job by noon the next day—and the job had what Sarah called "business hours." And the pay! They bought a red geranium in the way home.

They scrubbed, dusted and shone. Sarah built a compact little kitchen in one corner with shelves from two orange crates. Lottie sewed chintz into coverings for the armchair and the bed. The landlady sometimes climbed the two stairways just to look—arriving out of breath to admire a new footstool made from old tomato cans, or an improvised plant rail.

They were happier than they had been since they were children. They seldom went out in the evenings, full of content in their cozy nook and as often as the peaceful hours ticked by, Sarah would turn to Lottie with a "Suppose we hadn't" and Lottie would reply gaily, "Then I would be you who wanted to, Sarah dear."

They saved every penny. Also they let their plans for the future. It did not seem a dream to them to talk of it as a reality, for they were in the country. They spent hours in painstaking calculations. If they saved up every cent for five years . . . A little white cottage, and a garden with hollyhocks and delphiniums. They could live on very little in the country, Sarah said. With chickens and a garden they might even be able to keep on laying something by. Then they could do sewing, but she hoped they would be all the busy years. Five years, maybe four, and they could rummage . . . Five years would go by fast, said Lottie. And one night just as well see that dream for the Seventy at the factory. They could have a yellow cat, too, and perhaps even a small terrier. Pets never keep them from getting lonely, Lottie said.

But it was then a week she had reason to believe that Mr. Hopper was looking forward to a long, long life of tender backwards and forwards coffee. She waited for Sarah who was walking slowly homeward, encouraging her tired spirit with thoughts of the hollyhock cottage. Five years, maybe four . . .

"And it will be just the same, Sarah dear," Lottie was saying. "You'll live with Dave and me, and you know, we never could have managed that cottage . . . It will be just the same . . ."

Sarah went a long time without speaking. Then she said slowly, "Yes, Lottie, it will be just the same"

But, of course, Sarah knew that it wouldn't.

Five years, maybe four. They kept a neat scrapbook of ideas for their cottage. It helped them to forget the pleasure of new dresses and hats. But they continued to "set a good table." They had to keep healthy, Sarah said.

Soon after the sisters came home each night waves of pungent coffee incense floated down the halls of the rooming house. "Um-m!" said Mrs. Hopper and Mr. Agnew in their opposite rooms on the second floor, and each looked longingly at the ceiling. It was on the night that Lottie made the bothersome that the two gentlemen opened their opposite doors at the same time. They glared momentarily and the doors clicked smartly.

Sarah sat down with his pipe beside his closed door, but while Mr. Hopper happily placed his slippers, Mr. Agnew was only sad. Mr. Agnew had a wife already and she had never made good coffee.

Fate was Mr. Hopper's ally. It was that week that Sarah was engaged to mind children every evening. Mr. Hopper climbed to the top floor to offer his paper. It was as simple as that. Soon Lottie was feeling like a guilty schoolgirl as she washed two cups. But she couldn't tell Sarah yet that besides, she told herself, a girl never knows.

But in less than a week she had reason to believe that Mr. Hopper was looking forward to a long, long life of tender backwards and forwards coffee. She waited for Sarah who was walking slowly homeward, encouraging her tired spirit with thoughts of the hollyhock cottage. Five years, maybe four . . .

"And it will be just the same, Sarah dear," Lottie was saying. "You'll live with Dave and me, and you know, we never could have managed that cottage . . . It will be just the same . . ."

Sarah went a long time without speaking. Then she said slowly, "Yes, Lottie, it will be just the same"

But, of course, Sarah knew that it wouldn't.

WAKE UP your LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. Then you become sick and constipated. You lose your appetite and you feel sour and grouchy.

It takes those good, active liver bile flow to get them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Use as directed.

Alberta Loses Top Place As Sugar Producer

LETHBRIDGE — Alberta, the dominion's top sugar beet producer since early in the Second World War, has lost the honor to Ontario because of a heavy September frost this year, sugar officials said here today.

About 228,000 tons of beets were produced this year from Alberta fields, containing about 14.75 per cent. sugar. This compares with Ontario's production of 253,000 tons with a content of 16.7 per cent sugar.

Manitoba harvested a crop of about 124,000 tons, from which the sugar extract probably will be around 84,000,000 pounds.

Quebec farmers trailed the field.

400 New Farms Join Manitoba's Rural Hydro System

A further 400 farms in Manitoba have been switched on to the Hydro system during October, it is announced by W. D. Fallis, general manager of The Manitoba Power Commission. These farms, most favored to enjoy the benefits of electric service are located in the municipalities of Louise, Montcalm, Elton, Odanah, Cornwallis and Westbourne. In addition, service was made available to the village of Marchand and a new line from Sifton to Minnedosa was energized during the month.

The further progress in the Power Commission's extensive rural electrification program was accomplished despite unfavorable weather conditions and slow delivery of materials. In four farm areas, a shortage of farm transformers is delaying energizing, even though transmission lines have been completed.

Construction of a new terminal station at Neepawa was begun in October and additions to the new Parkdale terminal station are progressing satisfactorily At Letellier, a new substation was put into service to provide greater capacity for the surrounding farm area and to improve service to the village of Letellier and St. Joseph.

Kilcrest hours purchased and generated in October totalled 17,346,000, a 22.9 per cent. increase over the same month in 1948 — Canadian Press.

Winter Angling In Manitoba

WINNIPEG. — Hoar-frosts fishermen who like to angle through the ice can now practice their pastime on seven lakes in Manitoba

Winter angling has been officially recognized in this province since the 1949 season, when a regulation governing popularity, game and fisheries branch officials said.

To accommodate the increasing number of anglers, two additional lakes have been designated open for non-commercial winter angling. The two lakes are Aikens lake and Rock lake.

Angling will be allowed on these lakes until Feb. 15. A $2.50 licence must be obtained.

Other bodies of water set aside for winter angling are Star lake, Jessica lake, Oak lake, Clearwater lake and the Shoal Lake channel between the Pas river and the Canadian National railways bridge

WEDDINGS

MILLER — RUEGER

Pink carnations and white and yellow baby mums formed a pretty background at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Killam last week when Miss Agnes Yvonne Rueger daughter of Mr and Mrs. Ed Rueger of Killam, became the bride of Mr. Jimmie Clifford Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller of Edmonton. Rev. Fr. M. McCarthy officiated and the bride was given away by her father.

The bride wore a gown of white rutted satin with a fitted bodice and bustle back. Her floral length veil was held in place with a crown of fine wire pearls and carried red roses and white baby mums and streamers of rose buds. Maid of Honor was Miss Leora Leader of Edmonton who was dressed in a gold taffeta dress with a fitted bodice and a full skirt with matching mitteens and bonnet trimmed with a cascry ostrich tip. Bridesmaid was Miss Virginia Rueger who wore a turquoise taffeta dress with a fitted bodice and peplum skirt, matching mitteens and bonnet trimmed with a pink ostrich tip. They bouquet carried sweetpeas. The groom was attended by Mr. Edmund J. Rueger and Mr. Fred S. Mendows, and the ushers were Mr. James Rueger and Mr. Leander Walker. The choir also presented two songs; a solo 'Ave Maria' by Mr. Harold Gounne and a duet, 'What Happiness Can Equal Mine' sung by Mrs. G. Fee and Mr. Killam.

Immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast for 25 guests was held in the Parish hall. The tables in the bride was prepared by Rev. Fr. McCarthy. Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Kosher received wearing a black dress and black hat. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Coffee was poured by Mrs. Kosher, Mrs. Leonard Walker and Mrs. Wm. Denham of Edmonton.

For a wedding trip to Seattle and Vancouver the bride wore a two-piece grey wool dress with wine accessories topped with a muskrat coat. Mr. and Mrs. Miller will reside in their new home

ALBERTA SIAMESE TWINS SET RECORD, BUT PARENTS FACE PROBLEMS—While one twin sleeps the other remains awake as nursing staff at Tofield pose with them. It is still not known whether operation can separate them with any degree of success. There is only one case in medical history where an operation has been performed successfully on Siamese twins, and in that case only one lived. So far Tofield twins have lived more than 18 days, something no other pair have succeeded in doing in Canada in 25 years.—B.N.S. photo.

POLIO PATIENTS TAKE PART IN ESSAY CONTEST — Boys and girls in the county branch of the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children, at Thistletown, Ont. are not going to be outdone when it comes to competing in the National Essay Contest now being conducted throughout Canada by the Navy League in co-operation with the Royal Canadian Navy. Polio is one thing but winning an essay contest is something else again, with the result that a number of bright inquiring minds are concentrated on the contest subject, "Our Canadian Navy". Miss E. # ICE HOUSE FOR THE FARM

ONCE electric power is available on a farm most people lust little more than electric cooking and refrigeration, but there are still thousands of farms which are dependent on stored ice for cooling milk and for household refrigeration. Here are plans for a farm ice house of the accompanying drawings are reprinted.

While an ice house need not be expensive, it is wise to observe such points as will help the owner to keep as large an amount as possible of the ice he stores and which will prevent an unduly short life for the building. The essential features of an ice house are: 1 Good drainage from under the ice pile. 2 Sufficient insulation around the ice pile to prevent excessive loss from melting 3 Good circulation of air over the ice pile under the roof of the building

The plans show how these essentials are taken care of. For drainage it is wise to provide porous fill under the ice pile, preferably of coarse cinders, since a break in contact between the soil and the sawdust under the ice increases the insulation under the pile and provides improved drainage. A tile drain under the building prevents the accumulation of water under the pile, thus increasing the effectiveness if the insulation.

Sawdust still is the cheapest insulation for the ice pile, but it is most effective only when dry. One of the new things in storing ice is to cover the ice pile with a tough waterproof paper like Sisal-Kraft. The strips of the paper are pieced lengthwise against the ice, and sawdust is put in place to hold the strip. The bottom edge of the next strip is then pieced inside the upper edge of the strip below, so that water will be kept out to the ice.

This keeps the sawdust dry, increasing its insulating value. This covering also keeps the ice clean and dry sawdust will keep in good condition indefinitely while wet sawdust decays after a few years of use. The sawdust packing should not be less than a foot thick. Shavings or fine straw can also be used but if straw is used a heavier layer is needed than with sawdust.

There is not much danger of vermin infesting the insulation. The temperature will be low enough to discourage them.

The simplest way of providing air circulation over the ice pile is to leave a small portion of the gable unboarded. This is cheaper than putting a ventilator hood on the roof, and probably as effective. It is important that the ice house be located in a place which is shaded as much as possible. The north side of a large tree or large building is ideal. The foundation should be of concrete or concrete where maximum length of life is desired, though the building can be set on posts or large stones. Studding and rafters of 2 by 4 inch material will be handy enough for most farm size ice houses. The inside surfaces should be boarded rough lumber being satisfactory for this. Sometime outside sheathing is omitted, but given the building an individual appearance. Outside sheathing should not be tight, however, as air circulation between it and the inside boards is preferable to prevent moisture from collecting in the wall spaces. Holes may be bored through the boards at bottom and top of each space between studs for ventilation of the wall.

A guide rod of about one-third stock will provide enough headroom for filling of the house without too much discomfort. One or two crosspieces across the rafters near the centre are sufficient to prevent the building from spreading if the length is not over 14 feet. Too many cross pieces interfere with the putting in of the last layer of ice.

The door for filling the house should open outward from the bottom to a level well above the plate and removable boards should be placed in slots on the inside to hold the insulating packing.

About three tons of ice are needed for a household refrigerator for 8 months. To cool cream taken about 300 lbs. of ice per cow. For cooling milk for city health authorities usually ask for two tons of ice per cow per year. A 10 gal. insulated cooling tank this can be cut almost in half. After figuring requirements in this way, about 50 per cent should be added to make up for loss due to melting.

About 45 cubic feet of space is needed to store a ton of ice. Thus an ice pile 10 by 10 feet and 9 feet high will contain about 30 tons. This would require a building 14 feet square, and the side walls should be 16 feet high. Of course, it should be remembered that the smaller an ice house the greater the loss due to melting.

With high fuel costs and removal of the restraints this ice house if well constructed, will do a good job. Ice is covered with waterproof paper to keep sawdust dry.

BID HOT KNOW MONEY STOLEN THREE MONTHS AGO

LOS ANGELES. — John C. Maxfield lost $18 000 in cash—maybe two months ago—but he didn't find it out until recently.

Police were advised that Charles W. Swigert, 21, had surrendered $17,000 to St. Louis police and told them he stole it from Maxfield's safe.

Maxfield, a produce merchant, was surprised when police told him about it. He said the last time he had opened the secret vault was Aug. 30.

The first vault was made late in the 16th century.

Pot Bulbs Now Get Spring Blooms

By HENRIETTE CERF

If you have not potted those Dutch bulbs you bought for flowering in the house, now is the time to do so. If they are left lying about too long they will dry out and lose quality.

So called Dutch bulbs include hyacinth, tulip, crocus, iris, or narcissus, and a few of lesser importance. They are grown indoors for spring flowering. The soil is not very important, but should contain a fair amount of sand. Peat or leaf soil may be added, but barnyard manure is best avoided unless very well pulverized with age.

After potting, water well and bury the bulbs in a cool dark part of the basement. Dig to eight weeks is about the average storage time during which the root system develops. During this period keep the soil moist but avoid dryness or saturation.

When the top growth is about an inch long, the pots should be moved to a light position in the basement and should remain there until a slight change in colour from yellow to green occurs.

From then on, the blooms may be forced in a room that is cooler than the living rooms—often the hall or a cool window is a suitable place. The bulbs should remain there until the leaves expand and the flower buds appear. At that time they may be safely moved into a warmer temperature. The full blooms will last longer if kept out of direct sunshine.

BOYS FROM PERU SEE FIRST RAIN

VANCOUVER.—The soft patter of raindrops is something new for two little boys now in Vancouver. The night they arrived here it rained—the first rain they had ever seen.

The boys, Patrick and Robin Landes, came from their desert home in Talara, Peru, where the heaviest rain fall was sometimes but no rain.

The Landes family—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Landes and the boys — are here on a vacation. He is an oil company geologist at Talara.

Mr. Landes is a grandson of the late secretary of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon and married Mrs. Landes, who grew up in Vancouver, in Edmonton before going to Peru some years ago.

BEANS VALUABLE PART OF DIET

Beans are a valuable part of the diet in some sections of the country but seldom used in other localities. Bureau of Home Economics has always emphasize the great pots of fragrant beans and the real enjoyment by the users of this satisfying hot food. Baked beans are a Saturday night special in many families and would soon become a favourite in others if they knew how.

Perhaps the chief reason why the homemaker overlooks beans as her menu planning is the length of time required to develop that special deep-brown flavour. There are, however, other and quicker ways to cook beans and still have the "come-on" odour and satisfying flavour and texture

The home economists of the Bureau of Agriculture, have developed a few recipes which will appeal to the homemaker — enough of the same preparation and to the family because of its real goodness.

BAKED BEAN SOUP

2½ cups canned tomatoes (1 28-oz. can)
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup chopped celery
½ teaspoon powdered cloves
2 cups baked beans
½ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Combine tomatoes, onion, bay leaf and cloves together. Simmer for 5 minutes. Remove bay leaf, add beans, water, salt and pepper. Simmer for 10 minutes. Press mixture through a sieve. Reheat and serve. Yield: six servings.

BAKED BEANS WITH CHEESE

1 cup dried white (navy) beans
1 small carrot
1 onion
¼ green pepper (optional)
2 stalks celery
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
½ cup grated "medium" Cheddar cheese

Soak beans overnight, in water to cover, then cook until tender, about 1½ to 2 hours. Drain. Cut carrot, onion, green pepper and celery into small pieces. Bake a short while in fat. Sour, milk, salt, pepper and cheese. Arrange vegetables and beans in alternate layers in a greased baking dish. Cover with cheese sauce and top with a mixture of grated cheese and bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven, (350 deg. F.) until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Leftover cooked vegetables may be used and the cooking time shortened to 15 to 20 minutes. Yield: six servings.

CHILI BEANS

1 lb. ground raw beef
½ cup chopped onion
2 cups cooked white (navy) beans
½ cup chili sauce
1 to 2 tablespoons chili powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 small bay leaf
½ teaspoon pepper
Brown beef and chopped onion in a dry pan, stirring constantly. Add beans, chili sauce and stir for about a minute. Add chili sauce and seasonings and simmer, covered, for 10 to 20 minutes. If mixture thickens too much during cooking, additional vegetable water or tomato juice may be added. Yield: six to eight servings.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

MENTAL GROWTH

When the fight begins within himself, a man's worth something.

—Browning.

All growth depends upon activity. There is no development physically or intellectually without effort, and effort means work.—Calvin Coolidge.

Growth is governed by experience; by the active, all-wise, law-directing, far-reaching, law-shaping Principle, God. — Mary Baker Eddy.

The improvement of the understanding is for two ends; first, our own increase in knowledge and power, to enable us to deliver that knowledge to the use of others.

We cannot flatter ourselves that we have understood a truth until it is impossible for us not to shape our lives in accordance with it.—Masterlinck.

He who would arrive at the appointed end must follow a single road and not wander through many ways.—Samson.

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

A gay party was schooled whose guest list was studded with the names of prominent authors, publishers, etc. Journalism, operas, and an editor conceived the notion of a motorcycle race. He managed to dangle equipment and a cycle, and set out in style for the party. Unfortunately, he got lost on the way. The roads in that section are quite empty after dark and he rode about for a long time. At last a fork appeared ahead, and it was obvious from the drone of the occupants that they, too, were looking for the masquerade. The editor tagged behind.

Suddenly the driver of the fleet became aware of the motorcycle in the back of him, and he stopped abruptly on the accelerator. The chase was forgotten for a while, but the hunt sung doggedly onto the trail, and when the driver of the fleet slowed down and stopped. "Here at last," thought the editor happily, and pulled up at the side of the fleet, just in time to have a fifty dollar bill thrust into his hand by an ingratiating chauffeur. He pocketed the bill, parked his motorcycle, and had a fine time at the party.

The next day the Red Cross received an anonymous donation of fifty dollars.

RECIPES

CHICKEN PIE
(Serves 8)

Five to 6-pound roasting chicken, cut up; 2 onions, sliced; 2 stalks celery; salt, pepper, 6 tablespoons, 2 cups chicken broth, 9 small white onions, 9 small carrots, 2 egg yolks, dash of nutmeg, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup cream.

Cut up the chicken. Cover with boiling water, add onions, and sliced carrot and celery. Season and simmer until tender. Cool chicken in its own broth. Remove the meat in a little butter. Boil the onions and carrots. Beat the egg yolks and add the cream. Remove the meat from the bones and cut in fairly large pieces. Arrange the chicken, vegetables and mushrooms in layers in a casserole. Mix nutmeg, flour, beaten egg cream and broth together; season and pour over the chicken. Cover with a rich biscuit dough. Bake 30 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) until the crust is a golden brown.

Goose Recaught At Miner Bird Sanctuary Banded In 1932

KINGSVILLE, Ontario.—The name of the late Jack Miner while making a catch of Wild Canada Geese recently at the Jack Miner Sanctuary to band them and study their route of migration, caught a Canada goose which the late Jack Miner had banded in the fall of 1932. This means the bird had carried the band 10 years and had made 20 flights north and south across the continent. It is not uncommon to make recatches of birds that have carried the famous Miner bands six, eight or 10 years but it is only about once a year they make a catch of a goose banded 10 years previous

Preventing Tuberculosis

By H. E. ROSS, Medical Director, Manitoba Board of Health

The Christmas Seal is symbolic of the fight against tuberculosis throughout the world. In Manitoba, the money raised by their sale for over 20 years has been spent within the Province for the prevention of tuberculosis. New disease is prevented by the discovery of spreaders of infection and the finding of cases early, when treatment provides an excellent chance of recovery and before the germ can be transmitted to others.

During the last three years in Manitoba, 750,000 people have been X-rayed by chest X-ray surveys and free tuberculosis clinics. Most of the Province has been covered twice. This intensive program to discover new cases and seek out unknown sources of infection, is provided by fully equipped large mobile X-ray units. It is financed by the Christmas Seal sale and the fund-raising activities of the Associated Canadian Travellers. Not one cent of the money received for Christmas Seals is spent on sanatorium treatment, which is free to the person requiring it.

In Manitoba there has been a striking and encouraging decrease in death. from tuberculosis during the past two years. Great strides have been made. In 1926 it topped the list as the cause of death. It is now eighth. However, in 1948 there were still 226 deaths in Manitoba and the tragedy is that it is within the power of our knowledge to have saved these lives. In this day and age no fully anyone need die of tuberculosis because, if discovered early enough, it can be cured. Besides the deaths last year, there were 1,021 active cases reported in the Province.

Tuberculous hills and boogs ill more people than all other germ diseases put together. Tuberculosis may strike people at any age. No one is immune. The 10-year age group with the largest number of deaths is women from 20 to 30. The highest death-rate is actually among men from 50 to 60 although this latter group is numerically smaller.

Although much has been accomplished, it is obvious that a great deal more needs to be done. The only sure way of detecting the disease early is by X-ray before symptoms develop and this is the reason why the Sanatorium Board has been conducting mass X-ray surveys of healthy people, on an extensive scale.

Many of us who have engaged in the anti-tuberculosis campaign know that the problem is not being attacked adequately and all cases are found. Getting the residual reservoir of unknown cases out of circulation and under treatment, is the core of the problem. We have every reason to continue our anti-tuberculosis program in a spirit of optimism but not complacency. Now is the time for a more concentrated attack.

The eradication of tuberculosis is everyone's job. Know the pertinent facts about tuberculosis. When there is an X-ray survey of your community be sure that you and your family are X-rayed. Right now we can all do our share in provide money for the preventive program by buying Christmas Seals.

Your purchase of Christmas Seals is quite an adventure in well-wishing. Your contributions may have paid for the X-ray which showed up an early case of tuberculosis in a young mother. It could easily have been responsible for sending her to sanatorium for a comparatively short period of treatment and then returning to her family well and happy. Besides this, what about her husband and children? What did you do for them? Because her disease was found before symptoms appeared, the others in the family were saved from infection. Your purchase of Christmas Seals will have a definite share in the saving of such damage-dried instead of dried out completely. They will be welcome at any time.

mas Rush can avert tragedy

The 1949 Christmas Seal, which it is hoped you will use on all Christmas letters and parcels, is one of the most attractive yet designed. The central motif is a dove carrying an olive branch, a happy symbolic of peace and goodwill, the dove is an appropriate emblem for a campaign to bring health and happiness to thousands.

There is so much unavoidable human suffering that it is a satisfaction for you to know of one piece you can really help. You can be a partner in the campaign against tuberculosis by BUYING CHRISTMAS SEALS.

Inventive Minds Still Active

OTTAWA.—Canada's inventive minds, although showing a little from their wartime neck, are still in high gear. Annual report of the secretary of state department, which handles the patent office, noted low outstanding developments in the trend of invention, but found continued increases in inventions in electricity and chemistry, up to last March 31.

In all, 13,781 applications for patents were filed with the patent commissioner during the year, a decrease of 3,854 or 22 per cent. from the previous fiscal year. However, the total of patents granted was 9,343, an increase of 1,771 or nearly 24 per cent.

To show the variety of things covered by inventory the report mentioned that the report mentioned increased attention had been directed to such diversified inventions as button sewing machines, ash trays, chess boards, awnings, venetian blinds, display boxes, loose-leaf binders, windshield wipers, suction cleaners, fish dressing machines, razor blade dispensing packages, gaunes, cigarette lighters, fishing tackle, egg candling and thermometers.

In electrical and radio communication the trend was toward pulse code modulation, wave guides, pulse guides, refinements in amplitude transmission and telemetric systems.

Apiarist Says Bees Really Are Lazy

TORONTO.—The "busy bee" really is lazy and a lone bugger, W. E. Agar of Brooklin, Ont., an apiarist for 35 years, says.

Mr. Agar, in charge of the honey exhibit at the Royal Winter Fair here, said bees will not work more than four trips a day, carrying nectar to the hive between flights, he sleeps. And a trip probably takes only half an hour or so."

But he's sent bees fly away and leave 100 pounds of honey behind, surrounded by flowers where they didn't have a chance of building a new reserve for their winter food.

A Grateful Tribute

THE WORK OF THE RED CROSS SOCIETY goes on at all times and its benefits are felt by people in many walks of life and under varied circumstances. While the peacetime activities of this great organization are extensive, and its service to humanity never diminishes, it receives more attention from the public in time of war, when the need for the type of help it provides is especially great. It is doubtful if there was any community in Canada which did not have the Red Cross group during the war, and many thousands of women worked tirelessly to provide comforts and necessities for the armed forces and for civilian victims of the war.

• • • •

An Instance Of Friendship

Recently the Canadian Red Cross in Britain closed down after ten years of service in that country. In commenting on that event, the London Times published a leading article under the heading "Help From Canada." The newspaper said: No better instance of practical friendship could be found than the record of the Canadian Red Cross, which is now closing down in Britain after ten years of splendid service. It leaves behind as a standing memorial the Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Taplow which is, among other things, a research centre for rheumatic-cardiac conditions in children. All this work had its source in thousands of local committees, and small and widely scattered throughout Canada, and in the side of the Atlantic thousands of men and women remember gratefully the benefits received through this great spontaneous welling-up of Canadian generosity.

• • • •

Is Appreciated By Many Here

This will be appreciated by the many people in Canada who have supported the work of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and by those who were associated with the activities which took over during the war. It is always to be hoped that there will be no further need for an effort comparable to that referred to in the Times, but that gracious expression of appreciation serves to remind us of the very worthwhile results of the work of the Red Cross. It should also serve to impress upon us the need to give unremitting support to this organization which does so much to relieve suffering and provide comfort wherever such help is needed.

Curling Widow Solves Problem

VANCOUVER.—There is one little lady in Vancouver who refuses to be a "curling Widow".

What did she do?

She learned the game!

Then another problem arose: "Hubby" wouldn't come home for dinner.

He wanted to curl the game over again in the locker room.

Another remedy!

She was waiting in the lunch room this particular day—"hubby" was in the locker room as long time.

A pay phone on the wall caught her eye. "Hubby" was paged in the office phone

With only a mere thirteen between them she said, "When are you coming home for supper"

Those curlers are crafty. "Hubby" looked out the office window, spied "wifey" at the phone and said, "right away."

Britain is Facing Shortage Of Pepper

LONDON.—Pepper is so short in Britain that restaurants are being asked to go easy on it.

A leading London pepper broker described the shortage as a "tremendous" one.

He and one of the reasons for the scarcity is that political disorders in the Netherlands East Indies and Indonesia have prevented replanting of crops.

Food manufacturers may be required to stop using pepper substitute in sausages, pies, and other meats. The substitute is 85 per cent. buckwheat, eight per cent. cayenne, five per cent. ground pepper and a small percentage of aromatic seed.

West Receives Large Amounts From Insurance

By The Canadian Press

One of the steadiest flows of money coming into Canadian pocketbooks is that from life insurance.

It is, too, largely "brend and butter" money — spent for necessities, and so goes into the most basic things of a country's life: Food, clothing, housing, education.

While a large portion of it goes to support dependents after the death of a policy-holder, more than half goes to the living policy-holder either to support him or her during old age, or later years.

In the first nine months of this year, for instance, Canadian families were paid more than $154,267,000 by the 50-odd Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies operating here.

Of this, about $59,500,000 was in cash payments, and the rest, $94,767,000 in payments to living policy holders.

In Saskatchewan $1,417,175 was paid out in death claims on 629 ordinary policies; $33,500 on 133 industrial policies, and $104,238 on 73 group certificates. Total cash loan payments in Saskatchewan were $1,-554,613 on 629 policies. The average death claim in Saskatchewan was approximately $1,875 compared with the national average of about $1,300.

The figures from the Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association, give the death payments by provinces, in the nine months, as follows (number of policies on which death payments were made, in brackets):

Prince Edward Island $276,508 (124); Nova Scotia $1,825,050 (1,727); New Brunswick $1,136,704 (1,127); Quebec $17,763,925 (17,536); Ontario $27,453,093 (22,672); Manitoba $2,-061,362 (1,853); Saskatchewan $1,-554,613 (1039); Alberta $3,309,108 (2,391); British Columbia $4,332,670 (2,986).

Newfoundland figures are not included, and the breakdown by provinces of the amounts paid to living policy-holders is not given.

Food manufacturers may be required to stop using pepper substitute in sausages, pies, and other meats. The substitute is 85 per cent. buckwheat, eight per cent. cayenne, five per cent. ground pepper and a small percentage of aromatic seed.

Recommend New Grain Species For Certain Areas In Manitoba

WINNIPEG —One new variety each of wheat, oats and flax has been recommended for certain areas of Manitoba by the central committee of the Manitoba Agronomists Reporting to the 29th annual conference of the organization which opened in the legislative building, the committee headed by J. R. Welsh, advised the use of:

1 Saunders wheat as a second choice to Selkirk or Thatcher in the Swan River valley because of its early maturing date;

2 Fortune oats throughout most of the province because of its resistance to smut and good yield.

3. Rheyonne flax in northern Manitoba because of its early maturing.

Less than one per cent. of the province's wheat acreage is now sown to varieties that are not recommended, D. M. McLean told the conference.

Reporting on a survey conducted by the Line Elevators farm service, Mr. McLean said Regent wheat is the popular variety wheat variety in Manitoba, followed by Thatcher, Redman and the Durum varieties, Stewart and Carleton.

A B. Masson noted that the two Durum varieties were in equal footing for Manitoba conditions. A new American strain, a cross between Mondovi and Stewart, looked promising, Mr. Masson said.

Two other new crosses, Minto with Cadet, and Regor with Timstein, have been produced in the United States with excellent yields, the committee reported. The decision on licensing them is pending the results of several years' milling and baking tests by H. H. Hamilton and Mr. Helgason indicated that Monitain and Vantage barleys continued to give outstanding yield results. Titan, recommended for the first time last year, has been recommended again along with the other two varieties. They advised the planting of the American barley strain Moore before its general use in Manitoba.

Dr. P. J. Glaser told the agronomists that Royal flax should be taken off the preferred list because of its susceptibility to rust and He described Redwood, Bannister, Dakota and Rocket for rest of the province.

Christmas is over and I'm glad of Sunday for Ontario on receipt of it. When I hear the above remark, and I often do I think Xmas can't be over for you because it never was anyone who thinks Xmas consists of merely one day of cheap cards rush a bit of mendin sentiment and decorated tree has surely missed the boat. You tried, as well say that Christianity means only Sunday Christmas is Christ's Day and He did not give us that day and then donert us for the other 364 Christmas should be 365 days a year There is just as much need for the cheery greeting and open hand any and all days as there is at Xmas Many envelopes send out a few hampers etc to the needy at Xmas and then more or less forget them, so though one square meal doesn't carry them thru the year but until corrective, individuals, churches and missions carry the spirit of Christmas through the whole year, there is no Xmas just Dec. 25—Followed by 364 more days, and poorer on earth goodwill to men, will forever remains a myth.

PERSONAL STUFF

—Mr. & Mrs.—

This current cold spell has already shattered a fourteen year record, and at this writing (Saturday, Jan 16th) bids fair to continue on and conquer the weather experts to thumb back through the "morgue" of old files to see what further records can now be replaced with new ones.

Thirty-three consecutive days (as of today) with the thermometer well below zero and an average for the period of almost 12 degrees below, is enough to make the most patriotic Canadian re-consider, especially when you remember that although the average has been 12, the temperature has ranged from zero to 15 below through the 31 days. Cost piles are shrinking rapidly and nerves are becoming frazzled. Snow on the level is not deep but the icy coldness breezes in with a chilliness you must certainly once feel to understand.

We are not, of course the only unfortunates suffering extreme conditions at weather. California has the smudge pots working overtime in the orange groves; the Fraser Valley in B.C. has 13-foot snow drifts; Ontario truffle has been blanked and Vancouver is suffering from extra snow fall. We are never embarrassed here because we have no excuses for anything in the way of weather, but Chamber of Commerce members in some of those backwoods places such as Los Angeles and Vancouver must really have red faces.

If the present cold snap continues and I think it will for a time at least I will have more to say about it later

Even in the midst of so below the people can still enjoy the lighter side of life. With the thermometer staying around 45, one chap told me to be sure and cover my tomatoes as teh radio had just reported that we could expect frost that night. I was feeling pretty disgusted one day not a rare event to the fact that if I could locate the old Indian Chief we had station this country from, I would give it back to him. A lady nearby was likewise hazzing from her watering eyes, and "You and if you find him apologize for our stupidity".

I was genuinely amazed though that such a small amount of money could spend fifteen minutes putting on a pair of sweaters, socks and Little bedder and then proceed to keep parties, and then bundle forth with his hand and ears bare

KILLAM PRESBYTERIAN ASSN.

In spite of the severe weather 16 members were present at the January meeting of the Killam Presbyterian Ladies Assn. held at the home of Mrs. A E Pe. The new President, Mrs Grace Hanson occupied the chair with the Devotional being taken by Mrs Joe Grant and Mrs Gibson. Plans were made for further improvements in the church basement. The Assn. will cater for the supper on February 5th. The Mission Study for the day was a brief account of the work of Miss Hermanson, R.N. in Formosa. Mrs. D. Bence was the visitant tea hostess.

L. W. REED MEADS ELKS

Mr. L. W. Reed was installed as Exalted Ruler of the Lougheed Elks Lodge No. 213, at an impressive installation ceremony presided over by P.E.R. Bro. Olsen as installing officer assisted by E R Pederson.

Other officers installed were: L. Knight Bro. O. Probst; Loyal Knight Bro. Herb Lemoine; Lec. Knight Bro. K. Rae Cressey; Chaplin Bro. A. McCoy; Chaplain Bro. H. Bunnis; Tyler Bro. Kishwich; Inner Guar Bro. E. Mobley; Sec.-Treas. Bro. H. Pederson; Historian Bro. J. Wentz; Trustee, Bro. C. Lundi.

It was decided to have the postponed sledging party for the kiddies when the weather breaks.

LEGION THANKS THE LADIES

Last fall the wives of the members of the Lougheed Legion held a tea, the proceeds from which were used to purchase venetian blinds referred to below.

* * * *

Dear Mrs. Marlow—

On behalf of the Lougheed Branch of the Legion I would like to take this opportunity of thanking the Ladies Aid Legion wives and their helpers for providing the venetian blinds for our Hut. The blinds add a very definite touch to the room and will be greatly appreciated for many years to come. As a time like this when we are all struggling to finish our Hut project, your unsolicited work and efforts are doubly appreciated. Once again, we thank you for your donation. — Sincerely, Don Vant (Sec.)

Mrs. Ruth McCracken presented Mrs. Matthews with a gift. A dainty lunch was served. Hope by next meeting that the weather man is more agreeable.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my dear wife and our mother Ann G Morgan who passed away January 21st 1949.

We lost a wife and mother with a heart of gold.

Who meant more to us than wealth untold.

We often sit and wonder why such a good person had to die.

Always smiling, happy content

Loved and respected wherever she went;

Always thoughtful, willing and kind,

Sadly missed by her husband Wesley and family. 47 1 p

Contrary to all expectations, Canada Cement will remain scarce until the Exshaw plant can get back to full capacity. Storage space is short, so cement cannot be piled up in high piles. Any one needing cement for winter work will be wise in buying now and storing it where it will remain dry. Granaries or Garages are ideal, provided of course they are dry (this is the main factor in storing cement). Plank or boards laid down on dirt floors keep cement from cool-ture.

SMALL, CROSS-BRED TURKEYS A SUCCESS — Small turkeys for small families that solve slogan has brought success to W. Otto Wiggins, veteran farmer of Ingelwood. By extensive cross-breeding, Mr. Wiggins has developed gobblers that weigh six to 20 pounds at maturity. The average weight would be eight pounds—just right for a Yuletide feast when one or two children are involved. Donna Marchmont and W. Otto Wiggins hold turkeys in picture above. Small turkey is seen at left, normal one at right.—N.S.B. photo

SENDS COCKER TO CONSOLE CHILD — Ace, a jet-black cocker spaniel, started a 2,000-mile trip by air. She's going to Vancouver to try to console four-year-old Dianne Drummond, Butler St., Vancouver whose dog was killed by burglars. Ace was a member of a North York, Ont., kennels, owned by Mrs. M. H. Page. Mrs. Page was touched when she read story of Dianne's loss. Herbert Spence, four, is shown saying good-by to Ace.—N.S.B. photo

NEW EXPERIENCE—Christmas in Canada was a new experience for Dagmja Vegera, who opened parcels received at party held in Goderich, Ont., for 150 new Canadians. Each received Christmas gift.—N.S.B. photo.

TWINS—Dorothy and Delores Friesen, 11-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Yake of Neck, Sask., with their twin calves, two weeks old.

SMASHES WAY THROUGH GLASS, MOTHER SAVES SON'S HEROIC — Trapped with her three sons in fire swept rooms at London, Ont., Mrs. Leroy Wimperis, wife of a navy veteran, smashed window with bare hands loosed two to safety, but failed in attempts to rescue third. She is seen with Donald, 10 months. Charred body of Kenneth was found later by firemen and police. Leroy and Virginia met and married in Newfoundland while both were on wartime service. Wimperis had left for Samoa an hour before the fire on a mission of mercy for a friend and was advised of his own loss by provincial police. Learning that the family had lost everything and that they had no clothes, people of the district opened a subscription and gathered gifts and clothing.—N.S.B. photo.

TWO OF THE PRIZE GUESTS — Miss Ann Egan in the Express car that took the 24 unwanted guests from Quebec to the new home of their owner, Mrs. Stanley J. Bush (left) at Bush Gardens.

CANADIAN U.N. ASSOCIATION SPONSORED CONCERT — Two youngsters who appeared on program of "Carols of the Nations," sponsored by the United Nations association in Canada at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, were Paivi Heyrnen, six, and Jaromir Jacek, eight in costume.—N.S.B. photo

ANOTHER ARTIFICIAL ICE RINK—Adding another link to the chain of ice arenas the Noblton, Ont., artificial ice rink was officially opened. Last year the arena had natural ice. Jack Cox, clown, assumes Barbara Cochrane at opening festivities which attracted a capacity house.

Science May Find Cause Of Bird Migration

For some years it has been believed that migrating birds find their way by means of a kind of "radio" sense. Scientists in Canada are now out this theory to test. Broadcasting from Washington, Mr. Tom Benson said that for some years American experimenters have been puzzled by the mysterious migration of birds. Recently a group of experiments at Johns Hopkins University, using the homing pigeon, have confirmed in every detail the radar beam is invented on the ground and with all the electrical equipment housed underneath the ground.

The beam sweeps from side to side in an arc of 100 degrees and up and down from the ground to infinity. The beam sweeps about 200 times a minute. In the best results, and it so happened that they caught a bird at that moment at just that distance. They all reacted the same way. The beam was focused on them and they turned back and changed direction. One flight was eight hours, and finally they became so confused that they traveled side-saddle in all directions.

The surprising thing about the whole business is that the radar has no effect on the birds that are more or less local inhabitants, at least no reaction has been obtained on them. They have to be birds that are migrating and on flight. What it means is of course, still a question-mark, and will remain so for perhaps years to come.

However, it does give the scientists something new to work on with this mysterious thing called migration. It opens up an entirely new field of investigation and confirms the theory that ducks and geese and other waterfowl are always afraid of fog in the shadow of aerial navigation.

Don't Keep Furnace Pipes Under Wraps

Many home owners consider that sheet asbestos paper applied as insulation to the bright metal pipes of their furnace improves their heat carrying capacity. However, research work carried on by the National Warm Air Heating & Air Conditioning Association has proven that the heat loss is 62 per cent greater with the thickness of 12 th asbestos paper covering a bright tin pipe than with the same pipe as left uncovered. That test applies to bright tin pipes. A leader pipes through which heat is flowing at relatively low velocity under a gravity system the ... even losing by far the most ... system of central heating in ... Canada today.

... ready to demonstrate the inefficiency of a layer of asbestos paper as a heat insulator, tests were run ... which the number of thicknesses of paper was increased until the heat ... became less than the loss through a bare bright tin pipe carrying light thicknesses of 12 th asbestos paper were applied before the diversity was obtained. The practical features of such a method of ... existing pipe, were evident. The conclusion drawn was that the use ... a layer of asbestos paper ... sheet around warm air furnace leader pipes should be abandoned.

For the average up-to-date, gravity warm air furnace installation a practical method is merely to seal the joints of all pipes with two-inch asbestos strips in order to make the system "closed and therefore more tight". The return air side including joint reaming if used, should be equipped in a like manner. It is pointed out however, that leader pipes shall might be exposed to the chilling effect of basement windows, or when are extremely long, or run through cold spaces, should be adequate insulated — a minimum of three layers of corrugated asbestos being recommended in such cases.

Swift Current Boosts First Asphalt Lined Irrigation Canal In Canada

SWIFT CURRENT Sask. Swift Current, the focal point of western agricultural experiments for dry land farming, and a centrally located point for prairie irrigation, today boasts the only asphalt lined irrigation canal in Canada. If successful and previous experiments in the United States indicate that it will be, this may play an important part in the future of irrigation in Canada.

Recently, lining of the main canal of the Swift Current irrigation project was completed and workmen and engineers said that the only fall some of it trickled much power is helping along the job. Snow and rain help the work, as the canal is in use in the summer it is imperative that the lining be carried out either in the early spring, or late fall.

Catalytically-blown asphalt, from the Lloydminster oil fields, was used to line 3,876 feet of the main canal with an asphalt coating a quarter of an inch thick that will eliminate the seepage problem. The lining is so pliable as a rubber sheet, and can be picked up or laid down at will.

Total area sprayed with the asphalt membrane was 93,000 square feet. The asphalt arrived in Swift Current in oil cars, and after it was heated with steam, generated from an oil steam engine, it flowed into large oil tank trucks supplied by the department of highways. A heater is used on the truck which heats the asphalt up to 375 or 425 degrees F. It then flows easily, and is sprayed onto the surface of the ditch by hose of hose each equipped with three jets for the hot fluid to flow from.

Upon striking the cold earth a heavy steam arises, and almost causes a fog

After the spraying has been completed, the asphalt lining is covered with earth, which protects it from wave action, weathering, and with the outer coating of earth the canal is used on the truck which heats the asphalt up to 375 or 425 degrees F. It then flows easily, and is sprayed onto the surface of the ditch by hose of hose each equipped with three jets for the hot fluid to flow from.

After the fall litters are weaned, in October or November, the sows should be brought up in condition for breeding in December or January, says C. G. Hamilton, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. A feed mixture of two parts oats, one part barley and one part wheat, or one of equal parts oats and barley, with additional protein supplement to bring the protein level of the ration to 14 per cent, with a basic dry or pregnant sow ration. Smaller amounts of barley or wheat may be fed. The protein supplement should consist of approximately half animal protein and half vegetable protein. Skim milk, buttermilk, or whey are excellent protein supplements. One pound of a mixture of tankage and iodized salt in equal parts to 100 pounds of the above dry meal mixture will provide ample amounts of the necessary minerals. Vitamin requirements are satisfied by either providing green hay freely or by including 5 to 15 per cent. alfalfa meal in the ration. One pound of dry feed to the pounds of sow per day is a guide as to how much feed should be fed. The sows should not become overfat.

Housing need not be elaborate. In winter, dry or pregnant sows are better outside with cabans for shelter and lots for exercise. Feeding some distance from the cabins provides the necessary exercise. Well drained land is ideal location for the cabins. Drafts can be prevented and best retained in roughly built cabins by placing several together and surrounding all but the entrances with straw held firm with a snow fence. The hooved sow, being such a important item in the hog business deserves the best of management that has developed from many years of research to make hog raising profitable

MASS MIGRATION OF ITALIAN FAMILY TO CANADA TAKES PLACE—Mass migration of the Cheyna family from Italy to Canada seems to be well under way. With some already here, families of Amelio, Verdi, David and George Cheyna of Aquila, Italy, above, arrived in Toronto, recently. They were all guests at party.

This Invention Will Be Welcomed

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. - An atomic energy by-product eventually may prove a boon to dog fanciers.

Now? By imbedding radioactive materials in gold balls it will make them easy to find in the "rough".

Dr. William L. Davidson, Jr., director of physical research for the B.F. Goodrich Rubber Company, said a radioactive golf ball could be found easily by a geiger counter with a small geiger counter, a device for measuring radioactivity.

Sam, The Rooster Without Feathers

MOBILE, Ala. Sam, the rooster without a single feather, was introduced to the public recently.

He wasn't brought from his warm chicken shed without a struggle, however. It was cold

Mrs. Stonebrander, Sam's owner, said Sam was hatched right months ago, came out of his egg shell bare as a baby.

Having no feathers is hard on has exposed skin. He caught an awful cold or sunburn this summer until he learned to stay in the shade.

His first public appearance coincided with the season's first heavy frost. Sam just stood around, looking like a plucked chicken.

Women's Land Army To End

The Women's Land Army, formed in Britain to meet war needs, is to be brought to an end in November, 1950. Labour difficulties after the war made it necessary to prolong its existence but the number of regular workers in agriculture has steadily improved and now the Government regard the prospects of further recruitment as reasonably satisfactory. The 15,000 remaining members of the Land Army will not lose employment and it is hoped many will remain permanently on the land. The organization introduced many women to a new career besides forming a valuable part of the nation's war effort

May Eliminate Tiring Chore Of Pulling Weeds

NEW YORK Test tube tomatoes are being grown in a west coast laboratory opening up the possibility that the back-aching chore of weed pulling may be eliminated for the home gardener.

The new development is reported by Dr. I. P. Nitsch, a biologist of the California Institute of Technology's Division of Plant Biology, in the current official publication of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Nitsch reports that he has been able to grow tomatoes from the tiniest bundle of a cell-cluster using minerals, chemicals and that he expects to be able to bring them to full size and bear edible ripe specimens by the technique.

Both Dr. Nitsch and Lunt point out the benefits given to the solution by a preliminary feeding. The plants grew to a diameter of nine inches and ripened in the normal time required for tomatoes on the vine.

Nitsch said he tried several combinations of chemicals and found that the addition of sterile tomato juice either from green or ripe tomatoes caused the growth of the new tomato to develop. Thus the tomato itself apparently like tomato juice.

A week after planting Nitsch said, "the ovaries became visible, pushing up the pools and stamens which had kept them hidden. The ovaries then enlarged regularly, until about the 25th day after full bloom, when growth slowed down.

About the 35th day, fruits turned red and ripened at the same time as the controls left on the plant.

Nitsch said that the tomatoes raised from the flower in the culture tested "like sound tomatoes".

"They were seedless, which might be due either to lack of pollination or the plants were raised in a green house where pollination was very poor or to killing of the pollen tubes by the sterilizing re-nsnick," he said.

Nitsch reported the fruits were small, but said they received very little nutrition. He said the experiment shows that it is possible to raise fruits from flowers which have been separated from plants.

He is now attempting to obtain full-sized fruits and grow other types of fruits from flowers. His report indicates that he expects to succeed.

Managing Brood Sows In Winter

The commercial swine breeder may well consider the brood sow his most important investment. The constructive breeder breeds mainly from gilts, but for production of market hogs, proven sows should be retained as long as they are capable of producing thrifty litters. Sows should not be kept through the winter unless they have previously demonstrated their ability to produce and raise a large litter.

New Drug Is Healing Ulcers

CINCINNATI — Benthine, a new, nerve-control drug, is healing bad peptic ulcers. This way of controlling stomach action is something new in the long search for ulcer remedies. The synthetic drug substitutes for the action of the surgeon's knife on the stomach's control nerves.

In 24 cases it apparently healed Some ulcers were perforating, that is eating their way through the stomach wall or intestine.

Eight-ten patients were suffering severe ulcer pain. All cases pain stopped a few minutes after the drug was given. It is taken by mouth every few hours.

The results were shown to the Southern Medical Association meeting by Doctors Keefe S. Grubbs, Jr., professor of surgery, and Frank K. Longino, and C. Keith Lyons U.S. Public Health Service fellows.

Benthine is one of a score of new drugs tried at Duke University for effects in blocking the nerves that control high blood pressure and stomach ulcers. It is made by G. D. Searle and Company, Chicago.

The cause of ulcers is not known. Doctors agree that controlling conditions are excess stomach acid, regular meals, movements and probably overactive nerves.

Benthine slows down stomach movements. It is given by a block of the same nerves which are severed in stomach surgery. After the drug, food empties itself more slowly.

In most Duke cases acid also dropped. But in a few, the acid rose after benthine. Yet these sicrrs healed too.

The Duke researchers point to results of 125 surgical operations as a sign that the drug is on the right track. In some of these nerve-cutting cases have the ulcers reoccurred.

Whether ulcers will recur with the drug is unknown because it has been used only about two months. But to date it has shown no bad effects.

Man's Vest On Its Way Out

Is the vest — one of the hardiest and long-lived of all conventional male garments — on its way out? A survey of the men's wear trade in Chicago indicates that it is.

The reasons are various. Wartime restrictions made the standard for double-breasted coats two inches, instead of three pieces. A good many garment manufacturers never have gotten around to restoring the vest, for obvious reasons. Scores of young men came back from the armed forces accustomed to wearing a military blouse over a shirt and tie as main vest. And, for some years past there has been a trend among younger men to leave their vests on a hanger in the wardrobe, until such time as the weather dictates, a sleeveless pullover sweater. The result of all this has been the gradual disappearance of a no-vest psychology which tended to emphasize the thin trim waistcoat, to use the older name, in favor of a heavier item.

However, habit is a powerful thing. Men have been wearing vests for several generations, and the accent ously undergarb of today is sober beside the flowered vesting, flowered waistcoats of colonial times. And there still are millions of men who do not feel properly attired without a portable catch-all to hold pens, pencils, sometimes other minor impediments and to serve as a back-drop for fraternity jewelry.

On the other hand, there are practical considerations that appear to be bringing about the decline of the vest. Originally, waistcoats not only had material appeal, but were needed for warmth. A close-fitting vest, worn under a greatcoat, was a real comfort in cold weather. Today, except for outdoor workers, men do not need so much clothing. They ride in heated trains, buses and automobiles. Homes and offices have central heating.

Wives have little affection for vests. Gravy stains require that a whole suit go to the cleaner whereas an accident to a shirt means only one more item in the family washing.

It looks to us as if the cards are stacked against the vest. But we don't look for its disappearance overnight. — From the Columbian, Ohio, Despatch

Slick Manoeuvre By Laundryman

BOSTON. — A Vermont travelling man had the ticket but the Chinese laundryman couldn't change a $50 bill.

So the man left the bill to pay the $1.96 charge.

He returned for the change. The laundryman said, "No money. Spend whole 50. Better get rop"

The Vermonter dashed to the street and returned with Patrolman Edward Leary.

Smiling, the laundryman said: "have witness now. Here's $48.04."

We wouldn't have believed that 'our Jim' was a drinking man, but seeing is believing. During that final Johnstone-Matthews game on the news relation event our Jim took several 'little sips' out of that bottle (previously and purposely for the spoof) and I'll swear he didn't feel the cold at all, for after not coming out in the presses any event for years and years (by his own admission) our Jim staggered in from the ice shouting an all round hour, 'that Buckley's Mixture did it.'

Insuring the comfort of their patrons, the Kettler hall was insulated last Saturday. It must have been a cold job as he's appreciate it folks.

Due to the very extreme cold the United Church services were not held last Sunday. We sincerely hope that it will not last much longer.

The Busy Bees met at the home of Marjorie Matheson last week. Sorry folks, I did not hear who was prizes at cards but I did hear that a pleasant time was had and that a lovely luncheon was served.

Cupid aimed straight and did a good job we see. We heartily congratulate Miss Ellen Matheson and Jack Walker on their engagement Let's hear more soon eh?

Mr and Mrs. Harry Moody are the proud owners of a 1950 Dodge. Geo Harry, we haven't seen much of your 'old' one yet. Nice going.

Our sincere thanks to theirinks from Irma, Hughenden; Lougheed; Sedgewick and Alliance who despite the cold weather attended our parade. With no defaults, and helped make it a success. That was true sportsmanship gentlemen.

Cliff Saville was a business visitor to the city last week.

Mrs. Thos. Weyman of Calgary is now residing with her mother Mrs A B. Marlow, and Mrs. H. Craig has returned home to Wainwright.

We regret to report that Mrs. A Armstrong Sr. suffered a stroke last Sunday but is now making favorable progress in Killam hospital. On behalf of the community we extend our sympathy to extend our very best wishes for her speedy recovery.

The annual meeting of the Gretna Goodwill Club was held at home of Mrs. W.O. Albrecht on Jan. 13th with ten members present and also several of the male residents and a few small fry. The Sec-Treas. read the financial report which showed a very successful year with a balance on hand. Mrs. A. Wilhike was then appointed to be chair for the annual election of officers and the balance of the meeting. The Sec was instructed to order yard pins and also other yardage material for work during the year. New officers are: Pres Mrs. M. Rombough; Vice Mrs. A. C. Rombough; Sec-Treas., Mrs. W. Simpson (re-elected). Lunch was then served by the hostess. Next meeting at home of Mrs. A. E Rombough on Feb. 9th, with Mrs. C. Bradshaw and Mrs. C. Albrecht as hostesses. As past president of this club I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all who helped making it so successful.

Mr Vic Emberton is now stationed at Wainwright Army Camp

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Simpson on the birth of a daughter on January 6th, and to Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Adamson on the birth of son.

Rural Housing

HOUSING HAS BEEN ONE OF CANADA'S most serious problems since the war. The situation has been most acute in cities and towns and particularly in large industrial centres, but there has been need, too, for new homes in the rural districts. A recent report on the progress made during the past year in meeting Canada's housing shortage shows that up to September, 1949, 55 135 new homes had been built, marking an increase of 12 000 over the number built in the same period in 1948. Much of this building was done in the more thickly populated areas, but according to the Bureau of Statistics a considerable number of new homes were erected in the rural sections of Western Canada.

* * * *

In Saskatchewan 1,952 new homes had been built and 1,210 started in the first eight months of 1949, while the figures given for Manitoba were 2 200 constructed and 3,220 started. Alberta reported 5 815 new homes built in the same period and 5,350 started. Of these, many were farm homes. There has been a marked tendency, since the war, to encourage the housing on farms and a considerable portion of the money loaned by chartered banks under the Farm Improvement Loans Act was used for the purpose of installing plumbing electricity and other conveniences in farm homes. In the month of August, 1949, the Finance Department reported that 27 per cent of the $4,000,000 advanced in that month under the Act was used for the improvement of farm houses and buildings.

* * * *

Much Building In The West

Costs of building or altering farm homes are said to be about the same as those in the cities. The charges for installation of plumbing, electric wiring and heating systems are often greater because of the fact that contractors who do this type of work usually have to travel some distance to farms. However, the farmer may save on this labour cost by doing much of the work himself. There is also an added factor for thrift in rural districts, and more new farm houses would have been built in the past year had more workers been available. The general improvement in personal living conditions is also evident for many years and the increasing trend toward installing modern equipment in farm houses will be a great deal to home the work of the farm wife, and to make living generally more attractive. The old saying to the effect that the farmer's barn was often better than his house apparently no longer applies in the West and the tendency toward better housing is a sign of increasing progress and stability among the people there.

Tourists Coming To Winter Playgrounds

WASHINGTON.— A record-breaking flow of United States tourists into Canada's winter playgrounds is in the making.

That's the good word from the American Automobile Association which states that Canada remains the "major foreign travel objective" of U.S. tourists, and adds:

"This season's northward trek is expected to be a record-breaker for those who wish to enjoy winter sports north of the border."

Walter W. Hubbard, former Tennessean who now edits the association's magazine, American Motorist, said that motor traffic into Canada this last summer also was in the record class, with the number of cars rolling across the border during July breaking all previous totals for that month.

Nearly 1,500,000 cars, a figure never exceeded before or after the war, crossed the international border into the Canadian provinces in July. The total was 1,468,300, including 325,800 Canadian cars returning from trips into the United States.

At a single port of entry—Port Erie, Ont.—the number of cars entering the Dominion was between six and seven a minute, night and day throughout the month.

Hubbard reported that Canada's national parks are getting bigger play than ever.

"Exactly 1,001,630 visitors went to the Dominion's national parks during the first five months of the fiscal year of 1949-50, a figure which smashed the previous record of the corresponding period last year.

"Jasper Mountain National Park, in the province of Alberta, got the biggest increase — 72,023 above last year's attendance of 181,651."

LOSS WAS HEAVY

STEINBACH, Man. — Fire, raging through a 100-foot long two-storey chicken house two miles from here, destroyed 1,200 hens and caused damage estimated at $8,000

The chicken house was on the farm of John Nickel, and is known as the Steinbach Poultry farm.

More than 200 bushels of feed, stored in the chicken house, were lost in the blaze. The Steinbach fire department was called to the scene, but the fire was under control and ceased. Part of the loss was covered by insurance.

"My boy," said a married bishop to a youngster employed as a busboy at the episcopal palace, who had been found out in some mischief, "I want you to remember not only that you grieve me by your conduct, but that there is One far greater than either you or Who takes notice of everything we do, and will hold you responsible for our actions."

"Yes, my lord," replied the boy, "She's already spoken to me about it."

"Now that he plays in the band, I suppose your boy is quite proud," said the lady next door.

"Not as busy as I am," sighed the mother. "I have to help him find the right chord and press his coat form, attend the Band Mothers' meetings, and beat time while he plays 'O Canada' on his gilt saxophone."

Farm Children Have Better Health Chance

WINNIPEG. — Farm children have a better chance for good mental health than city children, says Dr C M Hincks of Toronto, general director of the national committee for mental hygiene.

Such children often lack intellectual outlets for their energies, he added in an interview here.

"It's not just by accident that many of our great leaders come from rural areas. People brought up in the country develop flair."

He said children on farms, particularly those living in large family, get a better start towards good mental health. They learn to accept responsibilities by doing chores around the farm.

Dr Hincks thinks mental hygiene is the No. 1 health and welfare problem in the world today.

Canada alone has 50 000 patients in mental institutions and is spending $40,000,000 in mental hygiene activities.

"For her population, Canada is spending more than any other country in the world. But a great more could be spent to advantage in view of the huge dimensions of the problem.

He estimated that two per cent of Canada's population are mentally ill and institutionalization is a depressing and ugly portrait mental health.

"They are crowding but not really living. They suffer from depression or anxiety states."

Dr Hincks lists the following requirements for good mental health:

1. Reasonable sense of personal worth.

2. Willingness to commit responsibility for self and others.

3. Hopeful frame of mind.

4. Tolerance of the value of giving children "lots of affection" to help them develop stability and a good mental outlook.

St. Bernard Veteran Receives War Decoration

VICTORIA, B.C.— Wallace, the dog St. Bernard mascot of the Fighting First" Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) led a parade here of more than 40 veterans receiving awards for overseas service in the Second World War.

Capt. J. R. Warburton called the first name on the list:

"Private Wallace, Regimental Number K-9."

While 800 spectators looked on, the old dog slowly got to his feet and eyed his master, Piper Andy McGeorge. The piper offered her hig; pipes to Wallace, who solemnly accepted them, and together they marched to the receiving dais.

Wallace eyed his master approvingly as he briskly untied Brig. R. N. Cabeldu, Colonel-in-Chief of the bagpipes. Piper McGeorge accepted and presented the dog with his awards—medal in an envelope.

The dog carefully held the packet in his massive jaws and master and dog returned to the ranks as the crowd cheered and cheered.

V.O.N. To Meet At Winnipeg

OTTAWA — For the second time in the history of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada, the annual meeting in 1950 will be held outside of Ottawa.

Winnipeg has been named the site of the Victorian Order's 1950 meeting, it was announced by the Hon. Justice C. D. Locke, V.O.N. president, after a meeting of the Order's Executive Council.

This will be the Order's 42nd annual meeting. In 1943 Toronto was the site, but in all other years the V.O.N. delegates have gathered in Ottawa.

Wheat And Oats Delivery Quota Lifted in Saskatchewan

An open delivery quota on wheat and oats has been announced for all delivery points in Saskatchewan, the Canadian Wheat Board announced. The move is now in effect

The delivery quotas of quotas in Saskatchewan, all delivery points in the west zone are on an open delivery quota basis.

The board said that until July 31, 1950, producers in Saskatchewan may deliver grain to any elevator at any delivery point where space is available. All deliveries of wheat and oats are to be entered in the producer's permit as usual.

Plant Expert Urges To Guard Against Spread Of Potato Disease

SUNDIN! a warning that our 100 million dollar potato growing industry is threatened by disease attacking the potato crop, Mr. Keenan states that it is quite seriously in certain sections of Newfoundland where it has been present since 1908. Fortunately no outbreaks have ever occurred in Canada and under Newfoundland control Confederation on April 1, immediate steps were taken by the Plant Protection Division officials to amend the regulations in order to continue the rigorous prohibition of the movement of potatoes from that new province to the other provinces of Canada elsewhere. Moreover, Mr. Keenan points out that a penalty is provided under the Destructive Insect and Pest Act for any contravention of any of the provisions of this Act or regulations thereunder.

For the past 50 years or more in Europe the Black Wart disease has proved to be even more than a headache to potato growers and officials there—it has developed into a malignant "canker" in truth, striking at the prosperity of the potato growing industry. In Britain and elsewhere homes have been reduced materially by the introduction of varieties immune or highly resistant to the disease. Unfortunately, however, some of these have proved to be susceptible when grown under some Newfoundland conditions.

The Dominion Botanist has stated that wherever the fungus causing Black Wart gets established in any soil, the growing of potatoes from then on becomes extremely hazardous, if not impossible. Unfortunately the presence of the disease cannot be detected in the field unless the tubers are examined, which usually means that the Canker is not detected until the harvest time. Thus once the fungus is multiply and spread unchecked during the growing season.

As the name would indicate, the disease is evidenced by black warts like protuberances arising on the surface of the tubers, or may even develop also on the stems of affected plants below or just above ground level, depending on the stage of the development of the fungus.

Warning all farmers, potato dealers and government officials to be on the lookout for this disease, Mr. Keenan outlets the aid of all in order to prevent its spread on Canada.

—By Les Carroll

Black Wart or Canker, an incurable potato disease, is prevalent in some areas of Newfoundland. Government authorities are trying to prevent its spread to the rest of Canada. The left picture shows a potato plant affected with canker, showing the complete destruction of all but one of the tubers. Right is a close-up of a potato affected with the canker fungus showing a typical "wart".

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"A Good Cigar Is a Smoke"

By T. W. TOBIN

The Most Beautiful Policewoman In The World Had Her Eyes On Clancy

CLANCY McBRIDE stood on the corner of Fifth and 125th, chewing on his cigar and muttering to himself. Clancy was unhappy, as he packed back and forth on his number twelves he hushed at his watch. "Late again," he growled to himself. "That girl has surely got me losing in her life. Here it is seven o'clock and she was supposed to meet me at six. I'm gettin' tired of it. This time it's going to be different."

There were two things Clancy loved, Maggie O'Toole and a good cigar. Maggie was the most beautiful girl in the world. Her Irish blue eyes could melt your heart, her dark curly locks could make you forget all about your name, and her smile could make you forget all about your name, and her smile could make you forget all about your name, and her smile

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

The main topic these days seems to be the continued cold spell, as it is ended, which makes me smile. It's chilly I will admit, but hardly cold compared to some I have been through in which this would have been considered a chinook. It was the last year I hunted and trapped in the big game country on the Little Muddy. I had come back to my cabin from my trap line one bitter cold night and rushed in to the stove to thaw out my breath as I could blow on my fingers to warm them. Suddenly I heard a boisterous growl behind me. Not being married at the time, I knew it was a bear. Turning I saw what I think was the largest grizzly that ever roamed the mountains. I was trapped. He filled the only door in the cabin, and only then did I realize I had committed the biggest boner(my method ain of bottom my rifle out of reach. In my hurry to get out of the cold I had left it hanging against the wall outside. It was a desperate situation and only desperate action could save me, so with both I rushed neither more him out or out him up. Eventually I had to burn the cabin down to thaw him out so I could get the door closed. It was then I decided to leave trapping and hunting to the Sollie boys and journey on to some location where I could pick up a small holding where I could experiment with cross-breeding of mink in which I had become interested. Yes I was told up there that with my best thanks to the cold I still have my best skin.

Mr. Hans Soelhan has returned to his Vancouver home after six months spent visiting relatives and friends in Lougheed district. Hans expects to return in the spring and possibly extend his journey to visit his old home in Norway.

Mark Hood was an Edmonton visitor last week. Was it business or Naval affairs there, or just a fling at the bright lights?

Mrs. Hahn who has been having a short visit with her mother Mrs. C Beckmire, has returned to her home at Rochester Alberta.

Don't tell this one outside of Alberta, but Henry Buchanbon was in the other morning and had to delay his trip to the city because the heater on his truck was frozen up. Next year we suppose they will put out twin heaters, one to heat the truck and the other to heat the heater.

Born— To Mr and Mrs Raymond Pinter of Red Deer, a son on Jan. 10 Donald Louis. Congrats.

Baby Boogaarts was a patient in Killam hospital last week. We hope nothing serious and hope that by the time you read this he will be back with Martin and Lester.

Word was received of the passing of another Lougheed old timer Anthony Brown) who passed away at his home in B.C. on Jan. 6th Mr Brown had not been feeling well and was going down to see the Doctor accompanied by a friend and succumbed at the wheel of the car which he was driving. We extend our deepest sympathy to his bereaved ones.

The old pioneer spirit is not dead yet if a conversation I heard the other morning between Magnus Holman and Tommie Laugrud means anything. Tommie walks in from the farm each morning to catch the bus. Magnus "Walk in this morning" Tommie "Yes." Magnus "Going to stay at Dorm this year?" Tommie "No. When it gets cold, oh my old blister it was only itching around 35 or 40 below zero then.

We are sorry to hear that Mr. Rod Koch Sr. is not in good health these days and has been a shut-in for the past week. We miss those old regulars when they fail to call daily.

Mrs. Tom Wayman of Calgary is looking after her mother, Grandma Marlow since release from hospital.

Well, it can't last forever; or if it can we may as well get used to it so make up your mind to attend the the Lougheed Legion Rings on Jan 21st Good prizes. Tax for all, but dollow. Just between friends the boys need your support.

Ray McCracken has just returned from another hangover (119C) dig. It was some affair and has just time to change clothes before he goes for another one.

The Lougheed Open Spiel starts on February 27th. This generally brings together the what's who of the on the, fraternity, so we expect to be seeing you all there

I saw the two Andys hop out of the car the other day and head for Coldjust as they got to the sidewalk they loaded back and there was the old darling the Mary's little lamb in the frame that forever prevented it from joining them at lunch Better make sure of the brake next time.

Margaret Hertel is spending a few months with her parents Mr Jon Hertels. Not thinking I believe Hollo. She says "don't talk shop as I am on vacation."

By the way, don't forget that now you have your new school bus drivers Ed and Tom. It seems Ed developed a secret system for keeping his hands warm. Don't tell anyone but he discovered it and plans to start experimenting on his own as most as, hoping to have it developed by the winter

The Lougheed Legion held the closed meeting on the 9th. Due to the weather a small attendance and while not much actual business was transacted, tentative plans were made for a busy season of which you will hear later The Hut gets a little chore completion each morning answer is surely something to be proud of and merits support not only of service men but the public as well.

Rodney has left to commence his duties as Dairy Instructor at Vegreville. Good luck and bon voyage.

Messrs Denham and Kenny will leave Feb. 17th on a John Deere Dealer trip which will take them to visit company plants at Moline. Burlington and Waterloo in the U.S.A. Bill will drive a tractor back to Lougheed with them. Gosh, I'm fed up on tractor That should make history.

Last Wed Mesdames Kenny Shervel and Barthel and Winger called on Mrs. Harold Nelson.

The country children who attend Lougheed school are enjoying hot cocoa each day these cold days. This was made possible by the joint action of the Home and School Assn., the local and the Divisional Boards and the teachers.

New Car Produced In Germany

BREMEN. — A new German car, the first since the war completely international streamline development, has just been put into mass production.

The Borgward plant in Bremen designed passenger Germany's entirely new car, the "Borgward Hansa 1500."

The Borgward plant, which was 80 per cent. destroyed during the war, plans production of 22 cars daily until January, 1950, and aims at bringing out 50 cars daily later.

The car is a two door sedan and seats five persons, has a streamlined body, measures 15 ft. 9 inches long and weighs 2078 kilograms. It consumes 8.95 liters of gasoline per 100 kilometres and costs at present 7,780 Deutsche marks (about $1,950).

NOT HARMFUL

Range Boiler Below Stove

IS THERE any way of hooking up a range boiler in the basement with a kitchen stove on the first floor?

To locate a range boiler in the basement when the water is to be heated by a kitchen range is usually not good practice as the natural circulation of hot water is upset. We are showing herewith a drawing which illustrates what has to be done to increase the height of the hot water loop in such an installation. The range boiler should be located as close to the ceiling of the cellar as convenient, which requires a higher stand or support than is usually employed. The hot water flow pipe is then run to the kitchen ceiling and the hot water lines to various faucets should be taken off at the upper end of the loop. The pipe is then continued downward into the top of the range boiler. The cold water return from the bottom of the range boiler is run up through the floor in the lower connection of the waterfront in the usual way. The longer the hot water loop above the waterfront the better the circulation, but this type of installation is not to be recommended as the circulation of hot water is never quite as good as it is where the range boiler is located on the same floor as the source of heat or on the floor above.

In a case of necessity, where the range boiler has to be below the floor, the following method is the drawing can be used.

GRANDMA'S EARS AND EYES

By JANE DALE

Grandma's hair is fighting grey and her cheeks are faded too.
But her ears are still alight!
And her eyes have keenest sight!
Believe me, now I do!

Grandma's ears are all atune
For the sounds of children play.
They're with her all the day.
Am sometimes on mischief bent
"Stop at once!" I hear her say.

Grandma's eyes see everything
Though sometimes her back's to me
Just when I think the coast is clear,
The then a gentle voice I hear—
"Don't do that, child, it is naughty!"

Grandma's hair is turning grey
And her cheeks are faded too.
But it amazes me each day
When I'm head of my play
How she knows what I'm about!

TRY AND STOP ME!

By BENNETT CERF

Here's a new twist to an old fishing yarn. Seems a city fellow on the banks of a stream was about to give up with nary a fish to show for his efforts when a native sauntered along and said: "Let's see yer bait." The visitor showed a pail of minnows. The native produced a flask of moonshine and poured several drops into the pail. "Try now," he suggested.

Thirty seconds after the fisherman made his next cast, he had a big strike. After a herculean struggle, he pulled in a 10-pound bass. But the big fish wasn't on the hook. The fisherman had it by the back of the neck.

Two old-time comedians, bitter rivals for more than 50 years, met in front of the theatre one day. "I'm off for Africa for a six-month tour," said one jauntily. "Believe me," the other assured him, "you'll never be able to complete there with the cobras." "They lay eggs weighing a pound where from three to six pounds!"

New Program Launched For Vet. Farmers

OTTAWA. — A new, positive Veterans' Land Act program of direct employment on farms for veteran-farmers was launched by Veterans Affairs Minister Gregg.

Mr. Gregg spoke at a dinner winding up the two-week conference of Veterans' Land Act supervisors.

The new program calls for introduction of balanced farming on veterans' holdings across Canada.

All farm activities will be co-ordinated to achieve optimum production.

For VLA supervisors who will have the job of introducing the program across Canada, Mr. Gregg had words of caution.

New Field

"You are embarking on a new field with few signposts to guide you," he told the audience at the Experimental Farm cafeteria.

The Minister emphasized the program stored clear of any taint of "paternalism".

"Without paternalism—and as economically as possible—a follow-up program must be effected once veterans are settled."

Object of the Veterans' Land Act was to place veterans on the land, and more than that, to "keep them happy there", Mr. Gregg pointed out.

"We must create an atmosphere in which the veteran can win success and decently raise his family."

More than 43,000 veterans had been settled on farms and small holdings. The settlements involved a public investment of more than $200,000,000 The investment would be protected by making the program accomplish what it had set out to do.

Major General L. R. LaFleche, acting deputy minister of the department, blamed veteran-farmers to Circumstains, soldier-farmer of ancient Rome.

Canada's job of settling veterans on farms, however, far surpassed anything conceived in antiquity.

The Department of National Health and Welfare advises that for the housewife trying to get the most value for her money Canada Approved Vitamin B Wheat is the best. Vitamin B helps guard the body against nervous strain, fatigue and loss of appetite.

Weights Of N.H.L. Teams And Players

What with all the talk lately of overweight players and with coaches and managers laying down the law because they believe certain players are in the best of condition, this is an opportune time to check the weights of every player in the National Hockey League and see what we find

The front-running Detroit Red Wings are the heaviest team in the National Hockey League with an overall average of 183 pounds per man. Fourteen of the 18 players on the Red Wings roster top the Toledo by at 175 pounds or better. Included are six men 14 pounds or three 20-pounders, namely Pete Babando, Leo Reise and Lee Fogolin. Lightest men on the high-flying Wings is none other than Ted Lindsay, their most prolific point-getter and star left winger. Lindsay weighs in at 163 pounds.

New York Rangers and all the other clubs in the N.H.L. during the last few seasons, have added considerable girth to their squad this year in order to give the Blue Shirts have an average weight per man of 176 pounds, frumishing enough the Rangers have the heaviest player in the N.H.L. and the lightest player on their roster. The heaviest player being Gus Kyle, rookie defenceman who make a rugged 210 pounds while the featherweight is the veteran Bill Cowley, who tips the scales at a little black needle in the 142 mark.

The toughest teams in the League are Boston Bruins and the much-discussed Toronto Maple Leafs with an average of 175 pounds per man. Bruins' man on the Leafs is Defenceman Bill Juzda at 208 pounds, while the lightest member of the Stanley Cup holders is rookie Rudy Migay at 150 pounds. The Leafs have nine players in the 175 pound or more class. Juzda is the only 200-pounder on the team now that Harry Watson has dropped down to 199.

Boston Bruins, who have been the heaviest team in the circuit for the last three seasons, are long a lighter aggregation this year. Average weight of the bewhiskered sextet of the Bruins is 170, same as Toronto's Rudy Johnny Crawford, veteran Boston rearguard is top man in the weights division at 200 pounds. There are nine other players besides Crawford who are in the 175 pounds or higher bracket. Tiniest Bruin is Kenny Smith at 155.

One pound back of the Leafs and Bruins with an average of 174 pounds per man, is the 17-man roster in the Chicago Black Hawks. Chicago has 11 players weighing 175 pounds or more, with two Jumbos, Red Hamill and Ralph Mattiman hitting an even 200.

Montreal Canadiens, although many people wouldn't believe it, are the lightest club in the N.H.L. judging from the weights on hand. Average weight of a Montreal Canadien is 173 pounds. Roger Leger at 205 and Butch Bouchard at 195 are the beefy boys on the Habs. Norm Dussault is the team's lightweight at 150 pounds, while linemate Billy Reay at 155 runs him a close second.

PERSONAL STUFF

— By A. W. B. —

The main thing to keep in mind when considering the present problems of municipal government is that it was conceived as the broad base of our free democratic structure. Bringing the problems of public affairs right to the doorstep of the common people, pioneering a new nation, introduced factors which our forefathers cherished, exercised and depended. Thus, local autonomy was accepted as a sphere of education and citizenship, which individual agitation opened the door to higher public administration. Service on municipal councils was considered an honor and a duty and democracy was held to be something more than a mere phrase

Today we find great changes and many new problems facing the present generation in the administration of municipal government. The rapid pace of industrialization and transportation, the trend to decentralization, the public demand for more and more social services have all combined to throw new weights and stresses into the realm of local government. At the same time we find a tendency among the younger generation, naturally to by pass the study of government but to shy away from participation and the responsibility and criticisms that go with it

Many of us are old enough to recall the conversations with which our fathers tackled the problems of municipal government. They listened themselves into local elections, contests, accepted authority, with stood criticisms and carefully financed the public works that made the modern towns and cities we live in today. They viewed with a wary opportunism of senior governments. They held that true democracy received rigid adherence to the principle of entrenched local autonomy

But the fast pace of modern living has brought vast changes which in a way of us appear to accept with little study and with calm complacency. Municipal councils are accepting and even demand more and more handouts from senior authority to finance local needs. Subsidies for education, hospitals, recreation, roads and streets, fire protection, or what have you, have become the order of the day. And with all this, local public debt seems to be steadily mounting with the large burden still carried by the property owners.

This mounting burden of purely municipal debt has gone along with greatly increased provincial subsidies. The old warning that handouts from outside sources simply invite increased spending seems to apply pretty well today. But there is a breaking point. There may well come a time when the money that pays the money to pay the bills. With every handout goes also a weakening of local autonomy and a lessening of a sense of individual responsibility on the level of municipal government. This is not only an accepted theory but a growing fact.

Where the authoritarian principle is permitted to intrude, as that good protocol in where true democracy begins to fail and unravel. The real cornerstone of this trend today is brought forcibly home to the editor of weekly newspapers in Canada. They live and move among the very people who make of the grass-roots prosperity of the whole nation. No section of the public press is more concerned with preserving freedom than the weekly, and true freedom cannot have full sway without the preservation of the fullest measure of local autonomy exercised on the level of municipal government

The time is here for a broad readjustment in this country of the whole scheme of responsible government. There is a growing trend to regard a buck understanding in Federal-Provincial affairs. It would be a power to be the part of wisdom and statesmanship to look forward to a new era of national welfare in which our taxation authorities can agree on a different basis of revenue sharing. Such a move would almost inevitably lead to a greater measure of decentralization and a greater measure of local autonomy. Certainly we cannot afford much longer to continue along the present lines that are now much in evidence all across Canada today in the realm of municipal affairs.

LETTER TO EDITOR

The Community Press does not necessarily endorse all views expressed by contributors.

Mr. Editor: Many of the ratepayers of Flagstaff M D have been concerned about the future of their municipal Hall. How does it happen that a plan that has given a great deal of satisfaction to the ratepayers residing in the middle of the area? What agencies were responsible for so arbitrary an action? What has the Council done to solve the problem? Are efforts being continued? What are the hopes of any of securing the services of them to take the place of those who have terminated their services? Is there anyone who was responsible for the situation and what is being done to correct it?

We are keen to have our annual meeting and it behooves the ratepayers to interest themselves in the matter and to plan to attend the meeting to see that our ideas are understanding of it. The Editor within reason and information gained by many discussions the questions asked will be answered to the best of our ability. I trust that we will have a full no

Farm Mechanization

A NOTEWORTHY FEATURE OF Canadian agriculture during the past decade has been the increasing use of machinery for farm work. In fact, agriculture is in step with industry generally, where new machines are constantly being turned out, to replace human labour. Administrators of the Farm Improvement Loan Act reported that in 1949 loans for the purchase of farm machinery advanced 30 per cent. over those for the previous year while loans for the purchase of trucks were 10 per cent. greater than in 1948. Between the years 1938 and 1948 more than $740,000,000 was spent in Canada for farm machinery and considerably more than half of this expenditure was made from the Prairie provinces.

Prairie Farms Are Extensive

The farms in this country, and particularly in the West, are usually extensive and for practical reasons the use of mechanical equipment is considered desirable. Experts have long been of the opinion that most Canadian farms would more day be highly mechanized, but certain factors have given impetus to that process, resulting in a rapid increase in the amount of machinery used in the past ten years. Labor shortages during the war and the years immediately following, have caused many farmers to invest in machines to replace workers which were not available. The depreciation of machinery to do the work at any time has also been a consideration in many farmers who have found transient labour not always adequate to busy seasons.

An Indication Of Progress

Another circumstance which contributed to the increased demand for farm machinery during the past ten years was the accumulated need which followed from the depression, when there was little money for new equipment. Prairie farmers have purchased machinery to the wholesale value of $451,000,000 since 1939, that sum representing 60 per cent of the total Canadian expenditure for that purpose. As long as farm incomes remain high it is expected that the amounts of machinery purchased will remain large and that the present ratio between crop acreage and equipment which is now higher than it has ever been, will continue to grow. Canadian farmers have received commendation from many sources for the progress which they have made use of the larger incomes which have come through good crops and high prices. The use of machines in farm work increases the efficiency of production, and the extensive mechanization of Canadian farms in the last decade is an indication of progress in this important industry.

NEW RELIEF! For Distress of YOUR CHILD'S BAD COLD

Mother, you know how effective Vicks VapoRub is when you rub it on. Now ... here's a wonderful way to use VapoRub that mothers everywhere find brings almost instant relief if their child has a bad cold or congested bronchial tubes.

Just put a spoonful of VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water or a vaporizer. Then let your child breathe in the soothing VapoRub steam. Medicated vapors instantly penetrate deep into child-congested bronchial tubes to bring relief with every breath. Then for continued relief while the child sleeps, rub on ... VICKS VapoRub

Record Tourist Traffic At Sask. Provincial Parks

REGINA — More people visited Saskatchewan's provincial parks than in any year since before in the province's history.

That conclusion was based on the total revenue realized by the parks branch of the Saskatchewan natural resources department, which reported 1949 revenue from fire of the nine provincial parks at $110,000, compared with $90,000 in 1948.

Kenosee Lake in the southeast, was one of the most popular parks, where a first class nine-hole golf course was the principal drawing card. A road is now under construction from No 9 highway to Canningtom lake noted for its fishing.

Cypress Hills, in the southwest, with its hills of glacial rubble and big stands of lodgepole pine, also ranks high as a provincial resort. Due to roughness of terrain, considerable levelling of the grounds and terracing of certain slopes is being undertaken.

Manitou, in central Saskatchewan, enjoys continued popularity as a health resort, while Madge Lake's biggest attraction is fishing. At Greenwater Lake in the northeast, also a noted fishing spot, a water storage tank and power unit were installed during the summer.

Lac la Ronge in the province's northern frontier area, is becoming widely known as a fisherman's paradise and has been particularly popular with Americans.

At Katepwa and Good Spirit provincial parks, the parks branch provides rental bathing cabins, lavatories and bath houses for the public, while the province's ninth provincial park, Nipawin is still undeveloped.

TO EMBARK ON MAJOR FARM POWER PROGRAM

REGINA — The Saskatchewan power commission believes it will embark next year on the first phase of a major farm electrification program for the Province, general manager, said.

Mr Tomlinson said it is proposed to link 2 600 farms in various sections of the province with the power system. The corporation's aim is to establish a progressive plan for rural electrification, and a five-year programme to effect this now is under study.

Tarifa, seaport of Spain, is the most southern town of Europe. Tunny and anchovy fisheries are carried on there.

Gets Answer From Voice In Audience

VANCOUVER — It could be termed life's darkest moment.

Lloyd Radley of Tacoma, Wash., testifying at a royal commission's investigation into the British Columbia workmen's compensation act, couldn't remember when he was married.

A woman's voice from the audience prompted, "In 1946".

Then he remembered.

"He'll remember when he gets home tonight," said commissioner Gerard Sims.

Production Of Refrigerators Up

OTTAWA — A record for production of electric refrigerators was set in September.

The bureau of statistics reports that Canadian factories turned out 16,732 refrigerators in that month compared with 13,240 in the same month of 1948. The total output for the year up to the end of that month was 130,945 as against 90 736 in the same nine months of 1948.

Production of washing machines was down to 23,842 in September from 30,797 a year ago. However, the nine-month period saw 209 618 units produced compared with 221,-365 in the same period of the previous year.

Saves Brother Hung On Meat Hook

STOYKTOWN, Pa. — Nine-year-old Calvin Cook exchanged Christmas presents with his schoolmates, but they were more interested in his story about being impaled on a meat hook.

A few days ago Calvin and his brother were playing tag in their home near here. Calvin leaped into the air in an attempt to swing from a meat hook hanging in a cellarway.

The steel hook plunged into one side of his neck and the sharp end came out the other side of his throat. His older brother, Charles, grasped Calvin around the legs and held him up until their father could release him.

Physicians said the hook went in beside the jugular vein, missed the windpipe and just scraped lightly against Calvin's spinal column.

LOAF OF BREAD SIGN FOOLS DELIVERY HORSE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — A loaf of bread painted on the side of a delivery wagon was so realistic that a horse tried to nibble it off, an insurance company reported here 2062

Bear Steak

Two bear did not see the New Year in. Bert Mitchell, (left), and George Metayniuk, (right), are shown with him. He weighed 350 pounds and George and him lost fall a mile and a half north of Stiirgis, Sask. This is the second bear shot by Bert and George. They are not sure who got the first one, because both shot. This bear ended up as bear steak. Some said it was good eating, while others wouldn't commit themselves.

MORE THAN 1,000

Alberta's conservation board reported that by November, 1949, more than 1,000 producing oil wells had been drilled in the province.

Italy To Compete At Banff Meet

CALGARY. — An Italian team of four men and one woman will compete in the 1950 North American Downhill and Slalom Ski championships at Banff Feb 25-27.

Included are Osio Reso, winner of the 1949 Arlberg Kandahar at St. Anton, Austria, and Celina Seghi, Olympic silver and Italy's foremost woman ski artist.

Austrian and American teams are also expected at the North American title show which follows the world championship ski meet at Aspen, Colo.

MOTORIST WEARING KILT; NO PLACE FOR LICENCE

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.— Why weren't you carrying your driver's license asked Magistrate H. L. Edmonds.

It was this way, replied Robert Day, of Burnaby, B.C., "I was wearing a kilt—no pockets."

"I'll fall for that," said Edmonds suspending sentence.

FARMERS MARKET MORE TURKEYS

EDMONTON. — Alberta farmers marketed more than $1,100,000 worth of turkeys this year, L. F. Dawes, senior Dominion inspector of poultry products, said.

Values was 20 per cent. greater than last year, he said, as 110 carloads were inspected in Alberta for shipment out of the province. Cars take an average of 30,000 pounds.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Ezra J Calahash was seated in his office when the telephone rang.

"Hello, is that Mr. Calahash?" came a voice over the wire

"Yes, I'm Calahash, Mr. Calahash. Who is calling?"

"This is Smith—Smith, Johnson, Johnson and Prouty."

"Good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning, good morning."

"Good morning—howdy?"

* * *

"This 'we feel is a bit humorous," said the Hickory guide, showing a group of American visitors through an ancient church. "We only reign it is how no 'on a visit from the Lord Bishop, a fire, a flood, or some such calamity."

* * *

"What kind of a young man was that fellow I saw you with last night, Doris?"

"A speedskirt, with emphasis on the 'skirt.' Why, money slipped through his fingers like flypaper."

* * *

"I hope," said one wife to another, "that you never sag your husband."

"Only when he is beating the carpets," said the second one. "When he is thoroughly irritated he makes a much better job of it."

* * *

Pat, a truck driver, stopped suddenly on the highway. The car behind crashed into the truck and his owner sued the Irishman.

"Why didn't you hold out your hand?" the judge asked Pat.

"Why," he said indignantly, "if he couldn't see the truck, how in hivin's name could he see my hand?"

* * *

The dramatic critic started to leave in the middle of the second act.

"Don't go now," said the manager, "I promise there's a terrible blank in the next act."

"Fine," was the retort; "give it to the author."

Mr. s. J. Thompson was an Edmonton visitor last Tuesday.

Hardisty hit goodyear to Mr. R. Hall on Friday morning. He has been here as manager of the Bank of Commerce for about 17 years. Mr. Hall is wishing them the very best in the future years.

We welcome our new manager, Mr Daw, who came to us from Dawson Creek, and sincerely hope that he will enjoy becoming one of us.

The army invaded Hardisty last week, enlarging our town quite a bit with canvas housing while here on manoeuvers. There was one casualty, Richard Fagnes' truck which tangled with a camouflaged army jeep, but fortunately nobody was hurt except the guy who have to carry water while Richard's truck is undergoing treatment. Tough luck Richard.

Edmonton visitors on Monday this week included. Mr and Mrs James Connell, Cpl. Brandon, Hugh Beloh and Walter Procter. You're going the wrong direction folks, according to weather reports, south is the road to take during weather like this.

Mrs. Doris Lloyd and Hilde Gunter Demas from Lac La Biche district are visiting the Barney Matthews.

Modern 'Planes Have Nothing On Flying Ability Of Arctic Tern

WASHINGTON — Mother Nature has taken no part in the B-[illegible] anywhere but she could say a thing or two about it if she wanted. The Air Force reggie boast of the B-36 a range—a little [illegible] miles. But Mother Nature for thousands of years has had a little ball pound flying machine, the Arctic tern, which makes long 30,000-mile flights a year—not non-stop, but even so [illegible] summers in the Arctic and winters in the Antarctic.

[illegible] Scotland or France [illegible] ocean [illegible] long the [illegible] coast of Europe and Africa [illegible] has known practically [illegible] about the life of the tern [illegible] the past 20 years or so. It was [illegible] that this bird-trip seasonal- [illegible] the Arctic and Antarctic had [illegible] the tern was not under- [illegible] the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service began banding the birds in cooperation with similar foreign [illegible].

Numbered aluminum leg bands [illegible] and a record is kept of [illegible] the banding book both places [illegible] 7,846 Arctic terns have been [illegible] And 10 or 12 of them have [illegible] recovered at long distances in [illegible] Africa. One of the birds [illegible] had been banded in 1929 and [illegible] in 1936.

Arctic terns don't fly nonstop. [illegible] They are water fowl so they can [illegible] to feed on the ocean. From [illegible] the record of one banding it was [illegible] that a tern took three months [illegible] to fly from Labrador to Southeast [illegible].

They are relatively slow cruisers at about 30 to 35 miles per hour. They [illegible] to fly rather low. Sailors report seeing them on flocks at an altitude of almost 500 feet.

They are the size of a small gull, with long wings and a long, forked tail. They are pure white underneath and pearl grey on top. Their bill and bills are red, and the top of their head is black looks like a little derby hat.

They are great lovers. When the male is courting, he brings food to the female, presenting it to her with a playful little ceremony. While he is bending on the eggs, he continues to feed her—and keeps up the same little courtship ceremony.

Scientists can only guess at the reasons for their long migrations. It might be a matter of food supply. Or daylight saving. Or a feeling of time of birth. At any rate, moving from pole to pole where they get almost 24 hours of daylight in mid-summer and mid-winter, they probably get more of the sun than any other creature.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

A farewell party was held Monday evening at Glenn's for Rodney Sax and Merle Reed of Lougheed. The boys were presented with leather tooled cases. Rodney left for RMCR Cornwallis at Digby N.S. on January 19th. Merle will follow in a few weeks.

Well, another week and the winter still frosted. Nothing doing, so nearly gone anywhere, so of course no lady coming back. I tried to amuse myself by writing a little song entitled "When the Bed in the Morning" to the tune Three Blue With Cold", but it just turned out to be another fraud. Everyone seems to talk about the weather, but I find it very interesting, having seen it on such colder, I suppose this winter I spent at the headwaters of the Little Bighorn. I had hung a thermometer beside my front door, and at night the mercury dropped so fast it tilted the cabin until I rolled out of bed. After a couple of nights of this I was forced to buy another thermometer to hang on the back wall to counter the pull after which I was able to get a good night's rest. Yes, there's cold in them hills, Billy.

Alec Archibald is spending the winter with relatives at Bassano

A. C. Webster, stationed at Wainwright for a spell the week end in town with his wife's folks, the J. Bar thole. Mrs. Webster will remain here truth in the old saying, 'a little child shall lead you."

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Berg were in Oakland last week visiting her son her wife has been in poor health recently, having suffered a severe stroke We wish her a speedy recovery.

Ray McCracken has been an Edmonton visitor again last week. This time it was a G.M. refresher course, though Ray admits most of the refreshers were at the airport table. Well you are only young once.

Our old townsman Bill Grandage is on the curling rink of another of our old townsmen, Clark Irish, and we hear they make a hard-to-beat combination down in Cow Town.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Orval Pribil is a patient in Hardisty hospital and Mrs. Jos. Jack is in the Killam hospital. To both these children we extend our sympathy and best wishes for a speedy recovery

Little Louis Schrevit was host to a number of his little friends on Sunday Januar 17th, his 6th birthday. Thirteen games and goodies in and we were served.

How Lee Newman behind Kenmore the other night looking like something out of a physical culture magazine, when a little thing landed in and wanted to start something. He invited Lee outside, an I I follow-I. Then I started for the office." she said, getting up

"But you haven't finished your breakfast And it's early!" Mrs. Bond's round face showed signs of troubled frouth. "You never used to leave before eight. I just don't understand you these days, Mary, you dear." She put a plump, reassuring hand upon Mary's shoulder, then fondled a dark curl

"I feel like it, Mama," Mary smiled, then kissed her mother. She hurried into the hall, scooped up her hat and flung open the front door, calling out, "See you tonight!"

Soon the customary would be gathering at the arcade to take the downtown street cars. Mary reached the corner, turned — and there on the boulevard and almost ran the distance to the arcade. She breathed a sigh of relief when she saw no sign of anyone she knew among the little greyed skinny clothered figures the window. Her heart seemed to stop as she tried to peer through the crowd. Would it still be him? Where if Mr. Derringer . . .

She brushed past a woman nearly upsetting the cartwheel hat she wore. "Excuse me," she murmured, too excited to notice the woman's outraged look. She craned neck way, and at last she reached the window.

It's still here! The words were a blur; her mouth quivered with joy and relief. Then she stood motionless, clasping her hands tightly together. Her eyes were fastened upon a large photograph which stood in the centre of a dozen others. It was the photograph of a young and very handsome man. His hair was dark and wavy and his shoulders looked as broad as a football player's. There was also a laughing light in his eyes and his mouth turned up in a little smile as if he knew some wonderful secret. The perfect man, Mary thought, as a delicious feeling swept over her. The one for me . . . the one I could adore . . . But who is he? If only I had courage to go in and ask Mr. Derringer.

"Oh, hello there." It was Edith Lloyd's voice, bright, unwelcome, jarring in her mood.

Mary turned about with a guilty smile "Hi." No one else knew had ever caught her at the window before; she must be more careful. And Edith, of all people. She was receiving company with Johnnie's brother, Tom. They often double-dated.

"What were you staring at?" Edith asked. "You looked as if you were lost in southern Darling Country."

Nothing in particular," Mary said hastily. Edith, curious, leaned her head before the window. In a sudden flash of inspiration Mary cried, "I was just thinking of having my picture taken."

Really? That is a coincidence. So am I. Mother's birthday is next week and I'm sure about insisting me here after work?"

"Well—"

"Here's my street car" Edith swerved most instead of downtown. Before Mary could think of anything to say, the car had whirled away, shouting. "It's a date then! See you at 5:30!"

All day Mary was more abstracted than usual. Her co-workers teased her who the lucky man was. Mary smiled gently to herself. Soon, soon, she'd fall in love with a movie star, but at least they knew his name. Chances were she'd never meet the man she loved either, but they could go to the movies and listen to the wonderful music of his voice; they could read about him. His whole life was the theirs, all in the printed page.

Other girls fell in love with their teachers. They could sit in class and feast their eyes upon the one they loved, find excuses to stop him in the hall. And a lot of girls fell in love with the boss. While she . . .

As she pounded over the last paragraph of the letter Mr. Prescott had dictated, the words of a song came to her.

It's only a paper moon
Sailing over a cardboard sea . . .

Well, she was in love with a cardboard lover! But perhaps it wasn't as hopeless as she had thought. Perhaps, she told herself, Edith's trapping her into meeting her at Derringer's was a good thing after all. Maybe it was a sign. Maybe Fortune had smiled upon her during the thing would come of it.

Later, as she waited outside Derringer's, she hugged the thought for comfort. She would casually admire the picture for its "photographic qualities", and then Mr. Derringer would look her enthusiastically and say, "Ah, yes! A grand young chap too! Let's see, his name is . . ." She enjoyed imagining the various names that might be his: Michael . . . Richard . . . Nothing plebian like John or Sam or Joe

THE CARDBOARD LOVER

Marsha Prefers Real Men Over Men?

By ESTHER V. ROBBINS

WHATEVER has come over Mary Bond? Her mother asked in the tone Mary recognized as the one she used when her patience was being tried unreasonably

She thinks I'm being a natural child, Mary thought. But since I was a little girl has she spoken to me in that tone, but she says it all the time now; ever since . . .

It's actually been since Mrs. Esmond said, pushing the untouched toast closer to Mary's plate, "the way you've been moping around lately. Last night you scarcely made an effort to be civil. Your father and I had so hoped —" She sighed.

Mary, tall and lissome, just nineteen, gistened again at the kitchen clock, then pushed back her chair. "Time I started for the office," she said, getting up

"But you haven't finished your breakfast And it's early!" Mrs. Bond's round face showed signs of troubled frouth. "You never used to leave before eight. I just don't understand you these days, Mary, you dear." She put a plump, reassuring hand upon Mary's shoulder, then fondled a dark curl

"I feel like it, Mama," Mary smiled, then kissed her mother. She hurried into the hall, scooped up her hat and flung open the front door, calling out, "See you tonight!"

Soon the customary would be gathering at the arcade to take the downtown street cars. Mary reached the corner, turned — and there on the boulevard and almost ran the distance to the arcade. She breathed a sigh of relief when she saw no sign of anyone she knew among the little greyed skinny clothered figures the window. Her heart seemed to stop as she tried to peer through the crowd. Would it still be him? Where if Mr. Derringer . . .

She brushed past a woman nearly upsetting the cartwheel hat she wore. "Excuse me," she murmured, too excited to notice the woman's outraged look. She craned neck way, and at last she reached the window.

It's still here! The words were a blur; her mouth quivered with joy and relief. Then she stood motionless, clasping her hands tightly together. Her eyes were fastened upon a large photograph which stood in the centre of a dozen others. It was the photograph of a young and very handsome man. His hair was dark and wavy and his shoulders looked as broad as a football player's. There was also a laughing light in his eyes and his mouth turned up in a little smile as if he knew some wonderful secret. The perfect man, Mary thought, as a delicious feeling swept over her. The one for me . . . the one I could adore . . . But who is he? If only I had courage to go in and ask Mr. Derringer.

"Oh, hello there." It was Edith Lloyd's voice, bright, unwelcome, jarring to her mood.

Mary turned about with a guilty smile "Hi." No one else knew had ever caught her at the window before; she must be more careful. And Edith, of all people. She was receiving company with Johnnie's brother, Tom. They often double-dated.

"What were you staring at?" Edith asked. "You looked as if you were lost in southern Darling Country."

Nothing in particular," Mary said hastily. Edith, curious, leaned her head before the window. In a sudden flash of inspiration Mary cried, "I was just thinking of having my picture taken."

Really? That is a coincidence. So am I. Mother's birthday is next week and I'm sure about insisting me here after work?"

"Well—"

"Here's my street car" Edith swerved most instead of downtown. Before Mary could think of anything to say, the car had whirled away, shouting, "It's a date then! See you at 5:30!"

All day Mary was more abstracted than usual. Her co-workers teased her who the lucky man was. Mary smiled gently to herself. Soon, soon, she'd fall in love with a movie star, but at least they knew his name. Chances were she'd never meet the man she loved either, but they could go to the movies and listen to the wonderful music of his voice; they could read about him. His whole life was the theirs, all in the printed page.

Other girls fell in love with their teachers. They could sit in class and feast their eyes upon the one they loved, find excuses to stop him in the hall. And a lot of girls fell in love with the boss. While she . . .

As she pounded over the last paragraph of the letter Mr. Prescott had dictated, the words of a song came to her.

It's only a paper moon
Sailing over a cardboard sea . . .

Well, she was in love with a cardboard lover! But perhaps it wasn't as hopeless as she had thought. Perhaps, she told herself, Edith's trapping her into meeting her at Derringer's was a good thing after all. Maybe it was a sign. Maybe Fortune had smiled upon her during the thing would come of it.

Later, as she waited outside Derringer's, she hugged the thought for comfort. She would casually admire the picture for its "photographic qualities", and then Mr. Derringer would look her enthusiastically and say, "Ah, yes! A grand young chap too! Let's see, his name is . . ." She enjoyed imagining the various names that might be his: Michael . . . Richard . . . Nothing plebian like John or Sam or Joe

Dog's Life

EDMONTON, Can. — It's a dog's life for Frank Hinchberger's 11-year-old pooch. Hauled into police court, the dog was sentenced to death for killing 33 chickens. Mr Hinchberger was fined $10 and costs.

Tame Bum Out Of Work

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. — An ice jam forced 350 men out of work here and caused damage estimated at $30,000. The jam, which forced the Fraser river out of its banks, cut off powers from a shingle mill and put about an estimated $1,000,000 feet of lumber in the mill pond.

Catch Them First

VICTORIA, B.C.—Part of British Columbia's $630,000 program for improvement of fur fish and game resources is a moose-tagging plan. Once the tags are attached, scientists will learn how far the moose travel and other data about their private lives.

To Drill Moose Wells

EDMONTON.—Twenty more wells will be drilled in Edmonton oil field in the New Year under plans of C. H. Withers Drilling Contractors Ltd. C. H. Withers, president, said. During 1949, 20 wells were drilled in Leduc-Woodbend and Redwater areas. Of these, all except two were productive.

Pupils Pay Well

SEDGEWICK, Alta. — A movie project for the Sedgewick school and a radio for Quarrel rural school have been approved by the Killam school division board. But to promote a sense of responsibility on the part of the pupils, they must pay half the net cost of the equipment.

Big Haul

COQUITLAM, B.C.—A 20-acre site village at Burke Mountain near here, which had been used by Vancouver, is being purchased by Coquitlam. Ten feet of snow covered the mountain at 2,500 feet last May, and a straight 24-mile run will descend from the proposed village

Royal Bank's Figures Set New Record For Canadian Banking

New records in the field of Canadian banking have been established in the annual financial statement of The Royal Bank of Canada, just issued. Covering the 12 months period ending November 30th, the statement shows total assets have again increased, by well over $112,000,000 to reach $2,584,960,264. The highest in Canadian banking history.

Since 1941 the assets of The Royal Bank of Canada have more than doubled, an indication of this bank's participation in the tremendous business and industrial expansion which has taken place in Canada in recent years. Deposits, which now total $2,192,146,378, show an increase of $124,609,000 over the figures of the previous balance sheet. They have reached the highest level ever attained by any Canadian bank.

Indicative of the trend of public saving is the steady increase in the Royal Bank's interest-bearing deposits, which have risen to $1,060,127,000, the highest level in the history of the bank. The bank's interest-bearing deposits are now over two and a half times their 1941 figure

The steady upward trend of commercial loans in Canada, which began in 1948, has continued, the figure for these loans having risen to a total of $471,453,338. Call loans have also increased from $36,584,307 to $60,007,833.

The liquid position of the bank is sound, very strong. Liquid assets are substantially higher than a year ago and amount at $1,877,469,645, which is equal to 76.37 per cent. of the bank's liabilities to the public. Included in the bank's liquid assets are Dominion and Provincial securities totalling $807,282,000, an increase of $130,134,163 as compared with the figures in the 1948 balance sheet.

Bank Premises Account has increased from $11,129,887 to $18,801,-861, as a result of new branch openings in districts requiring additional banking service, plus an extensive programme of improvements and extensions to existing premises which were taken during the year for the better accommodation of the bank's steadily increasing clientele and the resulting greater volume of business.

Profits are higher. After the usual deductions for Staff Pension Fund, and Contingency Reserves, profits amounted to $10,914,343 as compared with $9,317,422 in the previous year Of this amount $4 425,000 was set aside for Dominion and Provincial taxes, an increase of $1,325,000 over the figures for 1948. In addition $635,721 was set aside for depreciation of bank premises. After the above deductions the net profit was $5,537,321. This compares with $5,-556,565 in 1948. Out of net profit, $2,500,000 was paid in dividends and $2,377,321 carried forward, resulting in a balance of $2,860,312 in Profit and Loss Account

CANADA'S HIGHEST

The highest peak in the Canadian Rocky Mountains is Mt. Logan, 19,-850 feet high

Sask. Plans Full-Scale Oil Development

REGINA.—Saskatchewan can expect a full-scale oil development program next spring; 65 per cent of the province's area now is under permit to 57 oil companies

A total of 45,496 719 acres of Saskatchewan land now is invadred Of this total, 36 644,410 acres are under crown geophysical permits. There are 869,936 acres under drilling or sub-surface permits

The crown reserve of permits let amounts to 9,988,394 acres; and there are 30,000 acres of freehold land, the built of which major oil companies and independents have taken up

After months of trades, deals and readjustments this summer, 57 companies and independents now hold 36 crown geophysical permits, 13 drilling or sub-surface permits

Between Aug 1 and Oct. 1 alone, the oil and natural gas permit purchase in Saskatchewan changed to the tune of 2,839,803 acres. How companies entering the play have taken up 2,433,922 acres. Others staked 1,358,600 acres to their holdings.

During the mean period roughly 845,000 acres reverted to the crown and added to the crown acreage already under application.

Alberta Government To Wipe Out Coyotes

EDMONTON.—Most popular sport in rural Alberta in recent months—hunting coyotes—is to receive active support from the Edmonton Government.

Agriculture Minister David Ure said the government plans to buy two airplanes next month for coyote hunting. They will be manned by expert hunters.

With the coyote population increasing by leaps and bounds, farmers and ranchers have taken matters in their own hands to protect domestic animals and fowl from the marauding predators. Chief targets of the hungry North American prairie hamsters have been sheep, chickens and turkeys.

All over Alberta mass coyote hunts are being organized with up to 100 participating. Some hunters have bagged as many as 40 coyotes in a day

In the past, coyote hunters toured individual areas using hounds to track down and kill the animals Alberta University offered a bounty for coyotes but withdrew it this year when it was considered ineffective

Killam To Officially Open New Arena

KILLAM, Feb. 1st— Wed., February 8th will be a red letter day for the Killam district, for on that day the new Recreation Arena will be officially opened. Sponsored by the Killam District Board of Trade, the $30,000 arena is the result of the fine local support, enthusiasm and community co-operation on the part of the town, farmers, churches and other groups in the district. Of the total cost only $4000 remains.

The new arena formed the second unit of the Killam Memorial Recreational Centre which was first established in the A. T. Since winter set in work has gone on inside. A modern brick counter has been built, the washing rooms, rest rooms and dressing rooms have been finished and some bleachers have been added.

The new arena is 324 feet long and 144 feet wide, with a regulation ice surface of 200x85 feet, now being [illegible] in the province. The roof is supported by 12 huge arches which are 36 feet above the ice at centre. These arches contain one mile of built tack rod, and each piece of wood in them is glued and nailed. Each arch weighs 3000 pounds and is built at the ends to remove obstructions which extend five feet overground. BRIANES AFTER ELECTION TRIUMPH — Liberal Leader Robert Gordon Menzies of Australia relaxes in the garden of his Balwyn home after [illegible]. With him are his wife and daughter. BEERS

CABBIE FOUND SLAIN—In the space of a few days three men have been found murdered in districts surrounding Welland, Ont. Latest victim was Arthur William Gough, above, 53-year-old cab driver from Welland, Ont., whose battered body was found in a lonely ditch outside Welland. Robbery was said to have been motive for brutal slaying, as cabby's pockets were found turned inside out. BNS photo.

FATHER FINDS BROKEN BODY OF SON, VICTIM OF HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER — Pitcher marks for 11-year-old Ted Gladding, (inset), of Toronto, ended when he was found in ditch, victim of a hit-and-run driver. Boy, missing from his home for quite some time, was found by his father, Ted, Sr., five hours after the accident. X marks the spot where dying boy was left. Young lad was riding a bicycle at time of accident, and it, too, was battered and broken. Broken headlight found at scene of accident and identified by police as coming from a 1949 Ford or Mercury is believed to be an important clue in case. BNS photo.

IS HAPPY TO BE HOME—To Marie Lackey, (above), of Toronto, the words "home for Christmas" meant something extra special this year. She was home for the first Christmas since 1947. In the fall of that year Marie was found to have contracted tuberculosis. The course of the disease was so rapid that doctors had little hope of saving Marie's life, but the new drug, streptomycin was used on her and soon an surprising thing she was able to spend the Christmas at [illegible]. LUCKY—In spite of a broken leg this cat is lucky. Why? Because being a pet puss she got good veterinary attention and had the broken leg put in splints. The owner, Cliff Wright, who lives in Hanover, N.B., says she was fine when the splints were removed.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Sedgewick, January 30th, 1950

Mr Editor —

In order to see our Medical problem in its true perspective we should know something of the world-wide struggle and effort to raise the level of medical service to all the people.

The United States Security Administration reported in 1946, that each year 120,000 Americans die because they cannot afford a doctor, and that only one-fifth of the people of the U.S.A. could afford medical care. January 23rd Time, under Medicine, states: "Is there a shortage of Doctors? Why?" — One reason, said four learned laymen last week, is the doctors themselves. They have their production too motivative. This bombshell was exploded at the American Conference of Academic Deans at Cincinnati. They stated that "somewhere between one and two-thirds of qualified in training, personality and temperament, are denied the professional (medical) training of their choice — a most serious threat to the health and well-being of the American people. Dean W. S. Carter quoted figures to show there was a growing shortage of doctors. In 1945 and 1949 the number of medical students was almost the same, even though the U.S. population had almost doubled. The battle to furnish medical care to all the people has been a long one and is world wide. Thirty-nine of the leading nations of the world have achieved some degree of socialized medicine, though the Medical Assoc. has persistently opposed for the most part any and all progress along these lines. They, of course, charge that it is not in the interest of the people generally. However I cannot forget that a very wise King of Old Testament times, when called upon to decide between the claims of two women to a child, offered to cut it in two and divide it between them. He soon found out which was the mother. And you only have to do that with the status quo in medicine to find out whose baby is being threatened by such medical plans as we have had in Plunkett.

They have always opposed the setting voluntary group plans in the past. If they are not as persistent now it is only to thwart the progress of any real effective social plan. All of the voluntary plans that have been sponsored by the Medical Assn. are very limited in application. The most recently kind of illness is not of a catastrophic nature— accident — emergencies etc. No voluntary plan dares to fully cover chronic illness, and few of them cover any part of it.

Mr Editor, I want to quote from an article in December Harper's Magazine — not that comparable Illustration cannot be furnished nearer home —but this article is timely and can be readily verified by any one interested. It is headed "The Dogged Resistance of the Doctors". The Medical Assn. has always claimed the exclusive right to formulate, apply and administer even the voluntary plans, on the ground that only the profession has the knowledge and the experience to do so. This article states "If medicine is necessarily a mystery to the layman, nearly everything else is necessarily a mystery to the average doctor. It states: "The average doctor is a nice fellow to have about. His self-sacrifice for his patient is proverbial and proverbially true. But he sometimes breaks down in the face of social experience. One of the things the average doctor didn't learn in school was the nature of human society, its purpose and its needs."

Not all of us are fully informed of the nature of the Medical Assn. They are of a quasi public character. Any doctor who transgresses its conventions are apt to find himself in a difficult position to continue practice. The doctors by statute have charge of examination to practice medicine and are in a position to say who shall or who shall not practice their profession. There are any number of ways that pressure can be brought on any one who goes contrary to their views. No one, not even a doctor lives to himself. No doctor can successfully practice medicine if denied professional status, which really only means kicked out of the medical association.— Harpers article goes on to say: "In 1937 a group of government employees organized a Group Health Assn. The doctors in Washington D.C. were notified that anyone who sold their services to them would lose their professional status. Even threatening to take such action against any who even consulted with the group associations's doctors. When the Medical Assn. made good its threat, the Gov. prosecuted and convicted them. They were ordered to cease and desist, and also heavily fined." On page 27 it states, "Expulsion from the Assn. invariably preceded or followed the expulsion from the County Medical Assn., and to the doctor's death warrant.

The article further states that in 1918, after wide-spread discussion the A.M.A appointed a Social Insurance Committee which reported to the Assn. "The time has come when we can no longer resist this social movement," the committee asserted. After 20 year's experience with various forms of voluntary insurance schemes, European countries realized the logical conclusion was compulsory insurance; The committee asserted that this was the only solution of the poor in the problem.

However Dr. Fishbein, who for a long time was the A.M.A. leader, evidently persuaded the A.M.A. to ... another course than that suggested by their own committee.

If we consider the facts as presented here, we can understand the issue out of the Medical Assn. in our own Municipal Health Plan. A plan that has been so successful that I have had rue who were sympathetic to health plans, question our ability to carry it on. — Chas P. Calvin.

BELLEVILL NEWS

We are happy to report that Mrs A. Armstrong is no longer confined to hospital, but convalescing at the home of Mrs. H.J. Kipp.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the P.L. Smiths on Jan 21st, where a whist drive was held with six tables playing. Prize winners were: Mrs Miss Edna Pettapiece and P. Smith. Consolations, Miss H. Brorbot and M Simpson.

Sorry to report that Mrs. J. H White has been in hospital with the pneumonia. Her husband has also been under the weather with a bad cold, and their chore-boy (Jean) was not feeling up to par for a few days either. Here's hoping all are rarin' to go soon and get back into harness again. Hard old world eh folks?

Shoot--But Not To Kill

By TAWARA ANDREEVA
(Canada Press Canadian Correspondent)

Photographing an animal always is a harrowing experience, although not always successful. Johnny Hasher-stitch has photographed animals for more than two decades, all over Canada and the U.S. and says the job is taxing a nut for the timid.

He once spent six hours on a ledge just one inch wide and six inches deep.

The result? Only a disgruntled bear and a sprained ankle, but there may be fun and his getaways in a hurry. The only picture he didn't have of that bear, he smiles, "is me on retreat."

You have to know your animal pretty well, says Jack, to get results. If you're keen when a bear feels happy, you can jump into him when it's not looking.

Sometimes you need to be the spirit of humans, and not least of the moment the good shifts. Therefore an experienced animal lensman has to take all these things into consideration.

Besides knowing your animals, you have to strike a happy combination of good animal mood and suitable background. To find the two together naturally is almost incredible luck.

Sometimes you have to do a little fixing. During the game to the spot where you want it. Oftener than not you yourself have to take up your self near some favorite game trail, either a salt lick or water course. At this time until your bear feels quite at ease.

Johnny Haberstitch believes that his best equipment for taking wild game pictures is a camera with a high power lens. "You can hold the type of camera in your hand, and without using a blurred image," he explains.

Jack Mentmanna who have traveled hundreds of remarkable animal pictures are Bob Cooney and Bobby Meeks. Cooney's wild game photos have taken a combination of the two and a hobby. He is director of wild life rehabilitation division for the state of Montana.

One day, while investigating grizzlies he found himself face to face with a monstrous specimen. "When I first saw him," Cooney relates, "he seemed undecided which way to go. He sat on his haunches and looked at me long slowly from side to side, as if he were trying to puzzle me out. "Then the grizzly moved away to a thicket of alpine fir. I followed him with considerable caution. Every once in a while, however, he would give and look at me over his shoulder, just some family portraits."

That gentle reader, takes nerve. Hundreds have been known to disintegrate a man with a single swipe of their paws.

Cooney has taken some excellent moving pictures of bull moose in mating season, one sure time to stay the rock away from a bull moose. His disposition is never good and so that time he irritability reaches the highest pitch.

Even Madden knows his nature to the tee. From a slightly different angle his animal-shooting career began with a series of mountaineering pictures. And though wild, his animals had their human traits as we choose.

The subjects of his lens cover the range from hunting scenes to the rarest of hunting scenes and the ferocious Brahma bulls with blood in their eye. To photograph these Madden followed the length and breadth of the animal-crowded circuit, the ranks of professional rodeos. Once at a rodeo in his native Montana, an enraged Brahma bull kicked Madden and his previous camera clear over the corral fence and into next week.

While watching the weirdest of a wild rodeo saving belonging to the late Kramer rodeo above, Madden gave Kramer quite a jolt when he discovered a mountain lion crouched itself and his camera during a brave stampede. It was on a small hillock, directly in the way of the stampede, and then the fiery, fierce jumper to the side or over him to avoid him.

"I got some good shots," he told Kramer cheerfully, whereupon the tough rodeo king took four shots of rye, straight.

In the southwest, United States Jack Breed is the animal wizard of the lens. Because he is not only a photographer but an accomplished naturalist as well, Jack is not fascinated by wormbloated species only. To him a picture of an iguana lizard or a cause after a rattler -- with snake, lots, and cousins is equally thrilling.

In fact, snake-gathering is one of Breed's photographic hobbies. Equipped with flashlight, noose and steel gloves, he wanders on the desert at night, observing and finding plants and creatures.

While the rattler burners and coils for a strike, Breed coolly presses it with a long stick to keep it pointing the threatened "business". The trouble with this kind of picture," he says, "is that you have to move every time it strikes at your feet. Sometimes their fangs can go through the leather."

Even in closing hazels one may run into unexpected danger. Jack pursued one lizard into a gopher hole. He tried every means of persuasion but it would not come out. For a moment he thought that perhaps it had gone into some other gopher hole.

To make sure, he stuck his arm into the first gopher hole to the elbow and in the dark soon touched something cold and slick. He clamped on it and pulled out the squirming object. It was a five-foot rattlesnake.

He told off lizards after that.

Early Care For Dairy Heifers

Proper care for the dairy heifer is simple but important. The care given between six months and two years of age determines whether she will be stunted in growth or develop into a well grown pendulate cow, says Dr. C. D. MacKenzie, Animal Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

An ample supply of good quality legume roughage and first class pasture are basic requirements for producing cents in raising heifers. In addition, they insure a sufficient supply of nutrients for adequate development. A good plan is to feed all the high grade roughage the animals will consume in winter and provide sufficient high quality pasture throughout the grazing season. Roughage should be supplemented when necessary to insure proper growth without over-feeding. From six to 12 months of age the amount of grain mixture fed, composed of ordinary grains ground or crushed, depends on the quality of roughage available. Two to three pounds with good legume hay, or four to five with fair hay is generally sufficient. A good grain ration for heifers can be made by mixing equal parts of oats and barley and adding linseed or oil meal at the rate of one part to five parts of the mixture. The amount of hay consumed varies usually from eight to 15 pounds daily, or if silage is fed in addition, the amounts of hay may vary from five to 10 pounds, and of silage from eight to 15 pounds. If pasture is scarce it is always advisable to supplement pasture with sufficient feed either in the form of concentrate hay, silage or green crops.

After the heifer reaches one year of age, good quality legume roughage to all that is generally required up to three to four months before time of calving. Then four to five pounds of grain are fed daily in addition. Naturally sufficient salt should be provided.

The age at which the heifer calves should depend in some extent on her development. A good guide is to breed her at 18 months of age.

Raising only heifers known to be well bred for production is the best way to affect feeding costs.

Easy Way To Feed Bees

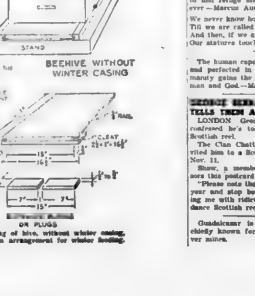
By A. BEECH

SOME beekeepers often winter their colonies out-of-doors in tar paper packs would like to feed pollen supplement, dry sugar, candy, etc., early in the spring to strengthen them, if it could be done without exposing them to the cold weather.

The following is a patch to cold weather is not advisable and besides it would mean a lot of work.

To overcome this difficulty top entrance board which has a full open ing may be reduced to one inch during the winter, can be used.



BEECHIVE WITHOUT WINTER CASING

OR PLUGS

Showing of hive, without winter casing, to show arrangement for winter feeding.

The pollen supplement cake is placed on the sheet, and the top and pushed off (see pusher in sketch) over the cluster. Candy may be given in the same way and dry sugar in a shallow pan.

The sheets is then removed, and the entrance blocks of plugs immediately replaced thus reducing the entrance again to one inch.

This top entrance board is easily made and costs little, as it consists of only a flat piece of light soft material, and a cleat in front, with of course the two entrance plugs.

Helpful Hints

A waste reading tape makes an excellent pocket holding for pencils.

If you are ironing a dress which has pointed shirt, iron the hem and the yoke first, then the wrong side of the shirt, then the fabric between the yoke and the hem, and finally the sleeves in each side plackets in each piece.

To save the trouble of melting paraffin when making jelly, place paraffin shavings in the bottom of each sterilized jar glass. Pour the hot jelly on top. The paraffin will melt and seal the top, taking hold of the jelly and sealing it at the same time.

Mongrel Famous As Goodwill Envoy At Alberta Boundary

COUTTS, Alta.—There's one fellow at this point of the border between Canada and the United States who crosses the international boundary several times a day without need of passport or immigration papers. Well, maybe individual is a dog which has no names. Two homes end one love the Coutts home of Mrs Betty Gertsem and "Blackie" in the Montana home of Waldo McSorley, U.S. customs broker of Sweet Grass.

Blackie's one love is meeting trains, whether it's the Great Northern headed into Canada or the Canadian Pacific rolling into the United States. And for the last five years, day after day, rain, shine or blizzard, at 30 degrees below zero or 100 in the shade Blackie has met all incoming trains at these two border points.

Blackie's understanding of train movements, railroad signals and customs is uncanny. Once he lay on the tracks in front of an oncoming switch engine. The locomotive stopped—at Blackie intended—and the engineer saw he could not shunt box cars on that particular track because it was occupied by another train.

Last Autumn, Moberly, thinking he had found a good home for Blackie, gave him to a Brewer, Grain district rancher. But keeping sheep in line proved to be dull work to Blackie compared to his international duties.

Several weeks after his departure he turned up at the border, emaciated and footsore, after walking canyon-country to get back to his beloved trains. He's been a fixture here ever since.

Noise Quieting Help To Health

Because noise in industry leads to nerve strain, decreased efficiency and loss productivity, the value of noise quieting is being proven over and over again in an expanding variety of situations, it is stated in an article—"Noise Quieting Steps-Up Efficiency"—in National Health, a publication of the Health League of Canada.

Research by G. F. Evans of the Canadian John-Manville Co., Ltd., the article says, revealed that mechanical devices, which solve many production problems, have introduced another problem, that of excessive noise.

Because of this noise problem in industry by two Colgate University medical scientists revealed that intelligent workers are the best materials on ceilings resulted in easier ventilation and cleaning—helping both foremen and workers. Confusing "bonus-backs" are also eliminated, making for more efficient operation of machinery. For instance, some workers reported that since installation of sound absorbing ceilings they could hear slight sounds in their machines much better—sounds which were formerly lost in the general noise. One building superintendent reported a 50 per cent. reduction in cleaning costs since acoustical ceilings were installed.

Mothercraft Society In Need Of Nurses

Strange that in a wonderful country like Canada midwifery is illegal and many women in rural parts are denied the simple prenatal and postnatal teaching which Mothercraft could give.

The correct care of a mother and baby necessitates the professional tuition of life in any age or existence, or state of society. Yet, strangely enough, in Canada at the present time the recognized shortage of nurses is most acute in the realm of maternal and child care.

The Canadian Mothercraft Society, whose work is centred around the country's greatest asset, mothers and babies, is concerned over the small number of registered nurses who express any desire to become postgraduate Mothercraft nurses.

It was in 1907, in New Zealand, that a doctor, Frederick Truby King, realized that babies were dying in alarming numbers because their mothers had not learned one of the simple truths of mother and child care. # The Merchant Navy

CANADA'S OCEAN-GOING MERCHANT FLEET won well-deserved fame during the war, and none that time has carried many thousands of tons of food and other supplies to countries where the need for them things was great. Recently however the cost of maintaining Canadian merchant ships, which is higher than that of any other country with the exception of the United States, gave rise to a recommendation by the Canadian Maritime Commission that the size of the fleet be drastically reduced. It has been proposed that only 60 of the ships now under Canadian registry be kept in operation, stored at the 25th ships which have been registered in Canada

* * * * *

Costs High in Canada

The daily cost of operating a Canadian merchant ship is estimated to be $450.00. Only in the United States is this figure exceeded. There the daily cost per ship is $972.85, and part of this cost is borne by the government.

Before the last devaluation of the pound, the cost to Britain of maintaining the same type of ship was only $338.66, while it cost Norway $306.68 and the Netherlands $462.16. It is clear from these figures that Canadian ships would have difficulty in competing for cargoes with ships from these countries where the operating costs are substantially lower

* * * * *

Many Reasons For Regret

In view of these facts it has been proposed by the authorities that all but forty ships of the present Canadian merchant fleet be allowed to seek British registry and consequently operate more economically at the British rate. The forty ships remaining in Canada would be temporarily subsidized by the government at a yearly cost of from $30,000 to $50,000. There are many reasons to regret that it has been necessary to consider such a plan, for the merchant fleet not only fulfils its purpose in carrying cargoes, but it is one arm of the nation's defense establishment. However, economic laws cannot be ignored, and cargoes will be carried by ships with the lowest operating cost. Canadians will regret to see the merchant navy which played so gallant a part in the war, drastically reduced but it is to be hoped that more favorable conditions may in the future be such that it can again be expanded.

N.H.L. Sport Notes

Only Six Without A Penalty

Up to December 22 there were only six players in the National Hockey League who had not received a single penalty this season. The six players who have yet to visit the penalty box are Bill Quackenbush and Jack Hamilton, Detroit; Bert Raleigh and Pentti Lund, Rangers; Red Hamill, Chicago and Harry Watson, Toronto. Paul Ronty of Boston incurred his first penalty of the season on December 21 against Chicago.

Four Teams in 1½ Seasons

Paul Polis, 190-pound right-winger recently purchased by Boston Bruins from New York Rovers, has played for four National League clubs in one-and-a-half seasons Polis started out last season with Chicago and was traded shortly after the season opened to Detroit. He finished the season with Detroit but was sold to New York Rangers during the summer Then on December 22 Rangers sold him to Boston Bruins Before being traded to Chicago at the start of the 1947-48 season Hall played for Montreal Canadiens. He has won the Stanley Cup five of the six N.H.L. finals since he entered the League in 1942-43. Montreal Canadiens are the only team he hasn't played for

Harry "Peggy" Lumley

Ever since the story appeared in The Hockey News about Harry Lumley, Detroit's goalie wearing contact boy boots, he has been receiving a lot of good-natured ragging from his players and fans. Tommy Ivan, Detroit coach, plans to give Harry a ten-gallon hat for Christmas to go along with the boots The red - headed Harry shakes out on the Chicago Stadium ice, Organist Al Melgard plays the jaunty "Pony Boy"

Consecutive Game Record Ended

Kenny Smith of the Boston Bruins had his consecutive game streak ended on Dec. 21. He had played in 232 consecutive games, longest streak of any player active in the League today, before a groin pull necessitated him missing the Boston-Chicago game of December 21.

DEMAND FOR WHEAT EXPECTED TO DROP

OTTAWA —A 1950 decline in the world demand for wheat was forecast by the Department of Agriculture. With improved crops in most important countries, there will be less need for shopping in the world wheat bins and the harvest believes that, on a result, there will be smaller exports from the four major exporters—Canada, the United States, Australia and Argentina.

Using estimates it has received from the United States agriculture department, the bureau reports that from the four major producers during the current crop year may total 850,000,000 bushels—down from 900,000,000 in 1948-49 and 882,000,000 in 1947-48

Russia, along with other home exporters, may have between 50,000,000 and 75,000,000 bushels on the market—compared with about 50,000,000 in each of the last two crop years.

Looking over 1950 crop conditions, the bureau said conditions generally good in most parts of the world. A great harvest is forecast for Australia and the Argentine. A "substantial" exportable surplus is forecast for the U S

But it was "too early to make any reliable estimate" about Canada's 1950 wheat crop. Wheat acreage in Canada, in 1949, at about 27,000,000 acres was "at a fairly high level."

Because of price and weather factors, large acreage which previously had been devoted to flaxseed, rye, oats and barley were diverted to wheat.

Although no great change in Canadian wheat acreage now is anticipated for 1950," said the bureau, "increases in the supply of soft wheats here in the spring or changes in the price outlook by something like may alter the picture considerably."

Canadians Buy More Life Insurance

OTTAWA —Canadians bought $1,600,000,000 worth of life insurance in 1949, said D. L. Coy, president of the Canadian Life Insurance Officers association

He said that in 1900 there was less than $100 of life insurance in force for every person in Canada and to day there is more than $1,000 a person.

Mr. Coy said 25 times more life insurance was put in force in Canada in 1949 than in 1900. Although in that time the population has increased by only about three times.

Mr. Coy went on to say: "When any new social security plans are given consideration, great care should be taken to establish their need and the degree of their encroachment on fields being served efficiently by private insurance. Such plans should be subject to searching actuarial studies and the true costs to the individual revealed.

How I Subdued Wild Fiery Itch—

Farmers Realize $1,794,200,000 In First Nine Months Of 1949

OTTAWA —Cash flowed onto Canadian farms to the tune of $1,794,200,000 in the first nine months of 1949. Higher payments for wheat, coarse grains, tobacco, cattle and calves, coupled with increased payments from the Canadian wheat board, raised the farmers' income in the first three-quarters of the year 2.6 per cent. higher than the 1948 figure of $1,749,200,000 and 40.9 per cent over the $1,273,600,000 realized in the first nine months of 1947

Income in the third quarter totalled $736,153,000 down $97,000,000 from the same period of 1948. However, in the first quarter of 1949 was $412,624,000 from $300,000,000 a year earlier and in the second quarter was $825,423,000 compared with $541,343,000.

Larger payments by the Canadian wheat board, totalling some $218,000,000, were mainly responsible for the over-all increase. The payments were mostly were in the form of equalization payments made on wheat delivered by western farmers from August, 1945, to March, 1949.

Increased income from wheat sales resulted from higher prices and increased marketings rather than a decline in prices

Cash income from sales of grains, seeds and hay in the first nine months of this year totalled $660,-000,000 compared with $586,415,000 in the corresponding period last year. Income from sale of livestock—$325,700,000—was slightly above last year's total of $320,100,000, the greater part gain occuring in cattle and calves.

A decline in the marketing of hogs during the same period more than offset an increase in prices to lower livestock income $3 per cent.

Income from sales of dairy products during the nine-month period was also slightly lower $277,000,000 compared with $288,000,000 in the same period of 1948. A drop of 3.2 per cent. in cash returns from the sale of eggs to the end of September was largely due to a decline in marketings. Income from the sale of vegetables and other field crops was down slightly at $110,523,000 compared with $112,702,000

Income from the sale of products for the nine months in western provinces, with 1948 figures bracketed: Saskatchewan $400,700,000 ($378,-800,000); Alberta $324,496,000 ($302,-653,000); Manitoba $196,357,000 ($188,424,000); British Columbia $66,-480,000 ($64,377,000).

Tito Selected As World's Newsiest Man Of 1949

TORONTO. — Josip Brut Tito, Yugoslavia's jack-the-giant-killer, was the world's newsiest figure in 1949.

Canadian newspaper telegraph editors, voting in a poll conducted by year-end poll, picked the Yugoslav Marshal for the third against Russian domination. He outscored by a slim margin Andrei Vishinsky, Winston Churchill, still the human personification of Britain

Others who got votes included President Truman, Pope Pius, Cardinal Mindszenty, Rita Hayworth, Sir Stafford Cripps, John L. Lewis and Dean Acheson.

TRY AND STOP ME! By BENNETT CERF

Stanley Frank and Paul Sann tell a classic story about Frank Buck, explorer in Johnstown, Pa., at the time of the disastrous flood in 1889. Buck, a lad, flash reached the nearest big-time newspaper office late at night with the only dry newspaper in the still of the whole city. It was just one of Buck's many scoops, but it was a doozy. The editor hustled him to the scene of the catastrophe, and Buck spent the next week "on the office" to get his veteran reporters on the job.

* * *

By then it was too late, however All wires were down and the valley was isolated. For 36 hours the only news of the devastated area was the one green bagpiper!

The press of America waited breathlessly for his first report. Finally it began to trickle in over the telegraph. "God sits upon a lonely mountaintop tonight and gazes down upon a desolate abandoned. The roar of swirling waters echoes through . . ." The editor tore his hair and wrote a wire back to his poet laureate: "Okay Forget flood. Interview God. Rush pictures."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

MISS SUSIE'S INDEPENDENCE

By MARY G. SWINSON

IT WAS a shock to me, of course, to find Miss Susie Brown lying dead in her bed. But we had all expected it and talked it over with the church and county officials. There had to be a funeral of some sort and a place to put her.

Miss Susie had been a town institution all my life and my mother's before me, and it was just as natural that the town would feel a responsibility for burying her as it would for mowing the grass out at the cemetery.

One town was a small one and, being off the big new national highway, it hadn't grown much during my lifetime and we were all pretty comfortable. The county did what it could for Miss Susie in her last years and the churches asked an regularly for donations for her as they did for foreign missions. It was lucky in the long run for Miss Susie, I guess, that she had an especial church affiliation and they all contributed although not anxious and I always suspected a Methodist persuasion. It was not a dominant one, however, as we were Episcopalians, we were Baptists and Episcopalians alike bought the table cloths and thought it was a nice thing to do. I suspected that she opened her religious sympathies pretty carefully, so I can remember sitting on the pews avidly thumbing the flamboyant cards and the Bible in front of me, trying her little possum eyes flash and hearing her say to Mama "Now, Mary it says here just as plain as the nose on your face that Jesus went down into the River Jordan and lifted up the water and poured it on the head but I myself am a Baptist I told you so months ago they wouldn't bow my head."

It turned out that she was Mama's second cousin and when Grandpa died was gone and I guess she must have had some of Grandpa's money for it always was because Mama was the one who launched her on her next impressive career. I do not think I can tell that if Miss Susie had to have her pre-decided illness she would benefit from it Anyhow, when I was a sophisticated flapper of seventeen or eight, when I recognized her first symptoms, I was already dancing down the street and saw the big, deep box clothed lightly under an April sunshine and I was not much interested in the sex, I knew Spring had really arrived. I was thoroughly fascinating play to rush for the purchase of the season's first spring dress, here laces, valenciennes, fine damasks and colored rick-racks . . . things which pointed to Easter and Spring.

Such a box! Sweet and pretty and full of the promise of spring! Easiest sewing ever! Cut ONE piece . . . no seams . . . just splashes, and shoulder straps and the skirt. WONDERFUL Aprons-Pattern 4904 comes in one size small (14 to 16).

RECIPES

BEEF PIE

Two onions, 2 cups meat broth or bouillon, 2 cups cooked, diced beef, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup diced carrots, 2 tablespoons granulated tapioca.

Biscuit Dough

Two cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup milk (about).

Meat Mixture

Slice onions and pour boiling water over them; let stand while you prepare meat. Combine broth, beef salt, potatoes, carrots, tapioca and drained onions and place in a well greased two-quart casserole or baking dish. Bake one-half hour in a moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) Remove and place biscuit dough on top

Biscuit Dough

Sift flour, then measure. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening into dry ingredients with a pastry blender or two knives. Add the liquid all at once and stir in with a fork as a slightly floured board. Put the dough out to ¼-inch thickness; fold and repeat procedure twice again. Shape dough to fit top of casserole and place over meat mixture. Continue baking for ½ hour to moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.)

Explosives "Talk" To Oil Men

Seismic Crews Cover Prairies With Bursts in Search For Oil

Testing explosives at Bebell, Que. . . . for use 2,000 miles away in Alberta.

(Central Press Canadian)

Much of the guess work is being taken out of oil exploration in Alberta and Saskatchewan these days by the use of carefully graded explosives servants—commercial explosives in seismic prospecting.

This method of determining the nature of underlying strata consists of creating artificial earth vibrations by blasting and recording them by means of instruments which detect sensitive instruments similar to those employed in recording earthquakes. Almost 100 seismographic crews are now out of fields in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The recognized methods of seismic prospecting are echo ranging and reflection. The refraction method deals with the transmission speed of earth vibrations through underlying formations. It is used largely to determine the geographical contours of buried structures such as salt domes. Seismic prospectors are generally placed from six to 10 miles away from the point under investigation and record the shock waves through the mud and silt in drill holes without damage.

The reflection method is by far the most popular and most widely used method. It entails a comprehensive study of earth waves reflected from underlying strata Determination of the time interval from the firing of the charge and the picking up of the reflected earth waves makes it possible to plot a reasonably accurate subterranean map showing the thickness, depth and angle of inclination of beds of material several thousand feet below the earth's surface

Recording instruments placed in a straight line, are located quite close to the point where the explosive charge is fired. The first may be only a few feet away. Explosive charges, therefore, need not be as heavy as in refraction shooting. They are also placed in holes three to five inches in diameter and 80 to 250 feet deep.

Explosives used in seismic prospecting possess special essential qualities They must be resistant to water since drill holes into which they are loaded are usually wet. They must be able to withstand high water pressures which could desensitize most types of explosives. They must also be fresh packaged so that ratings can be forced down through the mud and silt in drill holes without damage.

To ensure all these qualities are present and that the product meets the rigid specifications laid down by oil, Canadian-made explosives are under constant test by experts at two

Coyotes Win War Of Nerves

DRUMHELLER Alta - Coyotes won their war of nerves recently when a Drumheller farmer with the aid of the farmer's dog

The farmer said he heard noises in the chicken coop early in the morning. He grabbed a shotgun to deal with the coyotes he expected and crept toward the coop clad only in long johns and a sheepskin jacket

As he peered cautiously around a corner a wild wet nose nudged him from behind With a whoop he fired toward the coop Two chickens fell dead, but no coyotes

The farmer then hobbled to the family dog which had survived

The Ladies club composed of Mrs B Whitehead, Mrs L. Reed, Mrs G Riddoch and Mrs J Birchill covered the festive with glory at Hughendon rink, winning three straight games to take first in the Grand Challenge Brita says next year they are going after the cups if the Campbell Bros. ever come up against the foursome the players will be shifting. "The Campbells are Going."

Miss Veronica Martin of Hardisty is visiting friends in Lougheed.

The school house here has been having a hard time lately, some trips having to be called off But the plows have been working overtime and if the more high winds develop, travel will be normal again for next week

Mr and Mrs Harry Rayner were Camrose visitors last week.

We see a couple of the boy scouts pitches in their horse. Probably just been practising for the pridau glove festival. But why do it in town?

Mrs. Jas. Such was on Edmonton visitor last week. Her daughter Mrs Kinsman of Mirror, Jr. has been visiting here, returned to her city home.

Saw Elmer Stubbs, that Instrumore Man from Camrose driving this week-end. Don't know what did you leave the old town for if you can't stay away?

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. J A McClements, on a brand new arrivals at Killam hospital Jan. 30th

Oh boy, who wouldn't be a mail carrier. The soldiers that were visiting in on the local's time. You have our sympathy Scotty at 56 below.

The Rev N. Colegrave left Monday by car for Camrose, where he will remain for Windsor, that where he will pick up his new Ford Sedan and drive it back to Lougheed. He expects to be away the better part of two weeks Here's wishing him good luck, smooth sailing and a safe return.

Howard Pope is leaving for a visit with friends and relatives in Ohio Illinois. That is the State where they grow all colors of cotton, but the geologists claim their famous Deltas are but a sewage from America Seconds, so with a pipeline under our feet and weits in all our back yard they may some day find their sewage cut off and then watch which way the U.S. dollars will flow. Oh well I can dream anyway.

He's away again! Ky McCrackin and Lars Heathen left for Calmary to bring back Lars' car which has been getting a New Motor, after having a nose dive where the road wasn't.

Lougheed will be represented by two rinks at the Edmonton Spiel this year. Skip Orval Probst, with Lars Read as third, Don Vagt, second an Don Cookson lead; Skip Cyril Hepworth, with A. Lawley third, Cecil Weir second and A Sneetsen fir lead. With this aggregation anything can happen and probably will if you put what I mean. Only wish I could go along as manual.

Ray Davis and Jack Muirhead of Sedgewick spent last Friday and Saturday in town on PFA business. Nice seeing them. Had a little chin fab with both of them.

A social evening is being held on February 18th in the Legion Hall for members and their families, so Indications are that the hall will be filled to the rafters and a good time will be had by all. You know we must keep up our strength for the big Legion Carnival to be held on March 16th. More about that later. Watch for advert in your Common Ity Press.

Well, they are all doing it, so I'll go out on a limb and predict the Old Country elections will see very little change in the Labor party's strength. Forty million Frenchmen might be wrong, but 46 by-elections never. (From Hansard).

I had a couple of the boys in from the Hellshill district about 10 p.m. Saturday night and I guess the road's really are something. I asked them how they came in and they replied that they had walked in. It reminded me of the winter I spent on my homestead on the Old Man river. It is the only winter I ever stopped snowing. All I had was a saddle horse and a cow. One morning I went out to milk the cow and found the cow's head sticking clear up to the eyes in the haystack, so rather than shovel it away I simply walked up into snow and dropped down into stable. But when I finished milking I discovered I was one thing to jump down but quite another to jump back up. I was stumped for awhile until I finally grabbing two of bessie's fingers, I shut two streams of the hottest fluid in the opening in the haymow, when they immediately froze, forming an upright. Then by gently scrubbing said fingers I was able to pop with my pail of milk. In my various wanderings I had travelled many a highway and byway, but this was my first experience on the milky way With it just goes to show there is always a way out of everything if you know where to look for it.

We had a letter from the Rev Symons of Mirror, Sask the former Pastor of the Lacombe Church informing that they were couchi in the storm while going to a Christmas gathering in the country The car stalled and Mrs Rawson was left alone in it with no heater, for quite an hour, while Mr Rawson went to look for help which he was fortunate enough to find. We are glad to be there were no more serious results than severe colds.

A few years ago breakfast was an important meal. Then it let it be ignored in your family Publications on food preparation and menus come to you free of charge from local or provincial health departments.

Walking to and from work or school is one of the best forms of mild exercise. It keeps the flow of blood and sharpens the appetite It is a fine way to start the day . . . far better than exchanging germs with close-packed neighbors on a bus or street car.

Many Canadian Children's Eyes Corrected By Delicate Operation

TORONTO — Shy, humiliated children with crossed eyes change almost overnight into happy, normal youngsters under the skilful hands of surgeons at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. The operation is delicate but safe and sure. Surgeons, who straighten the eyes of 200 children from many parts of Canada each year, say there is no reason why any child should go through life with the handicap.

The psychological change the operation brings is even more striking than the straightened eyes. Shamed looks, whose lives were made unhappy by the jeers of playmates, become confident cheerful children.

People no longer glance away from them. Potential juvenile delinquents undergo amazing character changes.

Some children are saved years of humiliation by techniques developed at the hospital to make operations possible at the early years instead of at 10 or 12 once considered the safest age.

Operations on babies are made possible by administering the anaesthetic direct to the lungs by rubber tube. By methods of diagnosis developed at the hospital, surgeons can tell at special nurseries. But if the child has grown up before an operation there is no limit to the age at which it can be successful.

Treatment of babies is started as soon as diagnosis is possible—at five months of age. They are fitted with unbreakable glasses encased in rubber frames. If these fail to correct the condition, an operation is performed — sometimes on children only 18 months old after careful calculation of the distance the eye must be turned.

Surgeons straighten the eyes by moving muscles attached to the side of the eyeballs The eyeball is not taken from the socket. Then it is possible, despite popular belief, it is turned to one side and held by its margins.

DR. A. E. Prince

DR. H. Liss—In his year-end statement R. J. Vaughan, C.N.R. president and chairman, cited a deficit of $15,000,000. Reversed it'd mean half a billion dollars demanded against the tremendous earning power of the C.N.R and its employees. Instead of national security, he said, the deficit threatened the railway's credit and its ability to meet its obligations. Of revenue by operating expenses, and the burden of fixed charges are a constant cause of worry to the management."

Bob Hope No. 1 Money-Maker

HOLLYWOOD — Bob Hope beat out his pal Bing Crosby for the No. 1 movie money-making spot of 1949

The motion picture exhibitors of the United States made the choice in a poll by the Motion Picture Herald trade publication, which will make the announcement in its issue of January 28th. Crosby had held the top spot for five consecutive years, a record But Hope, with Fletcher and Bernard Jones grossing heavily at the theatres, outdrew Crosby's two releases this year, A Connecticut Yankee and Top O' The Morning. It was Crosby's 10th appearance in the top 10 and Hope's seventh. The latter's previous high was second place in 1948

Trailing the leaders, in order were Abbott and Costello, John Wayne, Gary Cooper Cary Grant, Betty Grable, Esther Williams, Humphrey Bogart and Clark Gable Gable has been on the list 15 times at the 18 years the poll has been taken

It also included a ranking by British exhibitors, which put British star Anna Neagle first, her co-star, Michael Wilding, second, followed by Hope, Danny Kaye, Crosby, Jane Wyman, A an Ladd, John Mills, Jean Simmons and Miss Grable Mills and Miss Simmons also are British stars

World's Champion Liar Selected

BURLINGTON, Wis.—A fantastic ballad by inventing the Death of a Colorado trout gave a fabricating Ohioan the title of world's champion liar.

The Burlington Liar's club said its 1950 champion was Lee Overlade Geetlib of Toledo He replaces the retiring champion, L. W Tupper of Paris, Ala.

Mr. Overlade's tall tale related that, alone in Colorado he caught a trout on a one pole but in his excitement forgot about his landing net and lost gaff hooks.

He tried his prize up to the tip of the pole, which he then heaved over the water into an upright position. The pole was so long he couldn't reach the fish and he dare not put the pole back into the water for fear the trout would escape.

It stuck the butt of that long timber pole into the ground, drew my trusty hunting knife, climbed up the pole and stabbed that fish to death

Mr. Tupper of Alberta left your man. A an Ladd, John Mills, Jean was crowned for his years of 2 000 poolhoss which were blown out of Miss Simmons also are British stars the ground and ever cactus until they were so full of holes they wouldn't hold dew.

SEDGEWICK W. I.

The regular meeting of the Sedgewick W.I. was held at the home of Mrs C. Mahoney with 23 members and 1 visitor present. Letters were read from overseas acknowledging parcels sent for Xmas. Plans were made to have a banquet and social evening for members on Feb. 15th to celebrate the 35th anniversary. Mr. J Hopkin was elected as delegate to the Red Deers convention in March

A scrap book of Alberta showing our methods of farming, typical residences and home appliances, scenic landscapes, industries etc. is to be started. These are exchanged with countries overseas. Mrs Hopkins reported new books ordered for the Library and we have received new curtains made by the Jr. Red Cross.

Several nice pairs of felt slippers were turned in. Feb. 12th is to be observed as Institute Sunday. Lot to attend church. Mrs. Chalmers convenor of Home Ec., gave an interesting talk on Cree design and points best suited to our community

The next meeting will be held in the Home Ec. room with Miss Haynes in charge of the program. We welcome visitors and new members

We are starting a scrap book on Alberta in exchange with other countries. We are also contributing $5.00 to the March of Dimes. The W. I members will help the Girls Club to serve at the banquet. Mrs H Pope was in charge of the program and Mrs G Pedersen won the contest. The next meeting at the hom of Mrs. T Peeler with Mrs Weir as hostess.

ANNUAL REPORT KILLAM UNITED W. M. S.

The W M S of Kinn United held 10 meetings during the year with the average attendance 10. There were 15 members in state the year but death claimed one of our fine women as in the person of Mrs. C. E. Sim nett. We also had 2 associate members. Financially we had a very successful year and exceeded allocation For supply work we sent some bandages to the Cold Lake hospital; 6 quilt and three pairs of mitts to Hemaywold Girls Home and a quilt to the Edmonton Indian Residential School, as well as some good used clothing for two boys and two girls at the school. We had our annual Baby Band meeting in June at the church with Miss E. Sim in charge. There were six new members enrolled. On June 22nd several members attended the Hemaywold Rally at Sedgewick

The study book for the year we called "Growing With The Years" and is a story of the growth of the United Church in Canada since Union 1925. All women of our children are very cordially invited to attend the meetings which are held the last Thursday of each month. Mrs. E. Baker is our capable president.

The January meeting of the W M S was held at the home of Mrs Rhea in the afternoon. The meeting was called by Mrs L. Dutton assisted by Mrs Vagt, Miss Hunt, Mrs McMahon and Mrs Rhenman. It was decided to hold the annual St. Patricks Tea on March 18th. Annual reports were given by various members. Mrs. J. Kortgaard gave the chapter from the study book and dealt with the medical institutes in Canada. Our new United Church hospital at Lamont received special attention

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank all the friends and neighbors who so kindly sent cards, gifts of candy and generally showed us how much we are in hospital. — Mrs. Jamieson and Family, Sedgewick. 50 1 p

LETTER TO EDITOR

The Community Press does not necessarily endorse any views held responsible for the views expressed by contributors.

Mr. Editor:—

Mr. Moulder's letter was appreciated and similar action by others would help. Our medical plan has indeed been a valuable one. I have personal knowledge of people who did not secure medical attention prior to the inception of the plan in our Municipality. Some could not improve on account they could not meet and others who could not bring themselves to impose the need of loved ones and had bitter, bitter experience on with the debt incurred. Sickness as with such unpredictable incidents as fire, death and accidents, can only be met by some form of insurance, without grave danger of creating a crippling financial catastrophe. Our medical plan was first tried in the Plainsoff M.D., largely due to the humanitarian ideals of the late Ben Johnson, as well as other members of the Council. Some of the ratepayers of Wheatland were so impressed with its advantages that we undertook to induce our ratepayers of its merits First by having Ben Johnson address our annual meeting, and later arranging a debate.

We would like to thank Mr. Whitsby and Scout McLennan and generally agreed to discuss the matter there we could not get anyone to take the negative the first two meetings. Finally we got Mr. Whitsby to do so. They did a good job as well that the following vote was against its adoption. However, in a year or so the Council did adopt the plan and with each general supper that no vote of ratepayers was called.

After the larger area was arranged having on the Council Bob Johnson, Nels Toppe, Scott McLennan and Harry Pestude, who had personal experience with the plan, along with other members' support, it was installed in the larger area.

Fortunately the hospitals have given the finest type of co-operation With a spirit that has been deeply appreciated and won the affection and respect for those who displayed such ideal of Christian service All honor to them Yet the medical profession has been constant headache to the various Councils. I know that all doctors were not equally responsible for the friction, but most were. I do not suggest or think there was any neglect of patients. But they don't everything they could to hinder and obstruct the working of the plan in either ways. And of course but behind was the Medical Association

It would be useless to tell of the innumerable incidents that were created I sat in on a conference at Calahad with a representative of the Medical Assn also present, and my impression was that his chief aim was to aggravate the difficulties. The chance is that our Council will have become so weary of the friction and rumble that they may not be willing for its continuation Our only recourse is to attend our annual meeting and insist on its continuation

Carl F. Calvin

Oil In The West

MANY LEADING INDUSTRIALISTS and financial experts have expressed the view that the discovery of new sources of oil in the West is the most important economic development which has taken place in Canada during the past year. World supplies of oil, like those of many other natural products are becoming smaller, and established sources of production are gradually being exhausted. The search for new fields in Alberta, which proved so successful during the past few years, has now spread to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia, and extensive surveys are being made in the hope of adding further to the supplies now being produced in the West.

* * * * *

Much Money Being Spent

A number of large oil companies have secured rights to build for possible new oil fields in Manitoba and Saskatchewan and it is believed that there is likelihood of extensive developments taking place there. Some 60,000,000 acres of land in Saskatchewan are being investigated, and large sums of money are being spent in the search for oil there and in Manitoba. These areas are now second in activity only to Texas, in the world-wide search for new oil fields. In the age in which we live oil is a highly important commodity. All forms of motorized equipment depend upon it for fuel and machines for driving airplanes and for diesel engines and automobiles are numerous.

* * * * *

Oil is in Great Demand

Oil supplies in the Far East have played an important part in political developments there some of which have affected people far removed from that area. With oil in great demand in time of peace, and with even greater and more vital uses in the event of war, the importance of the discovery of new fields is evident. Recent developments in Alberta have led to great expansion there, which has affected the economy of the whole country. They have also proved to be an incentive to those who are now looking for new fields in the other provinces. The progress of this search will be watched with interest not only by those immediately concerned, but by many in all parts of the country who realize the importance of such developments in these times.

Bowmanville Weekly Wins Editorial Trophy

VANCOUVER. — The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, Ont., has been awarded the Canadian Weekly Editorial Trophy as winner of a Dominion-wide editorial competition.

The competition, sponsored by the Canadian Weekly Editor trade journal published here, is open to Canadian weekly newspapers.

Second place went to the Richmond Hill, Ont., Liberal, and third to the Powell River, B.C. News.

The subject of the winning editorial was the role of municipal government in Canadian affairs.

It is the second victory for the Canadian Statesman. It won the award in 1947 and placed second in 1948.

200 ANTELOPE SEEN CLOSE TO TOWN

GOLDEN PRAIRIE Sask. — Around 200 antelope were seen close to the town recently. It was believed that deep snow in the hills had driven the animals to seek food elsewhere. It was reported that farmers had to drive the antelope out of their straw stacks.

N.H.L. Sport Notes

150 Games Without A Penalty

Boston Bruins steady defenceman, Bill Quackenbush, had played 126 consecutive N.H.L. games on December 30 without incurring a single penalty. The last time the Lady Byng Trophy winner received a penalty was on March 8 1944 against Montreal Canadiens. Just a few minutes remained for high-sticking 21 Shutouts in First 96 Games

The six National League goaltenders have been playing amazingly well this season. After the first 96 games of the 1942-43 season have been recorded, figures reveal that there were no less than 21 shutouts. Bill Durnan, Canadiens and Turk Broda, Toronto head the shutout parade with five apiece Husky Harry Lumley of Detroit is next with four "rollers" to his credit, and as followed by Chuck Rayner of New York Rangers with three, and Frank Brimsek, Chicago and Jack Gelineau, Boston, with two each

Toronto Are "Fightingest" Club

Toronto Maple Leafs appear to be the fightingest club in the N.H.L. At any rate the Leafs had more major penalties than any other club at the end of the first 96 games of the current season. The Toronto crew received 11 majors, Detroit had seven, Boston and Canadiens, six, Chicago and Rangers, two. The Leafs always have been partial to the free-scrapping penalties. Last year they led all other teams with 30 majors during the 60-game schedule. Rangers received the least with three

Four Of Six Goalies Had a Penalties

Four of the six N.H.L. twine-tenders have been penalized this season and two of them, Harry Lumley of Detroit and Chuck Rayner of New York Rangers were penalized twice. Others to be credited with two-minutes in the sin-bin, although another player actually served the time, were Bill Durnan of Canadiens and Frank Brimsek of Chicago. Jack Gelineau, rookie Boston net custodian and Turk Broda, veteran Toronto cage janitor, are the two goalies who have not received a penalty this season.

PHOTOGRAPH ENSURED DELIVERY OF LETTER

TORONTO. — All that showed on the envelope was a newspaper clipping of a man's photograph and Miss Street, Weston. But Postmaster George Pollard 82 received the letter as it contained from a friend he hadn't seen for 30 years.

The friend, Richard Whittaker of Carlisle, Que., left Weston in 1919 and lost Pollard's address. He sent Pollard a picture in a Toronto newspaper recently and used it to renew their friendship.

B.C. Fishermen Expect Big Herring Catch

VANCOUVER — Boring through high-running seas and a bitter Arctic wind, more than 100 herring boats are back on the bleak waters of the fishing grounds

With their fish nets and a 96,000-ton catch behind them, the rugged little wooden ships have another two months to go. Before the season ends March 10, they hope to make it a 200,000-ton catch.

For the hardy crew members of the fishing diesel-driven boats, the next two months will be a succession of long, lonely hours and hard work.

Nevre centre of the fleet is the radio dispatch office here which, three times a day, beams messages from company headquarters. Talk is the command post for the scattered ships and keeps them deployed over the richest areas for the fishing grounds.

Up-to-date techniques have built the herring industry into a $5,000,000 business but fishermen average $4,000 to $5,000 a year. But many days, they report, aren't heard.

Most of B.C.'s herring are converted into oil used in food products, paint and linoleum. Some are canned. Others make high-protein fish meal, used for livestock feed and fertilizer.

When The Newspaper Doesn't Come

My father says the paper he reads ain't put up right!
He finds a lot of fault, too he does persnitz it all night!
He says there ain't a single thing in it worth to read,
And that it doesn't print the kind of stuff the people need;
He tosses it aside and says its stinkity on the sun,
But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come

He reads about the weddings and he reads the social doin's with a most derisive shout,
He says they make the paper for the second folks about,
He'll read about the parties and he'll name and fret and fume,
He says of information it doesn't have a crumbs,
But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come

He reads about the murders and he reads about the sales,
He says they make the paper for the women folks also,
He doesn't miss an item or a word ad—that is true
He says they don't know what we want, the darned newspaper guys;
"I'm going to take a day away from work and go and throw some things at them," I seems as though they must be deaf, blind and dumb,
But you ought to hear him holler when the newspaper doesn't come

Who escapes a duty avoids a pain.

Manitoba To Continue War On Weeds

WINNIPEG — Between 3,500,000 and 4,000,000 acres of farm land in Manitoba will be sprayed in 1950 in the chemical war on weeds, it was forecast at a meeting held under the auspices of the provincial government's weeds commission at the legislative building

Last year 2,200,000 acres in this province were sprayed with 2,4-D in the weed war

In the three prairie provinces the total acreage sprayed was 3,300,000 acres. This year the total may run as high as 15,000,000 acres. H. E. Wood, chairman of the weeds commission said.

More than 50 delegates attended the meeting. Invitations were sent out to all those interested in chemical weed control

The meeting had a twofold purpose. It was called to plan two future conservation meetings and to lay plans for extensive chemical weed research and experimentation, to be carried on in the province during the coming season.

A weed control meeting will be held at the University of Manitoba March 5, under the chairmanship of Prof. T. J. Olson of the plant science division. A second meeting will be held in November and December will be reported to Manitoba farmers and others interested in the control of weeds by chemicals. The two conferences were the twelfth weed conference at Edmonton and the fourth central weed control conference in Great Falls, M.D.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Two women were discussing a highly confidential matter.

"I told Grace about it," said the first, "in strict confidence, of course."

"Did you warn her not to repeat it?" said the other.

"Oh, no," replied the first, "I didn't dare do that. I thought that if I did she'd not be repeat it, she'd think it wasn't worth repeating."

Regulations Issued On Timber Permits

REGINA Regulations governing issuing of timber permits in Saskatchewan have been outlined by Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank.

Those eligible for permits, and quantities they may obtain, are:—Settlers living in burning areas: 5,000 board feet each year or 10,000 board feet every second year; farmers living within 20 miles of a burning permit area, not more than 10,000 board feet as from March 31, 1947 and Second World War veterans who are former residents of the province a quantity not exceeding 15,000 board feet as from the same date each veteran who has since been re-established on land in the province may also procure 5,000 board feet free of dues if they apply within three years of re-establishment under V.L.A. or in other cases within five years of discharge from the armed forces or R.C.A.F. provided the

In addition, any provincial resident who has lost his dwelling by fire and is newly may apply for a permit free of dues, not exceeding 10,000 board feet, of which only 5,000 board feet may be green white spruce. Regulations also provide for permits for timber for construction of churches and or community buildings, in an amount not exceeding $100 in dues.

In all cases except re-building after a fire, application should be made in the fall. In the latter, it must be made within six months after the fire.

When a permit is issued the timber can be protected from Saskatchewan Timber Board piling yards at $20 per thousand for rough green spruce lumber or, if the permittee prefers, he may log and have sawn the amount allowed provided standing timber is available. All lumber required under these permits is for the permittee's use on his own property and cannot be bartered, sold or otherwise disposed of. Further details may be obtained from any resources department field officer.

Something better is quinky's only cured.

Hardisty Happenings

Mr and Mrs Jimmy Baker from Stettler were Hardisty visitors over the week end.

Our curling team arrived home from the city on Saturday with just the run of congratulating in the city apart. Fun? Well, yes it is they say, but it also spells a lot of work. Better luck next year boys.

Misses Faye and Susie Terry and Verlene Quinlan spent the week end in the city attending the bspiel.

Rink Rinks Said in the Sedgewick Indian hospital, and while we had some good curling, we did not get in the prize. The two rinks were Kitty Matthews, Melville Donovan, Vera Hendricks and Frances French; and Marie Keegan, Faye Terry, Marlene Hyslop and Kenneth Lindgren.

We are sorry to report that Steve de Lange has been admitted to the hospital here, and we sincerely hope he will soon be well.

Pete Gossard was also very unfortunate in breaking his leg just before the curling. Father Kitch, Nels and Pete Gossard, Lyle Metz, Al Keough, Wilbur and Kenny Arnold Friday night after spending a week in the city of Edmonton.

Congrats to Mr and Mrs Warre Hagle on the birth of their daughter born on February 6th. The wee thing weighs just over four pounds, and though in an incubator, at the time of writing is reported doing well.

The Al Keoughs and Mr and Mrs R. Parsons were dinner guests at the Wilbur Arnold home on Sunday.

Mr and Mrs I C Dodds of Edmonton recently celebrated their Golden wedding anniversary at the Jasper Place Temple. A happy time was had at a dinner at which 46 were present.

Mr and Mrs Dodds were married at Regard, Missouri on January 31st 1900 and moved to Canada in 1912, where they farmed at Hardisty for 30 years. Since 1943 they have resided at 10155 — 146 St. in Edmonton. They have two sons, William of Edmonton and Elmer of Wainwright. There are eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Out of town guests at the reception were, Mr and Mrs Elmer Dodds and Shirley and Douglas, Mrs Joyce Bracken and Jeffrey, Mr and Mrs Bill Young, Marilyn and Maxine all from Wainwright, Mr and Mrs B G Kehir and Lois and Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs Hugo Street of Amisk, Mr and Mrs Oscar Larlee of Dewit, Mr. and Mrs Joe McGuire and Mr and Mrs Keith Thomas & Dapp.

During the evening about 150 guests called to greet the couple, and were received by Mrs Bracken and Joyce Dodds, sister, cousin, quarterine, orchestra numbers, readings and a play entitled "Story of a couple" were the order.

A short address was given by Rev. H C Gardner of Camrose, in which he recalled happy times spent in the Dodds Mrs Dodds' daughter, Mrs Raymond Jones of Minecort sent his sent a gold ring for the occasion, and in the beautiful service Mr. Dodds presented it to Mrs Dodds The happy couple were the recipients of many gifts and a purse of money.

Rev. M. Clegg, Pastor of the Community Tabernacle, conveyed the good wishes of the host of friends in a short appropriate address.

A happy time was had as old friends and new visited and partook of lunch during which the three tier wedding cake was served.

LOUGHEED FACTS

Approximately 24 John Deere dealers from points within a radius of 50 miles, converged on Lougheed to meet the Executive officers of the Company, in the Lougheed Legion's first under sponsorship of our local dealers, Denham and Kenny. Mr Bert Hooper, Alberta Manager, and Jack Wright of Calgary along with Mr P P Griffith, Les Peace and Jack Gardner of Edmonton, took part in interesting and instructive talks relating to various phases of the industry, stressing the importance of quality and repair service, of which John Deere is justly proud. The success of the meeting was voiced by Mr. Hooper and it is contemplated making it an annual event. A dinner was served by Mr Stevens of the Lough ard Hotel and it was agreed by the Calgary staff that we had as good cooks and as equally good beds as the famous Cow Town. Many complimentary remarks were heard that a Legion with such a small membership could finance such an attractive and compact hall.

The weather man seems to be having his little joke with us these days. He tells us all about the warm and balmy weather he is going to give us and just as we have visions of putting our woolies in mothballs, he adds a postscript of a cold wave to come up from the opposite direction and save your geese is as good as his which will win I remember the time spent in Flying when I was caught in the centre of one of these bottles of the elements. ## Editor's Daughter Proves A Great Boon To Paper

MISSOULA, Mont.—Things don't look so good for the Missoula Times' Christmas edition. C. J. Doherty, publisher, was stricken and hospitalized by a heart attack last August. He wasn't going to be able to do his usual selling job among Missoula's busy business streets.

But Doherty hasn't played his ace. When he did, well, look at the results. The Times went to press with more than 1,000 inches of greeting advertisements!

The reason for the success is Doherty's daughter, Cathy (that's short for Catherine). She sold the 1,000 inches of Christmas greetings in 60 hours after-school work.

Actually, ad selling was not new to Miss Doherty. When her father was critically ill in a hospital last August, she took over the Times. The result was the biggest advertising month of the year.

House-Barn Light Circuit

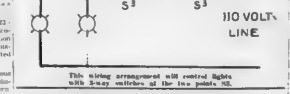
PLEASE give me information on a 3-way switch to operate a light between the barn and house. I also want to wire barn on this same circuit.—A. D., N.B.

Ans.—We are showing herewith a diagram of the wiring for a lighting circuit which can be turned on or off from two points. For this you will need two three-way switches, one located at the house and the other at the barn. This will require two wires between house and barn connecting the two switches. Then, from the output side of one of the switches a wire must be run to the light while another wire will be needed from the other side of the light to the source of current. For lighting your barn you will need a separate intake from your distribution panel with a mast switch of the proper capacity for the load to be handled and a distribution panel for the lights in the barn. Unless you have had experience in the wiring of buildings it would be much better for you to have the work done by a qualified electrician.



This wiring arrangement will control lights with 3-way switches at the two points NS.

New Manufacturing Laboratories For Allen & Hanburys

Allen & Hanburys Company, Limited, the well-known pharmaceutical manufacturers announce the opening of new Canadian Headquarters in Toronto. Located in one of the newest industrial areas, the new manufacturing laboratories are on the Dixie side, at Wilson Avenue Station, of the new super highway being built to the northern part of Ontario. A single story brick and steel frame building, it contains 80,000 sq. feet of floor space. Construction has been carefully planned to meet Allen & Hanburys specialized requirements and enable the company to better serve users of its products in the drug trade and medical profession.

Allen & Hanburys (Canada), Ltd. is the Canadian subsidiary of one of the oldest pharmaceutical houses in the British Empire. The parent company, Allen & Hanburys Limited, London, England, dates back to the year 1715 A.D. when it was known as "The Old Pough Court Pharmacy" located in the heart of the old City of London. Although severely damaged during the Blitz, the original Plough Court Building is still standing.

In the two hundred and thirty-five years which have elapsed, Allen & Hanburys have won an enviable position in the field of pharmacy. Today, the parent company has large plants in the City of London and in the peaceful countryside of Hertfordshire, employing some three thousand people. The company's manufacturing are extremely wide, covering virtually the entire field of medicines and drugs, with branch distributor organizations and factories in every country in the Empire and many other points in the world. Manufacturing plants have been established in Canada, Australia and South Africa.

The Canadian company was first established at London, Ontario in 1917-18 where the manufacture of Malt Extract and Allenbury's Baby Foods were undertaken. In more recent years branch has been expanded to undertake the production of pharmaceutical specialties which were developed in the research laboratories of the parent company in London, England. Well known consumer products include Halibutage Allaspin, Antiflex and Allenburys Pendellin Chewing Gum.

Guinness cabbage is said to be the good portion of all green vegetables.

STYLISTS

Why is it men dominate the dress-designing field? Why are the clothes of the male stylists so much more popular than those of female stylists? It is claimed men have a better sense of color. That they also have a better sense of proportion. But the chief reason the men designers excel is that males is said to be because a woman designer can never get away from herself. She designs clothes that look well on her but are unsuitable for women of a different type and figure. The male designer views the style situation impartially. He tries to originate designs for all types and figures. The same angles are said to apply to hat designing.

DRUNK DRIVERS

Many auto accidents are caused by the fact the drivers involved don't know they are loaded. I mean, said drivers are drunk and don't know it. After a man has consumed about six highballs he may think he is in a perfectly normal condition, but the fact is he has become a little more reckless. He drives faster and takes more chances than usual. No man who has to drive a car afterwards should drink more than three highballs. No woman driver should drink more than two.

SO THEY SAY

Wives born under Aries (March 21-April 20) are usually psychic. They are mind readers and are the most difficult to deceive of all matrimonial mates. Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 20) women love the spotlight. They enjoy being entertained. If you're a woman at the theatre or in a night club wearing a strapless red evening gown and smoking a cigarette in a long holder she is probably an aquarist. . . . Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) men think beauty of face and figure more appealing in women than intelligence that's why so many Libra men don't always "comply" with secretaries, or so say the stargazers.

MULISH MEN

A man who reaches the age of 55 in good health has a good chance of living 20 or 30 years longer. So say the longevity experts. Right now there is considerable discussion regarding the unusual number of business executives who pass on before their 55th year or reach that age in bad physical shape. It is said this sad state of affairs is due to the fact that many business men are so tense and taut at all times that they do not know how to relax; they eat too much and are excessive consumers of strong drink. Also many business men make the mistake of eating dinner while they are still fatigued from their day's work. If you have an executive in your home the thing to do is to subject him to firm supervision. I can just hear many matrons among our subscribers commenting on this latter suggestion as follows: "Says you!" Meaning, of course, that it is much easier said than done. It is the general opinion among wives that one husband is harder to handle than four small children. 3564

Windsors Plan Visit To Ranch

NEW YORK — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor still plan to visit the duke's Alberta ranch some time this spring, the duke's secretary said recently.

But she added that "the plans are not established yet and it is not possible to say just when they will go there."

The 4,000-acre ranch near Pekisko in the High River district about 40 miles south of Calgary, was purchased by the duke, then Prince of Wales, some 20 years ago. He has not visited it since 1943.

The Duke's secretary, while explaining that no definite plans have as yet been made for the visit said the duke and duchess do definitely plan to go there.

Vancouver Dog "Best in Canada"

SHEEP ON THE INCREASE IN AUSTRALIA

CANBERRA — Australia's statistics also showed record increases in sheep, an increase of 6,170,000 in 12 months.

After Extensive Tests Saunders Wheat Satisfactory And Popular

SAUNDERS wheat has been tested extensively in experimental plots since 1945 and has been grown by the farming public of northern Alberta and British Columbia during 1948 and 1949. Its performance during these years has been most satisfactory and it is increasing rapidly in popularity, says A. A. Custard, Dominion Experimental Station, Beaverlodge Alberta.

On the basis of 58 tests conducted throughout the province from 1945 to 1949 Saunders has yielded 1 bushel and one bushel per acre more than Garnet and Thatcher, and one-half bushel more than Red Bobs. In comparison with Garnet and Thatcher and the earlier Canadian varieties Red Bobs, Huron and Marquis, Saunders matures from 2 to 4 days earlier than Thatcher and 10 days earlier than Garnet. It is somewhat taller than Thatcher and has a stronger straw than Garnet and Thatcher, and is similar to Thatcher in resistance to lodging.

In considerable interest in the early maturity of the results obtained on soils varying from grey-wooded to Peace River agricultural area.

During the springs of 1948 and 1949 the Dominion Experimental Station at Beaverlodge supplied seed grain to growers in the Peace River area. At all locations it has given good yields and has done well under conditions of early and late seeding. During 1948 and 1949 the number of years, acreages of fields and the number of varieties grown on the Peace River area. Saunders has always been in the lead in yield and has been one of the highest in quality. It is expected that a small quantity of Saunders will be available for distribution in the Peace River area for the 1951 season. The Dominion Experimental Station at Beaverlodge is planning a small pedigreed seed increase for the production of first-generation seed which will be distributed to growers in the Peace River area for the 1951 season. Thus, assuming normal increase a small quantity of Registered seed should be made available by Elite growers for the 1951 season.

KITCHEN MEDITATIONS
A VISITOR

By JANE DALE

A trim, young sparrow flew to my door
He looked an anxiety
I said, "How do you do? Won't you come in?"
I am sure he nodded his head.

That trim young sparrow passed on by sigh.
Others around him flew
There he flicked his tail and gave a chirp—
I'm off. Good day to you!"

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Tom Weyman has returned to Calgary after a short visit here with his wife who has been taking care of her mother, Grandma Marlow, since her discharge from hospital.

Bess, to Mr and Mrs W. A. Hoodridge, at Killam hospital on January 29th, a son. Congratulations.

Allan Pointer of Wainwright Camp spent the week end here with his wife and her parents, before leaving on convoy from Wainwright for some points in the Whitehorse district for winter manoeuvers. Well, after the weather we have had her, and getting stalled on the return trip to Camp, Yeamp and some other northern points with their 23 shoes, should prove his summer resorts to him.

Jack Westra was on Edmonton visitor last week

Merle Reed left Wednesday for Edmonton, and expected to leave on Thursday for Halifax where he will commence his duties as a naval recruit Chief Petty Officer. With you and Rodney on the East Coast and Obert on the West Coast, Allan in the North, what have we to fear.

John Rees is some bobbering again but promises a full report on his return to Killam hospital.

Saw a nice load of fish on the main street the other day. Don't know how he caught them, but he had some nice looking bait on front seat. Oscar Aresoon left last week for the West Coast where he intends to reside, he has taken a position as one of the coastal boats.

You can lay down yourbook of 12 month boys, the form of the year is now here. Yep, those income tax papers are here again, and as the rush used to call, 'come and get it.

Clayton Lawrence was on the sick list last week. Local hatchet's swelling the bug for him. We hope it is nothing serious and that he will be back on the job shortly.

Mrs Geraldine Larson was a Sedge wick visitor last week.

The snow plow boys have had very disheartening job lately, plow out a road in daytime and at night it drifts full again. Keep up the good work, spring is coming.

Dad Vagt is in charge of the Mc. Master hotel since the fire in the Edmonton hospital. I asked him how the boy was doing in the spiel and he shook his head sadly and said, 'Well, he is a good butcher.'

Mrs. Martin Roggenaeck was a patient in Killam hospital last week. Glad to see her home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Rand were last week end visitors with his sister Mrs Harry Pedersen.

Mr and Mrs Earl Oliver of Hardisty paid a visit to the old home last week and both look as though life is agreeing with them since leaving the farm.

We are sorry to hear one of our old townsmen, Ray McClure of Edmonton met with a serious accident in falling on icy street and suffering a broken leg. Our sympathy and hope for complete recovery are extended.

Well we see our old friend and former townsman Hank Metz has developed again, and has taken a real evil old timer, All Chamberlain in a field of 61 rinks at the Red Deer Bonspiel and took home the Lethbridge Herald trophy and tied for grand aggregate. This is the second year for Hank to win the old trophy and it is quite a record considering that until a very few years ago Hank did not know a curling rock from a Rock of Ages. (Of course we all know it is just luck on Hank's part, but it is remarkable how a bald head and a bit of good playing helps your luck Congrats Hank,your old friends are proud of you, and at that I'll bet you threw turned a hair (unless you have moved one from Alt).

Higher education is a wonderful advantage I heard one of the experts remark that if we knocked the 'L' out of the present Lieut-Governor, we would still have the same old belt Nat had too. Bowden to Brown

Since the previous note I have been informed that Clayton Lawrence has been removed to the Killam hospital. His many friends wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

Jas Zorb Hr spent last week end in Edmonton where his wife is a patient in University hospital

New Kitch pecking his radio is a work each morning and home each night Must be following one of the serials.

What a difference the weather makes. For some time the old town loosed like the deserted village, but today I think they were all in the main street loosed like a sports day, with cars double parked the full length and the sidewalks crowded with friends talking and visiting and all laughing and smiling. Yes, a few nice days and we forget all the bad ones That's why I like Alberta

I guess everyone received a pamphlet last week on natural gas. I hope you read it, but necessarily for the purpose for which it was published but I don't know anything that is ought home to me the vast resources of our section of Canada as it did. I had thought the country was pretty well developed by the big oil companies, but the dozens of them taking new leases, not of sections or two acre lots but millions of acres, has almost beyond belief The computed reserves of gas? Well the figures are beyond me, you read it, I mean how many years ago an English gentleman after viewing the gas at Medicine Hat, went home and told his friends he thought the trap door to Hell must be located there. If he were to see some of the present day flares in Alberta I'll bet he would be looking around for Dante

NOCTURNE ON ICE

Chet Knew What Three Words "I Love You" Meant On Ice.

By ANNA E. WILSON

MYRA knew she could do it but, as she came down into the hollow and of her breath. She had no intention there, especially by moonlight. The hollow was Chet's. It has been the ice had formed a natural rink during the pines and the snow. The ice was so still that were she let out her breath it made a small whisper. She moved and, suddenly the night was alive with the sound of steel striking on ice, as the flash of silver blades twirling with every speed that you would pointed the green line of Myra's chin. That must be perfect, this girl in Chet's life, perfect she knew that would stay here after she had gone away. Her face softened into the shade of the thrill of the ecstasy of the moment.

Now but a champion could have done it and no one knows when it meant—no one but Chet.

But not Chet when she was training for a figure skating championship, they'd been picked for the same team by Chet Jones. She'd been standing on the edge of the ice, time waiting for her turn as she took final instructions. A whistle had blown somewhere and Chet had said, 'that's that' and then had been theft swinging into a burst of speed that left him standing by Gail's side before she had time to see that he was still there. She'd hardly heard Chet's "Good work, Chet," or his casual "let's do that together, each other" because she and Chet were busy looking into each other's eyes

After that it had been pure magic. She could have told Gail when things began to change. Perhaps it was when, their training finished, they had begun to work up through the ranks to national rating as champs. At first it had been just a feeling of tiredness, a feeling that she could keep up with Chet's energy, exercise life that clustered about Chet. The tension had grown—by all a day's grueling practice sent her to bed and finally became a n. otherng blanket from which she knew no escape

More and more she had become a lonely figure on the outskirts of Chet's crowd—which she knew.

She wasn't sure either when she first knew that she had begun to also deep in love with him. The blurring of the perfection of her curves and patterns on the ice. It made it worse that, while her skill was leaving her, Chet's excellence was greater than ever

If she could have told Chet the truth, it might have helped but she felt that she could not blent the keen ice with a routine that was automatically wearing her down until CNE edge of his triumph and an eye would called her in. She was blissfully kind.

'I'm dropping you from the team, Myra, for your own good. For a long time now, you've been going on your nerves. A few more performances like the last one and you'll blow up. Take a long rest. After a while you'll be able to come back—for short engagements — but you haven't the stamina for championship stuff. Chet agrees on it. We'll be signing him up for another season. Chet's at his height."

It hurt when he mentioned Chet. "Please don't tell Chet—not yet."

Chet had a skating engagement that would keep him until midnight so she had plenty of time to leave. Nothing was left to patch over but her costume, the one Chet liked.

But she couldn't go without leaving something for Chet, something to carry with him into the months ahead. It was then she had thought of Chet's hollow

Now her gift to Chet had been given and it was only an arm about her that kept her standing there a bit dumbly on her feet beneath the pines.

"Myra!"

It couldn't be anyone but Chet "Chet had to cancel the midnight show on account of the ice. I came back early, found you all pushed to leave and went to hunt up CLIF. I found your cancelled contract on his desk."

They stood there looking down on the ice. She could hear the sharp intake of his breath as he studied the pattern and her heart beat fast as she sought the assurance in his voice. "Did you think, Myra, that for the sake of a season's skating, I'd go away and leave my wife?"

For the first time, she felt happy and secure. They turned back towards Chet's home, leaving the hollow deserted in the moonlight, leaving her gift to Chet beautifully inscribed there like a fine old copper engraving. Chet was a champion could have written it thus, only Chet could have known that the three words "I Love You," meant when he looked into the eyes.

RECIPES

JIFFY ROLLS

Two cakes compressed yeast, or 2 envelopes fast dry granular yeast, ½ cup lukewarm water, 1 tsp sugar, ½ cup scalded milk, ½ cup shortening, 1½ tsp. salt, 1 egg (slightly beaten), 3 cups whole wheat flour. Soak yeast in lukewarm water and add sugar. Combine scalded milk, shortening, molasses and salt. Add egg to mixture and beat well with first mixture. Add flour and mix well. Roll out on well-floured board and fit into greased pan 10" x 15". Cut dough with floured knife, into strips 1½" wide, then lengthwise down the centre of pan. Brush with melted fat. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk (1½ hrs.) Bake in hot oven 425 F. for 20 minutes Yield: 1 dozen large rolls.

RAISIN MUFFINS

One-half cup raisins, 2 cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup melted shortening. Pour boiling water over raisins. Then drain well. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Add raisins. Beat eggs and add milk and shortening. Add to dry ingredients and stir just enough to moisten flour. Fill greased muffin cups ⅔ full. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) for 20 to 25 minutes

New Dial Telephone System For Rural Communities Progressing

WINNIPEG — A host white building resembling a miniature radio station and located in an unobtrusive part of a town is rapidly becoming a symbol of the modern trend of telephone service.

Within the next decade a large number of these dome structures will have been placed in growing communities in Manitoba. Winnipeg telephone men predict.

A "C.D.O.", or community dial office, contained within the building is the telephone system's answer to the problem of modern telephone service in rural areas.

Already the first three C.D.O.'s have been installed and are operating throughout the Rostowell area in the municipalities of Marquette, Warren and Woodlands. Winter conditions have made it impossible to begin operations for another unit at Lyleton until there is short while ago.

According to officials of the Manitoba telephone system, there are a number of outstanding factors involved in the present shortage of these units.

Great quantities of wiring, cable, insulators, connectors and intricate switch gear are required. Delivery dates are required for any large relay equipment.

The supply is limited. It has been this way for years as firms recover from war-time production. The situation is the same in England, where a good deal of telephone equipment is made and exported. The demand is also worldwide.

That is the picture as seen by the Manitoba system heads. These and other factors explain why telephone company engineers are working overtime on the C.D.O. scheme for Dominion and more telephones, and the waiting list grows, officials indicated.

To cope with modern advance in rural areas the C.D.O was devised.

Oddities

A soda fountain sundae was banned as a fire menace by the fire chief of Pittsfield, Mass. The concoction, featured by a Pittsfield drug store, consisted of half a pint of ice cream topped with an ounce and a half of hot fudge, an ounce of marshmallow, a cube of sugar, nuts and three drops of lemon extract. The entrant—70 per cent. alcohol, was set ablaze before serving. The fire chief's objection was that it might set fire to fur coats, sweaters and dresses

Timber Wolf Roams Streets Of Town

CRANBERRY PORTAGE Man — A big, gaunt timber wolf roamed the streets of this community at night and during early morning hours.

One of its front paws is missing evidently crushed in a trap previously. It is believed that its damaged paw does not permit it to forage in the bush, and the animal comes to seek food in garbage cans.

L. Myers is reported to have shot at the wolf but missed not far fudge, an ounce of marshmallow, a cube of sugar, nuts and three drops of lemon extract. The entrant—70 per cent. alcohol, was set ablaze before serving. The fire chief's objection was that it might set fire to fur coats, sweaters and dresses

Saskatchewan Board Warns Car Drivers

REGINA — On the first offence of drunken driving, in Saskatchewan, the Highway Traffic Board revokes the driver's licence for six months, D. Drummond, acting chairman of the board, has reminded motorists. At the termination of the suspension period, a red licence is issued.

A driver's licence is revoked indefinitely after a second conviction for driving while intoxicated, he added.

Somewhat less drastic curtailment of driving privileges results from reckless driving. On the first offence, the licence is revoked for three months; on the second for nine months, and on the third, indefinitely. Similarly, a red licence is issued at the end of the suspension period.

Central Student Union Anxious For Auditorium

THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL HAS A BONE TO PICK

(By Student Council)

Before 1946 we had a fairly large thirty grad auditorium. Then came the expansion that was inevitable when the high schools were centralized, and our auditorium was partitioned and converted into classrooms. That left us with no place for recreation, no place for social functions and no place large enough to accomodate all of the students in assembly meetings. It left us with no place to do P.T., a practical subject, and in fact the P.T. situation is so bad that we often have to try to build muscles playing ping pong.

It left us with only classrooms for club meetings, but perhaps worst of all, it left us with no place for the physical activity that is so essential to young people. What are we going to do about it? Well, we heard there is no use trying to get our old auditorium back, for in a building where all possible space is vitally needed for academic activities, there is no room for basketball, or for P.T.

There seems but one solution. We must have a new building, apart from the present structure. That costs money. That is why we wrote a letter to the Minister of Education, Ivan Casey, and to our M.L.A., Mr. Fee. When the Legislature meets this month they are going to consider plan to back school building projects with oil royalty money. That backing would be a wonderful support for taxpayer's money, when and if a new public school and auditorium are constructed. We are printing the letter we wrote, in full, below. It would be considered if it has some favourable effect on a decision, for that personal public school is needed, and Central does need that new auditorium.

Hon. Ivan Casey,
Dept. of Education,
Parliament Buildings,
Edmonton, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—

Dr. Swift has informed us that the government has as yet made no definite decision regarding aid for school building projects from the royalties. With that in mind we think it might not be out of place to point some observations that may aid in formulating your policy.

Previous to 1944, the Village of Sedgewick had a six-room school with auditorium, modern plumbing, and two basement recreation rooms. To the Killam Division constituted their high schools. They chose Sedgewick as the best location, then the provincial high school has expanded to the extent of becoming rather large organization of nine-class room with complete departments of academic, commercial, industrial and home economics courses and with a modern 180 student dormitory. The subsequent crowding necessitated the alteration of our auditoria and recreation rooms into class rooms. However, the public school was growing also, so that, despite this painful measure, the public was still critically crowded. Pupils of rural schools were requisitioned accordingly and distributed among the previously spacious school yard, and still the problem continues.

Approximately 150 public school children occupy space designed for 75. The former rural ... housed by the above-mentioned high school are in poor condition, and temporary foundations to be quite inadequate. They have absolutely no plumbing and even drinking water. The ventilation is very inefficient. These conditions have been aggravated by the temporary nature of the buildings, which were merely utilized in anticipation of a new public school.

Now the school board seems to be confronted by financial ... The new school that had been ... for, seems to be getting ... instead of advancing ... And with the school ... no auditorium ... for an auditorium ... we have sketched ... and auditorium was taken from ... We have nothing for recreation ... two ping pong tables ... sufficiently large ... for basketball practice. In winter, the P.T. classes are faced with overwhelming difficulties.

To sum the situation up ... teachers are now teaching ... in the same accommodation ... pil, public school classes ... hall, playroom and auditorium ... lum, playroom and modern plumbing ... new occupy one-room ... constructions with no conveniences. ... Hatcher high school with expert ... laboratory equipment and a large staff ... drawing nearly the attendance ... should become without ... vocational facilities, it is unable to offer the students the full school life they ... receive elsewhere.

Considering the large capital ... penditure necessary to remedy ... situation, it would seem that without some sort of assistance, the condition we have dealt upon will not be rectified. There must be ... school divisions in much the same condition. That is not a ... a general outline of ... which high school students in this particular school are ... should have some influence on ... coming decision.

Ratepayers Like Medical Scheme

ON THE MEDICAL SCHEME

(Letter to the Editor by Carl Colvin)

Mr Editor Many of the ratepayers of the Municipality have become concerned over the situation of the Medical scheme that has been operating since the large M.D. was organized. We have received if not the best, at least one that gave general satisfaction and one that was a very great improvement over the former medical service when a considerable number of our citizens did not get the medical attention or hospitalization they required. Any of us who lived through the difficult economic times of the past know the tragic results of postponing ... Doctor until it was too late to ... when the delay only ... to a serious and catastrophic financial outlay. We were happy in thinking that our neighbors whatever their circumstances could be assured of needed ... attention, not as charity, but as service fully paid for. However, two ... WING men have seen fit to do with ... they could to ... a satisfactory service that has been built up by patience and long continued effort

I want, however, to testify ... Chetwin has made an unselfish effort of the three hospitals in the area which have given in making the hospital part of the plan effective. It is too bad some others could not follow their example I understand that the doctors are ... arbitrarily served notice they would no longer work with the M.D., stating they acted on the advice of the Medical Assn. Probably acted on the instruction would be a more accurate term. For we are dealing here with one of the most ruthless and imperious ... nations on the North ... a ... Mussolini and Hitler. ... the actions of certain labor organizations ... Harrison. The total score ... set or more dictatorial in its implies times than for an outside association to terrorize a town and district by to destroy such a service because it does not conform to their ideas or ... terests. I know of one ... the M.D. council has had the greatest difficulty hard hit by mumps. ... M.D. does not realize ... the families districts too, to secure the co operation of the doctors. They have consistently and by every method tried to hinder its operation and success. It is only fair to say that a few have not taken part in this obstruction.

Unless the ratepayers do more than talk among themselves, this country of the Medical Assn will accomplish its purpose. We will soon have our annual Municipal meeting and it is the duty of every ratepayer to be present when the matter ... may be discussed. Carl P Colvin

The roads are pretty slippery now folks. Better take it easy around the turns. It might be time saved.

Miss Margaret Guild of Camrose spent the week end at her parental home here.

Mr. Goodhope and S J Cogard from Lloydminster visited with Mr. C. E Merlitt last Thursday.

A few of Strome lady curlers participated in the bonspiel at Forest burg last Saturday.

The boys council held their annual meeting last Tuesday. Don't forget the election coming up. Nominations will be held on February 20th.

The senior boys hockey team came out on the short end of the 7 to 6 score in the last game played here Thursday night. Also on Thursday, the junior team visited Forestburg, and lost 5 to 4. Goals for Strome by Mack Thorburn, 3 and Roy Stover 1.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the family and relatives of Mr. Henry Halpater, who passed away last week.

We are sorry to report that Mrs A. Peddens had the misfortune to fall and break her wrist. Elma Allen Schmitz is assisting in the Peddens home at present.

It sould appear that we shouldn't get too choosy about the size of our town. Or could it be that some special arrangements should be made for the service men? Anyway, recently a business visitor to Strome found it necessary to drive one-half mile into the country just to turn around. — Editor's note: "Yes, and how!"

Manitoba Mother Writes "Kitchen Meditations"

JANE DALE, whose name appears below the title line of 'Kitchen Meditations', which appears in our columns from week to week, is a Manitoba mother and housewife. She is married to a veteran of World War I and is the daughter of Terence Sheridan, Hamiota, Man., veteran of the South African war. She was born in Liverpool, England, in 1906, coming to Canada with her family two years later. She has lived the greater part of her life in and about Hamiota.

JANE DALE, HAMIOTA, MAN.

Jane Dale attended the same school which her children attend now. After completing her high school in Hamiota Jane Sheridan was telephone operator and store clerk in her home town until she married Norman C. Dale in 1921. There were seven children born to them, four sons and three daughters. Owing to the ill health of her husband money was never a plentiful commodity in the Dale household but the children were kept in school and given the best education the town of Hamiota offered. Limited finances made it necessary for Jane to do all her own work, mend her family, knit socks and sweaters and socks and do all her own baking and churning. Gradually the children grew up and when a lot of leisure time came her way she began to write letters to papers, a hobby she had started during the depression years as a means of filling her mind temporarily off her immediate cares. The verses she started to compose as she tended her babies or worked in her kitchen she now writes down and submits them to various papers. This is how the Dale 'Kitchen Meditations' came into being. When the children were small she also had them store a memorize writing them down for future use.

Besides appearing in our columns, Jane has several of the e published in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, and the Manitoba Farmer. To earn a bit of ready money in order to give her girls more dresses Jane entered the photo ural reporter in Brandon Dale's Son and the Winnipeg Tribune. She is also press reporter for the local Women's Institute of which she is a member. All the articles she has sent in to date have been accepted and Jane has kept up a steady correspondence with editors in other parts of Canada, the States and England from interested people. She realizes that her work will not go down in history as good literature but she also knows that some of the lines she writes reaches other hearts unable to express the same thoughts.

Jane Dale is proud of her home and finds time in every day possible with her pen to keep it on the map. There are a thousand things to write about in a small town if one has only time to see a story to get the facts declares Jane. Even yet her love is limited for writing but she hopes to write more provided some good stories about the early days of Hamiota can be given us. Besides being a member of the WI, she belongs to the Ladies Auxiliary to the Legion Branch of the Canadian Legion and her United Church Group. Her three children away from home are kept in contact with weekly letters That are Robert, the eldest, now taking fourth year at the University of Manitoba. He is a veteran of the RCAF of War II. Donald is next in line is a wireless telegrapher in the RCN on the Pacific. Hazel, the eldest daughter is primary teacher in Edmonton. Elaine, Man The four younger ones are still at home.

Jane Dale has recently become a member of the Canadian Authors Association and hopes to make a worthwhile contribution to the organization.

Company To Build Nylon Hose Factory At West Coast

VANCOUVER — Lincoln Hosiery, Ltd., St Catharines Ont. has plans to build the far West's first nylon hosiery factory in suburban Burnaby adjoining the city. Initial announcement was made by Hon Trade Minister L. H. Kinzey and the Lincoln firm's W. H. McGinley, who will be in charge of the Burnaby plant.

About 35 will be employed initially. Skilled personnel will be brought from the East to train local operators.

Catching The White Whale In Waters Of Hudson Bay Exciting

CHURCHILL Man — Catching whales from a small motor driven canoe may sound like a spine-tingling proposition, but it's just routine for crews of one of Canada's newest industries. During the whaling season Eskimo and half-breed hunters employed by Adonac Whale and Fish Products Ltd., may venture daily into the chilly wind-swept waters of Hudson Bay to hunt the beluga, or white whale.

From the company headquarters and processing plant here, some 900 miles north of Winnipeg, this broad name is the largest whales 25-foot canoes usually manned by three men.

Once a operates the engine and other stands in the bow and the third uses a harpoon and rifle from a powered rifle.

When the whale is sighted the hunters work the canoe close to the monster, an inside a harpoon. The wounded beluga sinks into the sea dives to depths through the water, appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay. The wounded beluga sinks into the sea dives to depths through the water, appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay. The wounded beluga sinks into the sea dives to depths through the water, appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay. The wounded beluga sinks into the sea dives to depths through the water, appears to be an unlimited number of belugas in Hudson Bay.

Since the beluga is a mammal it is treated for the purpose and the dolphin, of course, is the favorite. Frequently during its breeding flight When it does the female dies at it from the breeding cause.

Sometimes it takes as many as five shots to get a wounded whale. They usually averages 1 200 pounds and many reach a length of 14 feet.

The carcass is towed to the company's plant at the mouth of the Churchill river. There it is stripped of blubber, a thick layer of substance just under the hide.

"Cook" Blubber

The blubber is cooked to render the oil and then refined for various uses, brown meat and sometimes a delicacy. The whale's flesh is also cooked and canned for human consumption.

An average size white whale yields over 300 pounds of edible oil and 600 pounds of meat.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

John Brandtner is the proud owner of a new adolescent Austin. At least John says it is considerably larger than the baby type. A snappy beautiful boat with all the gadgets from fenn shields to winter overcoat.

Congrats to Mr. and Mrs. Victor McKane on the arrival of a bonny new baby boy on Feb. 6th in the city.

Through another window the other day I witnessed a fine example of dame psychology, when I passenger screwed up a car, turned a corner at a rather alternative speed, barely missing two vintage jalopy and dextrously rid himself of dozen or so occupants in various positions about the road. It was fun, you always remember that that sought of more happened, stretched out, bottom further speeds Funeral.

Friend wife and I were invited to a house guest or tonight a ere August age of the 2. Prairie dinner. Now I don't pay to eat, would rather listen imagine how that is, more, and my was connected it cost and some thing for necessary to tell them what when they get too old to read that I have changed my mind. It was rather puzzled. Frank, having a very small unit, was vulnerable, but he consented, raised, redoubled and made the game secure a said was played. I thought he was trying to deal all the hottom, but discovered he was just endeavoring to get at a nice long look some body had left on his chair. Frank knows all about bridge, but seems to have a lot to learn about married life, for whenever I find my cushion stand being used for a sewing basket I always fan an upholstered chair before using it. They make such handy places for pins and needles. I think I'll take up the game as I always enjoy the lunch.

Again to an early spring. Looking on with a smile I se. Just simply am a stench in the young sap leaving to my a note, then I am moving time to see seeing a wood goose in the early yard a few days before. This is one the kind of issues who sees on wings they are not loons, but my guess is that it was just a tame goose that had no agonist last winter here, whose wings had nothing wrong with, and I am still waiting until I see the kids playing marbles, then I'll know that good old spring is really here.

The Rev. Grainger and wife and son Lorne returned last Friday, from Grainger and son Lorne visiting with relatives at Rowley and Edmonton and his Rev. from Windsor, Ont. where he had gone to pick up his new car which he drove back via U.S.A. There is no suitable Canadian highway, which is one way of keeping the Canadian dollars away from home. We welcome the Grainger back and hope the weather will be so shining as that now our.

I hate to tell this one as other reviews have been unable enough as my press agent knows, but as my personal acquaintance, it had I wouldn't but I have three reliable witnesses, the wife, Linda and myself. In my front room I have two radios, one a mantle on top of a cabinet. I find the singers can hit higher notes that way than on a single radio. On top of these stood one of those ornamental colored deer. It had stood there so weeks, but this day while the there of us sat at dinner in the kitchen, we all heard something fall. I and Linda went in to see from room to look, the deer was gone. I looked under and behind the radio but couldn't find it. Linda found it near the front door about eight feet from the radio, the uncanny part being, to get there the deer had to go over a chesterfield chair which stood directly between. There were no doors or windows open and no fur of any kind. What then of the radio could topple it off, but it took something else to make it jump eight feet and clear a chesterfield chair. This is a plain statement of actual fact, but don't take my word for it, ask the wife or Linda and they let me hear you explain it. Incidentally the deer has stood in the same place on radio ever since.

We had a very nice letter from our former township Bob Cardwell who is spending a year in England. The letter is just like Bob, breezy and descriptive. She gives a pen picture of everything, people, country, conditions and crowded buses. Apparently she is enjoying every minute and has had a trip to Wales, where she joined in the sing-songs in the different villages she visited. She does not name the places as she says she can neither pronounce nor spell them, but promises to play them on the piano for me when she returns. I don't blame her as I was there for awhile before was looking for home and they have some shady names. They can put me in a name and still be Christmas than any place on earth. Both has bought a house in that the county, also as she says because it warms her better than those dear old Eastern fireplaces. Bob is working in Lethbridge at present but expects to be back behind before returning. As I have her land sends her the Community Press. I am going to advise her to take in Sussex (dear old Sussex by the sea) and visit those old historic places, Rye, Battle, Hastings etc. as I would like to compare notes when she returns, to see what changes the last war made in them. And then overlook Battle Abbey or the caves at Hastings and some of those quaint old churches surrounded by a burial ground that you find buried deep in the heart of a wood apparently overlooked and as old the inscriptions are. In the old English script and you have to assign the name of so to try to read them. The ground foliage and the stronmery hanging from the trees on thick you can hardly get through, and the only thing you can hear is the silence, and peering through the dusty stained glass windows you see the effegies that adorn the last resting places of some of the long dead old timers, and are willing to believe the lines, 'If a step should sound or a word be spoken, would a ghost am rise at the stranger guest's hand'. Yes Bob, send me an account of your bike trip, but on typewriter this time please.

Angus Gelove spent most of last week in Edmonton on business and pleasure. Says business is quiet, no comment on the other half.

[illegible] spent the week end in the city, returning on Monday morning, we are glad to see Mrs. Richardson up and around after her illness, daughters are staying at home with the little ones. Mr. Richardson is also home for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wray left last week on business in the motors bent looking for apparel course in Edmonton, early travelled by plane, leaving Edmonton in the afternoon and stopping out in Winnipeg that night, then leaving next morning and arriving in King about noon day. Speed, more speed. What a contrast to when her father came West in a Red River cart. Is sometimes took longer to find the coast than it did for thirsbrede trip

Oh, by the way, did you bet Tuesday???

Thos. Barton returned home last week. Tommy, wife and car left us

LETTER TO EDITOR

The Community Press does not necessarily endorse and cannot be held responsible for the views expressed by contributors.

Dear Sir:— With your permission I would like to renew the discussion on our Medical and Hospital Plan

It is to be regretted that the Medical Assn. sees fit to oppose the smooth working out of the plan. The American Medical Assn. has built up a fund of over 5 million dollars to oppose and discredit the National Health Plan as proposed by President Truman, and which by the way he is hurried from his chief the late Mr. Roosevelt. Anyone who has read the statistics compiled for the spanning of the plan cannot help being impressed by the urgent need in the U.S. for its adoption. But regardless of its purpose of saving life and shift ed attention to the sick and needy, the AMA is organized to oppose it By seeking the support of Congress, and by lobbying, it will be a wonder if it gets by Congress. Surely it will not be as broad as the original plan was intended to be I mention this because it seems to me that if the Medical Profession in Canada is opposing our health units it is because of our close relation to the American Assn. What they oppose will be reflected in the Canadian Assn. It is interesting to note however that the U. S. Government does not propose to interfere with existing institutions, and anyone who wishes to engage any Dr could do so at his own expense. Evidently the first of these to benefit would be those who are deprived of medical services at present, chiefly those in the low income group. Coming back to our own district, even supposing the action of the M.A. succeeds in wrecking our plan, it is no way relieves the Municipal Council of responsibility regarding health for the citizens of the M.D., and as a Municipality we will still foot the bill for indigents. So why deprive us of services we are compelled to give to others? It is not with any undue respect for sanitation Indigents, as with the condition of people during the last depression due to falling prices we shall practically all be in the class. In some respects we are worse off than we were then. The land we fairly and we had long roads at a minimum. Now with the change from the horse to high-priced much heavy together with a much higher price for gasoline (7.50 at that time and about $15 a barrel now) it is impossible to produce a crop now with out a good deal of cost. Some of our leaders tell us we shall have to cut down on costs. Well we should have lower prices on oils and gasoline lower handling cost at elevators lower freight, lower costs on milling our wheat, lower costs on grading and processing. These costs are large ly out under our control The Government should assume at least 50 percent of the cost of education, as they are the ones responsible for the enlarged school units with its ever increasing taxation. The ratepayer has absolutely no say. There is no question in my mind that if the citizens are deprived of health services, that education will take over. Our taxes will be the same, but we shall be the poorer in health as well as in the purse. — W. B. Meelder.

Progress In The Arctic

THAT PART OF CANADA which is adjacent to the Arctic Ocean raises up a large proportion of the total area of the country, and it has been advocated by those who are familiar with the climate and geography of the South that more attention should be given to settling and developing that extensive territory. Air services and radio communications will be early factors which helped to bring the North into closer contact with the rest of Canada and of strategic importance during the war brought about rapid and extensive development there. Since the war there has been further activity in mining, fishing and the opening of numerous weather stations.

Train Natives For New Work

These developments have shown the need for wider educational opportunities for the native population, which must become adjusted to the changing environment of the country. Col. F. B. Neary, superintendent of welfare and education for the Indian Affairs Branch of the Dominion government recently told of new types of education which are being made available to the Eskimos and Indians of the North. Day schools are at present being built by the government for the natives at a number of points including Coppermine, Fort Norman and Hay River, on Great Bear Lake. Eskimos are said to show natural ability for mechanics and wider opportunities will be given to the more promising students at largely technical schools in Yellowknife and Edmonton. They will receive instruction in trading, weather instruments, operating internal combustion engines and other technical subjects while girls will be trained in nursing and teaching. All will learn English.

* * * * *

New System is More Practical

It is expected that as a result of this programme the natives will be trained to work in the mines, hydro-electric power stations and other projects and that they will eventually become fitted to assume the responsibilities of citizenship. In the past, Indians and Eskimos have been educated at residential schools and many people familiar with the North believed that these schools did not fit the young people to live in their own environment. The new system is considered to be much more practical, and to be a milestone in the development of the Arctic area. For the native population it will mean a step toward fuller participation in the economic activities which are springing up around them, and toward Canadian citizenship.

To Investigate Farm Lands In Mexico

LETHBRIDGE — Alberta's 4,000 Hutterites were reported to have sent a delegation of representatives to Mexico to "investigate" possible acquisition of farm land there on creed the religious sect decides to leave Canada.

High-ranking Hutterite spokesmen here said the delegation represents all colonies of the sect in Alberta.

Not one of the Hutterite colonies is thinking of leaving right now," they said. But we want to have a good place picked out for a time if we need it. We want to be prepared."

WHEAT FLOUR OUTPUT FOR DOMINION SHOWS DROP

OTTAWA — Production of wheat flour totalled 19,867,000 barrels last year, a drop of 11 per cent. from 1940, the Bureau of statistics reported.

Production was the lowest of any year since 1940 when 16,271,000 barrels were produced.

Exports of flour dropped 22 per cent. to 9,686,000 barrels compared with 12,378,000 the year before.

The best grasslands in Europe are in northern France.

Canada's Total Trade Down Last Year

OTTAWA — In the face of tightening world markets, Canada's total exports dropped slightly last year. But exports to the vital United States market were the highest in history—$1,503,459,000 compared with $1,500,000,000 in 1940 and nearly seven times more than in 1939.

Total exports were $2,903,000,000, compared with $3,018,000,000 in 1940, and $437,600,000 in 1939, the bureau of statistics reported.

Total import figures for that year have not yet been compiled. For the first 11 months of the year imports were $2,347,800,000.

A sharp drop, however, was reported for exports in December. They were valued at $283,500,000 compared with $316,400,000.

Exports were higher in the United Kingdom and Latin America, but lower to Europe.

Biggest export gross was wood and wood products, valued at $673,-000,000, a drop from $682,700,000 the year before. Exports of farm products were higher, reaching $778,-000,000 compared with $642,700,000.

The bureau reported that much of the increase in exports to the U.S. occurred in the last two months of the year, after the declaration of the Canadian dollar. But late in the year, however, exports dropped to other markets.

Sales to Britain were $704,854,000, an increase from $390,914,000 in 1940.

Missionary Tells Of Being Attacked By Wolves--Kill Dogs

ANCHORAGE, Alaska—An Alaskan missionary on a mercy mission was attacked by a pack of ravenous wolves three days and one night ago, his sled dogs, ripped their harnesses to shreds and ran off in a frenzy after a caribou herd, Rev. Everett Bachelder of the Wasilla, Alaska, Children's Home said in a letter received here.

He sat by a camp fire for five days while the wolves surrounded his dog team begged darts in deep snow.

He left Wasilla by dog team for Chitina, Alaska, some 600 miles away. He wanted to distribute clothing to native families en route. He said he was going fine the first two days but on the third day he struck a bear snow near Slyder Creek.

His dog team became bogged down and suddenly about 10 wolves appeared. He fled into the wood by his dogs during the day and burned fires at night to keep the wolf pack away.

On the fifth day he decided to give up the trip and abandon the sled and all the dogs except two, which he used for pack animals.

He said he was walking about four miles an hour. Beginning in the remote sheep mountain area when one of the dogs strayed from his side silently the wolves pounced on it.

New Stamp Design Shows Oil Industry

OTTAWA — The major contribution of Alberta's booming oil industry to Canada's post-war economy will be recognized by a newly-designed 50-cent postage stamp.

The new issue, to appear March 1, is green in color and the same size as the current 50-cent stamp, about 1½ by 1 inch.

The attractive design shows an Alberta oil field scene with two large oil derricks jutting into the sky, two oil storage tanks and a burning natural gas flare.

In the background, against the rolling foothills of the Canadian Rockies, a dark spume of oil and smoke heralds the birth of a new well.

Plants of the sater family growing in New Zealand are covered with what looks like white wool, and from a distance, resemble tiny sheep grazing among the rocks.

Herring Haul To Hit Record

VANCOUVER. — Herring production in B.C. is expected to be a record high during the 1940-50 season, Attorney-gen. 115,714 tons, some 600 tons ahead of this time last year, the total is still climbing.

Rich beds are being reported each day by radio telephone from the fleet off the north coast, despite the worst winter in the province's history.

The use of the January catch is shown graphically by the fact that at the end of December the tonnage was 8,000 below last year. This has been made up and passed however, by recent hauls.

Most herring is going into oil and meal, with only 15,000 cases being packed so far. Demand for the meal is firm, but oil is not so good and only about 2½ millions gallons have been produced so far.

Alberta Leads Trend To B.C.

VICTORIA Despite B.C.'s severe winter, 3258 new families have found a home from other parts of Canada so far this year.

Figures released by W. B. Hose, regional director of family allowances, show most of the new immigrants came from Alberta. The province sent 244 families and received 169 from B.C.

Saskatchewan was second sending 144 and receiving 66.

Only province to reverse the flow was Ontario which sent 60 and received 66 families.

Allowance payments continued their steady increase. During January $1,772,807 was paid to 296,727 children in 155,161 families.

A light heart lives long.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

The class took the afternoon off to visit the town reservoir. The following day the teacher instructed them to write an essay on "An Interesting Place I Visited Over the Week-end".

The class was very busy for some time, then a little girl raised her hand, "Miss Finch," she asked, "in waterworks all one word or do you spell it with a hyphen?"

* * * * *

"It's not much good going to the meeting if you're perplexed."

"I'm not perplexed. I'm going with an ambition and open mind to listen to what I'm convinced will be absolute rubbish."

* * * *

"No," replied the mother, "I don't think I shall buy a book for my little boy, because the other day he nearly swallowed one."

"Well," and the insistent salesman, "we have some nice ones that could chew you."

* * * * *

"What is the object of hippopotamus?" asked the teacher.

There was no answer from the class.

"Come, Tommy?" suggested the teacher.

Tommy stood up.

"Hippopotamus, oh, well, who'd want more than one, anyway?" he remarked.

"My wife says that if I died she would remain a widow."

"Evidently she thinks there's not another man like you."

"No, she's afraid there is."

Many Applicants For Girls' Band

BRANDON, Man. — Applications for places in the Canadian-American School Girls' band have been received from schoolgirl musicians in 38 states and five provinces, it was learned.

The band sponsored by a Brandon service club, is being organized by Arthur R. Thompson of Shoal Falls, B.C. It will consist of 50 girls who will be given a months training here next July. The band will then tour South America and western Europe.

No applications from eastern Canada have been received yet, officials said.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

The Note In The Purse

Maybe There Was A Purpose To All This.

By HAROLD HELFER

SAM looked at the note again. The writing had been scrawled in haste and perhaps in anguish. But the message was starkly clear. "To whom it may concern: If anyone finds this purse I want the finder to have my expensive bridal trousseau. And to be a burden (bad bless) all other days above the hundredth. Charlotte Day."

Sam was hurrying, he was almost late. In the purse he had stolen there was an identification card bearing the name Charlotte Day and an address in the boarding house section of the city. Anything that would help a lush skirting on the river.

He washed his hand opened it right next to an alley instead of waiting until he had got home. Now street's minute, every second, might count.

It was the first time in twenty years that anything like this had happened to him. He had been about to pocket the $17.00 which would a bad take and destroy the note. Then, as if a sudden, he ran into a barrel on the alley.

Both pals Elmer Hansmann, bootlegging workers from the air, sighted the wreckage of the shed. He landed on the snow and found the ripped remains of the dogs, the harnesses chewed to ribbons and the cargo in shambles.

He reported the incident to Deputy Marshal Bill Bourcens and Highway Patrolman Al C. Lubeke, who returned to the scene and found personal papers that led them to believe Bachelder might be dead.

They investigated at the mission and found him safe. Asked why he didn't report the incident, he replied: "Why should I report it?" Thanks be to God I'm alive."

Turkeys For Market

Ten thousand turkeys await the "axe" on the Craig turkey farm in Clover Bar, Alta. In the background is the ultra-modern roosting platform.

A line of Diesel Powered Route turkeys now days's kill on Mr. H. S. Craig's farm at Clover Bar, near Edmonton, Alta.

Farmers Assisting Nature On Land

CLIMAX, Sask. O. R. Hunt and George Swan, two progressive farmers of Climax district, have devoted to assist nature by holding snow on their farms during winter.

Using home-built snowplows, they are plowing ridges of snow at regular distances across the summerfallow land. These ridges act as snow fences and keep an even distribution of snow on the land which they expect will provide ample moisture to give a good start to the spring-sown crops.

They also used their plows to keep the roads open for themselves and neighbors from their farms to town.

Be content—but never satisfied.

Says Northern Farmers Destroy Fertility Of Soil

SASKATOON A. E. Wilson superintendent of Melfort experimental farm, said farmers in the northern park belt were destroying fertility and losing top soil by the same destructive tillage methods used in southern areas.

But they were doing it at a more alarming rate because the grey wooded soils of the park belt would not stand as much abuse as prairie soil.

Large crops in northeast Saskatchewan, he said had led to the belief that there was absolutely moisture and good soil all through the park belt. He told the agriculture representatives' conference the annual rainfall was much more than at Swift Current, though evaporation was greater in the south.

In their hurry to cash farm the land he said northern farmers are spreading bush with bulldozers and reducing the water levels in the soil thus hastening the same conditions

Makes Trip From Churchill To The Pas By Dog Team

THE PAS, Man. — Walter Fuller stocky dog handler who will compete in the Manitoba Trappers festival dog derby here next month, made The Pas after a gruelling 350-mile trip from Churchill. It was the first time in 30 years that the trip from Churchill to The Pas has been made by dog team. The trip took a month, Fuller resting his dogs along the route.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Looking through the window at a bunch of farmers tossing the dirt around, I wonder if everyone does really realize Why have so many of them got double chins?

Mr and Mrs P Howes were the modern visitors last week. Geo. Riddell was on the job during absence.

The T and D Cowlson families were on business at Camrose.

George Peters has his chin hanging up due to an infection. Hope it is nothing serious.

John Johnson has returned from a week end in Edmonton. John is planning some changes in the farm before the summer is over.

Mrs Chanda was a Sedgewick visitor last week assisting at the W. I. anniversary banquet.

It's great to be young. The kiddies all had a field day on Valentine Day with school parties where everyone exchanged valentines, ate hot dogs, drank pop etc. There was none of that when I was young.

Born—To Mr and Mrs L P Robert son (nee Yvonne Phelps) at Ottawa General on a son. Congratulations.

We are glad to report that Mrs J. Jack is getting along fine at the U of A. hospital and is able to be up and around for short periods. We all hope to see her home soon.

Mr. Jack Johnson of the C P R section at Holt has been transferred to the Sedgewick division.

Lloyd Johnson of Edmonton was here on a short visit to his mother, Mrs I C (Grandma) Johnson.

Carden Wyle left last Friday for a visit with relatives in Edmonton.

Mr and Mrs E. A. Bullard from Stevens were here Tuesday of last week and were dinner guests of their grandson Glenn Bennett.

Harry Barton is sporting a brand new Chev truck as he backs the more drive on the rural routes.

Well, if other towns can have a Board of Trade why not Lougheed? We should try anything smart.

Congrats and best wishes to the newlyweds, Mr and Mrs John Rose.

Mrs T Wayman, who has been taking care of her mother, Grandma Marlow, has returned to her home in Calgary. Mrs R MacIntyre, a former Hardisty resident, is now taking care of Grandma, who is progressing very favorably.

We are pleased to hear that Mrs. Roy McClure, who has been a patient in an Edmonton hospital, has been discharged and that her husband who had the misfortune to break his leg a short time ago, is recovering nicely and able to get around in a cast. We hope that brand of luck in all behind them and a only the silver brand awaits them in the future.

As they say at the races, 'they're off'. Denham and Kenny left Friday for Edmonton where a special train will pick up John Deere agents for a tour of the different plants of the C O in the U.S. As they will live right in the special cars which will be established at the various plants, there will be no worry about hotel accommodations. They expect to drive a tractor and tiller back. If the weather holds out they hope they soak a couple of shovels along. During their absence Mrs Denham is in charge of the business and Geo. Marlow is wheeling Tom's school bus.

A bunch of our local students attended the high school party at Strome on the 13th and all report a good time.

Well, they have started again; the annual rash of chain letters has once more broken out. Each year a little different wording but always promising untold fortunes if you continue the chain, and threatening death and destruction if you break it. It's bad about beer so far and it always seems to me there must be a couple of lines missing in the think tank of senders.

A teacher's and families banquet was held at Killam last Saturday night. Rink rats from various surrounding towns attending. Lougheed was represented by Mr and Mrs Geo. Marlow and Mr and Mrs Dave Walmsley. They did not bring home the bacon, but had a lot of good fun.

Mrs. Derek Collins arrived here from Glengarry, Scotland on the 16th to join her husband who had arrived about a year previous and had made his home here with his cousin Mr T Clouston Jr. Mrs Collins left Glengarry on the 1st, lost 1 day at Coast, and while this is not excessive speed at this day of planes, it still is pretty good time. The Collins intend to remain here at a place to be decided at a later date. Mrs Collins says she is not going to wait to see if she likes the country, 'she is going to like it'. That's the spirit we like to see and we say welcome to Alberta, your new home. On the whole we think it was a nice valentine for Derek.

John Wright was a business visitor in Edmonton last week.

February seems a month of birthdays and while they were not all present below they were very close to it, and some mother cause Mrs. Laing what a lovely valentine to Wayne Whitehead, Allan McCoy, Mrs. B Whitehead; Cyril Kinross V. C.; Geo Riddell and Miss J McIntosh. We will just say many happy returns.

Mrs Probst Sr., Miss Veronica Mellas and Harold Probst motored to Edmonton last week for a few day relaxation and change of scenery.

Owen Clouston of Edmonton is paying a short visit to his parents and Mrs. T. Clouston Sr. Miss Betty Blain of Daysland is also a guest at the elder Clouston.

Andy Gardiner Jr. was a Camrose visitor last week.

That snow storm and wind played havoc with the roads again. The snow plow boys are sure not getting a break. The school buses and rural mail carrier are bucking some tough going, but the children and some of us once even to be enjoying it. I watch ed a little lady building a snowman the other day, quite an artistic bit of sculpture, even to lobing for some kind of a modern version of giving him hips and shoulders.

Well, my reputation has been upheld, I had my Editor here and he verified my last weeks door story.

All roads seemed to lead to Sedgewick last Saturday to the I.S.A. meeting; and with 11 Lougheed ites entered in Sedgewick spiel it looks as if next week will see a repetition.

Last week in the Theatre Bulletin Board, it said in big letters — 'John Loves Mary'. Now tongues are wagging and everyone wonders who John is. Reminds me of the time my stenographer came home fro college. Grandma was commenting on how well she looked and how she had put on some weight. I see, says Sue proudly — I weigh 122 stripped for Gym. Grandma dropped her paper and pulled, 'Jim Who?'

Last week, much against my principles I bought a ticket on a hockey pool; I got Toronto 3. When I came in at end of 1st period the score was 2 Toronto and two periods to go. I'd have taken half my original investment. Not my chance, so left for affairs to do a little work. When game was over friend wife came to inform me I had won. I felt very bad about getting the money that way so decided I would buy another ticket this week and give some of it back. I do. Toronto 5; tossed in at end of the 1st period and the score was Detroit 2 Toronto 5 and with Detroit's crying vacation for coming Toronto on their own ice, I left for office again feeling I had given some of my ill-gotten gains back. Friend wife just informs me the game is over and I win again 4 to 3 in over time and Detroit. Guess I will go to the Legion Bingo and eat some hot dogs and bark around with the other old crowns. It's getting kinch monotonous.

In the Hardisty Ladies Bonspiel on Saturday the rinnie four from Lougheed, composed of Mrs. D. Whitehead; Mrs L Reed; Mrs Geo Riddell and Mrs J Birchill, captured the G. C. B. 6 straight games. Ladies, take a bow, we salute you with the new streamers and all.

Just got back from the Bingo; gooseberry, good prizes and good fun; but no good luck for yours truly. Oh yes, good dogs pie and coffee and now goodnight until next week. Something now has been added; a table service lunch for the players; next night we are equiping the waiters with roller skates. Miss Rosemary Cochran was the grand prize of the Bingo night.

A number of old time neighbours surprised Mr. W. Briscoe on Friday Feb. 17th by calling at his home to offer him best wishes on his 73rd birthday. We wish to add our congratulations even though late.

TREACHEROUS DRIVING CONDITIONS AHEAD

BE WISE- FOLLOW THESE SIX RULES FOR Safe Driving During March Weather

1. It's going to be icy during early morning and night hours. Get the feel of the road or highway by trying your brakes while driving slowly and while no other vehicles are near.
2. Keep your windshield and windows clear of ice, fog and frost. Be sure your headlights, windshield wipers and defrosters are in good working order. Be on the lookout.
3. Adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. Slow down on wet, snowy or icy roads as you can stop when you have to.
4. Use tire chains on ice and snow. They cut braking distances as much as 40 or 50 per cent and provide "go" traction.
5. When you have to stop, pump your brakes up and down — jamming them on may lock the wheels and throw your car into a spin or skid.
6. Follow other vehicles at a safe distance remember that it takes 2 to 12 times as far to stop on snow or ice as on dry road.

Death Be Not Proud

(By Joseph Lister Rottledge)

WE CAN TAKE A MEASURE OF PRIDE in the progress we have made in the past quarter century in the age-long battle against disease and death. Search the years ag the death rate in Canada, per thousand of population was 12.1 a year. Two years ago it had dropped to 9.6 per thousand. In 1926 we had 27,602 infant deaths; in 1947 we had only 10,336. In 1926 the toll of the great scourge of childhood, diphtheria, stood at 1,600; whooping cough stood at 1,513. In 1947, with the population almost half as large again, both these causes had dropped to 401 and 77 respectively. But is it enough, when it could so easily be better?

Story Has Message John Gunther in that heart-rending story of the struggle to save his boy's life that he titled Death Be Not Proud has a message for us all. He had the pitiful story of Johnnie's blundering efforts to be "one of the boys" and his other people into the fight. Death had no ground for pride. It had won only by an exhausted and suspicious opponent. Everything that human knowledge or science or sympathy could provide had been flung into the world's battle against the ancient foe. And now that the world looks towards comrade no our forefathers conceded that suffering was the inevitable lot of mankind—our Christian fortitude. Yet, hopefully, many can benefit by such a doctrine. We are ready to call Death brave because he could not overcome us—we ask the obvious reward that we ought to be brave ourselves. We have raised childless arms, and the lives of adults flee. All that is true. But we could have saved many of them. We have, through neglect of obvious and available remedies. Why shouldn't Death be proud?

This is Our Battle Though Tetanol is an effective protection against some of the great killers, it is not mandatory to most of the prosperous of Canada. We prefer to take our chances. Though Tetanol is an absolute protection against that arch-murderer of childhood, diphtheria, still, as late as 1947, 1,155 children had to make their own small fight against it, and 139 of them lost. Typhoid, that once decimated whole populations, can be easily and cheaply defeated. Yet Death could look with pride on communities where it has been defeated—not years ago—but this year. There are many agencies engaged in this great warfare with disease. Not the least important is the Health League of Canada that is working with the medical profession and the Health Departments of the various provinces. But we could have saved many of them. We need them, through neglect of obvious and available remedies. Why shouldn't Death be proud?

FLIN FLON TO OFFICIALLY OPEN NO. 10 HIGHWAY

FLIN FLON, Man.—This northern town's first link by road with the outside world will be official June 24 when the extended No. 10 highway will be opened during celebrations termed the "biggest" in Flin Flon's history.

The highway was first suggested as a post-war project and the original route was drawn by Mayor Cyril Shoniker, then surveyor John Middleton and W. Barker a Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting company engineer.

At the time the No. 10 highway extended to Rest Lake, 18 miles north of The Pas.

The new highway will serve The Pas Manitou, Cranberry Portage and Flin Flon. The original government estimate was $1,349,491.

Alberta Farmers To Receive Millions Under P.F.A. Act

EDMONTON. — Payments to Alberta farmers in crop failure areas under the federal Prairie Farm Assistance Act now amount to nearly $2 millions, L. H. S. Rowbotham, P.F.A. superintendent for Alberta, has announced.

Cheques have been issued since Dec. 1 to more than 3,000 Alberta farmers. It has been estimated total payment on 1949 crop claims in the province will amount to appr ximately $3.5 millions.

Claims being paid have been received from farmers living in nearly 1,500 townships in Alberta where the wheat yield average was below eight bushels per acre.

This year the crop was of such a poor nature that there has been a great variation in yield. For instance, in one area, a farmer's wheat yield was four bushels per acre. While his neighbor across the road took off 50 bushels per acre.

Thinks Women Too Reticent

EDMONTON. — Canadian women should be more outspoken, Miss Mary Ingraham Bunting, president of the Canadian Council of Women, said in an interview here.

"Since the last election, when no woman were elected to Parliament, I think we could do with a little outspokenness," she said. "If women are to speak for their rights at all, it might as well be in concert."

Miss Wright stressed the need for a provincial council of women in Alberta, the only province without one.

MONEY FOR CANCER

B.C. Lumber Men Get Huge U.K. Contract

OTTAWA — The United Kingdom has placed orders in British Columbia lumber yards for almost 95 per cent. of her wartime coast lumber requirements for the first half of 1950, informed sources said.

Bidding against United States competitors, B.C. shippers were last awarded contracts for approximately 82,000,000 board feet out of a total approximate allocation of 87,000,000

Thus, for the first half of 1950, B.C. shippers will supply the U.K. with 82,000,000 board feet and American shippers only with 5,000,000.

The source said the Canadians captured the lion's share because of contracts because of lower bids made possible through devaluation of the Canadian dollar.

Exact prices involved were not known. It is believed they averaged about $70 per 1,000 board feet. The contracts were signed by Douglas Fir Exports Ltd. for some hemlock and cedar.

This is the first contract for B.C. lumber since the third quarter of 1949 when the U.K. divided a $10,000,000 order between B.C. and western U.S. shippers. Canada got 60 per cent. of the contract.

To Build Comest Plant At Red Deer

EDMONTON. — Western Canada Ltd., President Melvin Hough has announced the immediate building at Red Deer in central Alberta of a new cement plant which it estimates will cost about $3½ millions, including equipment. Western Canada will market heavily on a continued high level of Prairie construction, will try to meet the persistent shortage of cement which has plagued builders in the region despite completion in Canada Cement at Exshaw, Alta., in May, 1949, at a considerable annual capacity there.

Capacity at Red Deer will be 2,000 barrels a day. Equipment is scheduled for delivery in February or March, for first production next summer. The 35-acre plant site has been procured from Canadian Pacific and will sour right-of-way grades. Rock necessary to supply the plant will be at Nordegg. Gypsum will be from Manitoba or B.C.

Programme for Trade Recovery Calls for Exchange Stabilizer

Canada's reputation, achievement and strength offset anxieties caused by world conditions — development of resources, increased population and foreign trade needed

A five-point programme for world recovery was a feature of James Muir's Presidential address at the Annual Meeting of shareholders of the Royal Bank of Canada. Mr Muir also stressed Canada's economic development and her continuing role in world economy.

Reviewing international currency developments during the 19th and 20th centuries, Mr Muir referred to the "period of instability from 1914 to 1939." "Several important factors contributed to the latter part of this period, of the sterling standard from 1931 onwards, to the exchange parities which they were able to maintain with the dollar, and to the movements of prices and money incomes. Events, however, were willing to accept the de...pite of the gold standard and its alignments under the rules of that standard, in the price and income relationships which their trading position required. And third, the world's greatest creditor, Great Britain, made sound sterling available through the vigorous international lending of her financial and business community and by the free movement of her general capital.

COMBINE PAST, PRESENT

"In meeting any emergency we must remember the lessons of the past with inventiveness and imagination in the present. In the past as in any relatively normal period, responsibility for the maintenance of international economic stability was divided between the creditor and debtor nations of the world. Both of the period immediately following the second world war this responsibility lay with the creditor nations, and in meeting the responsibility the United States and Canada, by the vigorous development programs of loans and gifts to the countries of Europe through

"Countries of Europe through their own efforts and with the help of loans and gifts from abroad, have made a remarkable recovery from the war standard. Further progress in production would be of immeasurable benefit but the immediate problem has become not production as such but production for sale for dollars or some hemisch and cedar.

PRESIDENT ADVOCATES FIVE STEPS TOWARD WORLD TRADE REVIVAL

Declaration has at least broken the log jam; but we must take immediate advantage of this initial break in the barriers to trade. ... e back have been thrown up by overvalued exchange rate and rigorous trade and exchange controls.

"The steps, in my opinion, are as follows:

"First, statesmen of the world should re-learn a basic lesson of the first half of this war, and settle their wardebts ...

"Second, for a certain fixed period we should let the market decide exchange rates. The rules of the standard, in the price and income relationships which their trading position required. ### THE CANADIAN ECONOMY

Mr. Muir discussed the Canadian economy in 1949 under four main heads: "(1) Canada's domestic trade; (2) Canada's trade with the United States; and (4) Canada's foreign trade.

(1) Canada's Reputation. Mr Muir said: "Canada is at once the beneficiary of free enterprise, a model of wisdom of government regulation; the envy of an admirable private banking system and of the best practices in efficient business. Both contain the strongholds of a sound conservative tradition and the home of interesting experiments in political and economic thought.

"We don't have to be too modest, if we are sometimes inclined to be, to spare ourselves an inferiority complex about the international investment to which it may give rise. As a matter of fact, our international ... is unique, ... much; not all of it is good, but the power for good is there; and in 1949, as in previous years, our good ... better still over the next decade and many more to come. We have the essential elements that ensure us a little time to bring about an ... ... These sources of economic strength are our natural resources and the temper of our people.

"Canada's ... natural resource is her working population. Here, as with our forests, mines, and oil fields, we must practice conservation through the wise and economical use of what we have. But to parallel our new discoveries and to ensure their full and efficient use we must embark on a bold policy of ... ... in this way we can increase the quantity of the raw resource that is in short supply. In this way we can remove the one factor that sets a ... some degree by increased sales to the United States.

"The least transferable of our major export commodities is wheat, and wheat flour." In this case, he pointed out, "selling is difficult due to large exportable surpluses of those products within the United States. To finance wheat exports through the United States or United Kingdom would mean a return to our lending policy of 1945-46 and a return to our dollar-short position of 1947."

(3) Trade. The maintenance of our present level of trade would be an increase in our imports from Europe and especially from the United Kingdom, or increased dollar earnings by these countries in their trade with the United States.

"To attempt this shift through tariffs would be unwise. Canada and the United States would be a move inevitably to higher rigid exchange controls with all the disadvantages of such a step for ourselves and for the world economy. Fortunately, the recent devaluations of sterling and other currencies for precisely the shift we have in mind — without an increase in controls ...

"The plain truth is that Canada's domestic prosperity depends upon our handling of a complicated foreign-trade problem. And in the final analysis both our domestic prosperity and the future of world trade itself will depend upon a concerted international effort by all nations to return along the path we outlined above — that is, along the path to multilateral world trade unhampered by exchange restrictions, bilateral pacts, and all the paraphernalia of government control."

(4) Canada's Strength. "It is refreshing to turn from Canada's difficulties in the next few months to the bright prospects over the next few years, or better still over the next decade and many more to come. We have the essential elements that ensure us a little time to bring about an economic adjustment to any national emergency. These sources of economic strength are our natural resources and the temper of our people.

(2) Canada's Reward. Mr Muir brief...ed Canada's international economic conditions in 1949. The year saw "a further increase in Canada's industrial plant and equipment, the maintenance of the high levels of consumption attained in 1948, and the continued expansion of the gross national product beyond the billion dollar mark." He also noted too that "Canada is one of the few countries to-day that can represent a substantial budget surplus, and not only contribute to world trade, but it turns prosperity to good account by improving the credit of the government."

(3) Canada's Weakness. Mr Muir referred in some detail to Canada's export position and her vulnerability to the current unbalance in international trade. After summarizing Canada's trade in 1949, two main conclusions were stressed: "First, our over-all surplus with the world is dwindling; and, second, our direct earnings of dollars through exports to the United States is becoming relatively more important than our indirect earnings of dollars through trade with U.S.-financed Europe."

Mr. Muir referred to the danger of using established markets in Europe but "the continued failure of our overseas customers to earn sufficient dollars, through trade and investment rather than through gifts from the dollar area may force us to realign our trade. That is, we may have to manipulate the construction of traditional markets in Europe offset to

General Manager Reports Assets, Deposits Are Up

Mr. T. H. Atkinson, General Manager, reviewed the 1949 Annual Report and stated that the bank's assets had risen by $132,498,000 during the year to $2,331,940,000. Deposits reached a record $2,177,000,000. Of the total liabilities to the public, $2,131,000,000 had also increased. Mr. Atkinson reported deposits at a new all-time high of $2,127 million, an amount two-and-a-half times that of 9 years ago. The number of deposit accounts totalled nearly 2,000,000 which included more than 1,000,000 savings accounts in Canada. An increase of $1,000,000 in profits over the previous year was noted by Mr. Atkinson and after provision for the customary dedu tions, the balance was $4,125,000 and distributed to shareholders there was a carry forward in Profit and Loss Account of $5,000,512.

IMPROVED FACILITIES

Referring to the provision of new premises, Mr. Atkinson said: "Since one last report eleven new branch offices have been constructed at points where facilities were inadequate and where extension of existing premises was impracticable, and at forty-six points improvements and extensions of a major character have been completed. ... In order to better serve the public in districts which are expanding we opened twelve branches and six sub-branches in Canada. At the year-end we were operating 685 branches in Canada and 62 abroad."

SERVICE TO TRADERS

Mr. Atkinson referred to the role played by the Royal Bank's 62 branches abroad in facilitating foreign trade "For well over a quarter of a century we have operated an extensive chain of our own branches in foreign countries that, at certain points we have re-established for more than a generation. And so at November 30, 1949, we had 62 offices which, with our correspondents, cover every ...rtion of the major South American Republics. ... maintain the Caribbean area and, of course, we are established in London, England and New York City, and our affiliate operates in Paris, France ...

HOUSE OF HIGH

A warm tribute to the bank staff was paid by Mr. Atkinson. "There is nothing this Bank is prouder of than the efficiency and devotion of its staff," he said. "Whatever success we have had in building up the business ... is due to the loyal cooperation ... of the whole staff. ... The ... ... language as the young people who are ... ... ing the same route, and they are united in trying to make their associations as pleasant as possible ..."

PRESENT LIMIT

The present limit to the growth of our ... industrial wealth is not the supply of the few hundred millions of U.S. dollars ... ... but the present ... ... difficulties pale to insignificance."

In the development of economic independence does not mean a reduction in the ... ... but rather the turn over ... ... necks on the interdependence of nations ... ... ...

EXERCISE SWEETBRIAR TO PROVE SMALL ARMY COULD TAKE ALASKA

By R. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Canadian Correspondent)

Canadian and United States army and air force units will stage Exercise Sweetbriar in mid-February to test Arctic clothing and equipment and defend North America against a theoretical "enemy" aggressor across Alaska and Yukon winter ice and snow.

Fifty-five Sweetbriar is expected to involve approximately combined operations troops, moving from Edmonton Feb. 23. According to Canadian sources, about 2,500 Canadian and U.S. troops and 1,000 air force personnel will participate.

The object of the exercise are to test individual issues of equipment and clothing and to develop techniques, techniques and procedures for employing small Canadian United States armies and air forces in the far north.

The troops will journey by rail to Edmonton, thence by air to Alaska highway centres at Fort St. John, Fort Nelson and Fort Simpson in the Yukon Territory. The exercise, in that case, will be a real summer fight for the Arctic wasteland.

Mid-winter temperatures are known in expectation of temperatures will range as low as 50 below zero. This will necessitate the highest survival training. It will also make severe demands on supplies and equipment and various kinds of supplies.

Lt.-Gen. Stephen J. Chamberlin, commanding general of the United States Fifth Army, Chicago, will be the overall commander of Exercise Sweetbriar.

Group Captain P. A. Gaskiet of the Royal Canadian Air Force, commandant of the Canadian Joint Air Training Centre at Rivers, Manitoba, will be over-all commander of the Canadian and United States Air Force Units.

Working closely with General Chamberlin will be Maj. Gen. M. H. B. Pethick, commanding the Canadian Army's Western Command, and Air Vice Marshall High Campbell, commanding the Royal Canadian Air Force's Northwest Air Command, both with headquarters in Edmonton, Alberta, and Maj. Gen. Robert M. Lee, commanding general of the United States Air Force Tactical Air Command with headquarters at Langley Air Force Base, Hampton, Va.

Troops participating will include a battalion combat* team from both Canadian and U.S. armies, and service forces from both nations.

Preparations for Exercise Sweetbriar have been under way for months. Early last September advance elements of United States army engineers joined Canadian army engineers in the area of Whitehorse.

Wainwright Military Camp in Canada's Western Command has been issuing thousands of items of personal equipment for winter training in Exercise Sweetbriar. Mechanical equipment has been specially winterized for operation in the Arctic winter.

Canadians say the Ordnance Corps has issued more than 1,000 individual items, in addition to over 400 types of stores for the Canadian Signals. They have been practising these items since last July.

Canadian and United States armed forces have been experimenting with any various types of winter clothing and arctic other equipment near Hudson Bay. Some of the latest items developed will be used in Sweetbriar.

One new Arctic warfare item being issued by Canadians on a limited scale is sled. These are light and sturdy yet are capable of hauling fairly heavy loads. Fighting troops can carry such items as nylon tents, cooking stoves, shovels, food supplies, bed rolls, and extra Arctic clothing.

Arctic clothing provide both warmth, light and food are also being issued. These contain 50 per cent. food value per in weight. In an emergency, they the circulation of warm air

Clothes and food for winter fighting will be tested along with mechanical equipment in Exercise Sweetbriar, in the Yukon in February. L.-Cpl. F. B. Hannay of Winnipeg pressed hands from a rather pack at Wainwright camp, Alta., in pre-exercise training.—Central Press Canadian.

Lt.-Gen. Stephen J. Chamberlin will command Exercise Sweetbriar, which can be chewed like gum. Cartons carrying these candles have this label:

"Use sparingly you cannot burn your candle and eat it, too."

The Canadian army provides the description of 150-to-a-pound Arctic soldier.

By the time an infantryman dons the gear issued to him and the sentry, he's about 3 sizes larger than he was when he started.

"Each pointed toe places a gun in the hand of a shivering Arctic-trained sentry, who, in spite of the apparently bulky, but light and warm parka, the well-dressed Arctic soldier wears an open nylon vest next to his skin, which gives a greater

Beauty in The Fruit Shelves

By JANE DALE

Beauty is where you find it
You hear the poets say;
But beauty is my fruit shelves
When summer has sped away.

The ruby red of the prune plum,
The richness of the pear
Bring to my mind long sun warm'd hours
With bird song in the air

Strawberries in thick syrup
Recalls the scent of hay
Near warm beside the berry patch
On a breathless August day.

The brightness of the peaches,
Fragrance of autumn sun,
Recalls September's changing moods
When busy days were done

Each jar of tempting richness
Brings thoughts of glorious days;
And so throughout long barren months
That touch of beauty stays

Answer To Last Week's Puzzle

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By WILLIAM FERGUSON

On The Side —By— E. V. Darling

Are red-haired women really unusually hot tempered? In this connection attention is called to the autobiography of that celebrated redhead, Billie Burke, titled, "With a Feather On My Nose". In this Miss Burke freely confesses that in one argument with her husband, Flo Ziegfeld, she became so enraged she tore down the draperies in the room, and started tearing chinaware about. In another argument Miss Burke says she socked her spouse on the head with a soup tureen. So, young man, beware. Also all red-headed you are figuring on marrying may seem just to be hot tempered it might be wise for you when an argument comes on to forget to duck.

IMITATOR OR THINKER?

Does a parrot know what it is talking about or is it merely a sound imitator? There seems to be much evidence that some parrots definitely know what they are saying. A Natchez, Pa., subscriber says that a certain youth she and several schoolmates would always stop on the way to school to call for a girl named Hannah Jones. Every time the family parrot saw them coming it might be wise for you when an argument comes on to forget to duck. was at home the parrot would call out: "Hannah! The girls are here." If Hannah was not there the parrot would say: "Hannah's gone to school, girls!"

PIN-UP CALENDARS

That young fellow who decided to originate and put a pin-up boy calendar on the market certainly had a brilliant idea. Women of all ages are acquiring these calendars. The married women seem to be getting the greatest kick out of them. They hang them up somewhere in the vicinity of the pin-up girl calendars their husbands have brought home.

MARRIED LIFE

A sure fire angle in holding a husband is to "mother him". To "treat him like a little boy." That's what a commentator on life among the married claims. Our experts are not in agreement with this claim. They say "mothering" a husband can be overdone. That when a wife treats her spouse too much like a little boy he starts to think of her as a mother rather than a sweetheart. All wives should strive to maintain their sweetheart status and any system of husband handling which endangers that status should be eliminated.

Natural gas service for their town at present is not economically possible, delegates from seven towns along Highway 12 were told Friday by Hugh McK. Yeath, general manager of the Northwestern Utilities Limited.

The delegates were headed by Mayor Donald Cameron of Daysland. Reed Dayland, other towns represented were Hardisty, Lougheed, Sedgewick, Killam, Strome and Bawlf.

Mr. Yeath explained it is his company's policy to give gas service to all points wherever it is possible. But in this instance, he pointed out, populations of the towns concerned did not warrant it. He commented on the distance to the nearest gas pipeline and said have to be constructed, 28 miles from the main line to the Village gas well and to the would have to be constructed from Edmonton Journal

Dear Capt McGee

Please extend to your Cadets my sincere congratulations on receiving the highest efficiency award in the Northern and Southern Alberta area. A pleasure for Col. Blacker and myself to inspect your Corps, to note the neat and efficient manner in which you kept your stores.

Although your Corps has won the highest efficiency for the year 1949, I wish to emphasize that this does not mean that the Corps can sit back and rest on its laurels, as you yourself well know. Keep up the good work and repeat your performance in 1950.

Sincerely, Lout. T.F. Mead

Agreed to hold a card party at a later date. The Local will hold a banner and tea in Sedgewick in the fall. A quilt is to be made for this. Donation was made to Polio March of Dimes by means of envelopes given to members. Cards and donuts will be served at meeting of PUA in Co-op basement by a drive for larger membership.

Personal Stuff

— By A. W. B. —

There is a lack of space again this week in spite of the fact that extra pages are being run, so I am going to condense my remarks to a brief "grab you" to the electors of Sedgewick for their more than generous support at the poll last Monday. Since I did not make any promises before the election, I now feel that I have no obligation to meet, except to try and do these things which I remember in my last interest of ALL the ratepayers.

W M S Reports

The WMS met at the home of M. R. Bergum on February 22nd Owing to the absence of the President M Gaswell, the Vice, Mrs. McLean took the chair. Mrs. Smith presented the annual financial report for the past year. The Supply Sec. ## Thro' The Window At Lougheed [illegible] ...ekame to visit the daughter and the grandchildren at Caledonia.

Mrs. Robt. Jack and son of Sandy Mountain House are visiting here.

Congrats to Mr and Mrs Wilkins Calahaw on the birth of a daughter on Feb. 19th at Hardisty hospital.

The Henry Potters and Mrs. Milvin Oliver were in Camrose last week.

Mr and Mrs Cliff Redmon left last week for Red Deer where they expect to make their home for some time. Their son Dwayne will remain here for the school term with Reggie.

We are all glad to see Mrs. Jas. Jack back home again after a serious operation and illness in Edmonton. Kay accompanied her home.

Can you beat it? Says she, I didn't see a report of our games in the paper. Says I, "Did you give it to me" Says she, "No". Says I, "D——".

The way I think my news out, or should I say hand this around for the [illegible] it would be only a few [illegible] out and settle all the worrisome weighty questions such as U.N., the cold war, English Pound etc., I must say to him, "wont what do you think on Winnie now?" He gave me a funny look as he turned to go, and then he gave Alice a close run'. — "Oh! Jeff yes', says he, and kept on going. I thought maybe he was liberal and I had spoken out aforum, until frieze with says sweetly, "He wife's name is Winnie you know knew". Thinking it all over it was a heck of a question to fire at a guy.

Mrs Bruce McDougall and son Stan of Calgary are visiting for two weeks once over on their way to her old home in Heath where Stanley is in staking a paying address system in some of the halls.

I had a little note from our Revere, Tom and Syd, who are on a conducted tour of the Maritime provinces by U.S. potato.They say they are having a wonderful time, but weather is rotten, raining and cold. Not the dry cold they are used to. Tom says all the docrs they have seen so far have been closed.

The World Day of Prayer on Feb. 24th was held in the Lougheed Mar ...ness Church, with about twenty in attendance. Three taking active parts included, Mrs. T. Scott, Mrs. R. H McCracken, Mrs. Rod Butcher, Mr. A. Olsen, Mrs. Wm. Theron, Mrs O.W Probst and Miss Molly Pavey bought, with thankdrove being given by Mrs. (Grainger.

Don't overlook the announcement of the meeting to organize the Do... Scouts elsewhere in this issue. Don't blame the kids for getting into mischief if the parents won't take a bit of interest in them.

BELLSHILL NEWS

Mrs. Thos. Wayman has returned home to Calgary, and Mrs. MacIntyre of Edmonton is now taking care of Mrs. A B Marlow.

Mrs J B Marlow has been a patient in the Bengal this past few weeks, but we expect her home soon.

Wm. Albrecht is gradually recovering from the Mumps and Flu.

The R. Nicols and C Kingore were able to make trip to town by car recently. First time out for 3 months.

We notice Bill Green has "brush trail" twice without chance to use it. Third time may be successful Bill.

HARDISTY NEWS

Mrs. Orin Markwart (nee Miss Stiner) was wished every happiness from many friendly when they gathered at her grandparents on Sunday to honor the new bride. Mina was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Lynn Lake Becoming One Of Man. Leading Mining Centres

By AL VICKERY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LYNN LAKE, Man — The northern community has only 158 residents but it is fast becoming one of Manitoba's leading mining centres. Nine years ago Lynn Lake was making sand sand. Then a wandering prospector sighted an outcrop bearing nickle-copper sulphides on a rock knoll. Now, the Lynn Lake mine has been established in the area, 775 miles northeast of Flin Flon.

While little work has been done to build up the district, prospects are that Lynn Lake will take over from its sister mine at Sherridon, 165 miles south and slated to become a ghost town within a year.

Shareholders have been told there is not than two years' ore left at the copper-zinc mines at Sherridon, owned by the Sherritt-Gordon community which also operates the mine at Lynn Lake.

The building and sand still are here but a small core of buildings are opened up. Some of the buildings sank by the company.

Engineers have established a temporary township for the 20 families to operate with the contractors. A few houses are erected for the 20 children. Shopping facilities are available and there are clubrooms and recreational facilities.

A new programme for power development is being studied at nearby Granville lake on the Churchill river where there is an available potential of 100,000 horsepower.

Transportation in and out of Lynn Lake poses the biggest obstacle for the 35-mile southern Manitoban.

There is no railway—the Canadian National railway line runs only as far north as Sherridon. The only means of transportation is by truck or aircraft and the freight load is the same.

Certain plans already have been in operation periods of freight moving—using caterpillar tractors have brought in more than 3,000 tons of copper materials and equipment from Sherridon.

In the early stages, the tractors built out some 800 tons of sample ore. Other concentrates are being [illegible]

Former Sask. Man Wins Sales Honors

Mr. A. G. Quinn of Grangeville, Ont., and formerly of Stoughton and Yorkton, Sask., won the highest sales awards given by the Massey-Harris Co., of Canada in its salesmen and dealers. Mr. Quinn not only won the highest sales award for the province of Ontario, but also topped sales for the Dominion in 1949. The above picture shows Mr. Quinn, (left), receiving a cheque for $2,000 from sales Manager C. A. Sharpe, while Mrs. Quinn, formerly Miss Flora Rayburn of Yorkton, watches on.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel — And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Sure' to Go

The liver should pour out about 2 pints of bile into your digestive tract every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those bile-making organs to get those digestive juices flowing freely. Then your food digests and you feel "up and at 'em." Calomel is a time honored way to make bile flow freely. Ask your druggist for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Use as directed.

Anthropologist Studies Eskimos And Indians

VANCOUVER, B.C. — Eskimos' skulls and bow fashions might have the clue to whether man came to America via Africa's Sahara Desert or the Bering Strait, a Vancouver anthropologist said.

Dr. Von Koppi-Barraholz, a Viennese, rehich-blonde who once sculptured busts in Europe is busy trying to find out.

He is a collaborator at Vancouver's city museum, she spent six months among the Chilcotin Indians at their Anahim reserve in British Columbia's southern interior and was planning a trip further north this year.

In the meantime she was spending most of her time rebuilding an Eskimo skull found several years ago in the great Fraser Midden, B.C. Anthropologists and they believed the skull's presence indicated that Eskimos lived in northern British Columbia in the ice age.

"All the data," Dr. von Koppi said, would eventually add to man's knowledge of his prehistoric ancestors. It will make it possible to trace just what happened when man scattered to the four winds from his original birthplace, which until now was believed to be Africa."

Today is yesterday's pupil.

Snow fell gently upon the hill and dale.
Nothing like an understudy over a leading lady.

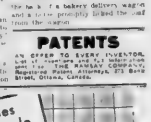
My best recipes taste better made with MAGIC!



CHEESE CORNMEAL FINGERS

Mix and sift into bowl, 1½ c. sour-sifted pastry flour, 1 c. yellow cornmeal, 2 tbsp. sugar, 2 tsp. Magic Baking Powder, ½ tsp. salt. Cut in finely 4 tbs. shortening and mix in cornmeal. 2 c. shredded cheese and 2 tbs. chopped parsley. Add 2 beaten eggs and milk with a fork, stirred for 1 minute on a lightly floured board and roll out to ½" thick rectangle. Cut in fingers and arrange, slightly apart, on greased baking sheet. Bake in hot oven, 450 deg. F., 15 mins. Serve hot with butter or margarine. Yield 1 dozen fingers

On The Side
—By— E. V. Durling

Sex foolers look well in a policeman's uniform but don't make the best officers. The most efficient policemen are about five feet eight inches in height. So states a police official. The six-foot-six-inch man is handy in a squad room, but when it comes to taking, handing and carrying out raids the average-sized policeman is more convenient. Any interesting details has often occurred to me that the height limit for policemen should not be applied to detectives. I figure any secret service fellow around five feet three inches in height might make good sleuths. Hardly anybody would suspect them of being detectives.

PEN PALS

Have heard of many "Pen Pal" marriages that have proved successful. I found the record for ending up in one. "Pen Pal" marriage especially interesting. A girl correspondent for two years with a U.S. marine she never met. Finally the girl wrote the marine and told him that on a certain date she was marrying another man. Twenty-four hours before the wedding the marine arrived in town, called on the girl, saying he just wanted to "see what she looked like". Well, to make it short, the girl eloped with the "Pen Pal" marine and left her fiance in the lurch.

DOUBLE DUTY

A Scotland Yard man named Dick Green has the special assignment of acting as a guard for the Princess Margaret. Practically everywhere Margaret goes Dick goes too. Naturally he has to dress up for the occasions. When the Princess attended the Ascot races Dick was right there all rigged out in formal afternoon clothes, gray topper and all. When the princess goes to a ball her bodyguard goes too, attired in formal clothes.

A GOOD QUESTION

What article of apparel worn by a man is first noticed and judged by women. I hesitate to give a definite answer to that. But I believe that one it may not be the first article of male apparel noted by a woman. A necktie is near the top of the list. A fellow with good taste in neckties stands a lot to a good start with a woman. One with bad taste in that respect is handicapped; has one strike on him right away.

ASHES

The most prolific mothers in Ireland are those of the County Fermanagh. As for example, Mrs. Maude Murphy, who in 32 years of marriage has had 26 children. Twenty-six single births and one pair of twins. . . A Japanese Lothario, a resident of Tokyo, has broken all records for marrying the most women in the least time. This Nipponese bigamist married 15 different women in 16 months!

RIGHT OR WRONG

You certainly have quite a collection of curious information," said my girl friend. The remark was inspired by her asking me what I thought of the man who is in New York claiming to be Jesse James, and I answered: "In his letter years Frank James, Jesse's brother, was a settling commissioner for Ben Holdreth, the horse trainer. Frank, according to Sam, said his brother Jesse had been killed as reported, but that it would never have happened had Jesse not made the mistake of going unarmed. Frank James had one chance to recover Sam Holdreth. There is no doubt Jesse James was killed in St. Joseph, Mo., in 1882."

PLEASANT NOTE

Handmaster Xavier Cugat and his blond bands are about to embark on their first tour of Europe. In Belgium, France and Swiss Senior Cugat will not be paid for his services in cash but in goods. The goods will be paid off in diamonds, in France in champagne, in Spain in olive oil. The senior will sell the goods thus acquired to American importers for cash. Or senior will sell the goods thus acquired to American importers for cash. Or so I am informed by his representative. Very interesting. Wonder how much olive oil Xavier and his band will get for playing a week's stand in Barcelona.

AS IT WAS

In the Victorian era in England women not only wore rings to indicate their married state but also bracelets which revealed how many children they had. On these bracelets were tiny golden hinged balls. The number of such balls indicated size of wearer's family. In each golden ball was a lock of child's hair, on the ball was inscribed the child's name. Quite an interesting idea at that. Perhaps it could stand a revival.

Hardisty Happenings

Mr. Jimmy Morrison was an Edmonton visitor on Monday last week

Mrs. H. Berg believes in the ma... adage, 'a change is as good as a rest' we see. She spent the past week in Camrose at the O'Riordon home while Miss filled her place in the store

Brenda Lakusta was discharged from hospital last week and is well on the mend after an operation Glad you are feeling better Brenda.

The mixed spiel began here last Wednesday but on far the results have not shown much as many games have been postponed because of the outside bonspiels. Perhaps we will have more on it next week.

Mrs Hobson Sr. has been on the sick list for a while, but your reporter, in talking to her daughter, Mrs Cyril Johnson, has learned that she is now feeling some better

The card party held last Thursday by the Rebekahs was well attended and much enjoyed Prizes went to Mr and Mrs Mervin Stuart and Mr and Mrs Charles Olson for first, and to Mrs Fraser, Mrs Longman and Mr and Mrs Albert Terry for second Consrats and thanks for coming

The very lovely cushion top made by Mrs. Ing Johnsrud and donated to the Lodge for raffle the night of the card party, was won by Mr King of Hughendon. It must have been a beauty for we hear several tried to buy it from him, but he refused.

Mrs. Red Mattson left Sunday for a few days in Edmonton.

Mrs. George Lemay is visiting in town Grace and George have been transferred from Provost now as we should see a lot more of them.

Jeanne and Jimmy Baker of Stettler visited here last week end.

Billie Kitchen, Jack Walker and the Jimmy Morrison family spent Sunday at the B G Kohlsnch farm.

We heartily wish to welcome to Hardisty, Mrs. Gene Pon, bride of Gene of the Crystal Cafe. Congratulations folks, we hope you will be very happy. Mrs Pon was born in Edmonton, has been in China since the age of four and has just recently returned to Canada.

All our young lads, in fact 21 of them under Mr. Donovan, motored to Provost on Saturday for a hockey bout. The older boys were victorious winning 3 to 1, but our Pee Wees lost 4 - 2, which still wasn't bad.

Mrs. Jacquelin Brooks is home for a few days before she ... to work with the ... Montreal company in Edmonton.

Agricultural Research

AGRICULTURAL RESEARCH HAS PLAYED an important part in the progress in farming in Canada. During the past years. This work is carried on, in the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, agricultural departments in universities and agricultural colleges throughout Canada, the National Research Council, some commercial companies and other bodies interested in the advancement of the scientific aspects of agriculture. The Dominion Experimental Farms were established by an act of parliament in 1886 which inaugurated the chain of Dominion experimental farms which are located in every province, and the many smaller stations associated with them. These and many other interested groups have assisted the Canadian farmer to overcome his problems in connection with insects, rust, drouth, animal diseases and other threats to the welfare of Agriculture in this country.

• • • •

Could Profit More Fully

While this work has gone on for many years there is continued need for such efforts, and need also for the farmer to take full advantage of the knowledge gained for him through research. Dr. H. S. Archibald, director of the Dominion Experimental farm service who spoke recently at the annual conference of Agricultural representatives at Saskatoon, told the gathering that if the research information which is now available was applied in all farmers production could be increased by 20 per cent and costs could be reduced by the same amount. The importance of efficient implementation from the treatment of the soil to the marketing of the product was another point stressed by Dr. Archibald in his address.

• • • •

Is Important To Farmers

New fields of research in agriculture are constantly opening up and information on new developments is available to the farmers through many channels. It is then responsibility to use the information which they receive wisely in improving production and moving problems related to their work. Powerful new insecticides, developed to overcome costly and serious crop damage, may be harmful rather than beneficial if misapplied, and this is true of many other applications of research to practical farming. Research in industry has brought about many changes in farm and standards of production generally. To an even greater extent, scientific research influences the progress of agriculture, and the continued progress of this work is closely linked with the future of farming in Canada.

Parking Meter A Hitching Post

A parking meter became a hitching post in mid-January when Stuart Lees rode into Chilliwack, B.C., and tied his horse to a parking meter while he dashed into the post office for mail. Blocked roads put a new value on mail. Intermittent power breaks have obscured the local radio station on two occasions, and mail deliveries outside the city were impossible. Mr. Lees said he did not put any money in the meter. The horse seemed anxious to get away from the steel post, probably preferred the old kind where he could rub his neck.

15,315 Acres Of New Irrigated Land In Sask.

REGINA. — Irrigation projects sponsored by the provincial department of agriculture in 1949 resulted in 15,315 acres of new irrigated land, a bureau of publications release revealed.

In a report to the bureau by Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollet, it was stated the conservation and development branch of the agriculture department had leveled 1,500 acres and plans tabled 7,300 acres of land for irrigation purposes last year.

In addition, four and one-half miles of main canal were constructed, 27 miles of lateral canals, 3.6 miles of drainage ditch, and 62.7 miles of dykes and border ditches.

In all, 106 major projects were undertaken by the conservation and development branch said Mr. Nollet. They included land reclamation and development schemes designed to increase the production of winter feed under both dry land farming and irrigation.

Smaller projects were for weed eradication, seeding of roadsides, livestock improvement programs and forage crop demonstration plots.

One drainage scheme was completed in 1949 and a land reclamation project began in the rural municipality of Pasto Creek, where thousands of trees will be planted in 1950 under direction of the Dominion nursery station, Indian Head.

Western Briefs

Rejects Reservation Plan

BARROW, Alaska — Eskimos along this northern rim of the continent have overwhelmingly rejected an interior department plan to create a reservation for them. Officials said the vote in the election was 221 against and 39 for acceptance.

Hail-Battered Roads

WINNIPEG — More hard-surfaced roads will be one of the aims of the Manitoba Good Roads association in 1950. This was decided at a meeting of the new board of directors of the group in the St. Regis hotel. "The provincial government's general policy is to hard-top roads in areas where gravel surfaced highways need rebuilding" said Hector French, of Rivers.

Winter Hits Building

VANCOUVER — Winter has thrown a monkey wrench into Vancouver's building industry.

House building, it was reported, has plunged to the lowest mark on record. Only 25 permits for homes were taken out in January. Their total value was $149,850.

In contrast, January, 1949, records show 94 permits were taken out. Their total value was $382,900.

Unnecessary Abuse

VANCOUVER — Judge C. J. Lennox ruled that knee traps, widely used in rodeos, constitute "unnecessary abuse to a horse." The County Court Judge dismissed the appeal of Herman Lissler from a police court conviction on the cruelty charge. The Cardston, Alta., rodeo promoter, was obliged to pay a $100 fine or serve 30 days.

Asleep At The Switch

WINNIPEG — Canadians could be doing five times as much tourist business if they were not "asleep at the switch", if they weren't all so much accommodation and about rounds", John Fisher, CBC commentator, stated here.

New Bank Remodeling

REGINA — Saskatchewan has most of the few steels remaining in the R.C.M.P. At one time last year there were 150 horses attached to the force and 100 of these were at Regina and Fort Walsh, Sask. The others were at Rockcliffe, Ont.

STILL LEADS WORLD

Britain still leads the world in ship construction, according to Lloyds Register of Shipbuilding. Britain's 1949 total was 1,304,191 tons, 46.6 per cent, of the world's total of 4,-004,766.

Codfish may reach a weight of 100 to 200 pounds, and a female cod may lay over 9,000,000 eggs at a time.

Canada Gets Empire Games

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — Canada was awarded the 1954 Empire Games. The general assembly of the British Empire Games Federation was unanimous in confirming its board's nomination of the Dominion as venue for the athletic events.

Three Canadian cities — Toronto, Vancouver and Hamilton, Ont. — all have expressed interest in holding the games. No city has yet been chosen.

FIRST TIMBUR RECORD

KINGS LYNN, Norfolk, England. — A 17-year-old girl bought a wedding dress and gowns for two bridesmaids. She announced in the store manager: "Well, I've got the dresses. Now I must see about getting a husband."

HOSPITALITY

CEYLON, Sask. — Stranded by a snowslide near Kamloops on his way to Vancouver recently, Andy McPhee and his sister Mrs. Herb Moffat cannot speak too highly of the hospitality of that community. Kamloops organized a banquet, an amateur show, and a dance for their snowbound guests. Andy made the rest of the trip by plane.

To Spend $24,553 On Hearing Aid

OTTAWA — The Canadian government will spend $24,553 to make it possible for members of parliament to hear each other a speech.

The sum to be spent on the installation of a modern amplifying system in the commons chamber was announced by W. P. Harrell, assistant deputy minister of public works.

Pioneer Of Wyoming District Passes Away In Edmonton

Mrs. Albert Simpson very suddenly passed away on Friday evening, February 24th, at her home in Edmonton.

The deceased was born in England in May, 1884, and came to Canada in 1906, where she and her husband settled in the Wyoming district of Sedgewick in 1921. Their past few years have been spent in Vancouver and Edmonton.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her loving husband, five sons, Robert, Jack, Clifford and Maurice and Roy all of Sedgewick, and six daughters, Mrs. Fred Wulf of Swalwell Alberta and Mrs John Adamson of Sedgewick; also one sister in England and three brothers in Canada.

Funeral services were held in her old home in the Wyoming district where Clifford now resides and burial was in the Strome cemetery. Mr Parkins of Calgary gave a very comforting message. The Pall Bearers were, Robert, Clifford, Maurice and Roy, sons of the deceased. Mr. Fred Wulf is a son in law and Gordon Simpson is a nephew.

The late Mrs. Simpson lived a life of faithful service to her family and friends, and will be sadly missed by it who knew her. Fee and Sons were Funeral Directors.

Donations to Cancer Fund— Percy, Pearl, Vernon and Raymond; Holmes, Warren and family; Gordon, Jean and boys, Harvey and Shirley; Mr. and Mrs Hartley Heathers.

Floral Tributes The A. W. Adam son family. Mrs J. MacLaren and Family. Mr and Mrs. Louie Bell; Mrs Estrand and Family; Mr and Mrs John Rengreaven; T. Swainson Family; Mr and Mrs D Mason; Mr. and Mrs George Anderson. Mr and Mrs. A E Rombough, Swalwell Friends; Gretna Goodwill Club; Flowers, Bill and Lois; Aunt Eliza and Family.

Death

Mr. E. A. Gray, aged 52 years, passed away at his home in Carr on Feb. 26th after a long illness. Funeral services were held in Carr Community hall on February 30th with the Rev. W. Brooks of Edgerton officiating. Interment was made in the Carr cemetery. Many beautiful floral tributes were received from friends and relatives.

F. B. Kirkman, Funeral Director.

Sincere and membership fees should cover the other half.

There is close to the crowd. Dan and Bob Albrecht have purchased a Fin Lizzie from Medisky Bros. It belongs to both like they will be in greasmud from now on.

Mr. Blakeney is a patient in the Killam hospital. We sincerely hope he will be back with us soon.

Dark Matthews, who is one of our ex-centralites, and who engaged in racing, ran for Carnival Queen. Good luck Barb we're pulling for you.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank the voters of the Village of Sedgewick for the confidence they placed in me, in electing me as a Councillor; also for the many expressions of goodwill extended upon election. I assure you of my desire to serve all as best I can without favor or fear. — J. G. Murray.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our kind neighbors who helped us rebuild our Mill House and Barn Wall recently destroyed by fire; special thanks to Mr. Lindquist who brought the fire extinguisher and helped save the rest of the barn. — Mr. and Mrs Goodman and Erikson, Sedgewick.

The S.I.S. Club wishes to express its grateful thanks to all who attended the Carnival, with a very special thanks to all the Merchants who donated prizes to the Lucky Draw selection. I assure you of my desire to serve all as best I can without favor or fear. — J. G. Murray.

Central Hi-Lights

By Student Union Press Reporter

On Wed., Feb. 22nd, two of Northern Alberta's three high school inspectors paid us a visit. Mr. T.C. Byrne and Dr. Reeves included Central in a circuit of visits that took in Camrose and other points. Their main objective was to see how the three new members of the staff are getting along. Some of our readers may know Dr. Reeves as his home was formerly on a farm just North of the Village of Lougheed.

The Council is pretty busy these days trying to find ways and means of recreation for the students. They have found one partial answer to their problem, as the musically inclined are forming a Glee Club, with a double-barrelled purpose. Not only will it provide entertainment for its members but it will be able to take over the musical parts of the graduation exercises next June Shirley Peddicord was elected President, Secretary, and business manager at the first meeting. Miss Haynes is their teacher-adviser. Mrs. Wilson of Sedgewick will be with them once a week to lead and direct them. The Council is to put up half of their expenses.

Fay Terry Crowned Queen Of The Carnival

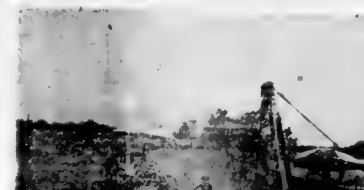
The first ice carnival ever held at Hardisty was most successful than ever hoped for. There was skating, costume judging etc. Costume awards went to: Under 7 Fancy, Joan Proctor; Comic, Brian Morrison and Arne Donovan and Judy Bricker. Under 12, Fancy, Garry and Gayle Quinlan and Comic to Lorne Morrison; Teen Age, Fancy, Marion Johnson and Comic to Dorene Powell and Beverly Anderson. Best Dressed Adult Lady: Eunice Johnson; Youngest Contestant, Little Dinks Bricker aged three.

Races:— 7 and Under, Joan Proctor; 9 and Under, Garry Quinlan; 11 and Under, Jimmy Terry; 15 and Under Leonard Bennefeld and Beverly Anderson; 16 an over, Bob Thorpe.

Highlight was the crowning of the Queen, pretty Faye Terry who came out on top in a close race. The royal procession was led by Lois Ann Hickson carrying the crown on a red in pillow, followed by the Queen Lorraine Morrison, Joan Goodwin, Lorraine Morrison and Barbara Rae Matthews, beautifully gowned. In long white gown graced by a wine cape with white collar, the queen followed, and carrying her train were two page boys, Leon Guenard a Bobbie Johnson. She was crowned by Deputy Mayor Eckland, after which Mr. Page presented her with a lovely flower basket and the princesses with pretty pendants. After the re emony the queen drew the winning ticket for the door prize (Mrs J Bell) Hickson followed between Provost and Hardisty, the latter winning 11 to 1. The evening wound up with a dance in Kleber's hall with music by Camrose Band. It was all lovely and we hope next year will be even bigger.



Contractors will bury 1,150 miles of pipe between Edmonton and Lake Superior before next winter, making the Interprovincial Pipe Line the largest, one of Canada's biggest and fastest construction jobs. Specialists in pipe line work, plus specialized equipment like this boosting machine, will go all-out to complete the job within the scheduled time.

Wedding

McKINNEY — GARNER

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in Calgary on Saturday afternoon when Barbara Adele, second youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. McKinney of Strome became the bride of David Charles Garner, son of Mrs. A. Garner and the late Mr. Garner of Coutts Alberta. The bride looked charming attired in a brown gabardine tailored suit with pale pink hat and matching accessories, and complimented by a corsage of pink carnations and gardenias. A reception for the immediate family was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. Bowder. The table was laid with white linen, centered with a tiered wedding cake. Mr. Mel Reeder proposed the toast to the bride, to which the groom ably responded. The happy couple is making their home in Edmonton.

After having been closed for more than a year, the Strome Bootleg Flour Mill is again in operation on a 24-hour shift. With Millers John Nachtigal and Ernie Yager of Camrose in charge, they are milling 200 to 240 Lb. bags of flour for export to India. Cliff Robbins, who has been employed for the past few months in the Byer Flour Mill at Camrose, has resumed duties at Strome.

...scout Meeting Is Poorly Attended

The Scout ... held in the Community Hall ... Commissioner Rev. Grainger on March 2nd drew a very poor attendance. Few of the parents showed enough interest to be there. The old gag of "Let George Do It" still holds. Those who did attend discussed the beginning, value an future of Scouting in Lougheed, and listened to explanations of what Scouting comprises, its standards and accomplishments.

Those present agreed to back and support the program which would provide training and entertainment for lads needed by our youth. The next scout meeting will be held in the Lougheed Church study, Monday March 6th and every Monday thereafter at 7:00 p.m.

Resigned Charge

The annual congregational meeting of St. Paul's United Church was held at Strome on Feb. 26th The reading of the reports of the various departments showed the life and work of the church to be in a very healthy condition. The Rev. Thomas, Mr. H V Phipps, presented a most satisfactory financial statement. At the close of the meeting, Rev. H. A. Thomas tendered his resignation as Minister of th Strome-Killam pastoral charge the same to take effect at the end of the present conference year, June 30...

Rebekah Meet

Lougheed Rebekah Lodge held the regular meeting on Feb. 28th with a very small attendance due to illness. After lengthy discussions on suggestions brought forward and motions in order and carried. We had the pleasure of receiving into the Lodge, Mrs Norman Wright (ne Agnes Grieve), who transfers from Hardisty.

After the meeting a very dainty lunch was served by Mrs. Reuben Wright and Mrs Norman Wright. We hope all members will be present for the March 14th meeting.

Mrs. Weber Is Delegate

The regular meeting of the ... with W.I. was held in the Strome Rink room with 31 members and 1 visitor present. Mrs. C. James conducted the meeting. Mrs. Hardy has taken over as Constituency Convener from Mrs. Hooper. Mrs. C. Christensen and Mrs. Chalmers have kindly offered to take care of the Library on Saturday and Wednesday afternoons.

Donations of $10 each were made to Red Cross and Salvation Army and $6 to the March of Dimes. Mrs. Weber was elected delegate to the Calmer Zoning convention in May.

A Committee was appointed to take charge of the handicraft exhibit for the June Conference. Miss Haynes, Social Service Convener, spoke of the fine support given the Unitarian Service by the Alberta Institutes by filling their monthly quotas. This creates a better from Dr. Hitchensowes, Canadian representative on the Unitarian Service Committee telling of how vital to the homes and orphanages of Europe, supported by the Service and of the great need and courage of the children there. Next meeting in the Manse Rr room with Mrs. Burt in charge of the program. Roll Call will be a garden hint. "Be on time at the time and bring a friend."

Tom and Sy... Back Home

(By Fred Ragner)

Lougheed's two famous twins, Tom and Syd arrived home safely as reported a wonderful time. I can well believe it as I've just finished taking the same trip, stopping at th same hotels and eating at the same places via a fella Tom brought back it covers everything from Company ghosts to the Cafe and Railroad Stations. The only trouble was that couldn't tell when I got out of the prize list for machinery and how it was carried out as they were in such a mess. The mention on menus any where dining is always a pleasant surprise. They should have a "s... us". Two French bomb chaps fr... rib stock 23.25; porterhouse 25 It would almost pay them to fish over what they drowned in the Miami a few years ago, then you can ... lobster tail, $2. Oh well, it made ... reading anyway, so I settled in ... fast dog at the hobos beach at ... evening rush. Tom's boys do have ... the other half lives.

THE KISS ::

What A Heart-Wrenching Thing is Gallantry.

By HAROLD HELFER

THE IDENTITY of not to identify—that was Ruth Appleby's question. Whether it was nobler to tell the truth and have herself to the stings and arrows of humiliation or whether it was smarter to testify that she could not positively say that the dark-haired man prisoner was the fiend who held her up.

There was a long and exhausted pause during which the spectators leaned. And yet her whole life hung in the balance.

It presented then-tipped and rouged face, a sullen, defiant mien. Her name, age, how long she'd been with the company . . .

Any moment now he would get to the point and thrust an accusing finger at the dark-haired man and ask her if he wasn't the one who had stolen into her branch agency and, gun in hand, had robbed the safe of $173. Ruth Appleby shuddered. She thought: What fools we mortals be! Also she thought: What a web we weave when we first practice to deceive!

Why, oh why, hadn't she stuck to the truth with the police? Why had she blurted out, "And another thing, before he left he grabbed me and kissed me!" What a terrible lie!

Of course, she knew. It was her gawful inferiority complex in reverse. She was a gauche, awful girl, high-born in literature and she loved Chopin's music. But, deep down, she knew she was plain, drab . . . and unwanted.

What a tragedy for one who had the power to be gay and witty and heroic!

The terrible part was that it had taken that stupid lie to bring it out. But the story about "the stolen kiss" had been splashed in the papers and now people who had known her all their lives looked at her as if they were saving for the first time that Ruth Appleby, finding the spotlight intoxicating, had responded by turning on warmth and sparkle.

Why, Tom Bannister had dropped in dozens of times to read the telegrams that handsome young architects send without dropping any more interest in her than he would a telegram machine. But the day after the stolen kiss episode' he had sent to her (slightly) "Here is the perfect fatale tailor" and she gave him that new sparkling smile and had answered gaily: "Oh, just former fatalene tailor."

Around, the same as ever." That afternoon they had tea together, she and Tom, and then there had been dinners and shows. And, yes, even meeting Tom's folks.

Everything had been very wonderful . . . only what would Tom think and what would his folks think if it came out that she had made up the story about the bandit kissing her?

There was only one person who knew about it, though. And he was the dark-haired man in the box. He was regarding her intently and with a little smile. He knew something else too—he knew why she'd done it. Why would a woman make up a story like that unless she felt herself to be drab and unwanted?

He had a police record and, if she identified him, would be sure of a sentence. Suppose he showed, "Oh, no! I'll go to jail, and I might as well earn up I look the money! But not the kiss. I never even thought about it. And, if you want to know the truth, now that I've had time to think about it, I wouldn't kiss her for all the tea in China."

If she'd been spiteful before, she'd be permanently crushed. The dark-haired man's knowing smile kept bargaining with her. If you say you can't be sure, they'll have to let me go. And that will end the whole thing.

It did seem the smartest way out. Of course, she had identified the dark-haired man's picture to detectives. That was how they'd arrested him in time. But she would say that, at close view, she couldn't be sure. And she could keep her nose-dented memory and . . . Tom Bladen.

But, on the other hand, she was under oath and, if she held again, she would be responsible for turning a bandit loose on the public.

Which brought her back to where she started. To identify or not to identify? And the decision was now at hand. The prosecutor was pointing at the dark-haired man and saying, "Now, Miss Appleby, is this the man?"

Ruth Appleby gulped. Her lips quivered. Then she heard herself saying, "Yes, he's the one."

The dark-haired man nodded a little bow in her direction.

Oh, what a heart-wrenching thing is gallantry! . . . and it doesn't depend on the flourish of a cape or a coat of arms. He rehearsed can hurt in the heart of the "stolen kiss" girl Ruth Appleby, finding the spotlight intoxicating, had responded by turning on warmth and sparkle.

Why, Tom Bannister had dropped in dozens of times to read the telegrams that handsome young architects send without dropping any more interest in her than he would a telegram machine. But the day after the stolen kiss episode' he had sent to her (slightly) "Here is the perfect fatale tailor" and she gave him that new sparkling smile and had answered gaily: "Oh, just former fatalene tailor."

Signs Contract For Oil Search In Saskatchewan

REGINA.—Hon. J. H. Brockelbank minister of resources, announced Saskatchewan has signed a contract with Royalite Oil, Limited, for extensive oil exploration work on 233 800 acres of crown land.

The company at present has an exploration permit for the area, which is east of Kerrobert and Kindersley in west-central Saskatchewan.

Mr. Brockelbank said Royalite under the new agreement may hold a full acreage under permit for 21/2 years ending June 30, 1953. The company is to spend $1,000 in the department of natural resources at admonth intervals, total being $3,000, $23,230 to $46 661 and totaling $163,216 Ten per cent of the $163,216 will be revenue to the department, and the other 90 per cent will be returned to the province. Exploratory work has been completed

Helped Dollar Shortage

LACOMBE, Alta. — Birth of a daughter to high school teacher A. Avery helped students to do something about the school organ's dollar shortage. They organized a contest, at a price of 10 cents, to guess the baby's middle name.

To The Beacons

REGINA.—City prosecutor M. H. Sampson knew what to do for a nervous bridegroom who couldn't speak above a whisper. He fished into his waistcoat pocket and produced a dough drop. The nervous groom took the dough drop and went on with his ceremony.

Nearly Eight Gallons

MAMLOOPS, B.C.—Social welfare worker James Moore was on hand to give the first blood donation when the Red Cross clinic opened here recently. It is almost a habit with him. The donation brought his record to 93 pints of blood given to the Red Cross.

Projects On Saskatchewan River Would Open Untold Wealth

WINNIPEG.—Large water storage projects on the Saskatchewan river would open up 2,500,000 acres of rich farmlands in the river delta by decreasing the flood danger. At the same time these projects would tend to decrease the fur industry near The Pas, D. M. Stephens, deputy minister of mines and resources for Manitoba, stated.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of government have co-operated so well on the western provinces water board set up a couple of years ago, he said

Concerning Manitoba's use of water for power, the deputy minister said "all our eggs are in one basket, and we must watch that basket pretty closely."

Mr. Stephens commended the settling up by Ontario and Manitoba of the joint Winnipeg river engineering commission to plan the development of power here.

Turning to "the great river of the prairies, the Saskatchewan," the deputy minister said water conservation projects further west would redound the power potential of the river in this province.

Water reservoirs on the Saskatchewan river would probably have a bad effect also on the numerous industry in The Pas area, said the deputy minister However, in decreasing the flood danger, it would open up untold wealth in farmland containing much of the topsoil of Alberta and Saskatchewan — "40 feet deep in some places."

P.F.R.A. To Open 14 New Pastures

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. — Fourteen new community pastures will be opened in 1950 by P.F.R.A., Raymond Youngman, director of community pastures, said.

One will be in Manitoba the others in Saskatchewan. Approximate area of the new pastures totals 230,000 acres. Seven Manitoba pastures will be a 40,000-acre reservation.

Community pastures will take care of 75,000 head of stock this year. Mr. Youngman said that large-scale water development was carried out last year and heavy winter snow gives every prospect of a good run-off this spring.

The director added that plans are being made to shift stock that can not be handled in the southwest corner of Saskatchewan to other P.F.R.A. areas where good pastures is available

Expect Big Sockeye Run

RICHMOND, B.C. — Stevestor Salmonson and cannery operators are looking forward to a big sockeye run this year.

The run will bear the brunt of the first spawning fish that went through the new Hell's Gate lookers in 1946

Only thing to mar the pleasant picture for Salmonson is the thought of all the canners who will be eager to get in on the big kill as soon as the season starts.

"Every time we have a big run of sockeyes we have a big run of silversalmon," says one veteran fisherman.

Cannery operators say they are going to be harder on the nerves this year. "In the past they have coaxed and pestered us to address fishing gear and boats the gave out and went with the tides, ruined the nets and often killed themselves," one owner explained.

Tests prove that often when a person is in low spirits he imagines he has a cold

Wrecks Caused By Drivers, Not Cars

Drivers, not cars, cause wrecks.

While some accidents can be blamed on mechanically unsafe cars by far the greater majority of crashes are the fault of the person behind the wheel

An irresponsible driver is a dangerous driver Never for a moment forget when you are driving that you are in control of a machine which can kill and maim A car in the wrong hands is a deadly weapon.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

We are sorry to have omitted Mrs. Reuben Wright's name as the leader of the World Day of Prayer.

Austin Kendrick is sporting a new Ford truck purchased from the Hardy Motors agency. This is our first record of an Austin driving a Ford.

Jack Westra spent three days in Edmonton last week attending an agricultural short course, whether as a student or instructor we don't know, but knowing Jack's reputation as a farmer we'll bet he could teach us much as he could learn.

Simone and Sedgewick Connelly seem to be getting kind of high hoop, going in mostly for Art now days. Come to think of it, some of the Arts have high brows which makes it about even.

Mrs. Ray McCracken spent a few days in Edmonton last week.

The snow and blow last week did about the best job of blocking the roads so far this winter, stopping all traffic except cutters, who made the grade in all kinds of conveyances in their hats and cutlins between their teeth boarding a captive ship singing 'Once aboard the lugger and the girl is ine'. But with their winning ways I don't suppose the cutlins would be necessary. What damsel could re[sist]

Will the boys are getting back from operation bridge (code name Sweetchirp). As to its success time alone will tell, but the general opinion seems to be that the best way to handle the Russians would be to let them wander in the cellar would be below weather and feed them tropical rations. Nature would do the rest. Did someone blunder? If so we would like to know who.

That amazing quartette, the stonefour have done it again, covering themselves with prizes and glory at the Camrose Ladies Spiel. They outrung first in the Entee and 3rd in the Cittsens, playing 11 games in a field of 24 rinks, losing their 1st game, winning next 7 and one saved the balance, being tied coming home to both Rosalia against Wetaskiwin and Camrose. They are rewarded at [pre]vious victories, take a bow ladies. We are proud of you.

J. A McClimmond and Dave Love were business visitors to the city.

Ted Archibald and family, farmers in Lougheed district until leaving to take a position in Mow Lodge on the electric hot pads at Bentley, water set at Sylvan Lake, Leather Bellcour at Innisfail. Not bad Hank, not bad.

Mrs. Hazelwood has severed her connections with Lougheed Hotel and returned to Hardisty. Mrs. Birchill is succeeding her.

Word was received last Saturday that Melchor Myrehaug of the Lougheed and Sedgewick districts has been very seriously injured in a accident in the bush at Winfield. The details are lacking.

Well, I'm satisfied at last. The readers of my Xmas card finally broke down and referred my curiosity. I'll admit I'm a[t]ch with the feminine trait. Yep, I had listed them in my list of prime suspects, but they asked that their names be withheld. Can you blame them? They are you are known by the company you keep, but after all these years I don't believe their neighbors would hold it against them. Anyway I enjoyed and appreciate both your cards and kind thoughts, and as Mae West says 'Why don't you come up and see me sometime?'

BELLSHILL NEWS

C. Kinross is once more looking after the J. R. Marlow store as he is visiting his wife in the city. We are sorry to say that Mrs. Marlow is not doing so well. We hope by the time this is printed she will be completely recovered.

Mr and Mrs J Peacock of Alliance were visitors at Tom Marlows.

The Porter O'Reillys were guests of Arnold Marlows last Sunday.

Congrats and best wishes to the newlyweds Mr and Mrs Orlin Mallwart, recently married.

What happened to the mail [on] last Wed.? Saw Ken Newman, Stan Coulson doing the delivering. Snow plow went through today so the temperature reached a high of 5 or rouds shouldn't drift for a while.

Francis McDonald has returned to his farm after spending the winter in Edmonton, and another stone to his winter washer with him. It is a pleasant change to see the wate dripping off the roof instead of the icicles off your chin.

Mrs Rattan of Provost spent last Friday with Mrs J S Johnson, enroute to visit Mathesons at Camrose.

Allen Pointer is spending a week's leave with his wife's folks, the J. J. Barthels, after returning from operation Sweetheart, where he was with the paratroopers.

Edwin Smith of Edmonton paid a week end visit to Mrs. Rowland.

About Dr. Loughenbeck paid a real classical visit last week to the [Mor]ley's. Mr and Mrs John Rees. After the usual fun and well wishing, all sat on the dainty bench, the usual chit chat of such occasions, and then returned home.

We see a new family moved to our town last Friday. Mr and Mrs Snow man and two little flakes, and occupied the late Mrs Morris home our office We don't know who the artist was, as for once we were not looking out the window. So, it was as usual a bit of snow sculpture as we have seen. We imagine it was the work of some married lady, it was as correct in detail even to the buttons off Mr. Snowman's coat, replaced by a coal. Name but a wife would know those little things.

Miss Vivian Harding of Edmonton spent last week end with her parents the Chas. Hardings.

W A Routledge finally got to town last Saturday, first time in 10 days. Says he was waiting for snow plow and finally got it and here. He spent from 8 a m to 3 p m digging out the snowplow. Might be a good idea for next year to leave plow in storage and hire Bill. But it is the same report from all directions.

Looking over the records it wasn't a bad year for our friend Hank Metz down Red Deer way. Just whether it was the same contractors in all quarters (Mots, Cassidy Chamberlin and Thomas) we don't know, but Hank was at work there and his best contented of Suit of clothes at Olds; 940 which and $23 out of dishes at Red Deer;

CAMROSE PRESBYTERIAL UNITED CHURCH W. M. S.

(Intended For Last Week)

The 11th anniversary of Camrose Presbyterial of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held at Camrose last month with a large attendance. 'Measuring Advance' was the theme and the devotional service was led by Mrs Presbyterial and was given by Rev. Whaley of Strome. In her presidential address, Miss Hazel Hunt of Killam stressed the need for advancement. She said we should think big things and go God's way. Advance in organizations, membership, literature and increase in membership. Mrs W. McLeod of Camrose presented the Literature. Forward military was the best road and won the bookshelf. The treasurer reported the allocation had been exceeded. Luncheon was presided at by Rev Brundage and the address of welcome was given by the Rev. Cann as replied to by Mr C. Mallett. Miss Anne Capthorne nurse missionary from West Africa, spoke of the need for African people who are slowly breaking away from fear and witchcraft. Following the after noone devotional given by Mrs Gould of Rosalind, Mrs. J. Shannon conducted an impressive 'In Memoriam' service for three members who have passed to higher service. An organ solo by Mrs Woodhams was enjoyed.

Reports on Advance included chapters on overseas Relief by Mrs. Baker of Killam; Community Friendship by Mrs MacLean, Sedgewick; Advance in Christian Citizenship and Temperance by Mrs Clegg, Forestburg and Auxiliary by Mrs Cagney from Camrose. Highlight of the afternoon was Miss Copithorne's address She urged prayer and the sending of our money and missionaries to help the people of Africa, whose young people are longing to be taught.

Officers installed were: Past Pres Mrs. McLeod, Camrose; President Miss Hazel Hunt, Killam. First Vice Mrs. Cann, Camrose; Sec. Mrs. Shannon, Camrose; Corr. Sec. Mrs. Wilson, Killam; Rec. Sec. Mrs. D. Frisbee, New Norway; Treas. Mrs. Baker, Killam; Supply Miss Marsh Hall, Camrose; Christian Steward Mrs Ferguson, Camrose; Baby Band Mrs Gould Rosalind; Assoc. Member, Mrs Bailey Camrose; Cons. Friend Mrs Marlene Sedgewick; Literature Mrs McLeod Camrose; Miss. Month' and World Friends, Mrs Bowlby of Daysland; Temperance and Christian Citizenship, Mrs Clegg, Forestburg Press, Mrs Hugh Watt Killam; Mission Band, Mrs Stewart, Camrose

Mission Circles and CGIT, Mrs. Lovegood Camrose

After a stewardship playlet put on by the Camrose Mission Band, and some slides two was served when large birthday cake centered the table

Crop Prospects For 1950

AS SPRING APPROACHES attention is once more turned to the crop prospects for the coming season. Many unpredictable factors determine the success or failure of any crop and the farmer can never be assured of whatever as to the results of his year's work. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, however, recently issued a report on some of those factors which will affect the 1950 wheat crop. According to the Bureau there is reason at present to expect that there will be any great change in the thousand acreage from that of last year, when 27,000,000 acres of wheat were sown. This prediction was made early in the year and it was pointed out that alterness in the supply of soil moisture to the spring or a change for the better by another time may alter the picture considerably.

* * * * *

Less Needed From Canada

Marketing prospects for the coming season's crop were reviewed by the Bureau and a section to the world demand for wheat in 1950 was predicted. This expected decline was attributed to the fact that many countries are now increasing production and will have less need for imports from Canada. It is also expected that some countries which have formerly been heavy importers will make all efforts will have more wheat than they need. Further adding to the supply on the world market is the fact that Crop prospects in most wheat growing countries are favourable and the goal for the coming year is a large harvests forecast in Argentina, Australia and the United States expecting to have a substantial export surplus.

* * * * *

Decline Will Cause Concern

The expected decline in the world market will be of considerable concern in those countries including Canada and Australia which have large surpluses of wheat to export. This situation once more brings to mind the fact that there a need for all the wheat which can be produced if people everywhere are to be adequately fed. Unfortunately economic factors prevent many countries who need wheat from buying it and countries with surpluses cannot afford to give it away. Sir Jos. Boyd Orr, world famous agriculturist and author of the Nobel Peace Prize has advocated a plan whereby these difficulties could be overcome and Canada has also favored such a move. It would seem that if any progress is to be made in the world solution of these problems which affects these countries where there is need of food, and countries where there will soon be faced with the serious problem of dwindling demand for their surplus production.

B.C.-St. Lawrence Ship Service Planned

VANCOUVER, B.C. — Freighter service was planned to resume between British Columbia and ports on the St. Lawrence.

Service between the east and west resumed as the Second World War began.

Mossen Clark Limited operators of the Alpine Steamship Lines said the 10,000 ton "B.C. Seaside" will inaugurate the service.

CANADIAN WILDLIFE GIFT

The Bath of England has donated the sterling equivalent of $250 so that the Dudley (Midlands) Zoo can fix freighting costs on a shipment of eight pairs of timber wolves 12 white and 12 mammals of the gift of the Canadian Government. The animals will be now exhibited in the collection of smaller animals in the Zoo in the past four years. The Canadian Government has sent black bears, beavers and racoons to live from the national parks.

1949 RECORD YEAR

Prairie Retail Business Shows Big Increase

OTTAWA. — Canada's retail merchants did the biggest business in history last year. Their total sales were $7,695,340,000, 6% per cent higher than in 1948, the bureau of statistics reported.

Sales were higher on all provinces and in all but four of the 20 different trades surveyed.

Those four trades showed only moderate declines and represented no real diminution from the previous year's level," the bureau said.

Retail sales in 1949 were $7,387,720,000.

Geographically the biggest sales increase was in the prairie provinces. Saskatchewan sales were 12.4 per cent higher, Alberta 12 per cent and Manitoba 10.5 per cent.

The bureau attributed this to higher cash farm income on the prairies and the growing Alberta oil development.

Elsewhere increases were lower, Ontario and Quebec 5.4 per cent, British Columbia five per cent, Quebec 2.8 per cent and the Maritime provinces 2.1 per cent. Newfoundland, the Yukon and Northwest Territories were not included.

The four trades with lower sales were men's clothing, down 1.6 per cent; family clothing, down 2.3 per cent; coal and wood, down .06 per cent, and coal and wood, down 2.6 per cent.

Declares Canada Growing Faster Than United States

EDMONTON — Canada is expanding one-third faster than the United States and is just reaching the peak of industrial development passed by the U.S. half a century ago, John Fisher, commissioner for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, said.

He spoke at the annual meeting of the Maritime Provinces association.

"Canada is the greatest miracle in nation-building the world has ever seen," Mr. Fisher said.

Scouts Sending Staves To Greece

OTTAWA —Canadian Boy Scouts are going to send 5,000 Scouts staves to the Boy Scouts of Greece, it was announced.

Wherever possible, Scouts will cut and peel the staves themselves. In areas where cutting is not possible Scouts will raise money to buy them.

Because of the rocky terrain of Greece, it is almost impossible for Greek Scouts to obtain their own staves. Boy Scout headquarters said it hopes to complete the shipment by April 23, St. George's Day.

King Of Hoboes Loses Credentials

SAN FRANCISCO.—Jeff Davis, King of the Hoboes, was stripped of his "credentials" recently.

"My feet's just tied with all that stuff gone," Jeff complained.

He listed these losses: Some 200 honorary cards, including a thumb-smudged testimony of his long reign over America's knights of the road; assorted photographs and a railroad spike, which he described as golden.

Jeff said they were in a light leather brief case which disappeared while he was dining. He said that whoever filched the briefcase may keep the "golden spike", if he will return the credentials.

Chile Accepts Gift Of Canadian Buffalo

OTTAWA —Two Canadian buffalo soon will experience a 10,000-mile journey by air from Canada to Chile.

Chile has agreed to pay the "appalling cost" of shipping the two animals by plane from Edmonton to the national park in south Chile, an official of the Chilean embassy said.

The two buffalo were offered to Chile some months ago by the Canadian government providing Chile would pay the freight charge.

Many Canadians Too Fat, Claims Health League

OTTAWA — Almost one-ninth of the people of Canada are too fat.

That is the considered opinion of the Health League of Canada, an organization which devotes much of its time to telling Canadians what they should eat and how much.

The league said that about 2,264,000 Canadians were overweight, both as they ate too much. These Canadians were guilty of stuffing themselves and eating the wrong kind of food, the league said.

Overweight was harmful because it was the cause of degenerative diseases like diabetes and high blood pressure, officials of the league warned.

They said reduction in weight could be accomplished by eating less, but they advised all overweight Canadians to see a doctor and get sound advice about their eating habits.

ALBERTA TOPS LIST

Population Of West Shows Steady Increase

OTTAWA —Alberta's population increased by more than 1,000 per cent. in the last half-century, but she still has far to go to catch up with Ontario's total.

The bureau of statistics, reviewing Canada's economic record in the last 50 years, says that Alberta expanded from a province of 73,000 persons in 1901 to 571,000 in 1949.

In that period, Canada's total population jumped from 5,371,000 to 13,549,000.

With the exception of Prince Edward Island and the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, all areas showed population progress. Alberta showed the biggest percentage jump.

Ontario increased from 2,183,000 persons to 4,611,000, up 102 per cent. Quebec's population rose from 1,648,000 to 3,857,000, up 126 per cent.

Other provincial gains: Nova Scotia went up 40 per cent from 460,000 to 645,000, New Brunswick 36 per cent from 331,000 to 561,000; Manitoba 205 per cent, from 255,000 to 778,000; Saskatchewan, 346 per cent, from 91,000 to 561,000; British Columbia, 322 per cent, from 179,000 to 1,114,000, Newfoundland, 97 per cent, from 221,000 to 346,000. Prince Edward Island declined nine per cent., from 103,000 to 94,000 and the Northwest Territories and the Yukon 49 per cent from 47,000 to 24,000.

Take care of your eyes—avoid undue and unnecessary strain.

Better Potato May Be Evolved By Research

Scientists are going to be asked to find out what makes some potatoes turn dark after they are cooked.

The Canadian Horticultural Council adopted a resolution to get scientific research workers in Canada's experimental stations, schools and colleges across the country working on the problem.

Potato growers, seeking adoption of the resolution, said a great deal of research was needed to improve the cooking quality of the Canadian potato.

Cells of some potatoes appeared too tender for the cooking pot, breaking down and causing the potato to change to a brownish color.

The research workers will be asked to study the effects of soil on growth and the amounts of fertilizers such as potash and phosphate, which should be used to bring forth a better potato.

Yummy! Chelsea Bun Loaf

A treat you can make easily with new fast DRY Yeast

Now you have Fleischmann's Fast Dry Yeast, forget about the oldtime hazards of yeast baking! Always at hand—always full-strength and fast rising! Keep a month's supply in your cupboard! Make this delicious Chelsea Bun Loaf—cut in slices for buttering, or separate the buns.

CHELSEA BUN LOAF

Make 2 pans of buns from this one recipe. Bake half, keep the refrigerator for a week.

Scald ½ c. milk, ½ c. granulated sugar, 1 tsp. salt. Cool to lukewarm. Soften 1 cake Fleischmann's Fast Dry Yeast in ¼ c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Combine with 1 c. lukewarm Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. Add 2 well beaten eggs, ½ c. soft shortening and 3½ c. sifted flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Cut off ⅓ of dough, knead into a smooth ball. Roll out ⅓ of dough into an oblong sheet. Spread with soft butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon, raisins, nuts and grated orange rind. Roll up like jelly roll. Cut into 1" slices. Place in oiled pan. Repeat with remaining dough. Spread with soft butter, sugar, cinnamon, raisins, nuts and grated orange rind. Roll up like jelly roll. Cut into 1" slices. Place in oiled pan. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderate oven (375°F.) 30 minutes. Let stand in pan for 5 min. before removing.

FLASH - Last minute news has arrived of a grand Alumni ... Dance to be held in Edmonton on the 24th of March, sponsored by Edmonton's 88 ec Canadians. Watch for further details.

This week, change; have been made to alleviate the situation caused by Mr. Blakney's illness. The fun, sickness periods were shortened ... and a fifth one was put in to enable otherwise to take over his classes. M Jenkins took over chemistry and Miss Haynes is now teaching Latin. M. Young is teaching Mr. Jenkins' biology class. Technically ... getting along pretty well, but we all miss Mr. Blakney.

The annual High School curling banquet was held last Saturday in Killam. Eighteen rinks battled for $30 in prizes.

French 3 class is happy. After five tests in a week on the 1 st three chapters, most of them made passmarks. Three cheers for French 3.

A geography question has been raised that Mary Innes couldn't answer. If Africa ... slipped, what did it slip to? For gosh's sake, be kind ... the questions got?

The health authorities have cleared down on quarantines regarding the sickness that is still causing a good number of pupils to miss school. Quarantines to be strictly followed now: Measles, 18 days; Mumps, 14 days; Chicken Pox, 8 days.

THE RIGHT REV. W. F. BARFOOT, M.A., D.D., Bishop of Edmonton who will conduct services as follows, on Sunday, March 19th, 1950: Sedgewick 9:00 a.m., Confirmation Killam, 11:30 a.m., H.C. Lougheed, 3:00 p.m., Evensong Hardisty, 7:30 p.m., Confirmation

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Ray McCracken, Alex McGee and Geo Cramer motored to Calgary last week where Ray will take a another General Motors conference with the usual banquet, etc.

Henry Lien returned from Edmonton last week with a new Model 50 snow plow. Eleven units of machinery should more a lot of snow, and with the amount of money that is invested in cars roads and school buses etc. it looks like a move in the right direction What's the use of highways (and don't forget the byways) if you can't travel them the year around?

The English language is very expressive. A friend from north of our town dropped in the other day and when I asked him how the f-ing was, he says 'Swell'. I discovered later they were all laid up with the f-luenza in both Meadow and Munroe seem to be doing the rounds, and, and at least one room of Sedgewick school is closed.

Miss Phyllis Bisman has accepted a position in the Income Tax Dept at Calgary. With Phyl's pleasing personality it would be almost a dedicted pleasure to pay them. I said almost.

We see the old war horse Bill Reed piloted himself one of the first prizes of the Sedgewick hospital.

Mrs Frank Richman has returned after a couple weeks spent with her brother at Red Deer. Frank took on the road on recovery, but slow.

The Rookie Bro. attended the Carnival at Camrose recently.

Geo. Hepworth left last week to spend the balance of the winter with his parents at Vancouver

Mr & Mrs John Robertson [illegible] for a couple of weeks with her sister [illegible] (Grandma Johnson) has returned to California. We are sorry to re-they have their winter woodies, as we could no for a feed of them on a [illegible] time

The Legion held their regular meeting on the 6th. The attendance was small but they tied up the house until their hay carnival on 10th

Congrats to Mr and Mrs Lib. Ivey who celebrated 21 years of wedded bliss last week. A few of the friends who were in the know, held a surprise visit and never enlightened us [illegible] by Perry [illegible] Lib. Ivey was not at home [illegible] out on the rats. However he arrived home later and found a present waiting, he was very touched and moved.

It's all over and by. Sunday has been acquitted in the money murder. No everyone knew he would be. But remains to complete the [illegible] a movie contract or possibly no one got it re-married on TV, and the 4 part farce and against will an end years until eventually it is beautiful I have always favored one ply billing for insurables, not necessarily the 10 but those favorable ages who keep all the doors open in winter and the remark on how cold it is, or the fuel who comes up to you on the beach when your back is like a hamstrung. Takes a step at it and asks you how you feel Then there is the chap who always says he wishes you were here, five minutes ago, we just left it the last. All these would be nice to hear, merry for those left behind

The Legion Carnival drew a poor crowd and all seemed to enjoy it. Various games of skill and [illegible] nets There was fun for all The door prize, a watch was won by a Mrs [illegible] of the Carnival committee.

Mr. Geo. Marlow attended the 1 Conference in Red Deer [illegible] her absence her school room is in charge of daughter June

The regular house and school meeting was held, I guess No detail.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Red Is For Danger

By Prescott Chaplin

DAVE TAYLOR was the line's redfaced longshoreman boss. He had soft guts and stout women. He stood during the loading of [illegible] steel on a high water tide, the watches groaning on a voice called out:

"Dave, can I speak to you?"

It skimmed the ship of a girl on the dock it heard the ship "Cripes," he growled "This is a fine time to talk."

The crew grinned, but not so Dave's mates, as the girl came up the gangway. Chic Crisp and starched as a day that would have melted to waterproofs

"I'm sorry, Dave, but it's about Herb. He's been arrested."

Dave almost said "Good!" but lashed his tongue. "What's the hell?"

"For murder. I haven't got it." Neither have I

The girl's lip trembled.

"I'll rustle it up at once. You mixtures come here," he said "Sit down out of the way."

"I'd rather tell what happened."

"Shoot it," Dave snapped. "I need it ten minutes. Can't you see you're making a fool out of me in front of [illegible]?"

"I'm sorry, Dave."

"Sit down!"

At once Dave capped out the last order and practically pushed the girl [illegible] gallery. When he came back, his face was crimson. "I got me a M [illegible] of the [illegible] company. Me Geo. Marlow attended the I Conference in Red Deer [illegible] her absence her school room is in charge of daughter June

The regular house and school meeting was held, I guess No detail.

With the number of accidents there are to travel, and the repeated warnings we get to drive safely it this wash up is not good enough

Mrs. A. Arneson has been transferred from Hardisty hospital to the Home at Camrose

"Herb wants as much to you as he does to me."

"That's what you think. You keep him."

"He's your brother."

"A loss."

"Dave Taylor," said the girl, "I think I'm beginning to hate you."

"Sounds reasonable. You've got the dough you came after."

"I don't know if I have you."

That was that—until half an hour later his brother and the girl came up the gangplank where Dave was loading rail for Europe

The first thing Dave noticed was a grin on a stevedore's face. His face mottled. "Get off this ship or I'll drop ten tons of steel on you; negro!" Dave threatened his younger brother through his teeth.

"You can't do this to her." Herb said as grinding witches groaned. "I'll kill you, Brut."

"Drop it, easy." Dave shouted to the winch drivers. "Lively there on deck with those guide lines! Ready it? Then under his breath. "I'll knock you cold if you don't take her and get off this ship."

"Dave" gasped the brother, "this is your last chance."

The man to murder in Dave's steely eyes when a rigger shouted "Look out below! The cable's breakin!"

Seconds later the ends of a frayed cable knocked the girl to the [illegible]

"She's yours," said Dave

"Yours, Dave" retorted the other "Always has been. She's sorry for me because I'm a drunken bum and [illegible] brother."

The ship's surgeon was dressing a cut on the girl's shoulder when Dave leaned down to demand "What was that five hundred bucks for?"

"It . . . wasn't bad. It was money I refunded to keep Herb out of the [illegible]

Quiet, said the surgeon to the two men

Dave's temper ignited. Al hards had feared the girl bribed the surgeon aside to face him "Look. It's my fault. You thought I was in love with Herb, and he thought I was giving you up. I had to find out what Herb was doing and when I did I came to you for the money to pay it all back."

"Why didn't you tell me all this?" demanded Dave

"Because sometimes when a man's afraid of being disgraced he puts up such a tough front no one can talk to him. He's too concerned with what the world thinks or says to see things for himself, even to the point of letting himself believe that his brother's weakness for easy money is a disgrace his wife can't share or protect him from."

This time Dave's face was really red. She was his wife and, at last, he knew he had it coming to him

Entitled To A "Sir"

Robert Charles Gunning, farmer in Alberta's Peace River district, is entitled to a "Sir" before his name following the death of a cousin, Sir Charles Gunning in London. Henry on his pioneer farm seven miles northeast of Peace River, Sir Robert was in no hurry to make his way to town and talk about his honour. Here he puts the finishing touches on a hammer mill to prepare feed for his hogs. Sir Robert (Charles Gunning is the 69-year-old father of three sons who saw service with the Royal Canadian Air Force in the Second World War. The cunning inventor, created in 1738, was granted to Sir Robert Gunning, a soldier in Britain's diplomatic service who served in Germany and Russia.

A Sign Of Appreciation

DURING THE WAR Canada and the United States gave sanctuary to many brave children from the United Kingdom who otherwise would have been exposed to the danger of constant bombing attacks in their own countries. While this was undertaken as a purely humanitarian effort, it resulted in a much closer understanding between the people of the three countries concerned. Some arrangements ended unhappily, but for the most part the children from the United Kingdom enjoyed the experience and many of them have returned to make permanent homes here. Others purrounded their families to come here after the war and a number of British families have been settled in Canada and the United States in this manner.

* * * * *

Trust Fund Is Set Up

As a result of the hospitality extended by the Canadian and American people during the war, the parents of the children who came here from the United Kingdom have set up a trust fund under the name of the Kinsmen Trust were entertained recently at the English speaking Union in London by Sir Frederick White chairman of the Kinsmen Trust. This is one of many ways in which the people of the United Kingdom are showing appreciation to those in this country who were able to render assistance during the war years. The group of people who have established the Trust fund are not only showing in a tangible way their gratitude for what was done for their children during the war, but are also encouraging further understanding and goodwill among the countries concerned. Undertakings of this kind do not always attract wide attention, but they should not be overlooked, for they are among the more encouraging events of the post war years.

Fourteen Are Made Welcome

The fourteen young people from the United States and Canada who are now studying in England as guests of the Kinsmen Trust were entertained recently at the English speaking Union in London. This is one of many ways in which the people of the United Kingdom are showing appreciation to those in this country who were able to render assistance during the war years. The group of people who have established the Trust fund are not only showing in a tangible way their gratitude for what was done for their children during the war, but are also encouraging further understanding and goodwill among the countries concerned. # The Last Bit Of Milk

Paul, (left), and Norman Hanges from Aded, Alberta, teach their calves to drink the last bit of milk from the edge of the pail so as to prevent a struggle with the calf in taking the pail away. They teach them by putting the edge of the pail in the calf's mouth along with their fingers.

Shortage Of Horses Seen

OTTAWA. — Production on many Canadian farms may be endangered within two or three years by a nationwide shortage of work horses, a federal horse expert said.

Dr. F. J. Leslie a director of the Agricultural department's animal health division said the shortage would develop unless Canada's farmers started immediately on a large-scale horse-breeding program.

"Breeding of foals and yearlings by Canadian farmers has dropped to the danger point and is not sufficient to ensure replacements," Leslie said. "If breeding continues to decrease, many farmers soon will find it impossible to get enough horses to work their farms."

Less and less there were about 1,900,000 farm horses in Canada. The minimum number of mature animals required by the nation's farmers.

His said breeding had dropped to a low where it represented only about 4.10 per cent, and said this was a dangerously low figure".

He urged farmers to take immediate action to bring the percentage up to 10 or 12.

"At least 10 per cent of the work horse population should be produced foals and yearlings to assure a future supply of horses," he said. "Unless this percentage is reached soon, there will be a severe shortage of horses on farms in the next few years."

He said a large horse population was necessary because 600,000 of Canada's 700,000 farms depended on the animals for power, and that most big farms using tractors and other mechanical equipment also needed horse teams to perform a number of jobs.

To Receive Award For Rescue Effort

FLIN FLON, Man.—A certificate for bravery will be awarded to Jim Strand of Winnipeg, formerly of Flin Flon, "for his heroic but unsuccessful attempt to save the life of Vlasi Lass, drowned near here last July." It was announced by Ken Dodge, president of the Flin Flon branch of the Red Cross.

The presentation will be made in Winnipeg by a representative of the Manitoba Red Cross.

Schemo Instrumental In Raising Funds For Worthy Causes

ROCANVILLE, Sask.—A cement mixer and a wheel chair have been instrumental in raising funds for worthy causes.

Both articles have netted substantial contributions for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, the Canadian Peace congress, the Aid to China Fund and the Orange Benevolent Home at Indian Head, Sask.

Built by Mr Symons of Rocanville the mixer was intended for the owner's use, and the chair for one of a friend. The two articles were borrowed so often, Mr. Symons decided to rent them out and donate the proceeds to charities. In 1943-44 the cement mixer brought in a total of $70. From 1945-50 it netted $125.

SIGNS OIL DEAL

REGINA. — Alberta Oil Corp., a subsidiary of the Pancanadian Oil Co. and holder of nine oil permits in Saskatchewan totalling 1,956,800 acres, has made a long-term $2,380,000 deal with the government for development of the property, it was announced by the bureau of publications and Resources Minister J. H. Brockelbank.

Farm Prices Down In 1949--First Decline In 10 Years

OTTAWA. — Canadian farm prices were down in 1949, the first decline in 18 years. However, the general average still remained more than 2½ times higher than during the 1935-39 period. The bureau of statistics reported that farm prices of Canadian agricultural products dropped 1.3 per cent. from the 1948 record high of 252.6 to 251.3. This index is based on 1935-39 equals 100.

Responsible for the over-all drop were declines in prices of grains, dairy products, potatoes, vegetables and furs. Increased prices of livestock, poultry and eggs, fruits, lumber and maple products failed to make up the loss.

The regional picture showed that there were small increases in Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. These were offset by decreases in the other provinces.

Here are the indices for the western provinces, with 1948 figures in brackets:

Manitoba 231.9 (254.6); Saskatchewan 238.4 (238.3); Alberta 257.2 (256.3), and British Columbia 304 (299.1).

During December there were price decreases from December, 1948, in almost all commodities. Compared with last November, however, the index for livestock and dairy products were higher while potatoes, poultry and eggs were down. General indexes in all provinces were down from the same month a year ago.

The bureau reported that lower grain prices were largely a result of government authorization of the wheat board to undertake marketing of western oats and barley delivered by producers during the 1949-50 crop year.

Under this arrangement the wheat board pays to producers on delivery of these grains an initial payment only. Not included in present figures is the money which will later be paid to farmers in the form of participation payments.

The bureau gives a statistical review of farm price indexes dating back to 1935. The review shows a drop from 1935-39 to 1939 but yearly increases from then on, right up to 1948.

Here are the indexes for the last 12 years:

1935—88. 1936—90.9; 1937—110.7; 1938—108; 1939—104.3; 1940—96.8; 1941 — 110.2; 1942 — 133.1; 1943 — 152.8. 1944—172.1. 1945—184.2. 1946 — 209.8; 1947 — 212.5. 1948 — 252.6 (all-time high); 1949—251.3

"Have you ever tried gin and ginger beer?" asked the friend.

"No," replied the magistrate, "but I've tried a lot of folks who have."

* * *

Two men both noted for their caution when it came to money, met in the street.

"Well, well," said one, "fancy running into you. I was just looking for someone to lend me ten bob."

"Is that so?" replied the other. "Well, you've got a nice day for it."

* * *

Wife: "Well, dear, I'll meet you at the Biltmore at twelve for lunch."

Husband: "All right, but please don't be any later than one."

In a North-country shipyard noted for its hustle and speed the stage was set for the launching ceremony. The distinguished guest, holding the traditional bottle of champagne, exclaimed in some unwilderment: "But there's no ship."

Rejoind the foreman: "Start swinging that bottle lady. There will be."

* * *

"How did the wedding go off?"

"Fine, until the parson asked the bride if she'd obey her husband."

"What happened then?"

"She replied, 'Do you think I'm crazy?' and the bridegroom who was in a sort of daze, replied, 'I do'."

Some genius can make a fortune if he will invest a woman's purse with a zipper at the bottom. That's where they always find what they want.

* * *

The farmer had watched the motorist working on his wornout hand car for about an hour. "What are you looking at?" asked the motorist. "Is this the first motorcar you ever saw?"

"No," was the reply, "but it's very much like it."

* * *

The rich uncle wrote to his nephew: "I am sending you the $10 you requested, but must draw your attention to a spelling error in your last letter; 10 is written with one nought, not two."

* * *

A friend called upon a guest at a hotel, knocked, and called him to open the door.

"Can't, dear's locked," the latter called out.

"Well, unlock it."

"Can't, have no key."

"Great Scott, man! What will you do if there's a fire?"

"Can't go."

Canadian Eggs May Be Exported To United States

REGINA —Canadian eggs may be exported to the United States this summer, D. L. Davis, Vancouver, president of the Saskatchewan poultry association, said here.

Though the United States itself has an egg surplus, Mr. Davis said Canada eggs might be shipped to the southern states. These would serve as examples to egg producers in setting up proposed new grading systems.

Eggs now are graded in most northern states but the surplus of quality eggs there is not large enough for shipment south.

WAR GRAVES IN FAR EAST ARE WELL KEPT

OTTAWA —External Affairs Minister Pearson said during his tour of the Far East he visited the graves of Canadian soldiers at Hong Kong and Tokyo.

"I have visited many cemeteries, but I have never seen one better kept than those at Hong Kong and Tokyo," said Mr. Pearson.

An Important Announcement about NEW MARGENE

When the sale of Margarine in Canada became legal 12 months ago, MARGENE was the first brand to appear on the market.

At that time Margarine had been banned from Canada for 25 years. There was no way of knowing what flavour and what texture would best appeal to the Canadian palate.

In the intervening 12 months, Canada Packers has carried on week-to-week tests to find out exactly the flavour Canadians wish.

We feel we have it in the NEW MARGENE—the flavour and the texture Canadians like,

If you have not tasted the NEW MARGENE try it now.

SPREAD IT on hot toast.
SERVE IT with hot vegetables.
BAKE with it.

You will like the NEW MARGENE

Personal Stuff

— M. A. W. —

It has always been a source of amusement to me, since the inception of pensions, it is not on the interest of the people to keep those men who have spent their government pensions. I noted recently that of certain economies and minor certain commissions it may be advisable not to discontinue the information should be discussed. The government is the people and the people have a right to know what is going about in detail and how it is spending the taxpayer's money. To simply say that it is not in the public interest, is not enough For instance in calling for tenders for public works, it may be that while the deal is being put through things should be kept quiet, but once the deal is completed the public has a right to know all about it. And so I say that our Ministers in charge of various departments should add a phrase to that is not a statement it should entail this this. It is not in the public interest AT PRESENT, but will be made known at the proper time

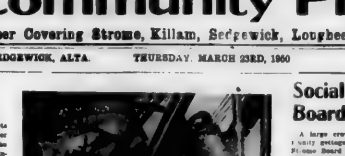
* * * *

If I now when farmers are looking forward to getting back on the land, farm papers and government booklets are loaded with advice on proper tillage methods and warnings of the dangers to follow if proper methods are not followed. Perhaps the assertion of a Cheetown Indian came up in a few words what our government has taken reams of paper to try and put across may be taken by some as a boast but I believe there is what this Indian says about his white brother:

"White man crazy. Make big tepee. Have hill. Water trash; wind blow sell. Grass gone, sand come. No grass, window gone; whole place blow; Indian make tepee. Grass gone. Squaw too. Papoose gone. No pig, no corn, no cow no hay, no gone. Indian no place hard. Keep grass. Buffalo and Indian eat buffalo. Hide make teepee, make moccasin. Indian no make no farm, no build dam; no give down. All time eat. No hunt job, no hitch hike, no ask relief. No cheat pig Great Spirit make grass, Indian no waste anything Indian no work White man heap boss."

* * * *

Now if someone will kindly tell me why radio studio audiences have to be seen with mirth before the listener-in believes has heard the joke, I will put this issue to bed.



Building the Interprovincial Pipe Line Company's 1,150 mile oil line from Edmonton to Lake Superior is a big job which demands big machines. This massive ditch digger can scoop out a trench five feet deep and a mile long in a single day.

Social Evening By Strome Board of Trade Enjoyed

A large crowd attended the community get-together sponsored by the Strome Board of Trade which was held on Tuesday March 15th.

The evening's entertainment began with a one hour film program of educational topics, followed by a 500 card party, with 32 tables in play. Mr. M. Lahusen was ladies' first prize while Mr. H.V. Phipps took top honors for the men. Mrs. Short, Mrs G Clark Jr., Mr J Hosmer and Leo Miller finished off with the traveling prizes. Leo Miller was also the lucky winner of the door prize. Everyone then partook of a delicious lunch served by the ladies.

St Patrick's Day celebrations got away to an early start when local talent provided music for dancing.

Little Judy Van Meer accompanied Mrs. Marlow from Red Deer to spend a few days with her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Skoberg.

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Probst and Harold Probst spent a few days in the city last week.

Little Bobbie Ann Kirkman of Irma is visiting her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. F. Kirkman, while her parents are attending a Leaders' Convention in Calgary.

Little Lorne Grainger had a bit of tough luck when he ran into a hot stove and received a nasty burn on his arm which required hospital attention But cheer up Lorne, you are able to be out and around which is more than you could do if you had measles, Mumps like a lot of others.

Born- To Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McDonell on March 10th at Sault St. Marie, Ont. a 9 pound baby girl. Congrats to the happy parents and also to the grandma, Mrs. B. J. Hoke.

The F. Kirkman spent Sunday a last week as guests of the R. Kiefers at Hardisty.

Well, March 17th started out really beautiful and bright and all the world had an emerald hue, and then, bang, the storm changed. A friend of mine (he was until then) invited me to have an orange crush. Shades of Dan O'Connor, eeeeeh, he sneered at me forcing an Irishman of my type say- thing orange on St. Patrick's day? Then I received a lovely green St Patrick card from my daughter with an appropriate verse, and did it have a shamrock on it? I'll say it didn't. All it had was green. What an idea of fitness some people have. I complain bitterly, but if it had had the thistle, shamrock and rose com... but as it was, never.

Elmer Thereon left last week for points North of Edmonton with the view of picking up some land. However he expects to be back to put in the summer with Chris Lunde before locating permanently elsewhere.

Mrs Carol McIver of Kelowna, B. C. is paying a short visit at the Dave Walmsley home while looking after the latter's interests here. She has broken her trip at Calgary to visit with her son and daughter who reside in the south country. She reports Glenn is good health and he sends greetings to all his old friends here.

The Lougheed Legion postponed social evening for members and their families, will be held on April 2rd. All arrangements have been made for an evening's fun and entertainment, and an oozie lunch. Please make a point of attending.

Miss Idoonamay Cookson has accepted a position at Sedgewick.

Our old townsman Al Hobson was here a few days last week visiting old friends and shipping the balance of his furniture to Edmonton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. French of Hardisty visited at the R. Barnes.

The Lougheed Board of Trade regular meeting on the 16th was well attended and considerable business was transacted. New members are joining each month and on the whole things are running smoothly

EASTER TEA PLANNED BY STRONE C. W. L.

Plans for a spring tea to be held Easter Saturday, April 9th at 2 p. m. in Strone Memorial hall, were made at the regular monthly meeting of the Strone Catholic Women's League held on March 15th in the Parish hall

Miss Doris Peddewa was hostess at the meeting when twenty-one members attended. Plans were also made to hold a food shower before Easter for the Orphan boys of St. Mary's Home in Edmonton. Members are kindly asked to leave their donations with Mrs. A. Moorke as soon as it is possible. A spiritual bouquet for our Holy Father the Pope was made up for the Holy Year.

A nomination committee was elected to take charge of nominations and election of officers at annual meeting in April. This meeting will be held the week entire due to Easter fall on the regular meeting day.

Following adjournment the hostess was assisted by Mrs. J. Heisler, Miss A. Kroha and Mrs. A. Lorenz in serving a lovely lunch.

Considering it is just in the formative stage Many more members are needed and with the aim of true local aid and for sure this organization can be a power for good in our village and district. Join now.

Mrs. Vic Emerson formerly of this district but now of Sedgewick, dropped in the other day. Vic is still in Camp at Wainwright. We reviewed the old times and friends we are always do when these old times drop in to see me.

George Riedsch is engaged in body work in Sedgewick Motors and Electric, and commenced duty between his home here and Sedgewick.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—
Happy Ending
By Jessie O. Wennesheimp
(The Man Who Knew Women)

IT WOULD take a minor miracle to bring this day to a happy conclusion. Mary Cody, sitting alone, watched the last few hurrying customers demount the lunch room after the noon-hour rush. Her cup had been refilled, and she signalled the waitress for another pot of tea.

No this is it," she thought. "For two years I've live on schedule. Ten days out of the office at twelve-thirty. Every lunch, maybe sharp here around Le Gael. Arriving in the city they went to friendly house and then somebody home, on following the trip of the old west they went at once to make their needs and display me themselves at home until evening their friends showed up to a late time, next morning they caused to train to visit Fred Draper with the knowledge that he lived once Beaver something, but on second they found they had to choose between Beaver river, Beaver stream or Beaver dam, which was not very significant name to, but eventually native came to their rescue and I carted them to Fred's, going out not at home, but by this time they did give a beaver or any other name to the creature. They went to, rammered to harder, had supper and after making arrangements for the next table all evening finally had to go without their host. Then they found the service superior to that at noted, first in new a night to, reg, then remnants of a to-a-to on a table and finally there is a table in what should have been an empty room. Well, in spite of all their visit was had. My advice girls is the next time squander a couple of pair ago stamps and to the other friend of time of your arrival

She pictured herself climbing the stairs to the little apartment. The spacious rules of the invalid, so dependent for everything — for home, for care, for lunch with his

Could she keep such a secret? Could she, while her small savings lasted, leave in the morning, and, while she looked for work, maintain the illusion?

And when the money was gone, what then?

"It's not fair," thought Mary. "The young man who comes calling for all you ever dreamed of, but he can't take on the support of your ailing husband. You can't ask him to marry But the months slip by, and your salary barely covers payments, Dr. Hall doctor's bills keep piling up. There's never anything to save toward that new Future.

"The young man is patient, but gradually stops calling so frequently. Apologetically, then defensively, he makes excuses. Then he sees the excuses and the calls stop.

"Well, you're still young. There's in other young men . . . and in the meantime, there's the job and companionship. You're pretty lucky to be needed. Plenty of time for marriage and children . . . plenty of time . . .

The tea room was amply now, except for the waitress, eyeing Mary with disfavor.

As if chill fingers had touched her, she pulled her coat over her shoulders, and fumbled in her bag for a few coins She placed them on the table, and pushed her chair back and left. She almost ran from the waitress's astonished glance across the street.

The elevator operator said, "You're late from lunch, eh, Miss Cody?" and whished her to the sixth floor.

Mary Cody entered the office. Without removing her coat, she called, "May I see you a moment, Miss Simpson?"

A woman whose red-rimmed eyes were attempting to conceal a stack of record cards, looked up.

"Yes, Miss Cody," she replied in a small voice, and the tears welled into a glass-walled office.

"Miss Simpson," said Mary Cody, "I want you to forget what I said this morning. We needn't have been very much."

"Oh, Miss Cody, you mean I'm not fired? I can stay?"

"As long as you want to."

"Miss Cody, I'll be more careful. I won't make mistakes, you'll see. I've just had so much on my mind . . . my mother, you know." She brushed a tear away. "Miss Cody, you'll never know what this means to me."

Mary Cody smiled as she hung her coat in the office closet. "Forget it, President".

"I think I know just what it means," she said.

Schemo Was Successful

Bert Earle, Bay Trail, Sask., and his brother decided to overcome the barley blot spring and had great success. They bought muskets intending to net the crowds by shooting the grain around but were not satisfied with the idea on thought of the scheme of hotting the Bills engine to the harvest mixer and farming mill. Soon almost farming mill and covered mixer sitting in the half box. Barley is poured into the farming mill grain, shovelled into the mixer, covered mixed. This is stirred and then the grain is dumped into waiting trough and then shovelled into bin in granary. Picture was taken when northeast wind was blowing so they didn't have to bother with masks.

Statistics Show Farm Wages Down

OTTAWA—A downward trend in farm wages was noted by the bureau of statistics.

Farm workers were getting an average of $3.63 a day plus board in January, a drop of 41 cents from the 1954 average for the year.

Without board, the average daily rate was reported at $4.82, down 43 cents from last year's $4.97.

Urge Manitobans To Tour Province
PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. — Contending the assumption of some "piano-dwellers" that Manitoba was necessarily flat and uninteresting, Judge R. H. Fisher, guest speaker at a dinner meeting "of the Lion's club, urged local business men to make a tour of the province and become acquainted with its geographical and geophysical features. He felt this was having a duty as they would be more able to "take care" to interest tourists in their own province. They should be charmed with the variety of scenery and way of living that exists in many districts. Small more remote areas of their respective ability in keeping and preserving them.

"The future of Manitoba, of this municipality, indeed of this country, depends on you. See that you do something about it," he concluded.

Regular medical and dental checkups can do much to aid in combating disease, and are major factors in the maintenance of health.

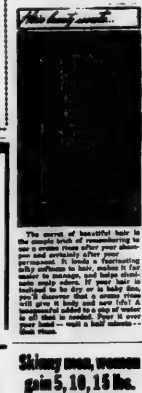
Busy Bees meeting was held at the home of Helen Draper last week and bridge was again the event of the evening, honors going to Margaret Mathison and Helen Draper.

Two high school rinks journeyed to Killam for the banspiel last Sat. Rinks were skipped by Faye Terry and Hunter Bennefield, supported by Bert Terry, Verlene Quinney, Bill Draper and Carl Wright; Hank Terry and Yvonne Harrison. Faye's rink came home with 3rd in the Second are but the other was not so lucky.

Ralph Hobson had to undergo hospital treatment one day last week as a result of having his eyes while doing some welding work.



The secret of beautiful hair is the simple brisk of remembering to use a creme rinse after your shampoo and certainly after your permanent. It lends a fascinating silky softness to hair, makes it fair easier to manage, and helps eliminate ugly odors. If your hair is destined to be dry or is baby fine, you'll discover that a creme rinse will give it body and new life! A few drops added to a cup of water is all that is needed. Pour it over hair — wait a half minute — then rinse.

Progress In Housing

HOUSING HAS IN RECENT YEARS become a problem not only in Canada but in many other parts of the world where the war interfered with the process of keeping the supply of homes in proportion to the demand for them. In Canada there has been an extensive building programme since the war. According to figures given in the Canada Year Book, 70,000 new dwelling units were completed in 1947, and the number rose to considerably more than 80,000 in 1948. In spite of the fact that there have been so much activity in building, the supply of low cost dwellings has not kept up with the need for them, especially in industrial centres where there are large numbers of families with moderate incomes.

• • • •

Research To Be Undertaken

The increasing activity in construction work during the past five years has made building the second largest industry in Canada and has brought about new legislation both federal and provincial, to facilitate the financing and appropriation of new homes and to regulate community planning. Another recent development in this connection is the setting up of a Division of Building Research by the National Research Council for the purpose of investigating construction methods, materials, and many other matters related to building. The effects of soil and snow on building materials and the recommendation to fire are among the many problems upon which research is being done by the department.

• • • •

Work Has Been Done in Past

The practical applications of research to building has only recently been recognized, although some important work has been done in the past to overcome difficulties in certain regions. An almost insurmountable obstacle, which has been of great value in certain parts of the West, was encroached at the University of Saskatchewan some years ago, and work has also been done in other fields. However, the extensive programme undertaken by the National Research Council is expected to contribute a great deal of new and valuable information regarding building in Canada. With the wide variations in climate and the varied needs of the population, ranging from homes for industrial workers and farmers in moderate climates to farm dwellings on the prairies and accommodation for those living in the coastal regions, it is apparent that there is ample opportunity for research into the many problems which builders must meet. It will be interesting to observe the effect of this work upon Canadian homes of the future.

Dominion Junior Curling Champions

A rink from Regina's Scott Collegiate, Saskatchewan's representatives in the Canadian junior curling championships at Quebec City, came back after winning two games and losing two games with a brilliant display of curling to win five games straight to capture the Canadian title and the Ritchie trophy. Left to right: Bill Clarke, skip; Jerry Carlson, third; Ian Innes, second; and Harold Granzie, lead.

Two Asbestos Finds Made In Saskatchewan

REGINA.—Two promising asbestos deposits have been discovered in northern Saskatchewan, it was learned here. The asbestos finds were made at Reindeer lake, 100 miles northwest of Flin Flon, and Ruth lake, 30 miles southwest of Flin Flon.

Two of the largest asbestos companies in Canada are known to be interested in possible asbestos development in the province.

The companies are expected to carry out further investigations this summer.

Summer-time explorations has put been made of the asbestos discoveries, they are believed to be much more promising than previous finds in the province which proved to be commercially unfeasible.

With higher freight rates now in effect and extensive construction now under way in the west, the asbestos companies are expected to investigate any possibility of western commercial development.

An asbestos plant located in Saskatchewan would be in a central position in terms of the entire west, Mr. James Bolnar, provincial director of mineral resources, said.

FUNNY and OTHERWISE

"A blustery old colonel was walking up to his favorite pond. He called out to an angler on the opposite bank: 'Well! What are they taking today?' The fisherman looked across the river with the dreamy eyes of a sainted addict and replied: 'No notice'."

The food at home is cheaper far, And often more delicious, But when you leave the restaurant You also leave the dishes."

• • • •

"Elsie told me she likes the sound of Fergie's voice," said Mary.

"Yes," Jane replied, "she thinks there's a ring in it."

• • • •

"I wouldn't have minded the things you said," grumbled hubby, "but I didn't like being called only half a man."

"Half," she replied sweetly, "I did not."

"No?"

"No. I said, 'If you were only half a man'."

• • • •

It was the sidy's concert, and the song was "Asleep in the deep". The singer had got well and truly deep when an awful voice from the back of the hall was heard:

"Throw out a depth charge, gunner, and bring him to the surface!"

• • • •

The elderly man in a restaurant made several attempts to flirt with the pretty young waitress who was serving him.

Finally, when she brought his dessert, he grew a little bolder.

"My dear," he purred, "where have you been all my life?"

"Well, grandpa," answered the waitress, sweetly, "for the first forty years, anyway, I probably wasn't born."

• • • •

At a party, one woman called across the room to another: "I have been wondering, my dear, why you weren't invited to the Asterbilts' last week."

"Why," the woman smiled, "isn't that a coincidence?" she said. "I was just wondering why you weren't."

Planning To Search Market For Tar Sands

EDMONTON.—The Alberta Government is not planning to operate its tar sands plant at Bitumont this summer, it was learned.

Satisfied they have found the proper method of separation of the oil from the sands, the government is planning more research as to markets for the products which can be taken from the plant.

The plant, being watched during the winter by a skeleton staff, is on the Athabasca River, north of McMurray.

Vancouver Woman's Sight Coming Back

VANCOUVER.—There was a smile on her face and a little sight in one eye as Mrs. Mary Clarkson came home from Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., recently to the arms of her three children.

The Mayo eye specialists had not been able to help her, but on the trip home, for some unexplained reason, one eye began to see again.

"It's wonderful," beamed her husband Tom, who accompanied her East. "Mary was blind when we left Vancouver. Now she can recognize me and the children again."

It was not so much the slight improvement but the hope that it would continue until she could really see again, that had brought joy to Mrs. Clarkson and the little family.

BRITISH CLAIM RECORD BREAKER BY HEAVY COW

DURHAM, England.—A seven-year old cow, named Moore Purified Dana, claimed the world's daily milk production record for Jerseys. Professor R. W. Whalden of Durham University, the cow's owner, reported her milk production for 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. at 108½ pounds. He said the old record for Jerseys was 96½ pounds.

RECIPES

VEGETABLE SUPPER LOAF

2 cups white sauce
2 egg yolks, well beaten
2 cups cooked mixed vegetables
1 cup fresh bread crumbs
3 teaspoons chopped parsley
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 can condensed tomato soup
4 tablespoons fat.

Make 2 cups white sauce and add the well-beaten egg yolks. Add all other ingredients except tomato soup and fat.

Pour into a well-greased casserole and bake at 350°, about 30 to 35 minutes.

Serve with a tomato sauce which is made by heating the tomato soup with the 4 tablespoons fat. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs.

DELIGHTS

½ pound marshmallows
½ pound pitted, chopped dates
½ pound chopped nuts
½ pound shredded coconut

Cut marshmallows into top part of double boiler and melt. Add dates and nuts. Drop by spoonfuls into shredded coconut. Roll and cool on wax paper.

Serve as a confection or small cake.

Every thinking person will concede that the control of motor traffic is one of the nation's greatest civic problems. The problem is greater than fire, for it annually takes more lives and destroys more property; greater than crime, for it involves all humanity. Every man, woman, child or infant that walks or rides is a possible victim every minute he is upon the public roadway or street.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

A Wedding for Susie Who Was Supplied.

By William D. Edwards

IT WASN'T an ordinary wedding by any means. Susie Bates knew there would be from the moment she first realized that Bert was ready to pop the question. And she knew it would be different when, during the proposal, Bert had said that he'd like to make a path for Sergeant Murphy and her to go down the aisle.

The Sarge was frankly shaking with laughter when Susie's father came to Stan's aid.

Nothing to it. Blow for dining room, and carry on. It's just a matter of ... [illegible] ... Sergeant Murphy ... [illegible] ... Susie's eyes sparkled. Something ... "And did you believe me?" he asked.

A grand bunch of fresh ... [illegible] ... Sergeant Murphy was tucked in ... [illegible] ... I guess could be ... [illegible] ... what this Indian ... [illegible] ... not too rash to be making a mistake like that. Yy forgot about dining ... [illegible] ... Stan had all and for ... [illegible] ... It seemed such a little ... [illegible] ... and, when you come right down to it, he's not ... [illegible] ... With Stan's hand tightly in hers ... Stan said solemnly, "If Stan has made a promise, we will keep it ... [illegible] ... Sergeant Murphy ... [illegible] ... "Yes, sir," ... [illegible] ... "Stan has handled it ... [illegible] ... Stan doesn't ... [illegible] ... Stan's not ... [illegible] ... Stan's not ... [illegible] ... Stan's not

Win Performance Tests

Ford and Mercury stock car models entered themselves with glory by their economical performance in the first post-war holding of the inland Alpine economy Run, February 26th. The grand award was won by a 1950 stock [illegible] which turned in a phenomenal [illegible] and a 61.2711 ton-miles-per-gallon record in covering the gruelling 751-mile course at an average speed of 40.016. In Canadian gallons the figures would be 51.2 miles per gallon and 73.58 ton miles per gallon.

A 1950 Ford DeLuxe stock model finished in first place in its class by defeating the other two entries, Chevrolet and Plymouth by nearly two miles per gallon. The Ford averaged 23.52 miles a gallon and 48.57 ton miles per gallon at an average speed of 41.34 miles per hour. The cars completed over a gruelling course that took them through the brailler hills of Death Valley and below sea level altitudes to the 7000 foot mark on the rim of the Grand Canyon

Personal Stuff

— By A. W. B. —

It is about time that Governments, both provincial and federal awakened to the fact that its members are servants of the people and not their masters. It is time they took into individual members of government, awakened to the fact that they are responsible solely to the people, more particularly to the people in the constituency from which he or she was sent as a representative. When and if this awakening ever takes place we will have several men in our midst sources of discontent with government mismanagement. But this is most cases, that despite the waste of constituents, instances will occur with the government, and since no one we have mentioned is any better qualified of the wastes in question, we have governments who are serving under false pretenses. I would venture to say that many mistakes would vote with the party in power in the wishes of the majority of the constituents that he or she represents. It is refreshing indeed to have such insurgents as Mr. Wray. It was not too long ago that we had never [illegible] C. Gundlock sleep over the [illegible] Alberta, and in spite of opposition to the contrary, I am convinced that he is the more brought the Alberta Government somewhat to time.

The bevel that has been raised in Alberta over the proposed Income Act should be a warning to politicians. Members of the government should carefully. The people don't like it, and it is the government's duty not to put this bill at the present session. If it does pass it, then it remains only for us to conclude that the opinion of constituents has no bearing on government policy. We have enough to bear without contributing to the [illegible] tion and taxation now. Let's not go further into this. It is time we were [illegible] de-concentration; time to settle subsidies and controls; time to give Canada back to be people.

I have been watching the progress, or lack of it, being made by our organized municipal Districts and our enlarged school divisions, and if the present trends continue I see the day approaching when we are going to have one of the most unholy messes on our hands that we've ever had. These enlarged units have whetted the appetites of the citizens and they clear hunger for more improvements and lower taxes in getting beyond ability to sustain. The two just don't go together. The units are too big for the money available. There is waste too, which under the circumstances can't be avoided. Our Central and School Board members are underpaid and in some instances are out of pocket carrying on the work.

Now our government wants to make the system bigger and more unworkable. Up goes administration costs and maintenance costs; up goes the demands of the people; up goes the taxation burden; down goes the government grants. Enough is enough

We've become so used to subsidies that we take them for granted. If we don't get enough for our wheat legislate for a subsidy. It's the thing to do nowadays. Some way we find that practically our entire economic system is built on a false structure. And that we are maintaining it on a false level of prices. It is a shaky structure and its foundation is weak. Once it begins to topple the entire structure will collapse. It is time to do something, to scale off gradually and get back on a firm footing. Let's get back to a position where we can live and do away with a bit of our favored protections Let's get back to the standing on our own feet. Let's forget making our personal security our one aim in life.

Overflow Crowd Attends Talent Night At Killam

An overflow crowd in the Kinette Theatre last Friday evening was entertained by members of the Young People's Society, in a program of a wide variety of talent.

The opening number included the chorus singing "Dear Hearts as Gentle Hands" short readings by Doris Reed and Jean Ridout, [illegible]on, "Lady Marmalade." This was followed by a solo "Easter Parade" by Barbara Fae. Something new to Killam was rendered by Mr. Hi [illegible] of Sedgewick with his puppet Mrs. Elmer & Elmer selection Back to Spring— by Zerah Clegg of Dayalind was enjoyed by all.

Cowboy numbers followed, opened with—Tumbling Tumbleweed and Blue Jeans and Bows, followed by a duet by Doris Reed and Elwood Ostlund.

—Have I Told You Lately. Then to young folks showed to something in square dances, called by Lee Palmer and music supplied by Mrs. Annett and Bert and Bill Palmer. Closing selection of this part was "Home On The Range". Solo vocalist was by Lorraine Kortgaard and a reading in French Canadian dialect by A.W. Cyr followed.

The humorous part of the program followed when Doug and Gordon Palmer, Phil MacLachlan as the Andrew Sisters, sang—Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! They really stole the show. Mr Beech of Forestburg entertained for a short time several sleight of hand tricks to the amusement of all present

The grand finale, with all the cast of characters was a Hillbilly Wedding, with Gordon Forster as Mr. Interlocutor. This included the characters of Mrs. O Shanahan; Iris Tucky Home, chorus Carry Me Back to Old Virginy, Sleepy Time Campers Bacon Home Nelson of Camrose with a dialete monologue was enjoyed, as was the assisted Kentucky Babe and Old Man River, with Hugh Roberts taking the solo part. Also included was pianist and Hugh Roberts the musical director. Members of the chorus were Kathleen and Doreen Nickel, Doris Reed; Jean Roberts; Ken Grant, Darryl Bennett, Ralph Hermanson and Elwood Murray. — Cowboy Number. included the chorus and Carole Olson sang Cowboy Blues

"I'm just on my way to the bank"

He is just one of the hundreds who during the day will drop into the branch bank around the corner.

Savings depositors with their pay cheques . . . retail merchants with the day's cash . . . people consulting the manager about loans, others cashing cheques . . . it is all part of the daily work of the branch bank.

In ten years the number of accounts maintained by bank depositors has grown from 5,000,000 to 8,000,000.

This shows how Canadians have come to count on their local banks for a great variety of services. The banks keep pace with the growing needs of the nation.

Hardisty Happenings

Old acquaintances at Hardisty and Bengrh will be sorry to learn of the death at Alber Henry, an old-timer of the district who passed away in Vancouver B.C. recently.

Mrs R. Redman and daughter Mrs Morgan returned last Friday from an extended holiday in Florida.

Plans are proceeding for a Memorial Centre at Marbley, which will include a war memorial; ladies' rest room; fire hall; club room; kitchen; waiting room and Town office. Plans for the building have been drawn up by L. Redmond of Redmond, Rule and Wind Incorporated.

Wilbur Armold is in hospital here having undergone an operation.

Welcome back Jim Lobb, lately of Sutherland. Not only did Jim get married shortly after leaving us, but is now the very proud father of twin boys. Congratulations folks.

Jimmy Cavanaugh had to lay off work on the pipeline for a while due to an accident to his foot.

Tye Hoefe and Lee Golka spent a few days in the city last week.

Quite a few of the small fry about town had a very wonderful time last Thursday when Mr. Quigley twins entertained in celebration of their 9th birthdays. A full day was mapped out for the youngsters. Including a weiner roast; games and a lovely big lunch topped off by that great cake with 9 candles on either side; ending with a marshmallow roast.

Mrs F. Peden, B. Matthews and R. Morrison spent Wednesday p.m. tea-ing at the Keegan home in honor of Marie's birthday. Which was? Well, we ain't talking but it was the one you have when you stopitalking about birthdays.

Mr and Mrs Dick Kiefer returned from holidays last Friday and are back in the harness again. That's the best part of holidays isnt it? But it is nice to see you back again.

Mr and Mrs Bill Spencer (nee Miss Dorothy Routledge) of Calgary spent the week end visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs H. Spencer Sr. here

A very gala time was had Tuesday night by the Busy Bees when they were visited by the Amish Ladies' Bridge Club dressing garbed in and around the corner, the Amish ladies came bedecked in spring hats, a very colorful array of ostrich feather, wicker baskets and paper plates etc providing their business with quite a good laugh. Cards were played through the evening the honors going to Vera Hendricks and Margaret Matteson, after which a lovely an tasty lunch was served by hostess Mrs Ines Hickson

Russel Beamcliff who is working in the oil fields at Millet, is home on holidays for a short while

The Grasshopper Situation of 1950

The reliable grasshopper survey made by entomologists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture indicates that one of the worst grasshopper invasions since the 1930's may occur in Western Canada in 1950.

Cultural ... important—Owing to the fact that there are very heavy infestations of grasshoppers on stubble fields throughout Western Canada this year, the value of proper cultural methods cannot be over-emphasized. First of all, heavily infested stubble fields should not be sown to grain in 1950. They should be summerfallowed. Early surface cultivation of all infested crop land is strongly recommended. Early seeding is also desirable. Oyard and hay crops should be used on all summerfallow land. These should be treated early and frequently with poison bait or sprayed or dusted with such chemicals as Chlordan, Aldrin or Toxaphene. Because of the outstanding results obtained during 1949, Chlordan and other new chemical sprays and dusts will be widely used in 1950. It must be remembered, however, that the first time is the year in any successful grasshopper control program is the use of efficient cultural practices. Community Action Needed—In 1950, grasshopper control, regardless of the cultural and chemical methods used, will be most effective if all government and municipal officials, farmers, farmer bodies and others co-operate in destroying threatening infestations of grasshoppers wherever they are found. The first responsibility of farmers, however, is to keep the grasshoppers on their own farms strictly under control. No effort must be spared in confining these winged pests to non-cropped land and from spreading to grain crops.

Consult your local Agricultural Representatives, Municipal Grasshopper Supervisor, or nearest Dominion Entomological Laboratory for more detailed information on the best and best grasshopper control measures.

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

On Friday afternoon the pupils of Mrs. Insolent's room entertained the mothers with a program and display of concentrate work on 'The Circus'.

Mrs. Dreger of Montreal was a visitor at the C. C. Beckmire home lately.

One is where you find it according to Beatrice Hickman, who discovered the late that it is risky to stand in front of the stove door when throwing an lighted paper to burn out some gas. Mairice won't need his bangs trimmer or his eyebrows plucked for some time. Outside of a singe and a few blisters he looks about normal, but it might have been a lot worse. Next time use the flit bepsticn to fo serve the gas.

Mr and Mrs Ilion Cookson and Donna were in Edmonton last week visiting. Donna remained there for a few days to undergo a check up on her eyes.

Mrs. Fraser spent a few days in Edmonton giving a hand to Art Lidster's family. Miss Lidster is convalescing. Jack also visited relatives in Toledo and looked at the Interstate Oil Fields.

Mr and Mrs Ivor Hooke and Jimmy visited in Camrose last week and had their car serviced. Visit a few accomplished Loughedeans and report town all in good form.

Lady spring is here and past about the time you get ready to honor us the last for getting in the mist. Jim Ly and Peter yourself, Mamie, for you were young once, though it's hard to believe it looking at you now.

James and Dave Love motored to Edmonton last week.

Mrs Mervin Shimmay's two brothers stopped off to visit her enroute from Grande Prairie to home in Sask.

Mr and Mrs A. Hamilton were Vancouver last week.

Mrs Lorraine Hicks of Hardisty was a Lougheed visitor last week.

Leonard Pope and family spent the week end in the city visiting friends.

Band engagement took a trunk west to Camrose to the annual Lucerne ball tournament last week-end.

Quite a few of the vacationists are already giving the Village the once over this week. We should suggest a certain season of the year to turn as well as the sun and town.

John Wright was a business visitor to Sedgewick Monday of last week. Looks like blowing in the Sedgewick dust with his two feet, Jackson's and is beginning showing good health. We were thought it an odd Whitehall location on the old home farm once the good grass shows.

Bobbie Lorence Riddoch is on the sick list at home, having been treated at Sedgewick Jaint sanitarium. Mrs Riddoch spring hazards; the moon growing in the icy waters. We hope to soon see her around again on the main road for the mail.

Mr and Mrs C. Moore and Andrew Anderson left for Edmonton Monday on west trade. Andrew for a check-up and the others to visit relatives.

Mr and Mrs Ed Avery of Calgary spent a week visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs Percy Jones and the Lougheed district. Ed, who is a gas-trooper in the Princess Pats stationed at Calgary, is a survivor of the German prison camps after the Dieppe raid.

Wet crop and rain rust very again, which as regards the farm and business seasons, has been arrived home last Friday with a vacation and a cold, after a winter spent touring Canada and B.C. as a magazine salesman for MacLean Hunter Co. He did not win his winning way and is ready grin be send and for ready to your bears. Welcome back Norm We missed you.

The regular scout meeting was held March 24th with Scout Master Lloyd Umlauer in charge. The troop comprises 9 boys and all are raising very proficient in their training which will be completed in June at which time six Wolfcubs will make their Bal Gadged Scouts entitled to wear the uniform. After this the real work and fun will start— marches, bivouac and camping out. Always makes me wish I was young again. This is the juvenile gang at its best and deserves the support and interest of all you adults; or do you prefer the other type of which we read so much about nowadays, especially in cities. The choice is yours parents.

Lougheed was represented at the Edmonton stock show and sale by Cyril Hepworth, Art and Dave Black and John Beaudist, but whether as exhibitors or just p'ectators we have been unable to learn. If the latter we will have a report next week, is the latter maybe we better not report Hope will be boys you have.

We had a nice little snow storm on the 22nd and when it ended it had done a helped out the end snow and as to eat everything in very many. As we need now is a warm rain and a set of wind and the dust will be blowing.

Orvan Chesmore, as promised sampled on an ammonium, spent one week on his parental home here.

The Art Lawley family spent last week end with the Lawley in's. Gown in the Hughendan district.

Dave Johnston is on vacation from his duties in Edmonton and is reported sophisticated in town and district. Dave looks as if city life has agreed with him.

Last Line: Hind Motter had a vacation week in the forest yard, and was a week when the new had arrived was early enough to find it again. Here the worse for its three months away from home. He just moved it up and away it talked. Kinie says it is running a little last yet, but that is natural. Probably trying to catch up on the three months it lost.

Mrs Geo. Marker spent last Saturday in Killam and Strome.

Harry Barton, Dave Walmsley and Orvel Pratt were Edmonton visitors last week and took in a good basketball match by consolation was staged around one of the islands that aren't soon missed on whose ownership.

John Johnson was a business visitor to Camrose last week and from reliable report ended in Edmonton.

Mrs. Jean Lang spent a few days in Edmonton, and I saw Mrs. Gault's parents taking the bus for Camrose. I got a squint at the ticket to see destination. But they are all same, so it doesn't help much.

The honor roll will be announced in a few weeks at the Lougheed Church on Easter morning at the regular service.

SERMA RUMMERS

Quite a large group of men turned out on Wed. evening at the school to organize an F U A Group. Mr. A. Hamilton presided. Mr. Larry Wilkinson, D.A. was present and had an interesting discussion on cattle sickness. Outside was elected as Pres. of the Local; James Baker, Sec.-Treas. Tommy Lamie, Sec.-Treas. The Social meeting is on April 13th, and the ladies are invited to attend, as this is to be a mixed Local.

The Wheat Board at the school was a success. Prizes went to: Ladies 1st Miss H. Hendry; 2nd, Mrs. Stewart; Mrs. Porter O'Henry as cast Lloyd was consolations. About $35 was auctioned for the 4-H Club. Peter Spady was elected President and Mrs. George Lamie Sec.-Treas. of the Area Auxiliary.

Mr and Mrs Stanley Gibbs are visiting at the C. C. Beckmire home.

Mr and Mrs Percy Smith have no little guests, the latter's parents Mr and Mrs Reimer.

United Church services will be held as usual on Easter Sunday at 11 o'clock a.m. and continue for each Sunday from then on.

Don't forget the Amateur program on Sat. night at the school.

We are glad Mrs. Singleton is able to be home again.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for kindnesses and sympathy extended to us during our recent bereavement; also for the memorials to the Bethany Sunset Home, Camrose. — Bessie and Ivor Stokke, Lougheed. 5 1 p

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors of Killam and Lougheed for their cards of sympathy, and many kindnesses shown us during our recent and bereavement. Special thanks to Dr. Volenhe and the Doctors and nurses of Killam hospital. — Mr. A. Gillies and Family.

We wish to thank our many friends for their kind expressions of sympathy, beautiful floral tributes and assistance during our recent bereavement. — The Routledge Family.

We wish to thank the sponsors of and the contributors to, the fund promoted to us last week. Your generosity is deeply appreciated. — Godmunn Eriksson. 5 1 p

F. W. U. A. RESOLUTION OPPOSES COUNTY SYSTEM

The March meeting of the Fairdean Valley FWUA was held at home of Mrs T. Wilson with 11 members and 1 visitor present. A letter was sent to the Minister of Education and Dr. Fee, stating our opposition to equalization grant by $300,000 Members signed petition asking that car insurance be ammended. Letter sent to Premier Manning and Mr Fee asking that County Act be not enacted. $15 sent to Red Cross. Agreed to have dance in April. Letter of sympathy sent to relatives of late mem

Re County Act

Whereas under the proposed County Act there will be an increase or governing officials to operate our Municipal Districts, School Divisions and Municipal Hospitals, with only half of them elected which is not democratic; and whereas the meetings of the County Council will then be an unnecessary and additional expense, and whereas with the decrease in price of farm products, rural taxation already exhorbitant, cannot be increased without dire results, we are therefore opposed to further centralization of local affairs unless requested by plebiscite of taxpayers concerned, before the local unit is disturbed and therefore request that the County Act be not enacted.

Win Performance Tests

Ford and Mercury stock car models covered themselves with glory by their economical performance in the first post-war holding of the Grand Canyon economy Run, February 26th. The grand money-getaker award was won by a 1950 stock model Mercury sedan, which turned in a phenomenal 26.524 miles-per-gallon and a 61.3711 ton-miles-per-gallon record in covering the gruelling 751-mile course at an average speed of 40.016. In Canadian gallons the figures would be 31.85 miles per gallon and 73.58 ton miles per gallon.

A 1950 Ford DeLuxe stock model also grabbed off first place in its class by defeating the other two chasis-mates, Chevrolet and Plymouth by nearly two miles per gallon. The Ford averaged 23.32 miles a gallon and 48.57 ton miles per gallon at an average speed of 41.36 miles per hour. The cars competed over a gruelling course that took them through the broiling heat of Death Valley and below sea level altitudes to the 7000 foot mark on the rim of the Grand Canyon.

Killam Old- Time Citizen Called By Death

Rudolph Simon passed away at the Killam hospital in the early hours of March 20th after a long illness. Mr. Simon was born in Czechoslovakia on March 11th, 1879. He emigrated to the U. S. at an early age and in homesteaded at Millet. In 1906 he married to Helen Schuler of Millet and moved to Hardisty where they lived for nine years, before moving to Killam in 1916 where he resided until time of his death. Mr. Simon was an employee of the C.P.R. for 33 years, retiring in 1944 on account of his health. His loving wife, three sons and one son-in-law survive. A sister and two brothers also survive.

Requiem High Mass was held in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Killam on Saturday, April 1st at 10 a.m., Fr. McCarthy officiating. Pall bearers were F. Kinzel, J. Schaefer, ... George; J. Hruska, J. Sabina & M. Demkiw. There were no flowers by request and a large collection for Spiritual Offerings were gratefully acknowledged by the family.

Pre and Sons, Funeral Directors.

Walter Price Tops Show

Lomi Hereford Breeder, Walter Price took top honors at the Edmonton Spring Stock Show, when one of his four classes he had three firsts, one fourth, and the Grand Champion Female Hereford of the show.

Walter had two top females ... brought $500 each, and he reports a good average for his seven head of show cattle. He also purchased one of the top-bred Bulls at the show to be his new herd sire.

St. George's Hold Social

St. George's Anglican congregation held a supper and social evening in the Co-op hall on Friday evening. Mr. G. Stewart acted as chairman. Mrs. W. Brenka, on behalf of the congregation presented a gift to Mr. Reg. Ward Smith who expects to leave for England in May, a gift of appreciation with thanks, giving a resume of the growth of the Anglican Church at Killam. Mrs. Brenka made a presentation to Mrs. John Child, who is expects to leave for Old Country in June. Films on 'Wales' and 'Westminster Abbey' were shown by the Rev. W. Brenka.

LOGGERS and LUMBERMEN!

As from April 1st your employees are insured under provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act. This means that contributions must be paid for these beginning on that date.

If you employ anyone in lumbering and logging you should:—

1. Register with your National Employment Office;
2. Obtain insurance books for your employees;
3. Get instructions about making contributions and about rates.

Your National Employment Office is ready to assist you with all necessary information.

All sawmills and planing mills come under the Act on April 1st regardless of how many weeks they operate.

Farmers and any other persons whose main occupation is non-insurable need not be insured if they work in lumbering and logging for 60 days or less a year and apply for exception.

Hardisty Happenings

Mr and Mrs George Stone were business visitors in the city

Mr. Red Mattson was a business visitor to Edmonton last week.

The Busy Bees held their annual banquet in the dining room of the Orval Hotel last Tuesday night with a full turn out. Misses Yvonne Mattson, Verlene Quinlan and Barbara Rose Matthews served. After the banquet the party proceeded to the home of A. Koblack where cards were played for the remainder of the evening. Honors went to Marion Dragger and D. Dickson. The last meeting of the winter season will be held at the home of Helen Morrison next Tuesday with Marion Proctor as hostess. The Club will then disband for the summer months

The Rebekah whist drive last week was a big success with a large crowd attending. Prizes in cards went to Mr and Mrs Albert Terry and Mr and Mrs Herb Redman for first and Mr Johnson and Mrs Miley for second. After cards a lovely lunch was served by members of the Lodge Thank for coming folks.

Mr and Mrs Orville Hendricks of Calgary were visitors at Hardisty over the week end.

Spring really is here, of that we are sure for the Gentle Swallows returned back from the south (Calgary) and is with us for the summer again Hi there Swallo. Nice to see you back

Mr and Mrs Eddie Matthews motored to Edmonton on Sunday

Congrats go to Mr and Mrs Arne Dunk on the birth of their son, Brian John on Sunday March 26th

Best wishes go to Cpl and Mrs J. Brandon's young daughter who is in hospital for appendicitis

Mr and Mrs Carl Parsons are busy moving into their new house purchased recently from the Tom Bronsons across from the Timmins home

Modern Weed Control With 2-4-D

After four years of intensive testing, 2,4-D is now universally accepted as an effective and practical weapon for the control of most annual and flat crops. It is expected that over 10 million acres in Western Canada will be treated with 2,4-D in 1950. Several important factors affecting the enjoyment and successful control of weeds with 2,4-D are mentioned briefly here.

Effect on Weeds Weeds vary greatly in their reaction to 2,4-D. Some weeds are very sensitive while others are very tolerant of the chemical. Know the weeds you want to kill, and then follow recommendations carefully. It can not be stressed too strongly that the best results with 2,4-D are obtained when weeds, particularly annual weeds, are in the seedling stage, and when conditions are favourable for rapid, vigorous weed growth. Most weeds become more resistant to 2,4-D as they approach maturity. Furthermore, one is always harder to kill during dry hot weather than when and moisture is low. The essence of success in annual crops with 2,4-D rests in the early treatment of weed growth.

Effect on Crops A. Cereal crops should not be treated with 2,4-D until the plants have reached the "boot" stage, or a height of about 12 inches. They can then be treated with safety until they have reached the early shot-blade stage. On no account should cereal crops be treated during the flowering or early-heading stages. Flax on the other hand may be safely treated as soon as weed growth warrants, provided the plants have already passed 4 or 5 leaves. Flax should not be treated after the plants have started to head since there will be a risk of injuring the crop. Choose Now One of the most important 1950 chemical weed control programs. Your local implement dealer can supply you with the latest and best available information on the use of 2,4-D

A lecturer addressing a meeting on "The Duties of the Housewife" said it was the duty of every woman to mother her husband, and asked those who agreed, to stand. One woman did. He said he was glad there was one who thought she should mother her husband. 'Ah heck' she said, 'I thought you said smother him

Thro' The Window At Lougheed

Glad to see Andy Nugent around again after a stay in the hospital as a result of breaking a small bone in his foot. Andy still has to use a cane but we hope it is only temporary.

May we present a bouquet of very pleasant memories to Mrs Chas Bowman who on the 17th celebrated her 70th birthday. A company of 17 sat at the birthday dinner which was a family affair and included Mr. and Mrs Chas. Iwager of Edmonton, Archiwager and family; A. Chapps and family of Chauvo, Mrs Elizabeth Iwager of Hardisty. We say, many happy returns to this Pioneer of the Westcountry and Lougheed district, who, though she may grow older in years never seems to grow older in spirit.

Congrats to Mr and Mrs H. Nilsen (nee Dorothy McCracken) of Tsuka nos B.C. on the arrival of a baby boy on March 31st.

Mrs Roy Forberg entered Hardisty hospital March 25 for a minor operation. We wish her speedy relaxa.

Miss Anne Clemiston of Calgary is holidaying between her parents at Green Valley and brother Tom's farm home at Iowa.

The Probst Bros. are sporting a new beautiee buggy, a snazzy new Mercury. It seems almost a shame to introduce such a nice piece of machinery to these roads. My advice is stick to the jeep until the grass grows all around.

Dan McDonald, who has been visiting in Sedgewick and Edmonton dropped in the other day, looked kind of wistfully in the Green Valley direction, but decided it was pretty early yet for spring operations and returned cityward via Sedgewick.

Tom Lien and Herb Lemens left for Calgary last week. Herb on business for the G W S and Tom hoping to bring back his car which has been getting repaired since the accident.

Mr and Mrs A. Whitbeck left last week for a few weeks visit in the city of Edmonton.

Hamilton Hallmark has the epidemic pox and Robert has lost or misplaced his teeth. We wish them both the quickest of recoveries.

The Rev. Grainger and family spend a few days in Drumheller and report a good trip if such a thing is possible on these roads. But you take your chance; in the country it's the roads and in the city it's the parking meters. Always something to take the joy out of motoring.

Sometimes I get a bit peeved when after listening to a lot of advice to buy British etc., I time into Lipson's or some other British firm's advertising program and it winds up "This offer good in U. S. only". Do we colonials always play second fiddle except when we play Santa Claus? Of course we know the product is probably manufactured in the U.S. but why not keep the advertising there, and not insult us by making it seem as if we were too insignificant to be given consideration.

Dr. Elmer Johnson of Lloydminster spent a week end with his parents the Axel Johnsons.

In my window for the past couple weeks I have had the picture of a Welsh village the name of which contains 54 letters, 11 of them L's and the last 3 OCH. The natives sheet on it to Llandair and I don't blame them a bit. I had my old Welsh friend T. Jones pronounce it for me (least he said he did) and I took his word for it. When he got through I shortened it more than somewhat and said OCH. If the Lins will stand it, here it is:-

LLANFAIRPWLLGWYNGYLLGOGERYCHWYRNDROBWLLLLANTYSILIOGOGOGOCH. Howard made a lovely name for a summer cottage there—Tu Mr and Mrs Gordon Jamison of Calgary a daughter Congrats.

Friend Harry dropped in on his way out choices the other morning. I met at first his gears and failed to mesh as he kept mumbling something odd, something new — one rug brown the other blue. Discovered later he was supposed to have bought a pair of matching rugs for friend wife, but on arriving they didn't match. Well any married man or woman knows what heaven and what a hell an otherwise peaceful home.

Mr and Mrs Verlif Forberg and son and Homer Forberg of Edmonton paid a short visit to relatives here. The little fellow is remaining here for an extended visit with grandma.

Mr and Mrs Ed Boicker and Mr. and Mrs J M Boucher were Camrose visitors last Saturday.

Mrs. George Mosher and Mr. Dave Walmsley motored to Galahad last Friday to attend a teacher's meeting at the [illegible]

An sweet mystery of Mrs. Why is it that a woman who can wander about in 40 below weather with a bare neck and sheer hose, when in a warm home needs a hot water bottle and about 90 percent of the bed clothes? Editor's Note. To geds are there other wires like mine?

This you must see. On April 17th the National Film Board presentation featuring the Leon's Nochance, and depicting the Indian legend of how the Loon got its white neckince (no, a thing to do with soup programs). Our projectionist has pre-viewed this and states it is one of the best for both young and old.

Tommy Barnes is all smiles again, as friend wife is back at the home corral after being marooned in Sask. since Xmas when she and Tommy motored to Biggar to visit with her relatives and got snowed in, forcing Tom to leave wife and car there and return by train. Not until last week were roads passable and enabling the car to be brought home.

The Lougheed Elks social evening of the 30th was not as well attended as expected owing to road conditions, but a very enjoyable time was had with cards and pictures etc. and of course lunch.

The Vagis of Killam and Lougheed were luncheon guests along with the W C Reeds at the L. W. Reed home on the occasion of Bunny Reed's 6th birthday. Happy returns Bunny.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Grainger is a patient in Killam hospital and we wish her well.

Mrs B. J. Stokke was a Camrose [illegible] last week.

A quartette composed of Art Lawley, A Olsen and Arvid Peterson and Reg Shirvill were in Edmonton last week on business.

Norm Hall is hobbling around home with what he says is a sprained ankle, but we suspect he has what the Medicos term dorcitus. This is an infection common among subscription agents and is caused by sticking the foot in a doorway. Also likewise slams it shut. Very painful according if you don't get it. We hope it's not serious and that we will see him on first base when the season opens.

Mr and Mrs Orval Probst and Tom motored to Calgary last week. Mrs A Sheberg accompanied them as far as Red Deer where she will visit her daughter until picked up by Probst.

The Art Dragers had spinsant surprise last week when Mrs. Drager's nephew, Geo. Bilder, called on them. George is on leave from the U. S. Navy in Alaskan waters and is touring visiting the Fred Dragers' family in Lethbr Alberta and relatives in Nova Scotia, as well as his home in the States before reporting back for duty with the fleet at San Francisco and then away in the south seas. What a contrast from Alaska to the other extreme. As he has already done most of the other world worth while should about complete the circle for him. We wish him good seas and smooth sailing and at least more in every port.

Grandma Slot is enroute home from a winter in California by the sea, as just as the change won't be too much as she has surrounded her cab with a miniature lake. She will be able to sit on her porch and sing "River Stay Away From My Door" when she gets back. We missed you.

Well if spring showers mean anything we should have a bumper [illegible]

Attention Please — The Lougheed Ladies Aid has been changed for 12th of April (Wednesday) at the home of Mrs. W. Reed unless notified.

On March 31st several ladies were in full force to give the Ukie Church a thorough cleaning after interior decorating. Mrs. Rogers an Mrs Fedler treated the ladies to cup of tea and lunch.

Alberta oil has changed his future

The boy doesn't know it yet. Many a grown-up doesn't realize it—but the new oil fields of Alberta brighten Canada's future.
